CARPENTERS AND METAL MEN END 30-YEAR DISPUTE

Officers of Two Unions Sign Agreement Defining Jurisdictional Rights in Building.

MOST OF TRIM WORK FOR WOOD WORKERS

Contractors and Architects Had Sought Solution of Problem for Years Without Success.

By the Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 12.—An agreement has been reached between the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and the Sheet Metal Workers' International Association which is expected to settle a dispute that has existed for 30 years.

Executives of both unions have approved the agreement, which provides that the carpenters will do the metal trim work in building construction and the sheet metal workers will have jurisdiction over the erection of metal columns.

Efforts have been made for several years by the contractors' organizations and architects to settle the controversy, but without success.

The agreement was drawn up by committees representing the carpenters and the sheet metal workers and has been signed by William L. Hutcheson, president of the carpenters, and John J. Hynes, president of the metal workers, although it is not known whether it has been presented to the board of the latter organization. This, however, is considered a formality. The headquarters of the latter organization is in Washington.

Labor Interests Await Confirmation From Washington.

By the Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, O., June 12.—Cleveland labor interests tonight were awaiting official confirmation from international headquarters of the Sheet Metal Workers' Union in Washington of the International Carpenters' Union announcement that an agreement terminating the jurisdictional disputes of the two unions has been reached.

Announcement of the agreement was made today by Harry McLaughlin, president of the Cleveland Federation of Labor and member of the Carpenters' District Council.

It was stated here there was little doube that the approval of the Sheet Metal Workers International would be forthcoming within a week.

For 30 years both unions have been engaged in a bitter struggle to obtain the exclusive privilege of doing metal floor trimming work in buildings under construction. The trouble developed intermittently and was the cause of numerous strikes which tied up important building operations in Cleveland, resulting in the loss of millions of dollars to contractors.

The document contained the signatures of William L. Hutcheson, general president of the International Carpenters' Union; John T. Cosgrove and Frank Duffy, representing the carpenters.

Signatures of Sheet Metal Workers' International attached to the agreement are those of John J. Hynes, Thomas Fay, W. J. Rooney, [illegible]. Pattison and James T. Moriarty.

HOOKS AND EYES VS. BUTTONS

Schism Theatens Mennonites Over Method of Fastening Clothing.

By the Associated Press.
WATERTOWN, N. Y., June 12.—A modernist-fundamentalist controversy threatened the ordinary peaceful annual conference of Mennonites, known as "hook and eye Baptists."

Nearly 1000 members of the sect are expected to attend the annual meeting which opens tomorrow at Kirchnerville, N. Y., and continues until all controversial matters have been settled.

The chief obstacle threatening this year's conference is a movement, fostered by many of the younger Mennonites, in favor of discarding a rule of their church, which prohibits the wearing of buttons on clothing.

Flier Burned to Death in Plane.

By the Associated Press.
VANCOUVER, Wash., June 12.—Lieut. Henry Good, reserve officer of Portland, Ore., was burned to death late today when his plane burst into flames and crashed at Pearson field here. Julius C. [illegible] of Hanford, Wash., a reserve officer in the quartermaster corps, a passenger, jumped from the plane just before it struck the ground. He was seriously injured.

New Red Train to Carry Cardinals to Chicago

All Furnishings Bear Insignia of Papal Legate — Decorated With Rich Draperies and Special Wall Panels.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 12.—Painted in cardinal red, even to the wheels and running gear, the seven special railroad cars that will carry Cardinal Bonzano, Papal Legate, and other high dignitaries of the Catholic church to the Eucharistic Congress in Chicago, will arrive here tomorrow from Chicago.

Cardinal Bonzano's own private car, consisting of five luxurious compartments, is regarded as one of the most beautiful ever made.

All of the furnishings bear the insignia of the Papal Legate and the car is decorated with rich draperies and special wall panels. The dining car also has been specially appointed, with fine linen and silverware engraved with Cardinal Bonzano's coat of arms.

Another car is fitted as a library and lounge car with a special selection of books.

The six Cardinals and other prelates who will accompany Cardinal Bonzano on the train, which leaves the Grand Central Terminal at 10 a. m. Wednesday, will have quarters in the other four cars, which also have been especially equipped.

The train will be manned by a selected crew of the New York Central Railroad, and Pullman company from enginemen to porters. Neil Mooney, assistant general passenger agent of the New York Central, will be in charge of it. The special cars have just been completed at the Pullman shops in Chicago.

The train will make six stops on its journey to Chicago, arriving there Thursday morning.

ONLY 15 CENTS A DAY FOR FOOD IN 20 YEARS

Jose Mora, Recluse, Now 84, Padlocked Bathroom to Obtain Immortality.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 12.—Twenty years ago a quack doctor advised Maria Jose Mora, then one of New York's foremost photographers, that to take a bath would destroy a magnetic quality which, so the quack said, gives endless life. Old Joe, as he is known, returned to his rooms at Hotel Bresclin and put four padlocks on his bathroom door.

A few days ago the 84-year-old recluse was found in his room, weak and exhausted under the wreckage under his bed that had fallen on him. The padlocks on the bathroom door, rusted a bit, were still in place.

The old man whose sister was the wife of the Brazilian Ambassador to Germany when Bismarck all-powerful, was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital, where physicians and nurses gave him a bath. Every day they bathe him.

Meanwhile, David C. Godwin, attorney, will ask Supreme Court Justice Mullan Tuesday to appoint a guardian who will see that Old Joe is well taken care of and attempt to discover just how rich he is.

He is known to have more than $200,000 in the bank and land in Cuba and Long Island. Old Joe lived in his room on 15 cents a day for food. He let anyone who would buy him a bowl of soup or sandwich, while his daily 15 cents went for pie and cake, delicacies he could not live without.

ANNA GOULD'S SHARE OF ESTATE IS NOW $9,041,000

Accounting Shows Income for Three and Half Years Was $1,925,683.

NEW YORK, June 12.—An accounting filed in the Supreme Court today revealed that the share of the estate of Jay Gould held for the benefit of Anna Gould, Duchess de Talleyrand, amounts to $9,041,329.

The accounting was filed by Edwin Gould and Helen G. Shepard, as trustees and the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. of New York, as substitute trustees, and covers the period from May 20, 1922, to Dec. 28, 1925. During this same period the estate receiving income for the benefit of the Duchess de Talleyrand totaling $1,925,683, of which $1,612,282 was paid to her or for her account.

CONVICTED OF MURDER PLOT

Mrs. Alberdina Frank Gets 5 Years in Kansas City Court.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, June 12.—Mrs. Alberdina Frank, charged with attempting to murder her husband, E. L. Frank, was found guilty by a jury in Circuit Court here tonight and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

The woman and Carl B. Davis, grocer, admitted plotting the death of Frank, but said that at the last moment they decided not to go through with their plan. Davis was convicted two weeks ago and received an eight-year sentence. Joel Dill, a city detective posing as a gunman, had been hired by Mrs. Frank and Davis to kill Frank. Dill was paid $600 by the woman, then he arrested the pair. The Franks were married in St. Louis two years ago. She is 24 years old.

DIVORCE FIXER LOSES SUIT FOR $100,000

Claim That of Cyrus R. Shipman Against Mrs. Catherine C. Thorne of Chicago.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, June 12.—Divorce-fixing is against public policy, Circuit Judge David M. Brothers declared today when he declined to listen to the suit for $100,000 brought against Mrs. Katherine C. Thorne, by Cyrus R. Shipman, a former friend of Mrs. Thorne.

Shipman claimed that he had been offered 1000 shares of Montgomery Ward & Co., stock, with a value of at least $100,000 by Mrs. Thorne if he would bring about a divorce between William C. Camp and his first wife, Elita Otis Camp, once noted in New York as an actress, and now an invalid. Shipman was successful, he claimed, and after the decree was signed, Mrs. Thorne married Camp. But she refused to turn over the stock, according to the complaint.

Attorney Harry Markheim, representing Mrs. Thorne, filed a demurrer to the suit. Even if Shipman's story were true, he asserted, there were no grounds for legal redress.

Judge Brothers agreed with this statement. He upheld the demurrer but allowed Attorney Gideon Thompson, representing Shipman, 10 days in which to file an amended declaration.

Mrs. Thorne, the mother of Gordon C. Thorne, club man whose marital activities have given him much publicity, was not in court. She is the widow of William C. Thorne, late vice president of Montgomery, Ward & Co. She received an estate of nearly $3,000,000 at the time of her first husband's death. She later divorced Camp when she discovered him in a love affair in Los Angeles with a movie actress.

W. L. MELLON'S SON-IN-LAW DIES AFTER TOOTH IS PULLED

Alex Laughlin Jr. Does Not Recover Consciousness After Anesthetic Is Given.

By the Associated Press.
PITTSBURG, Pa., June 12.—Alex Laughlin Jr., son-in-law of W. L. Mellon, new Republican State chairman of Pennsylvania, died in a hospital here today following extraction of a tooth. He went to the hospital earlier in the day to have the tooth taken out and died without regaining consciousness after an anesthetic was administered.

Mr. Laughlin was president of the Central Tube Co., with a plant near Beaver, Pa., and was associated with a number of other business concerns. He was a graduate of Yale and was a veteran of the World War. He was 36 years old. W. L. Mellon is a nephew of the Secretary of the Treasury.

90,331 RECALL SIGNATURES

Names on Anti-Miller Petitions 50 Per Cent Over Total Needed.

Signatures to the petitions for the recall of Mayor Miller have been brought to a total of 90,331, which is 50 per cent more than the minmium requirement of 60,456 for an election on the question. A margin is necessary to cover faulty signatures, but the Miller Recall Committee is retaining 120,000 as its goal.

Whether the distinction of signatures by wards to meet charter provisions has been attained has not be announced. There is some time available still before it would be necessary to file the petitions to have the recall acted on at the August primary or November election.

LEGAL STEPS ARE TAKEN TO DESTROY ILLINOIS BREWERY

Prohibition Chief in St. Louis Obtains Court Order Against Probst Plant at New Athens.

20,000 GALLONS OF BEER SEIZED THERE

Official Records Disclose Plant as Offender at Intervals Almost Since Advent of Dry Law.

An injunction and order to show cause why 20,000 gallons of beer and beer-making equipment, seized June 2 by prohibition agents in the Probst Brewery at New Athens, Ill., 25 miles southeast of St. Louis, should not be destroyed, was obtained yesterday by United States District Attorney Potter of East St. Louis and Prohibition Administrator Phillips of St. Louis, from United States District Judge Lindley in Danville, Ill.

Under the injunction all persons are stopped from entering the brewery and from removing from it any beer or equipment, and the officers of the Probst Pure Products Co. are directed to show cause why a destruction warrant should not be issued.

Since the raid June 2, which was undertaken on orders of Administrator Phillips following receipt of information that beer was being hauled from the brewery to saloons in adjacent cities and towns, prohibition agents have been attempting to establish ownership of the plant.

Obstacles Met Heretofore.

In their investigation they have checked over official reports, which showed that the brewery has been in operation at intervals almost since the day the prohibition law became effective, and that official steps toward closing it have met with one or another obstacle so that until the recent raid there had been no real curb on the brewery.

As early as April, 1921, according to the reports, authority to seize the brewery was asked for by agents, but no seizure was made. The officers of the brewery company were arrested, but the prosecution never has been pressed.

At that time, one of the reports stated, the prohibition agent in charge in East St. Louis was offered a bribe of $2000 to permit a large shipment of the beer on hand to Herrin, DuQuoin, Zeigler and Wellsville. A few months later this agent seized a carload of beer being shipped from the brewery to Herrin, and arrested officers of the brewery, including Isfried Probst, the president; George Probst, secretary and treasurer; Theodore J. Probst, vice president, and Ben J. Probst and August Barthel, directors. Cases against them were nolle prossed by the District Attorney's office.

Operated Without Permit.

In 1923 an application for renewal of a permit to manufacture a cereal beverage was refused by the Department because of the pending prosecution, but an inspection a few months later disclosed 600 barrels of beer on hand, indicating, the agent said, that operation has continued without a permit.

Following another raid, in 1924, District Attorney Potter sought an injunction against the officers of the brewery, but it was refused by Federal Judge English, now under impeachment, on the ground of insufficient evidence. At that trial the brewery officials were represented by Judge English's son, George W., Jr., and Charles B. Thomas, former referee in bankruptcy.

From that time the brewery did not come to public attention until a group of agents from Administrator Phillips' office visited it the night of June 2, seizing a truckload of beer which was leaving the plant, and seizing 20,000 gallons of beer in vats and a large number of barrels with the beer-making equipment. They arrested three men in the brewery and two on the truck.

Unable to Find Owners.

The agents have been unable to find anyone who will admit financing the operations. W. Frank Cunningham, first assistant to Administrator Phillips, could learn little from those arrested. Benjamin J. Probst, who resides across the street from the brewery and operates the Okaw Creamery Co., in a part of the building, denied any knowledge of the ownership of the beer. He said he did not even

TWO STILL IN PRISON FOR CRIME ANOTHER ADMITS

State Penal Board Holds Up Recommendations in Case of Ernest Wallace and Angelo Timponi.

MORE EVIDENCE DESIRED BY BODY

Men Were Convicted of $4700 Payroll Holdup at Missouri Baptist Sanitarium in St. Louis.

By a Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON, CITY, June 12.—Although they have been declared innocent of the robbery for which they are serving long prison sentences, by the confession of another man who said he participated in the crime, Ernest Wallace, 24 years old, and Angelo Timponi, 22, both of St. Louis, may have to remain in the penitentiary indefinitely, unless additional corroborative evidence is submitted at their second hearing before the State Penal Board, set for Monday, on their application for full pardons.

Members of the penal board today admitted nothing had developed to cast any doubt upon the confession clearing Timponi and Wallace of the crime of which they were convicted, a $4700 payroll holdup at the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium in St. Louis on Nov. 13, 1923. They said the board desired more evidence before making any recommendation to the Governor.

The board is reluctant to recommend a full pardon, it was said, on no evidence other than the confession of a man, who, since making the statement, has been sent to the penitentiary for another St. Louis robbery.

Sentences of the Two Men.

Timponi has served two years and one month of a five year sentence. With merit and three-fourths sentence allowances he will be released within 10 months, on April 1, 1927. Wallace received a 20 year sentence. He was brought to the penitentiary with Timponi on May 16, 1924. Wallace's conviction was affirmed by the Supreme Court.

The case has dragged along since last March when James Walsh of St. Louis, now serving a term in the penitentiary, confessed to St. Louis police that he and two other men he named in the confession, had carried out the Baptist Sanitarium robbery. He declared Timponi and Wallace were innocent of the robbery. Walsh made the confession following his arrest on a robbery charge and before his conviction.

Sigmund Bass, attorney for Timponi and Wallace, brought the confession to the Penal Board last March, and Walsh later repeated it to Parole Commissioner A. H. Steinbeck, a member of the board, when he was brought to the prison.

Reason for the Delay.

Following the first hearing on May 10 last, Commissioner Steinbeck said the case had been postponed until the June parole hearing, so that some recommendation could be obtained from Circuit Attorney Sidener and Circuit Judge Falkenhainer, the trial judge. No such statements have been received, Steinbeck stated today. Steinbeck said the case might be continued indefinitely when it comes up Monday, if no additional evidence was brought in by the men's attorneys.

Until recently Wallace was a trusty chauffeur, driving an automobile for Dr. Cortez F. Enloe, Director of Penal Institutions. His trusty privileges were canceled following the recent escape of a cellmate, also a trusty chauffeur, although prison officials said they had no definite information that Wallace knew of the plans for the escape. Timponi is assigned to work in one of the prison factories.

Woman, Carried Out of Sight of Land, Swims and Floats Till Saved.

By the Associated Press.
MIAMI BEACH, Fla., June 12.—Miss Svea Bohman, 27 years old, of New York City, thought to have been drowned off shore here late yesterday in attempting to save an unidentified man from drowning, returned here shortly afternoon today after being rescued in the Gulf Stream.

Miss Bohman, while in the surf, responded to the cries of a man in distress almost a mile from shore near the Government jetties. She said that she was carried out to sea after failing to reach the man and soon developed cramps, which prevented her from swimming back to shore. Darkness found her floating in the Gulf Stream beyond sight of land, she said, and for five hours she swam and floated in the current before being rescued by a fishing craft which proceeded with her to Fort Lauderdale, Fla. She apparently suffered no ill consequences from her experience.

25 WOMEN STRIKERS GO TO JAIL

Begin Terms at Chicago for Contempt of Court.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, June 12.—Twenty-five women, some young and apparently carefree girls, some middle-aged mothers, marched to the county jail today and surrendered to serve sentences of from 10 to 70 days on contempt charges. They are members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. The sentences were imposed by Judge Denise Sullivan of the Superior Court for alleged violation of an injunction in connection with a strike in April, 1924.

Hidden amidst the mass of laughing, jesting and sometimes weeping women weer two men who also had been sentenced. In addition to the jail terms, most of the defendants were fined from $100 to $350.

PITTSBURG LINE TO THE CASHIER LASTED 3 DAYS

Witness Before Reed Committee Says He Saw Man With Roll of $10 Bills Three Inches Thick.

TOTAL OF $1,422,000 KNOWN EXPENDITURES

Pittsburg Mayor Alleged to Have Told City Employes to "Deliver" for Pepper or Be Fired.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, June 12.—While the Reed Campaign Fund Investigating Committee of the Senate continued today to write a record of almost unbelievable corruption in the Pennsylvania millionaires' primary of May 18, which returned Boss Vare of Philadelphia as the winner of the Republican senatorial nomination over Gov. Pinchot and Senator Pepper, the impression grew at the Capitol that the Senate would not allow Vare to receive the fruits of his victory.

The ironical fact was commented upon that Senator Reed of Missouri, outstanding leader of the new movement for dry law modification, was the chief agent in uncovering the facts upon which Vare, the wet candidate in the primary, may be denied a seat.

Senators of both parties, wets and drys, privately expressed disgust at the evidences of vote buying and general rottenness in the primary, and predicted that if Vare is elected in November and presents his credentials, an effort will be made to read him out.

No Specific Remedy Offered.

Some Senators emphasized the need of legislation to check spending orgies in primary contests, but none, for the moment, had a specific proposal that would overcome the effect of the Supreme Court decision in the Newberry case. The Court held in this case that the Federal Government had no control over State primary elections.

It was pointed out in today's discussion, however, that the Senate is the sole judge of the qualifications of its members and by a majority vote may refuse to seat or may expel anyone whose election expenditures are found to have been excessive.

Discussion of the slush fund used for Vare, a large part of which went toward the buying of votes under the guise of employing "watchers" at the polls, led inevitably to renewed citation of the resolution of 1922 by which the Senate whitewashed and tarred Newberry at one and the same time.

The words of present significance are those in which the Senate, while seating Newberry, declared that the expenditures in his behalf were "harmful to the honor and dignity of the Senate and dangerous to the perpetuity of a free Government."

Pennsylvania a Knockout.

If the Newberry expenditures were "harmful," those for either Pepper or Vare can only be described as a complete knockout. The total known to have been spent for Newberry was $195,000. That was chicken feed compared with the money laid out on the Vare and Pepper campaigns. The known total spent for Pepper, as brought to light by the Senate committee, stands at $1,046,000, of which the Mellons contributed $75,000 and Joseph R. Grundy, manufacturers' lobbyist for a high tariff, personally gave, or advanced on notes, $408,000.

When the committee adjourned this afternoon till Monday morning to await the appearance of more Pennsylvania witnesses, the Vare total stood at $181,000. That sum represented a mere scratching of the surface of Vare's campaign in the western part of the State. Details of the campaign in the other end, the Philadelphia end, are yet to be dug out.

Evidence already given has

MAN CAPTURED AFTER ROBBING WOMAN OF $1150

Waited at Victim's Home Several Hours for Her to Go to Bank and Return With Payroll.

SURRENDERS AFTER RUNNING FOR A MILE

Pursuers Had No Trouble Keeping Him in Sight Because of White Overalls He Wore.

Edward L. Barrett, a painter, who says he resides at 1001 Bompart avenue, Webster Groves, made a terrible fizzle of robbing Mrs. Louis H. Ellwanger of an $1150 payroll as she entered her home at 5451 Bates street yesterday. She was carrying the money from a bank, to be used by her husband, a painting contractor, to pay off his employes.

Barrett got the money, but under pursuit tossed it away, and he was captured.

He might have escaped had it not been for his painter's white overalls, which made it easy to keep him in sight throughout the mile chase. That was his first mistake. His second was that his weapon for the robbery was a .22-caliber revolver. It was not forbidding enough to keep his pursuers at bay. And his third mistake was that he primed himself with 10 drinks of whisky, and when the effects wore off, he could run no farther and gave up. But his worst mistake, Barrett figures, was that he tried robbery to get money when he was out of work and broke. He has a wife and one child.

Goes Early and Waits for Money.

Barrett learned of the practice of Mrs. Ellwanger of going to the Grant State Bank at Morganford road and Gravois avenue each Saturday to get payroll money from a friend. Yesterday he called at the Ellwanger home at 10:30 a. m. He had been promised work by her husband, he told Mrs. Ellwanger. He would wait around for him. He stood in an alley beside the house. Presently Mrs. Ellwanger went to the bank. When she returned, at 12:30 p. m., Barrett was still there. He followed her into the house, and when he pointed his revolver at her, she surrendered the money.

He passed on through the house and, as he went through a rear door, fired a shot to compel Mrs. Ellwanger to remain indoors as he had directed. She was moving toward a side door and screamed.

Raymond R. Roehrig, 33, an accountant residing next door, ran out in time to see Barrett running through the alley toward Cologne avenue, and took up the pursuit, shouting "Stop the robber!" Barrett turned west in Cologne avenue to Gravois avenue. Roehrig there encountered a Western Union messenger in a Ford roadster. He attempted to take up the pursuit in the car, but a tire blew out. Roehrig resumed on foot, accompanied by the messenger. They pursued Barrett's white overalls through the new subdivision that was Mueller's Park, and into St. Mathews' Cemetery.

A Tombstone His Fort.

There the case became a hide-and-seek affair, but Barrett had little chance to hide—the white overalls again. He paused behind trees and gravestones in an effort to regain his fast-failing breath. Finally Barrett took up his stand behind a monument and opened parley with his pursuers. He pointed a revolver at them.

"I saw it was only a .22," Roehrig said, "and stayed 50 feet off."

Barrett told his pursuers to get out.

"I told him he might as well give up," Roehrig said, "that we would catch him sooner or later. He had no chance with those white pants."

Barrett ended the parley and again started rrunning. He leaped the fence into Bates street and encountered an automobile.

Surrenders to a Policeman.

It was that of Gus Stumhofer of 5000 Gravois avenue. Barrett demanded a ride. Stumhofer ignored him and Barrett fired a shot, but kept on running. He threw away the $1150 and Stumhofer picked it up. Barrett's route was nearly a circle. He was running on Bates street in the direction of the Ellwanger home. At Morganford and Gravois, he became winded again and took refuge behind a shed. The whole neighborhood had been aroused on the chase and quickly congregated at the corner.

After a few minutes Barrett tossed away his revolver and walked into the open, his hands in the air. Policeman Guy F. Richardson was waiting for him and took him into custody. Richardson was one of those aroused by the chase. He had been off duty at his home, 4150 Concordia avenue, when a neighbor rushed in, telling him, "Get your gun, there's a robbery."

Drop Beer and Join in Pursuit.

Meanwhile Stumhofer, in his automobile, had passed a saloon at 4301 Bates street and had picked up two city detectives who were raiding the place. They dropped the beer they were carrying out and joined the chase, arriving just as Barrett surrendered.

Ellwanger passed through all this hullaballoo without knowing what it was all about. He was on his way home to get the payroll and it was not until he got there that he learned that the chase was after the payroll.

By chance yesterday he had taken away with him in the morning his police dog, which usually guards Mrs. Ellwanger on her trips to and from the bank.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 12.—While preparations went forward today for sending 25,000 pilgrims from New York to the International Eucharistic Congress in Chicago, June 20 to 25, New York churchmen found out with surprise that not seven but eight foreign cardinals were in New York.

The arrival of six cardinals, from Italy, France, Spain, Ireland, Austria and Hungary was widely heralded today. Another French cardinal had arrived in New York earlier.

But nothing was known about the quiet entry into the city of the German prelate, Cardinal von Faulhaber, Archbishop of Munich. Late today it was discovered that he had slipped off his steamer on Thursday and had not gone to the residence of Cardinal Hayes at Madison avenue and Fiftieth street for the usual visit.

Instead Cardinal von Faulhaber, traveling incognito, went direct to "a modest Brooklyn parish house," where he was still secluded tonight, his whereabouts still unknown to the New York headquarters of the Eucharistic Congress in the Hotel Vanderbilt.

Cardinal von Faulhaber is no stranger to New York, having visited here in April, 1923, when he was received at City Hall.

Tonight there were nine cardinals in New York counting the city's own Cardinal Hayes. Besides Cardinal von Faulhaber the alien prelates were: Cardinal Bonzano, the papal legate; Cardinal O'Donnell, primate of Ireland Cardinal Diubos, Archbishop of Paris; Cardinal Czernoch, Archbishop of Strigonia in Hungary; Cardinal Reig y Casanova, Archbishop of Toledo, Spain; Cardinal Piffl, Archbishop of Vienna, Austria and Cardinal Charost, Archbishop of Rennes.

G. O. P. REGULARS OPEN ARMS TO BROOKHART

Iowa Central Committee Paves Way for a Reconciliation With Radical.

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., June 12.—Iowa's State Republican organization meeting today for the first time since the primary in which Col. Smith W. Brookhart was nominated for the United States Senate over Senator A. B. Cummins, left the way clear for a reconciliation betwen the party machine and Brookhart. Their paths had parted some years ago and the breach was at its widest when Brookhart renounced President Coolidge in 1924 and the Central Committee joined with Senator Dan F. Steck on the successful contest against Brookhart's election.

The State Central Committee today made plans for the state Republican convention to be held here July 21 and designated former Gov. Nate E. Kendall as temporary chairman. The selection of Kendall was interpreted as a move to restore peace in the party. Sentiment of most of the members was that all measures to restore harmony should be adopted.

Committee members appeared interested chiefly in the campaign platform Brookhart will adopt. His speech at Mason City fair, which some party leaders declared savored of Socialism, has been widely discussed and seems just now to be the principal obstacle in the way of a reconciliation. Brookhart's statement that he had been misunderstood when he discussed limitation of capital earnings apparently has caused some of his political opponents of the past to withhold judgment until later in the campaign.

The views of the nominee and party regulars will come into prominence at the state convention, which will frame the party's platform for the campaign.

Brookhart and Cummins So Near, but Yet So Far.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—While Senator Capper (Rep.) of Kansas, was advocating farm relief legislation in the Senate today, the two leading lights of the recent bitter primary struggle in Iowa—Smith M. Brookhart, victorious Republican senatorial nominee, and Albert B. Cummins, the vanquished—sat in the front row on the Republican side, with only four seats between them, each outwardly oblivious of the other.

Cummins kept his attention on Capper until, near the close of his speech, he left the chamber without a glance toward Brookhart. Meanwhile, Brookhart was receiving congratulations from many of his former colleagues, including Senator Caraway (Dem.) of Arkansas, who drafted the elections committee report which recommended the unseating of the Iowan, and led the successful fight on the floor for the seating of Daniel F. Steck (Dem.)

One of the four seats between Brookhart and Cummins was occupied for a time by Senator Butler (Rep.) of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican National Committe, whose influence has been credited with great weight in the decision in the Steck-Brookhart contest.

PENNSYLVANIA FUNDS DEFENDED BY SENATOR

We Are No "Petty Western State," David A Reed Tells G. O. P.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, June 12.—The Republican State Committee, apparently buryig all factional differences, today elected all officers unanimously. There was no indication of bitterness from the recent primary election, except that United States Senator David A. Reed, in a speech, said the Republican party should return to the convention system.

Reed said that the large expenditure of money in the primary was virtually required because of the silly mechanism of primary elections that was imposed in a burst of unconsidered reform 20 years ago. He referred to Pennsylvania as "no petty Western state."

William L. Mellon, of Pittsburg, nephew of the Secretary of the Treasury, was named State chairman without opposition. W. Harry Baker, who was in the field for reelection, withdrawing after a last-minute harmony plan had been arranged. Baker was elected secretary.

"The Republican party in Pennsylvania, whatever it may be in other states, is a great team," said Reed. "We have our rows, but when we have finished our family fights, we pull together and everyone of us has no doubt now of whom he will work for next November.

"This was not a contest between three men, candidates for Senator, and four men, candidates for Governor, but there was an infinite number of candidates for Congress, for the State Legislature, for the State Senate, for positions in our party organizations and four county offices, and necessarily, in all propriety, the expenditures of vast sums were required because of the silly mechanism of the primary.

"We have seen the time come when either a man must pour forth his entire personal fortune, or his friends must pour forth theirs, and that is wrong in a republican democracy such as ours."

Senate Not Likely to Seat Vare, if Elected

shown conclusively that the Vare total will run far over the Newberry fund. One witness has said that about half a million dollars was spent on watchers alone by the Vare and Pepper forces in Allegheny County (Pittsburg and environs), and corroborative testimony came today from a University of Pittsburg law professor who personally visited the headquarters of the two candidates during the week after the primary and saw the pay-off.

Known Total Is $1,422,000.

The known total for the three candidates, including $195,000 spent on the "cheap" Pinchot campaign, is $1,422,000.

Aside from the effect of the disclosures on Vare's fortunes, Washington political speculation today concerned itself with the prospect that the slush fund issue would be injected into the national campaign, to the detriment not only of the Republican campaign this year but of President Coolidge's chances for renomination in 1928.

The President comes into the picture because of his close alliance with Secretary Mellon. Mellon, indeed, is the very keystone of the arch which supports the Coolidge cause. It was because he wanted the Coolidge-Mellon economic policies perpetuated that Grundy, the head of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, became the principal angel of the Pepper campaign.

To what do these postulates lead? They lead to the conclusion that the smearing of Mellon with the dirt of the Pennsylvania primary will have a bad effect on the fame of Mr. Coolidge. Such, at any rate, is the view widely held by Republicans at the Capitol, and they are pleased or not according to whether or not they want Mellon and Mr. Coolidge continued in power.

Vare-Pepper Truce Reported.

Coincidentally with the developments before the investigating committee and in the Senate lobbies came confirmation of the report that the Pepper and Vare forces, true to the traditions of Pennsylvania politics, had patched up their feud and would work in harmony to keep the State safe for the G. O. P. This confirmation was found in the news from Philadelphia that W. L. Mellon of Pittsburg had been elected chairman of the Republican State Committee and W. Harry Baker, secretary.

Thus was carried out an agreement reached in Washington between the Mellons and Vare. Baker, a Vare man, retired as chairman of the committee to make way for W. L. Mellon, the nephew of the Secretary of the Treasury.

The Vare votes on the committee went to Mellon for the chairmanship, and the Mellon votes in return went to Baker for the secretaryship. Moved by strictly practical considerations, the lion and the lamb of the primary, the wet and the dry, lay down together.

Reed Refers to Arrangement.

Senator Reed referred to this significant harmony arrangement today while he was examining T. Henry Walnut, this chairman of the Pinchot Philadelphia committee.

"I have been told," said Reed, "that in the interest of God, morality and reform, the Pepper and the Vare factions have got together and the goose hangs high. Is that so?"

"I will answer in this way," said the witness. "If Harry Baker gets the Vare votes today in the election for State Chairman, they have not made peace, but if W. L. Mellon gets the Vare votes for chairman they have made peace."

"That would account for no one bringing a contest, wouldn't it?" asked Reed.

"Yes, I think it would," was the reply.

It may be remarked, parenthetically, that the arrangement referred to lends color to the charge made before the committee that Beidleman, who ran as the Vare candidate for Governor, was counted out in favor of Fisher, the Pepper-Mellon candidate. The defeat of Beidleman, in view of the decisive victory of his partner in the campaign, was one of the strange features of the primary. Beidleman showed up with the small end of the votes after early returns had put him far in the lead.

Walnut Tells of Corruption.

Telling a story of corruption in Philadelphia which almost, but not quite, matched similar testimony with regard to Pittsburg, Walnut related that when certain ballot boxes were opened after a municipal election last year, it was found that the votes had varied by a hundred to the precinct from the returns given out by the election officials. He estimated that 50,000 votes could easily be changed by this sort of manipulation in Philadelphia.

WASHINGTON, June 12.
THE Pennsylvania primary to date:

|---|---|
| Spent for Pepper.... | $1,046,000 |
| Spent for Pinchot.... | 195,000 |
| Spent for Vare...... | 181,000 |
| Grand Total ..... | $1,422,000 |

"Was there any prosecution of the election officials in those wards where the boxes were opened?" asked Senator Reed. "Yes."

"What happened to them?" "They were acquitted."

Walnut said that there were not more than 600 or 700 watchers for Pinchot in the whole of Philadelphia, but that Vare watchers were thick. In some places they were lined up "six to 10 in a row."

"The Vare organization in Philadelphia," said the witness, "functions 365 days in the year."

Paid With Political Jobs.

"How are the workers paid?" asked Reed.

"They are advanced politically," replied the witness. "A great many of them hold city jobs. Then, too, they are able to get things done for their friends. It's a matter of pride and business with them."

"If a man is arrested," suggested Reed, "the ward heeler goes and gets him off, if he is the right kind of fellow?"

"Yes," replied the witness. "That's the ward leader's business."

Senator King asked why the good citizens of Philadelphia did not rise in rebellion against the machine.

"They are apathetic," the witness said. "You can't get a rise out of them."

"They seem satisfied," added King, "to stew in the juice of corruption."

Mrs. Pinchot Gave $50,000.

The witness added one item to the committee's information on the Pinchot fund. He said that Mrs. Cornelia Pinchot, the Governor's wife, contributed $10,000 to the Philadelphia City Committee. This brings her total recorded contribution to $50,000, all of which is included in the estimate of the $195,000 total for Pinchot.

Beutel was for Gov. Pinchot. He wound up his detailed story of Pittsburg election corruption by asserting that the balance of power in that city could always be bought.

"I am thoroughly convinced that it was bought this last time," he added.

"Was that the rottenest election you have ever had?" asked Senator Reed. "That's very superlative, 'the rottenest election in Pittsburg,'" said the witness. "I'll say it was bad. It was bad, even for Pittsburg."

Beutel said that the Pittsburg organization functioned in the primary, as a whole, for Senator Pepper.

Out of curiosity, Beutel, on the day after the primary, went to the Pepper and Vare headquarters to see the "watchers" getting their pay. His observations, he said, convinced him that the estimate of 50,000 watchers on the Vare and Pepper payrolls in Allegheny County was not far wrong.

Describes the Pay-off.

He told first of the scene at the Hotel Henry, where the Pepper hired men were getting theirs.

"There was a paymaster behind a table," he said, "and the workers were lined up. They were coming in one at a time and getting the cash. I should say that the line was about 150 to 200 feet long.

"The line was there continuously on Wednesday and Thursday. I went back Friday and found a smaller line, but they were still paying continuously. On Saturday there was still a scattering line.

"I got out my watch and estimated that they were being paid at the rate of 200 to 300 an hour. Sometimes, there was a roll of money already made up for the applicant."

"So they paid in rolls," asked Reed. "Oh, yes," replied Beutel. "It was the exception when a man got a single bill."

"They were mostly $10 bills," he continued. "I saw one man with a roll this big." He picked up an ash tray from the committee table.

"And that object," said Reed for the record, "is about three inches in diameter." "Yes," replied the witness. The man had about all he could hold in his hand."

Paid on Certificates.

"There was a paymaster and he had two or three assistants. Apparently they paid on certificates or on little pieces of paper, two or three inches square. I think it was the ward leaders who were getting the larger amounts."

The witness told next of the Vare pay-off. This took place in an old theater building, running through a block. He heard a clamor there and went to see what was happening.

"It was people clamoring for their money," he continued. "The crowd there was larger than the crowd I later saw at the Pepper headquarters, but that was probably due to the fact that the Vare people were paying more slowly.

"They were paying off through a door in the building. The line was six wide and they were fighting for places. Four or five husky workers were trying to hold them in line. The line extended 150 to 200 feet."

"It was like a run on a bank?" suggested Reed. "Yes, it must have been something like that," replied Beutel. "The work went on actively on Wednesday and Thursday. On Wednesday at 5 p. m., while they were opening the money bags, a tear bomb exploded."

Bomb Routed the Crowd.

He explained that it was a common practice of the Pittsburg banks to put tear bombs in bags of money, the idea being that an unauthorized person opening a bag would probably do it the wrong way and get a shot of gas.

"This bomb exploded," he went on, "and the crowd was driven out into the street and the payment delayed for an hour.

"They paid there most of Thursday. Then the activity was transferred to an alderman's office, where they paid for the rest of that week. It has been testified here that they paid next week, too, but I don't know about that.

"At the Vare headquarters the workers were paid on certificates, green or white. A few of them got $5, but the majority received much more. I saw some of $40, $50 and $60. A man would get his money and peel off bills at the window, so that it was easy for an observer to see them."

"Was there any disturbance?" asked Reed. "Early in the morning after the primary," said the witness, "there was a disturbance because the money wasn't there immediately, but after that things went along smoothly."

Brookhart at Hearing.

At this stage of the hearing former Senator Brookhart, fresh from his victory in Iowa, entered the room and was greeted cordially by the three committee members present—Reed, King and La Follette.

"When are we going to investigate your campaign?" asked Reed smilingly.

"It won't take you long to investigate mine," replied Brookhart.

Reed invited Brookhart to sit down at the committee table, but the Iowan said he had an engagement.

Questioned by the committee, Beutel testified to an astonishing condition of political rottenness in Pittsburg.

"Anybody in a two-sided campaign who spends enough money can swing an election," he said. "Workers came to us and offered their services but when they found we were short of money they lost interest. There are plenty of 'watchers' who will work for anybody who will pay them."

Beutel said that certain wards in Pittsburg had definite market quotations.

"You mean to say," said Reed, "that if you get the ward leaders you can carry them?" "Usually," he replied.

Leaders "Out for the Coin."

"That is to say," went on Reed, "that there are leaders who are out for the coin and the man who pays them gets the ward?" "Yes," replied Beutel, "there are large numbers of such men. It has already been shown in this hearing that there were enough people on the Vare and Pepper payrolls to swing the election in Pittsburg."

He went on to say that the estimate of Charles C. McGovern, a Pinchot supporter, that Vare and Pepper had 50,000 watchers in Allegheny County was fairly accurate.

"Certainly," he said. "About 20,000 got money from the Vare and Pepper headquarters during the pay-off. At the Vare headquarters I noticed that many in the line had handfuls of watchers' certificates, so it would appear they were

The club, in three two-game series, is making a drive to establish that polo is not exclusively a "rich man's game," at least in so far as its fans are concerned.

Success in this venture may be gauged by attendance of 1500 at two games last month and a long line of parked automobiles from which the general public watched yesterday's game. Last of the Scoring.

Four minutes of play was allowed at the end of the sixth, to make up for time lost from the fourth. Each team scored once, Kirby for Louisville and Wight for St. Louis.

The lineup:

|---|---|---|
| Maj. G. W. Briggs | No. 1 | Fred Gardner |
| Capt. A. Heyburn | No. 2 | M. Wallace Jr. |
| Maj. G. M. Chescheir | No. 3 | I. E. Wight Jr. |
| Lieut. S. Bridgers | No. 4 | G. Hayward Niedringhaus |

Alternates (for Louisville): Capt. Alex Kirby and Lieut. June Cronan.

Goals: Chescheir 3, Heyburn 1 and Kirby 1; Wight 6 and Wallace 4.

Umpires: Capt. N. M. Neate of Jefferson Barracks and Capt. George I. Smith of Louisville (Regular Army).

Timekeepers: Wallace Simmons, Sam Davis and Eugene Williams Jr.

Team Work Won for St. Louis Team.

The Army men played an excellent game. They rode hard, they had fast horses, and they were constantly on the ball. Their game was really surprising, in view of the fact that they have been playing only three years.

At the beginning the St. Louisans were not playing at all. They were not riding off well, and they were slugging at the ball. Anyone who has ever played baseball knows that if you try to knock it over the fence, you have slight chance of knocking it anywhere.

Only in the fourth period, after half the game was over, did they really get down to it. They began to realize that against this hard-riding, hard-fighting team they had to use their principal advantage, teamwork.

It was generalship which won for St. Louis. The team has played together for years, and was whetted by the recent match with Memphis. In some cases the horses seemed to be better seasoned to the game, and once or twice it appeared that the men handled them somewhat better.

INSURANCE FIRM TO OCCUPY ST. LOUIS CLUB

Central States Co. Applies for $160,000 Permit to Remodel Lindell Boulevard Building.

The old, St. Louis Club Building, at 3663 Lindell boulevard, will be remodeled as an office building for the Central States Life Insurance Co., it was learned yesterday when the insurance company, as owner of the property, applied for a permit to spend $160,000 in reconstruction work.

It is understood that the insurance company has agreed to pay between $200,000 and $250,000 for the property. A contract for the sale has been made, although title has not as yet been transferred.

Plans for remodeling do not call for any change in the exterior of the building, which has stood idle since Jan. 13, 1925, when a fire wrought considerable damage to the interior. The inside walls will be strengthened, the building will be fireproofed and completely redecorated within. Thomas P. Barnett, architect, is in charge of the remodeling.

The building was erected in 1899 at a cost of $195,000 and was a center of much of the civic and social life of St. Louis. Its lot fronts 150 feet on Lindell and is about 250 feet deep. The Central States Co. is now at 3207 Washington boulevard.

ELIZABETH THATCHER WILL WED IN FALL

Former Veiled Prophet Maid to Be Bride of J. W. Barriger III.

The engagement of Miss Elizabeth Chambers Thatcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hudson Thatcher of Glen Owen, Ferguson, and John Walker Barriger III, son of Mrs. John Walker Barriger Jr., of Altoona, Pa., was announced yesterday at a luncheon for 16 guests given by Miss Thatcher in honor of Miss Margaret Lonergan of Bala-Cynwyd, Pa., who will spend the summer with Miss Thatcher and the latter's cousin, Mrs. Hubertus Schotten.

The wedding will take place in September at Glen Owen, which has been the home of the Chambers and Thatcher families for almost two centuries. Miss Lonergan will be a member of the bridal party. Mr. Barringer will take his bride to Altoona, where he is connected with the Pennsylvania railroad.

Miss Thatcher is a graduate of the Sacred Heart Convent in St. Louis and the College of the Sacred Heart at Manhattanville, N. Y. She made her debut two years ago, when she served as a maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball, and spent last winter in Europe with relatives. Miss Thatcher is a granddaughter of Mrs. Odelia Hereford of Ferguson and the late Eugene Fuzz and a great-granddaughter of John Mullanphy, early St. Louis philanthropist.

Mr. Barriger is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, class of 1921. He is a grandson of the late Clarence Benjamin Beck of St. Louis and the late Gen. John Walker Barriger. His father died a few years ago.

The dining room represented the dining car on a fast train en route to New York, and the centerpiece was a minature train embedded in spring flowers. Souvenir menus of the railroad bore a picture of the prospective bridegroom with a sketch of his career, and a description of the town which is to be the future home of the two. Place cards in the form of miniature suitcases gave the news.

Wyoming Man Seeks Sister Here.

Miss Josephine Thompson, who is believed to be in St. Louis, is sought by her brother, Harry Johnson of Columbine, Wyo. She was adopted by her father cousin, Jacob Thompson, when she was 5 years old, and was living in Marysville, Mont., when her brother last heard from her eight years ago.

collecting for others as well as themselves. I assume that some of the men who got large sums at the Pepper headquarters likewise represented outsiders. The Pepper people themselves have admitted that they had 17,000 on the pay roll."

"You have that evil brood in large numbers in Pittsburg?" asked Reed.

"Yes," he replied. "And around the polling places men come and go very easily. The workers go right into the polling places. They actually bring people to the polls and vote them."

Reed asked whether votes were bought outright. The witness replied it was not the custom to go up to a man and say, "Here is $10 for your vote." The custom was to employ the man as a "watcher" or a "messenger."

"If the watcher does not vote for the man who hires him," continued Beutel, "he is known as a cheater."

Pittsburg "Code of Morals."

"So you do have a code of morals," commented Reed. "If a man is bought, he is expected to stay bought."

Beutel said that the Vare and Pepper people hired as watchers anybody who would take the job. It was impossible, he said, to keep Pinchot literature displayed outside the polling places. As fast as his posters were put up, "watchers" for the other factions tore them down.

To illustrate the practical nature of politics in Pittsburg, Beutel told of a recent contest over a minor office. The defeated candidate got out a petition and had the ballot boxes opened. They were found to be empty.

"It was testified," said Beutel, "that immediately after the election the ballots were taken out of the boxes and thrown into the sewer."

Beutel questioned the estimate of a Pepper manager that only $5000 had been paid out for advertising by the Pepper-Fisher forces in Alleghany County. He said that they ran five full pages in one paper alone, the cost of which would exceed $5000. Since they used similar space in the other papers, he was sure the total outlay was far greater.

Pittsburg Mayor Subpenaed.

The high spot of the afternoon testimony was the assertion by C. J. Goodenough, chairman of the Pinchot State Committee, that Mayor Charles Kline of Pittsburg, in a speech to the city employes shortly before the primary, told them that any who failed to "deliver" their precincts to the Pepper-Fisher ticket would be fired on the day after the primary.

Reed immediately directed that the Mayor be subpenaed.

Goodenough, who is a member of the Pennsylvania Legislature and a former Speaker of the House, said he was gathering evidence on which to demand the impeachment of Kline at the next session of the Legislature.

Goodenough said he had been informed that the Pittsburg police wore Pepper badges, and that in a large number of instances in Philadelphia voters were unlawfully given aid in marking their ballots.

He told of frauds in the 1925 elections and of the vain effort to get the special session of the Legislature last January to enact anti-fraud statutes. He said that the reform bills were not even reported out of committee.

Gang Control Killed Bills.

"Was it the gang in control of the State that killed off the bills?" asked Reed. "Yes," replied the witness.

"Did the same conditions as in 1925 prevail at the last primary?" "I believe they did."

After Goodenough's statement the committee adjourned to Monday.

"THE RED MILL" RAINED OUT

First Municipal Performance to Be Called Off This Season.

There was no performance of "The Red Mill" in the Municipal Theater in Forest Park last night. For the first time this season a performance was called off on account of rain.

The rain began at 7:15 p. m. and was still falling at 8.45 when the management announced there would be no show. About 800 of the 4500 persons who hold tickets were waiting under the shelters at the time. The tickets may be exchanged for any performance this week.

Piles Can Be Cured Without Surgery

An instructive book has been published by Dr. A. S. McCleary, the noted rectal specialist of Excelsior Springs, Mo. This book tells how sufferers from Piles can be quickly and easily cured without the use of knife, scissors, "hot" iron, electricity or any other cutting or burning method, without confinement to bed and no hospital bills to pay. The method has been a success for twenty-six years and in more than twelve thousand cases. The book is sent postpaid free to persons afflicted with piles or other rectal troubles who clip this item and mail it with name and address to Dr. McCleary, 566 St. Louis Av., Excelsior Springs, Mo.

WRIT REOPENS STREET FOR PARKING OF AUTOS

Attorney, Arrested for Leaving Car in Block at Garavelli Cafe, Attacks Law.

Joe Garavelli, genial proprietor of a cafe at De Baliviere and De Giverville avenues, is a happy man again.

For years it has been the custom of Garavelli's numerous customers to park their cars at the curb and honk for ham sandwiches, soda water, kosher pickles and other things that motorists eat and drink. Residents of the block of De Giverville west of De Baliviere complained that the honking and other noises late at night disturbed their sleep and depreciated property values.

Frank Hardy, secretary to the President of the Board of Aldermen, was one of those who complained, and on May 28 the Board of Aldermen passed an ordinance prohibiting the parking of vehicles in that block between 6 p. m. and 6 a. m. Those favoring the bill said they were willing to deprive themselves of the privilege of parking in order to keep curb service away from their homes.

Joe Garavelli was sad when the bill was passed, but nothing was done about it until yesterday, when Charles H. Nelson of 5768 De Giverville avenue, and his son-in-law, Karl E. Lubke, an attorney, sued to enjoin the enforcement of the ordinance, and obtained a temporary restraining order from Circuit Judge Calhoun. Lubke was arrested last Monday evening for violating the ordinance when he parked an automobile in front of the home of his father-in-law for the use of the Nelson family. His case is set for hearing in Police Court, Tuesday.

The town of New Athens has been considerably stirred by the raid on the brewery and the presence of agents who were assigned to guard it. The resentment of the residents of the town caused the agents to ask for reinforcements Friday night, and eight additional men were sent to supplement the two on duty.

John Zeigler and others complained to Sheriff Schnipper in Belleville that "parties had been staged" in the brewery since agents took charge, and Zeigler said he had been beaten by the agents. They said they merely shoved him aside when they sought entrance.

20 HURT IN GENEVA IN ANTI-FASCIST RIOT

Pistols and Clubs Used—Mussolini's Followers Put to Rout.

GENEVA, June 12.—Serious disorders growing out of controversies between Italian Fascisti and anti-Fascisti refugees supported by workers' delegates and Swiss Socialists culminated last midnight in the most serious riots witnessed in Geneva since post-war days.

Revolvers, chairs, clubs and fists were used in an encounter in the communal hall despite the efforts of police to suppress it. The Fascists, disturbing a meeting of anti-Fascist Socialists, were badly beaten. Most of them were taken to police stations for protection.

The meeting had been called to protest against the murder of Deputy Matteoti and against the presence of Fascists at the Labor Bureau conference. Yesterday the Fascisti bolted the conference, yelling "Viva Italia! Viva Mussolini!"

Thirty Fascisti, most of them members of the League of Nations labor office staffs or delegates, at last night's meeting, started heckling speakers. The fight began when a Socialist speaker shouted "Mussolini is an assassin!" A score of men, including gendarmes, were injured. Special guards have been placed at the Italian Consulate.

BARREL OF WHISKY COSTS COP HIS JOB

Thomas Lannie Quits Force When Charged With Making False Report.

A two-day police investigation of an attempt by a policeman to obtain a barrel of whisky which he said was on the platform of the Universal Car Loading and Distributing Co., Broadway and O'Fallon street, yesterday resulted in the suspension of motor cycle policeman Thomas Lannie of 3625 Laclede avenue. Charges of making a false report and of misconduct were preferred against him and he resigned.

The investigation was undertaken by Lieut. Aylward following the receipt of information that a man dressed as a motor cycle policeman had approached John G. Brunnert of 2313 North Fifteenth street, watchman at the Universal company's platform, early Friday morning and asked permission to remove a barrel of whisky he said was on the platform.

Brunnert, replying that he did not know of any whisky, refused the policeman permission to go upon the platform.

Later in the day the same man reappeared in civilian clothes and approached Richard Dunn, a foreman, and offered him $100 to telephone him if a shipment of whisky was received. Dunn told the investigators the man gave him a slip of paper containing the name "Lannie," and the telephone number "Lindell 6853W," Lannie's telephone address.

Lieut. Aylward examined a number of witnesses and then visited Lannie at his home. Lannie denied ever having been at the Universal company's platform and denied any knowledge of any whisky having been there. He was confronted with several of the witnesses, who identified him as the man they had talked to or had seen at the platform.

Lannie was on duty from 3 p. m. to 11 p. m. The visits to the shipping platform were at 12:30 a. m. and 7:20 a. m.

BOOTLEGGERS ON BAD DEBT LIST OF FAILED CONCERN

Power Truck and Tractor Co. Has $12,000 to Repay Holders of $650,000 of Stock, Receiver Says.

LOSING VENTURE FROM THE START

Report to Court Gives $86,172 as Value of Assets Carried on Books at $459,998.

Several insolvent bootleggers who bought motor trucks, but failed to pay for them, are included among the creditors of the Power Truck & Tractor Co., Fred Schmoll, receiver, reported yesterday in making formal recommendation to Circuit Judge Falkenhainer that the affairs of the company be wound up and its property sold.

The trucks, the receiver says, were sold on credit and it was only learned after the sale that the purchasers were bootleggers. This became a serious consideration when it developed that the bootleggers were broke and unable to pay for them.

P. G. Craven's Chalk Talks.

P. G. Craven, president and guiding spirit of the concern, has buoyed up the hopes of 3000 stockholders in periodical meetings featured by blackboard talks on why the company should be successful even though it wasn't.

The 3000 investors, according to Receiver Schmoll, have bought more than $650,000 worth of stock. They will get only a small percentage of their investment back when the last accounting is taken.

The P. G. Craven Co., financing concern for the Power Truck & Tractor Co., owes the latter concern $185,027 for stock sales, the receiver reports. For this amount the Craven Co. has failed to account, it is stated on the authority of an audit made by expert accountants.

That the company lost money from the start is disclosed by the report, which shows a deficit of $422,511 developed between March 13, 1918, when it began operation, and last Jan. 28, when a receiver was appointed.

Book Vs. Receiver's Valuation.

The book value of the assets is $459,998, but the receiver reports their actual value is not more than $86,172. Total liabilities are listed at $74,000. If these figures prove correct there will be only about $12,000 left to pay expenses of the receivership, and make some sort of a return to the investors.

The site of the company's plant at 8500 Goodfellow avenue is its most valuable possession. The receiver rates its worth at $55,000. The other items in the total of assets comprise machinery, tools and plant equipment.

Among the items making up the deficit over the period of operation are: Operating expenses, $141,208; commissions on stock sales, $128,806; development of new models, $86,786; deferred selling expense, $40,470; organization expense, $49,404.

WOULD TAX BACHELORS OF ILLINOIS $10 TO AID WIDOWS

Suggestion Made by Madison County Overseer of the Poor When Seven Apply for Pensions.

That Illinois bachelors should pay a tax of at least $10 annually for the privilege of escaping the responsibilities of married life, was the advice offered to the County Court at Edwardsville yesterday by Joseph Hermann, overseer of the poor.

It was "widows' day" in court, and seven, each accompanied by children, were applying fo the widow's pension which the Illinois statute permits. The amount thus drawn in Madison County is so great that it is becoming a serious problem, and Hermann declared that the Legislature should tax the bachelors of every community to relieve other citizens of the growing burden of the widows' mite.

There are now 160 widows receiving the monthly pension from the county and each gets an allowance of $4 additional for each dependent child.

TO START LINDELL SURFACING

Expect to Complete Street, From Newstead to Taylor, in Few Days.

The laying of the top surface on Lindell boulevard, from Newstead to Taylor, will be started tomorrow and will be completed in a few days, W. W. Horner, chief engineer of street paving for the city, announced yesterday.

When this is completed the blocks from Kingshighway to Taylor avenue will be started, so that the whole stretch from Newstead to Kingshighway will be completed by June 28.

When this stretch is completed the top surfacing will start east from Newstead to Spring avenue. The street is now torn up from Kingshighway west to Vandeventer avenue.

ROYAL ESTATES AT STAKE IN GERMAN VOTE JUNE 20

Issue Is State Seizure of Properties of Ex-Rulers, Worth Hundreds of Millions, Without Indemnification.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, June 12.—The German Republic on June 20 will be called on to decide whether the enormously rich properties of its former ruling houses shall be forfeited to the state. Many believe the impending referendum on this question will be the acid test of the nation's conversion to democracy. The issue is one of first magnitude and fraught with grave possibilities.

There is hardly a historic precedent of expropriation or royal and princely houses on so vast a scale.

On the one side are arrayed the 40 members of the Hohenzollern family, led by the former Kaiser, together with the 21 former ruling houses of the German federation—all prepared to fight to the bitter end for what they consider is their own inalienable property. On the other side stand the adherents of those German Republican parties who have furnished the majority necessary for the plebiscite.

The aggregate value of the properties in dispute runs into hundreds of millions of dollars, the house of Hohenzollern alone owning roughly $50,000,000 in landed and other estates.

Article 1 of the confiscation bill reads: "All possessions of the reigning houses, who, until the 1918 revolution ruled in Germany, including the personal fortunes of all members of such houses, shall be confiscated for the common weal, without indemnification. The ownership of said properties shall be vested into the various states ruled by the said reigning houses, respectively."

Article 2 provides: "The properties to be sequestered shall be applied in support of the war victims, widows and orphans, pensioners and small annuitants, needy victims of the inflation period, small farmers and small laborers, who will be granted allotments of land out of the confiscated landed properties." The same article further provides that castles and palaces of former rulers shall be converted into sanitariums, asylums, country homes for children and like purposes.

Twenty million Germans, roughly, must be found to vote for this project if it is to be carried into effect.

The ballot paper gives a space for a plain "yes" or "no' only.

JURY MAY REINDICT FERGUSON FOR FRAUD

To Continue Inquiry Tomorrow, Perhaps in Charge of A. V. Lashly.

The Grand Jury tomorrow will resume inquiry into Forrest Ferguson's dealings in connection with the $3,000,000 collapse of the Ferguson-McKinney Manufacturing Co., in which Ferguson escaped prosecution by the recent dismissal of indictments against him at the instance of Circuit Attorney Sidener.

Direction of this inquiry may be taken up by Arthur V. Lashly, special assistant to Attorney-General Gentry, in case A. Samuel Bender goes to trial tomorrow on the indictment charging him with conspiracy to pervert and obstruct justice. Gentry plans to conduct this prosecution, which will be in Division No. 1 of the Court of Criminal Correction.

Reindictment of Ferguson, probably under the general fraud statute, is being considered. The punishment for fraud is a penitentiary terms of two to seven years.

Ferguson was indicted previously on a charge of embezzlement, based on his borrowing of more than $400,000 of the company's funds by means of I O U notes. He was indicted also, with Murray Carleton, since deceased, on the charge of making a false statement in writing to obtain credit.

Sidener brought Ferguson to trial on the embezzlement charge, though William O. Reeder, special prosecutor, advised that the false statement cases be pressed. The embezzlement case proved weak, legally, and Judge Mix directed the jury to acquit Ferguson. Sidener later dismissed the false statement indictments.

Reeder, whose advice Sidener disregarded throughout, had advised that the fraud statute be invoked. It is believed there is still no legal barrier to a prosecution on that charge.

B. F. Hargrove, an accountant of the National Association of Credit Men, who examined the company's books, and Joseph Malecek, auditor of Ferguson-McKinney, were witnesses at the grand jury a short session yesterday morning.

Gentry Outlines the Situation: "It's Up to St. Louis, Now."

Before leaving yesterday for Jefferson City, Attorney-General Gentry gave out the following statement:

"Upon the request of a great many citizens of St. Louis, as well as several organizations, Gov. Baker directed me to come to St. Louis and conduct a grand jury investigation. For three weeks I have been engaged in that investigation and a grand jury composed of 12 representative citizens of St. Louis has preferred charges against certain persons in the form of indictments. These indictments will be taken up as soon as practicable, and trials will be had before juries of St. Louis. The grand jurors have done all that they can do, and I have done all that I can do in the matter of presenting the indictments, and will do all that I can do in presenting the cases to trial juries. It is now a question for the citizens of St. Louis to decide, whether or not they want the laws enforced. In other words, the matter is now up to the courts and juries of this city."

Jewish Home Building Dedication.

A new building, costing approximately $300,000, in the group of five buildings comprising the Jewish Orthodox Old Folks' Home, at Blair avenue and East Grand avenues, will be formally opened this afternoon, with appropriate ceremonies. With the new building, the institution is considered complete. The group of buildings is connected by internal passages so that inmates may pass from the various departments during inclement weather.

WESTERN UNION MOVES INTO NEW BUILDING

Service From Ninth and Chestnut Streets Formally Opened at Midnight.

The Western Union Telegraph Co. completed its removal to its new quarters at the southwest corner of Ninth and Chestnut streets last night. At midnight service from the new office was formally opened, and the last circuits to the old headquarters, at 514 Olive street, were cut out.

The new temple of key and sounder is a five-story structure, of substantial appearance, and cost, with its equipment, about $1,500,000. The ground, 132 feet on Ninth street by 134 on Chestnut, represents an investment of $135,000. The foundations and superstructure wer ebuilt to permit increase of the height to 12 stories, and it is expected that an addition will be needed within a few years.

Mayor Sends Message.

As a ceremony of opening the new headquarters, a telegram was sent at midnight, signed by Mayor Miller and addressed to Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union, in New York, congratulating him on the facilities acquired by the company here.

The commercial office, on the first floor corner of the new building, will be open for business today. It is handsomely finished in marble. The main operating room is on the fifth floor. Other floors house the plant for handling market quotations, the storage quarters for equipment, and rooms for the use of the more than 600 employes. A large cafeteria is on the first floor.

Pneumatic Tubes to Branches.

Connection with branch offices, in the district between the Mississippi River and Jefferson avenue, will be maintained by means of pneumatic tubes. After reaching the main operating room, the messages are placed on moving belt conveyors and dispatched to the outgoing wires.

An emergency power plant in the basement, with two 100-horsepower, 6-cylinder gas engines, furnishes a reserve of power to guarantee uninterrupted service.

St. Louis, according to Supt. G. M. Horton of the Western Union, ranks third in the United States in the amount of telegraph business handled by the Western Union, and the accustomed "load" approximates 100,000 messages daily. The company has erected its own buildings also in Chicago, Philadelphia and New Orleans.

INDEPENDENTS SAID TO BACK FILLING STATION BLUE LAW

Association Members Want Some Free Times to Themselves on Sundays.

The Independent Filling Stations' Association, compsed of 125 gasoline and oil service stations in the city, is said to be back of the bill introduced in the Board of Aldermen Friday to prohibit the sale of gasoline and oil between noon and midnight Sundays, except at garages.

Albert Schlesinger, one of the owners of the St. Louis Avenue Service Station, 3753 St. Louis avenue, said yesterday that the association members circulated petitions among their customers and obtained several thousand signatures.

The only opposition to the ordinance, said Schlesinger, is from the Automobile Club of Missouri, which is interested in the convenience of its members.

The bill was introduced by Alderman Schwartz, who said that employes of the smaller service stations felt they should have some free time on Sundays. The bill proposes a fine of from $20 to $100 for violation.

TESTIMONY HEARD ON OBJECTIONS TO FEES OF $30,000

Head of State Insurance Department Tells Why He Thought That Amount Too Much.

Ben C. Hyde, State Superintendent of Insurance, yesterday told, in Circuit Judge Ittner's Court, why he thought that the total of $30,000 fees granted to two receivers and their two lawyers, in the American General Indemnity Corporation receivership, was too large.

Judge Ittner, who recently set aside the allowance temporarily, now has Hyde's objections under consideration. He remarked yesterday, after the hearing, that he could not see that any competent testimony had been given which would change the situation.

The allowances originally granted, and soon to be affirmed or reduced by Judge Ittner, were $7500 each to the receivers, Charles G. Revelle and Harvey G. Readey, and the same amounts to their lawyers, Karol A. Korngold and former Judge Conway Elder. The receivers were appointed by Judge Frey. Korngold is Judge Frey's nephew, and Readey, who is an attorney, is Judge Frey's court stenographer.

Testimony of Hyde.

Superintendent Hyde, testifying yesterday, said he had not been notified personally that the matter of fees was to be taken up, though his St. Louis deputy, Miss Agnes Lewis, who is in Reveille's office, had received such a notice. He said his first information as to the award of fees came in a letter from Revelle, one of the receivers, who said he considered the fees too high.

Hyde said he considered the fees "grossly excessive." He said that in other receiverships, where not so much money was involved, but just as much work was done, the fees came to only a few hundred dollars. In this case, he said, the assets amounted to $208,000, and about 13 claims had to be looked after.

"It was the understanding between Judge Revelle and me that we were to be the receivers," Hyde said, "but the Court (Judge Frey) went ahead and appointed a third receiver (Readey)." Hyde, being a State official, can accept no fee as receiver.

Attorney Elder asked what would be a reasonable fee, and Hyde replied that, not being a lawyer, he was not qualified to say what legal services were worth. In his written protest, sent to the Attorney-General, he stated that not more than a total of $5000 should have been charged.

Readey Expresses Indignation.

Co-Receiver Readey, on the witness stand, expressed indignation at Hyde's letter to the Attorney-General.

"It was an absolute falsehood," Readey declared, "and Hyde must have known it, when he wrote that I did little more than sign a report. I attended 40 or 50 conferences in the period of the receivership, including at least one conference with Hyde, and I signed many checks which passed through his hands. As showing the character of work in the case, there was one claim of $700 which took six conferences to adjust it." Readey said Revelle did more of the work than he did, but that he was ready at all times to render any service needed.

Revelle testified that the division of work was arranged by him, and that he did not wish to detract from Readey's work. He has made various estimates of the proper amount of fees in the case, the highest total fixed by him being $15,000, and his more recent estimate $12,000. Elder asked him if he was not seeking to gain favor with the Insurance Department by his protest against the size of the fees. Revelle replied that he would not let such a desire affect his judgment.

Attorney-General Gentry was called to the stand, but had little personal knowledge of the case, and was excused.

SENATE DEBATERS FUME AND FRET OVER FARM BILL

Lenroot (Rep.) Calls It "Gold Brick for Farmers," Harrison (Dem.) Declares It Illegal.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The McNary farm bill continued its halting pace in the Senate today with opponents trying to tear it down and supporters attempting to bolster it up.

Senate managers of the bill late today reached an agreement to strike cattle from the operation of the bill. An amendment to this effect is before the Senate, offered by Senator Kendrick (Dem.) of Wyoming.

The leaders also expect to eliminate corn, but final agreement was not reached on this.

Basic Commodities Reduced.

If cattle and corn are removed, only wheat, cotton and hogs will be left as the basic agricultural commodities under the bill.

Leaders further agreed, at the request of Southern Senators, to defer operation of the equalization fee against cotton for two years and provide $75,000,000 for the relief of that crop.

Debate was opened by an attack by Senator Lenroot (Rep.) of Wisconsin, who branded the bill a "gold brick for the farmers." Proponents, however, drew a recruit in Senator Copeland (Dem.) of New York.

Former Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, who has just been nominated for the Senate, walked into the chamber during the debate and immediately became the center of congratulating Senators. He told them the farmers of the West were demanding relief legislation.

Robinson for Tariff Reduction.

The bill was attacked from a new angle by Senator Robinson (Dem.) of Arkansas, who offered an amendment which would direct the Tariff Commission to begin an immediate investigation looking to a general and substantial tariff reduction on all commodities.

Senator Harrison (Dem.) of Mississippi, presented a telegram from the Mississippi Farm Bureau Cotton Federation advocating passage of the bill, but declared:

"I will not stultify myself by voting for a measure which I believe to be unconstitutional and contrary to the beliefs I have held and preached for years."

DIVISION OF REVENUE BUREAU HERE WILL BE DISCONTINUED

Order Effective June 30 Abolishes Supervision of Tax Business and Stamp Sales.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The St. Louis division headquarters for supervising the general conduct of Federal tax business and stamp sales, together with the branch offices at Cape Girardeau and Hannibal, will be abolished June 30, the Internal Revenue Bureau announced today.

Similar offices in Kansas City, with branches at Joplin, Springfield and St. Joseph, also will be discontinued at that date.

Discontinuance of the branch offices follows a lessening of the general Federal internal revenue work, due to increased exemptions, decrased number of income tax returns filed, and the repeal of any miscellaneous taxes, the announcement said.

Chiefs in charge of division headquarters will be transferred to special field duty.

CHURCH DEDICATION TODAY

Kingshighway M. E. Congregation to Hold Three Services.

Dedication services for the new Kingshighway Methodist Episcopal Church, at Kingshighway Park and Colorado avenue, will be held today at 11 a. m. and 3 and 8 p. m., with addresses by the Rev. Wallace B. Fleming of Baldwin, Kan., president of Baker University.

The church, which was erected at a cost of $75,000, will seat 400 persons. The ground floor, in addition to an assembly room, includes a study, 11 classrooms, an office and a kitchen. A nine-foot electrically lighted cross has been placed on top of the building. The Rev. M. M. Wolff is the pastor.

CAT RACES A HOAX OF MEN WHO LOST CASH ON THE DOGS

With horse races and dog races going on near the city limits and turtle racing featured at street carnivals—chunks of meat being dangled in front of the turtles to speed them up—residents of East St. Louis were not surprised the last few days when they received announcements from the "Intermundane Cat Racing Association."

The announcements pointed out that inasmuch as greyhounds were induced to run their fastest in pursuit of an electric rabbit, cats might be induced to chase electric rats. A large brown rate was suggested as best for clear days and awhite rat with pink eyes for cloudy days.

Out of civic pride citizens were urged either to buy stock in the cat racing association or to enter their pets in the races.

Several applications for stock were received, and a number of children offered their pets for the races. Others were not so credulous, in view of the opening date, "July 32," and made inquiries.

It was learned that four East St. Louis attorneys, who had bet on the wrong horses and dogs, constituted the "Inter-mundane Cat Racing Association" and that it existed, and would continue to exist, only on paper—the 1000 announcements which they caused to be printed and mailed and posted all over East St. Louis.

TACNA-ARICA BOARD TO LEAVE FOR U. S.

Americans Apparently Abandon Hope of Chile-Peru Boundary Plebiscite.

By the Associated Press.

TACNA, Chile, June 12.—Reports have been received here that the American delegation on the Tacna-Arica plebiscitary commission has reserved a large portion of the available accommodations on northbound steamers during the next two weeks.

Fifteen American registration inspectors, whose work came to an end recently, will sail for the United States tomorrow.

Meanwhile, the Chilean cabinet is seeking advice from its legal advisers in Washington as to what attitude should be taken by Chile on the resolution recently introduced by Gen. Lassiter, chairman of the commission, stating that carrying out of the plebiscite is impossible at this time.

The semiofficial Pacifico today calls for the emphatic defeat of the Lassiter resolution or for the immediate departure of all delegations. At the same time the paper declares that in no circumstances will Chile abandon any part of Tacna-Arica if the plebiscite is not carried out.

An editorial asserts that Chile will never give up what she has gained through war, that she defend her legitimate rights that she will only evacuate territory if she should plebiscite.

An article in Pacifico clares Chile entered into tion thinking the United would amicably help the of the boundary dispute with Now it develops, the article "that Chile, Peru and Bolivia called to destroy each deliver into the hand of the of the north, the product best energies.

"But this time the vourers of races are com error, for Chile has not ated in order to be a rapacious bird."

100,000 EXPECTED AT THE CONCORDIA DEDICATION TODAY

Exercises to Be on 71-Acre Campus at New Lutheran Theological Seminary Buildings.

BULK OF THRONG VISITORS TO CITY

Large Group of Spectators Coming by Auto; 12 Special Trains Bringing Many From Distance.

The largest gathering of Lutherans ever assembled in this country is expected this afternoon at the dedication of the new Concordia Theological Seminary, De Mun and San Bonita avenues, Clayton.

More than 100,000 persons are expected to participate in the outdoor ceremony on the 71-acre wooded campus, which extends westward to Big Bend boulevard. There are 20,000 Lutherans in St. Louis who are counted on to attend in a body. Thirty thousand additional from Missouri and Illinois towns are expected, and the remaining 50,000 or more will come from greater distances, as far as Canada.

At least 12 special trains arrived last night or will come in today from distant cities and others will come from nearby places. A large group of the spectators is coming by automobile.

Bulk Here for Day Only.

The bulk of the visitors will be in St. Louis for the day only, but many will be entertained for a brief time at the homes of Lutherans while others will take over virtually the whole accommodations of a number of hotels. They began to arrive yesterday.

Among provisions for refreshments on the campus during the day are 2000 cases of soft drinks, 13,000 ice cream packages, two tons of sandwich meat and enough coffee for 6000 cupfuls.

The City Limits car line passes the grounds, transferring to all other lines.

Auto Parking Arrangements.

Automobiles will enter the grounds from the Big Bend boulevard side (formerly Pennsylvania avenue) and be parked.

Delegates to the triennial convention of the Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states, now a world-wide church, which is meeting here, will attend the dedication. Concordia Seminary is the keystone of the synod's educational system.

There are 19 buildings of Tudor-Gothic design, in which 2161 tons of Ste. Genevieve gray stone, 219 tons of Perry County yellow stone and 1996 tons of Colorado red stone were used for the walls. The sloping roofs are of slate of mottled color. The power plant is connected with all the buildings by tunnels six feet in diameter, having a combined length of 1500 feet. The seminary has it's own ice plant. The investment in the new seminary is $3,000,000. The old one, at Jefferson avenue and Winnebago street, is to be sold.

Chorus of 1000 Voices.

A large brass band and a chorus of 1000 voices, comprising the choirs of local churches and the seminary, will furnish music for the ceremony. A special hymn written by the Rev. Dr. P. E. Kretzmann will be sung by the assemblage.

Addresses will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. Frederick Pfotenhauer of Chicago, president of the synod, and the Rev. J. W. Behnken of Houston, Tex. There will be three-minute talks by Prof. H. A. Klein of Springfield, Ill.; Prof. G. C. Barth of Milwaukee and Henry W. Horst of Rock Island, Ill., representing various church bodies. Sixteen tablets on buildings and archways, in honor of noted teachers of the synod and others, and one reminiscent of the log cabin in which the seminary was founded in Perry County, Mo., 87 years ago will be unveiled. One archway is named for the King Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden who defended the Lutheran faith in the 30-year war and another for Tyndale, who translated the Bible into English.

The public is invited to attend the dedication. An electrical system will carry the ceremonies over the grounds and into the buildings and the program will be held indoors in case of rain.

DIES OF HEAT EXHAUSTION WHEN STRICKEN AT WORK

Robert Gratz, 43 years old, a pressman employed by the St. Louis Star, died of heat exhaustion at 7 o'clock last night. He was stricken while at work shortly after 6 o'clock and was removed to City Hospital in a taxicab.

Gratz lived at 3302 Nebraska avenue, with his widow and three children.

Organ Recital for Grotto.

A popular organ recital for visiting and local members of the Mystic Order Veiled Prophets of the Realm and their families and friends will be given by O. Wade Fellert at the Scottish Rite Cathedral, 3637 Lindell boulevard, Tuesday at 7 p. m. This will be followed by a contest between Grotto choral clubs from various parts of the country.

FLAG CEREMONY AT THE MUNICIPAL THEATER TODAY

Religious, Civic, Patriotic and Military Bodies to Unite in Observing National Day.

Joint exercises in observance of Flag day will be held this afternoon in the Municipal Theater in Forest Park by various religious, civic, patriotic and military organizations of the city.

National Flag day is tomorrow and business houses and private citizens have been asked to display flags in honor of the occasion. Most formal observances of the occasion will be held this afternoon, except for one elaborate program to be held by Masonic organizations at Scottish Rite Cathedral tomorrow night.

Pageant by Boy Scouts.

The Forest Park exercises will be under the auspices of the American Legion, Col. H. D. McBride acting as program chairman. A featured event of the program will be a Historical Flag Pageant given by 15 Boy Scout troups of the city. Reproduction of flags from the time of John Cabot in 1497 to the present day will be displayed in the pageant to show the evolution of the Stars and Stripes.

The principal speaker of the program will be the Rev. Dr. M. Ashby Jones of the Second Baptist Church on "Our Flag." The 138th Infantry band will play patriotic selections, there will be a number of solos and the audience will join in singing patritic songs and repeating the pledge to the flag.

The Masonic Observance.

The Masonic observance of Flag day tomorrow night will be particularly impressive because of the large number of musicians who will play. Bands of a dozen grotto organizations that will be here for the annual Grotto convention will play and a choral club of 100 voices from Columbus, O., will sing. George A. Treadwell of New Orleans, grand monarch of the Grotto, will be principal speaker.

The Gen. C. D. Wolff Camp, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, will conduct a flag-raising ceremony at 3 p. m. today at the Dewey Heights Volunteer Fire Department, at Gray and Erskine avenues, St. Louis County. The exercises will be preceded by a parade from Broadway and Hoffmeister street.

GIRL WHO SAVED TWO OTHERS FROM INJURY CITED AS HERO

Julia Arbicor, 1, Threw Self Between Companions on Sled and Speding Auto.

Commendation for bravery in saving the lives of two other children at the Girls' Industrial Home, at the Girl Scouts' fourth annual given Julia Arbicor, 14 years old, at teh Girl Scouts' fourth annual court of awards yesterday afternoon. A letter from national headquarters was presented to her, citing her bravery in January, 1925, when she threw herself in front of a sled on which two smaller girls were coasting, thus preventing a collision betwen the sled and a passing automobile.

The girl lent the sled, a Christmas gift, to two friends, during a heavy snow. While they were coasting down a driveway leading into Enright avenue, Julia noticed an approaching speeding automobile. Her bravery in stopping the sled caused her slight injuries, but neither of her companions was hurt.

MRS. SIGMUND M. BASS FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Charges Attorney Deserted Her in 1922; Seeks Alimony and Custody of Daughter.

Suit was filed yesterday by Mrs. Ada R. Bass to divorce Sigmund M. Bass, an attorney, with offices in the Times Building.

She alleges desertion and asks for custody of their daughter, Jane Lee, 9 years old, and alimony.

Mrs. Bass, in her petition, says she and her husband were married at Tulsa, Ok., July 15, 1911, and in October, 1922, he left her without cause. She is represented by the law firm of Judson, Green & Henry.

Bass, who waived court service and entered his appearance, declined to comment.

STOREKEEPER CAPTURES SUSPECTED HOLDUP MAN

Companion Escapes After Grocer Becomes Suspicious When Pair Peers Through Window.

Benjamin Dachroeden, grocer at 1512 Oak Grove avenue, Wellston, saw two men looking into his store yesterday morning and was suspicious because one resembled a man who tried to hold him up two weeks ago.

Dachroeden put his revolver and his money in his pockets. Presently the two men entered and Dachroeden drew his revolver on them. One ran out and escaped. The other is held for investigation.

Heart Disease Fatal to A. W. Zell.

INQUIRY IN AUTO CRASH THAT KILLED YALE MEN

One of Four Victims Is Son of Dr. H. D. Cushing, Brain Specialist.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 12.—Coroner Mix today was deep in an investigation of the automobile crash in which two Yale students and their woman companions lost their lives in Guilford about 2 a. m. today.

One of the women who died in the Guilford Sanitorium, surviving her companions by a few moments, has been identified as Miss Bernadette D. Kiernan, daughter of Mrs. Bridget Kiernan of New Haven.

The other three, who were killed outright, were George M. Kopperl, Galveston, Tex., a Yale freshman, driver of the car; William H. Cushing, Brookline, Mass., Yale junior and baseball letter man; and Mrs. Edwin I. Reeser of New Haven.

The party was returning to New Haven from a dance in Woodlawn in a borrowed automobile, the property of G. E. Sheldon of New York, a freshman at Yale. The machine was traveling at a high rate of speed at the time of the accident and struck an elm tree in front of the home of ex-Senator E. H. Rolf, on the post road. A bend in the road is believed to have been the cause of the crash. Probably Kopperl, who was driving, failed to see the curve, and the car left the highway.

The automobile was so badly wrecked it was almost impossible to tell what kind of car it had been.

Neighbors awakened by the terrific crash found Miss Kiernan still breathing. She could give no account of the accident before her death.

Cushing was the son of Dr. Harvey D. Cushing, famous brain specialist of the Harvard Medical School. Kopperl played on the freshman football team. His mother, who is in New York, was notified.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

A CONSTANT READER—C. T. Pullis of Kirkwood, Mo., a Pullman conductor, died March 18, 1924, from a bullet wound inflicted the night before by Len Motlow, a wealthy Tennessee distiller, in a dispute over sleeping car etiquette.

READER—Steel is softened by placing a quantity of newly burned lime in a damp place, where it will fall in the form of flour; put it in an iron box. Heat the article to a dull red; clean off all scale, and put in lime, and completely cover with lime; cover box over with iron lid and leave until cold. The more lime and larger the box the better. Keep airtight if possible. Another formula is to put one tablespoonful of hydrochloric acid and saltpeter to one gallon of water. Heat the steel and cool in it; then heat to soften by letting cool. Cast steel thus treated will weld with sand.

EMILY—The following are the names of the State flowers: Alabama, golden rod; Arizona, ocotillo; Arkansas, apple blossom; California, golden poppy; Colorado, columbine; Connecticut, mountain laurel; Delaware, peach blossom; District of Clumbia, nasturtium; Florida, orange blossom; Georgia, Cherokee rose; Idaho, syringa; Illinois, the native violet; Indiana, carnation; Iowa, wild rose; Kansas, sunflower; Kentucky, golden rod; Louisiana, magnolia; Maine, pine cone and tassel; Maryland, black eyed susan; Michigan, apple blossom; Minnesota, moccasin; Mississippi, magnolia; Missouri, hawthorn; Montana, bitter root; Nebraska, golden rod; New Jersey, golden rod and violet; New Mexico, cactus; New York, rose; North Dakota, wild rose; Ohio, scarlet carnation; Oklahoma, mistletoe; Oregon, Oregon grape; Pennsylvania, daisy and violet; South Dakota, anemone patens; Tennessee, golden rod; Texas, blue bonnet; Utah, sega lily; Vermont, red clover; Washington, rhododendron; West Virginia, rhododendron; Wisconsin, violet; Wyoming, blue fringed gentian; Hawaii, lehue.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

J. A.—She had no right to hold your instrument for the rent. You can replevin it from her.

C. W. J.—All that you can do is sue them for the $2.50 in a Justice of the Peace Court, if you think that that is worth while.

A CONSTANT READER—To be on the safe side, the tenant should give one month's written notice to vacate, served not later than the day before the rent day.

POST-DISPATCH—We do not know what your question is, as you apparently have already made a settlement with the real estate man. Please write again.

S.—If the property owned by them is owned by both of them as joint tenants, then on his death she would become sole owner of it. She would not receive any part of B's other property, which he owns alone, unless she could prove that there was a common law marriage before the date when the 1921 law took effect, or unless B made a will in her favor.

DOUBTING OWNER.—Ask your neighbor to train the trees on your side. If he refuses to do this, you can cut the branches back to the division line, provided that doing this will not destroy the trees, but before doing so it would be advisable for you to consult a lawyer.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

SUFFERER.—See answer to "R. H."

R. H.—Repeat your question, enclosing stamped addressed envelope for reply.

IGNORANT.—Some facial disfigurements can be remedied while others can not be. Skin grafting being one, but not the only method employed for such purpose. If you will send self addressed stamped envelope we will gladly direct you to operating specialists who do such work and to whom you may entrust your case with confidence.

CONSTANT READER.—The taking of a 5-grain engo apiol capsule three times daily beginning three or four days before the menstrual period and continuing through that period and three or four days after, should correct your trouble. Also a hot hip bath night and morning. Remaining quiet and avoiding overwork and worry during this time. Being a young woman, as you state, and otherwise enjoying good health, there is little likelihood that such insufficiency will lead to other troubles.

WORRIED.—Glands in the groin may become enlarged by any kind of wound, sore or irritation below the hip, syphilis being only one of many such irritants. Since the nature of this trouble cannot be determined by a mere description, but requiring an exaination, and that the treatment would depend upon its true nature you should by all means either consult of physician or visit the Venereal Clinic, Room 35, Municipal Courts Building, Fourteenth and Market streets, where you will be cared for free of charge.

PATIENCE.—The following lotion applied to the enlarged pores in the skin should be effective: Precipitated sulphur, 2 drachms; powdered camphor, 20 grains; powdered tragacanth, 10 grains; powwater and rose water of each 2 ounces. Mix well. Apply night and morning after bathing the face in water as hot as can be borne. (2) The calves of the legs may be reduced, if possible, by using hot water packs night and morning and systematic bandaging during the night. A flannel bandage should be used for the purpose, it being somewhat elastic. Either this or wearing a silk stocking fitting snugly and so providing a certain degree of pressure.

Vickery and all Vickery's bricklayers, Mr. Wingbermueller, undertaker, and the many friends for the beautiful floral offerings.
Bereaved wife,
MRS. T. HOENEMEYER, AND CHILDREN.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our darling wife and mother, Anna Loeffel, who departed this life one year ago, June 14.
'Neath our eyes she faded quickly,
Growing day by day more frail;
Very sweetly all her sufferings,
Without murmur, moan or wail.
Her cheering smile and loving way
Are pleasant to recall;
She had a kind word for everyone,
And died beloved by all.
Sadly missed by her husband and children. EDWARD LOEFFEL AND CHILDREN. 5220 Helen avenue, St. Louis. (c)

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear son, Henry J. Vollmar, died June 18, 1924:
In our home there is a vacant place
For a loving boy so true and kind;
For us he did his best,
May God grant him eternal rest.
Sadly missed by his parents:
FRANK AND LOUISE VOLLMAR.

In memory of Joseph Eckel, died on June 15, 1925:
A loving father, true and kind,
No friend like him on earth we'll find,
God called him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts he lingers still.
Sadly missed by
THE ECKEL FAMILY. (c)

In loving memory of our darling mother, Kate T. Jackson (nee Gaynor), who entered into rest June 14, 1924:
"Mother of mine, in the afterglow
Of mothering years, we love you so."
Sadly missed by HER FAMILY.

In loving memory of Cornelia Brich, who departed this life June 3, 1925.
You are gone but not forgotten,
Nor shall you ever be
As long as life and memory lasts
We shall remember thee.
Sadly missed by HUSBAND AND CHILDREN. (c)

In loving remembrance of our darling daughter, sister, granddaughter and niece, Anna M. Clever, who departed this life one year ago, June 15, 1925:
A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is still;
A place is vacant in our home
That never can be filled.
Sadly missed by mother, father, brother and all who loved her.

In memory of our darling Richard B. Lubbers, who departed this life one year ago, June 9, 1925.
More and more this day we miss you,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That's within our heart's concealed.
Dearest Richard, oh, how we miss you,
Since that day you left us all,
You are sadly missed by all and others,
But they little know the sorrow.
MOTHER AND DAD.

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mary Heckel, who passed away one year ago, June 14, 1925.
Peaceful be your rest, dear mother,
It is sweet to breathe your name,
We often sit and think of you
And speak of how you died.
To think you could not say good-by,
Before you closed your eyes,
For all of us you did your best,
May God grant you eternal rest.
Sadly missed by DAUGHTER, SON-IN-LAW AND GRANDCHILDREN.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Franciska Mueller, who departed this life June 13, 1925.
More and more this day we miss you;
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That's within our hearts concealed;
Rest in peace; thy cares are ended;
Rest in peace; thy work is done,
Thou art gone where those that loved you
Soon are coming one by one.
Sadly missed by children,
SONS AND DAUGHTERS.

PRIZES AWARDED IN WORK HORSE PARADE

Money for Drivers, Ribbons for Nags at Humane Society's Show.

The second annual horse parade under the auspices of the Humane Society of Missouri was held yesterday afternoon and attracted the elite of the workaday equine world, as well as several thousand horse lovers and automobile salesmen.

The sun was red hot, the asphalt pavements were sticky and the cobblestones were as hard as usual, but the horses seemed to enjoy their day of days. To speak their own language they were feeling their oats.

In the parade were police horses, fire horses, cavalry mounts, saddle ponies and horses and mules of all sizes and colors drawing coal wagons, dairy wagons, laundry wagons and all the other commercial wagons under the sun, including two municipal garbage wagons.

Awards for All Classes.

The parade started at Fourteenth street and Clark avenue, meandered downtown, then out west to the dusty old circus grounds at Sarah street and West Pine boulevard, where blue, red and white ribbons were awarded to the oldest, youngest, biggest, smallest, best and funniest of the animals entered, and to the drivers longest in service.

Band music attracted the crowds to the lot and the horse show kept them there for two hours. Admission was free and ice cream could be had at the market price.

Lady Bountiful appeared in Miss Mary Mitchell of 3703 West Pine, a director of the Humane Society. She distributed envelopes containing currency to veteran drivers.

Bernard Bambrick, 55 years old, of 1368 Belt avenue, 36 years with the American Express Co., had the longest service record of the drivers present. His handsome horse has been drawing his express wagon for 16 years, which is a record not to be snorted at.

Pensioners Strut Their Stuff.

Four "pensioners," who, thanks to the Peerless Express and Transfer Co., haven't had to work for their hay for years, strutted their stuff. They are Brownie and Jerry, each 30 years old; Pete, 25, and Harry, 21. Brownie and Pete are mules.

Three young Americans galloped around on three white ponies in the class for saddle ponies. Theodore Lucks on "Mary" won the blue ribbon; Bud Bartholomew on "Jerry" the red ribbon, and Otis Brown on "Whitey" the white ribbon.

There were many proud drivers and owners present at the show, but none prouder than Joseph Klouzek of 2245 Neosho street, a newspaper carrier. A special class was created for him, inasmuch as he was the only entry, it seemed certain he would win a ribbon, until a referee pointed out that, although Klouzek's wagon was pleasing to the eye, his horse was undersized.

"I wouldn't trade that little horse for any one here," Klouzek declared. He got the ribbon.

ENGINE HITS AUTO, SIX KILLED

Survivor of Crash at Wetmore, Pa., Suffers Broken Back.

By the Associated Press.

KANE, Pa., June 12.—Six persons were killed and a seventh injured in a grade crossing accident at Wetmore, near here, late today while on their way to church to attend a christening. Their automobile was struck by a locomotive on the Pennsylvania railroad. The dead were: Martin Murdock, 30 years old, of Wetmore; John H. Hadden, 35, of Coudersport; Michael Iljke, 32, his wife and 14-month-old baby, of Coudersport, and Mrs. Michael Jarar, 27, Coudersport.

Michael Jarar, 32, husband of one of the women killed, suffered a broken back and is not expected to live.

ONE MAN STILL SOUGHT FOR BEER-FLAT MURDER

Another Already Under Arrest Ordered Held by Coroner After Inquest.

Search is being made by police for Albert J. Ruhlman, alias Ollie Weber, one of the two men charged with homicide in a Coroner's verdict yesterday at the conclusion of the inquest in the death of Constant Edgar McCormick, alias Edward T. Taylor, 28 years old, who was fatally shot in his all-night home-brew flat at 3330A Olive street early Tuesday.

The other man named in the verdict, Raymond Fischel, 25 years old, a pipefitterZ of 3662A Laclede old, is under arrest. He declined to testify at the inquest when informed that he could stand on his constitutional rights and remain silent. His wife testified, however, and when he was ordered held without bond, she broke into tears and cried: 'He didn't do it —he didn't do it."

Testimony as to Threat.

McCormick's widow had testified at the opening of the inquest Wednesday that she heard Weber make a threat against her husband in a house at 3921 Olive street an hour before the murder. She quoted Weber as saying: "He (McCormick) did me a dirty trick and I'm going to get me a couple of rods and blow up his dump."

Fischel's 20-year-old wife, Amy, testified yesterday that she, Fischel, Mrs. McCormick, a man known as "Ollie" and several other persons, including chorus girls from the Liberty Music Hall, attended a home brew party Monday night at the home of Arthur Pollard, at 3921 Olive street. Every one was drinking and "feeling happy." She did not hear any threat made by "Ollie."

About 1:30 a. m. her husband asked her to go home with him, but she declined in order to stay with Mrs. McCormick, whereupon Fischel said, "I'll have Ollie take me home," and left with him. Half an hour later Mrs. Fischel and Mrs. McCormick left and walked to Grand and Olive, where they heard of the shooting of McCormick.

One of Defendants Arrested.

Fischel and Ruhlman could not be found after the shooting, but Fischel was arrested Wednesday whn he returned from Zeigler, Ill., where he had driven Tuesday with his wife, a former resident of Zeigler. He told police that a man had telephoned him Tuesday morning and advised him to leave town, as he might be "picked up'" for the murder. Fischel's wife, questioned about this, admitted receiving a telephone call, but asserted it was about another matter.

INDICTMENTS FOLLOW CRASH OF TWO OMAHA CONCERNS

Using Mails to Defraud Alleged in Failures Which Caused $10,000,000 Loss.

By the Associated Press.

OMAHA, Neb., June 12.—Ward M. Burgess, former head of the defunct M. E. Smith Co., Omaha wholesale dry goods firm, and of the defunct Burgess-Nash Department store, was indicted with three others by a Federal grand jury here today on chargs of using the mails to defraud.

The others indicted included John F. Dailey of Cleveland, O., former vice president and general manager of the Burgess-Nash store and director in the M. E. Smith company.

Federal authorities declare that more than $10,000,000 was lost by investors in the crash of the two concerns.

Included among the alleged losers wer five New York banks and four in Chicago. The Hanover and Chase National Banks of New York are alleged to have lost around $300,000 in the crash.

WHEAT SELLS DOWN AS WEEK CLOSES

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, June 12.—Wheat closed substantially lower at the week-end session on the local market and corn was down fractionally. Beneficial rains in Northwest, both sides of border, were reported. Harvesting was reported making progress in Southwest, with weather favorable.

Talk as to whether or not primary receipts would increase by reason of producers trying to take advantage of comparative strength of cash premiums exerted influence late in market. Reported prospects of increase in visible corn supply Monday was factor in that market.

Soft red wheat declined 2c to 3c, good No. 2 being in better demand, but there was practically no inquiry for ordinary No. 2 red, which was offered as low as $1.50, nor for thin flinty No. 3 red. About 10 or 12 cars were carried over. There was a limited demand for No. 2 hard wheat. No. 1 hard sold early at $1.60, 20½c over the Chicago July price. No. 2 hard sold at the close at $1.57. No. 2 hard 12 per cent to 13 per cent protein offered to arrive basis 36c over Kansas City July price delivered. A car of No. 2 hard 13 per cent protein sold at $1.68 to arrive. Corn was steady to 1c lower. There was a manifest of 145 cars, but the short session prevented some of it being inspected in time for sale. While accumulative demand showed some falling off, increased activity on part of local industries and mills more than offset it. Oats were steady to ½c lower. Local trade and mills readily took bright heavy test No. 2 and No. 3 white oats. Shippers bought some ordinary types.

After opening fractionally higher, July wheat sold nearly a cent under early high and September went back to previous close. Liverpool closed ¾ to 1d higher. Winnipeg early was ¼ to ½d lower. Corn here was shade lower early.

July wheat opened at $1.38⅝; September wheat $1.35½; December wheat $1.38; July corn 73⅝c; September corn 77⅛c, and December corn 77¾c.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 376 cars of wheat, compared with 1102 a week ago and 272 last year. Minneapolis receiving 124 cars, Duluth 65 and Winnipeg 187.

Local wheat receipts, which were 39,200 bushels, compared with 67,200 a week ago and 87,100 last year, included 12 cars local and 16 through. Corn receipts, which were 222,000 bushels, compared with 278,600 a week ago and 63,000 last year, included 145 cars local and 12 through. Oats receipts, which were 110,000 bushels, compared with 72,000 a week ago and 74,000 last year, included 27 cars local and 28 through. Hay receipts were 17 cars local and 1 through.

Primary receipts of wheat were 572,000 bu, compared with 525,000 a week ago and 668,000 last year. Corn receipts were 1,078,000 bu, compared with 1,394,000 a week ago and 550,000 last year. Oats receipts were 476,000 bu, compared with 470,000 a week ago and 663,000 last year. Wheat shipments were 739,000 bu, compared with 701,000 a week ago and 831,000 last year. Corn shipments were 460,000 bu, compared with 400,000 a week ago and 510,000 last year. Oats shipments were 607,000 bu, compared with 339,000 a week ago and 910,000 last year.

June Orders Forecast Record Business with Franklin Sedan $2790

New Price F. O. B. Factory

Back of this great demand lies Franklin's matchless capacity for doing the difficult things—and doing them better.

Could your car run all day, throttle wide open, without loss of power, like a Franklin? Does your car take bad roads with the comfort for which Franklin is famous?

After a long, hard hill, does your car spring away as fresh as a Franklin? Will two fingers' pressure on the foot-brake hold your car on a 20° grade, as with Franklin?

Would you expect to feel fresh after a 300-mile drive? Franklin owners do, and are. Would you dare go all year without a thought to the cooling system? Franklin owners do.

Does your car average 18 to 20 miles to the gallon of gas, like the Franklin? And will your car stand hard service for at least ten years, as Franklin has long been proving it will?

Much of this super-ability—and many of the other reasons for Franklin popularity—will become plain during a trial ride. You can have this ride today, if you will telephone us.

All Franklin prices include full equipment, even to spare tire, tube, cover and lock. Only tax and transportation are extra. Your old car can be applied in trade, and budget payment plan arranged.

WHEAT MARKET WEATHER AFFAIR MOST OF WEEK

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 12.—The wheat market developed a sinking spell in the last hour today after showing heaviness almost from the start. There was a slight advance in opening prices, but pressure selling developed on the bulge and buying power failed to develop enough volume to absorb the offerings. Closing prices were 1¼c to 1¾c lower for the week, 2⅝c to ¼c higher. July $1.38⅝ to $1.30. September $1.35¼ to $1.35⅜. December $1.38 to $1.38⅛. It was a weather market most of the week in wheat and fluctuations were erratic as a result. Fear of hedging pressure weakened the bull structure late in the week.

Strength in Liverpool encouraged the opening buying but at $1.41 for July commission houses had plenty for sale and this stimulated liquidation by scattered holders. Buying by bull leaders tended to check the decline and for a time were successful, but in the last half hour liquidations increased and the lowest prices of the day were established during this period. Hard wheat premiums were off ½c to 1c and 15,000 bushels No. 2 Northern sold in store at 14c over July, a decline of 1c to 2c in premiums from Friday.

Weather map showed some good rains over the Canadian West and light showers over the American Northwest and generally favorable harvest weather over the Southwest. Shipping sales were 8000 bushels.

Corn trade was light and the market depressed by the break in wheat. Closing prices were ⅝c to ¼c off and for the week ¼c to 1¼c higher. July 73⅝c. September 78⅝c to 78¼c. December 78¼c to 78⅝c. Some improvement in shipping demand was noted and sales of 123,000 bushels were reported. Country sold about 15,000 bushels of corn to arrive. Beneficial rains were reported over Illinois and Iowa as well as parts of Nebraska.

The weakness in oats at the outset was due to hedging pressure against purchases to arrive from the country. Liquidation also was in evidence and the only support was against indemnities. Closing prices were ⅝c to 1c off. And for the week ⅜c to 1⅜c up. July 42⅛c. September 43¼c. December 44¼c. Country sold 250,000 bushels of oats to arrive on overnight bids. Shipping sales were only 40,000 bushels.

Provisions started lower, rallied and then broke again. Foreigners sold at the start, cash interests bought on the break and then there was liquidation late because of the break in grain. Lard closed 5c to 10c lower, ribs 12½c lower, bellies 25c to 30c lower.

Lead, Zinc and Copper

Lead was reported strong in St. Louis Saturday at $7.90 per 100 lbs. Zinc was quoted $7.15 per 100 lbs.

NEW YORK, June 12.—The output of refined and antimonial lead in the United States and Mexico in May was the largest monthly quantity this year, reaching 69,974 short tons, an increase of 4332 tons over April. Productions for the first five months of 1926 aggregated 334,643 short tons against 318,805 in the corresponding period last year.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Stocks of refined copper on May 31 declined to 138,735,000 pounds from 145,288,000 pounds the month before. The month's production of refined copper amounted to 227,796,000 pounds compared with 232,604,000 pounds in April. Foreign and domestic shipments totaled 234,346,000 pounds against 237,728,000 in April.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, June 12.—Raw wool markets closed the week quiet, with evidences of a growing price struggle between dealers and buyers. Dealers are quoting Texas 12-months wool around $1.10, while buyers show little disposition to pay more than $1 or $1.05, at the outside.

Moderate receipts and an active demand influenced a sharp advance in cattle and hog prices at the St. Louis National Stock Yards last week. Hogs reached the highest level since 1920 and cattle in some departments equaled the high point of the current year. Sheep and lambs were in fair supply and values here closed steady to lower. There was no change in horses and mules. Virtually all classes of cattle advanced in an active market. Native beef steers strengthened 25c to 50c, with the bulk selling at $8.50 to $9.75 per cwt. and tops scoring upward to $10.50. Quality graded medium to good. The plainer classes of beeves scored around $7 or $8 and under. South Texas grass steers, totaling slightly better than 100 cars gained 50c to 75c, thus reaching the high point of the season. Prices ranged from $5.25 to $8.25. Seven cars of Texas cows passed the scales at $6.

Light yearling steers improved 25c on the top end and 25c to 50c on the other classes. Attractive offerings registered in the $9 column, followed by medium grades around $8 and plainer kinds at $6 and $7. Top heifers reached $10. An upturn of 50c in beef cows made the bulk $5.75 to $6.50, low end $5.50 and the top $7.75. Native canners and cutters gained 25c, cutters bringing $4.25 to $5.25 and canners $3.50 to $4. Light Southern canners were unchanged at $3.25 to $3.50. Bulls were steady to 25c higher at $6 to $6.75 for heavy beef grades, $5.25 to $6.25 for bolognas and $3.75 to $5 for canners and cutters. Sales of stocker and feeder cattle were strong to 25c up. Receipts were again limited, with the demand slightly better in some departments. Steers ranged from $5 to $8.75, with heifers quotable at $5 to $7, cows $4 to $5.50 and bulls $4.50 to $5.50.

Calves and yearlings sold against the trend in cattle. Shipping veals of choice quality closed at $12 and $12.25, against $12.75 a week ago and corresponding, or greater losses were sustained in the cheaper grades. Good veals, light weight, closed at $10, followed by medium calves around $8 and cheap outs at $6 to $7. Southern canner yearlings closed at $4.50 to $5.

Hogs Pass $15 Mark.

Hog prices reached and passed the $15 mark at the local yards last week for the first time in over five years, top at $15.25 being the highest price paid since Oct. 18, 1920, when the peak was $15.65. The $15 mark had been predicted several times recently but buyers managed to hold figure below this up till the past week when light receipts and urgent orders from Eastern interests resulted in a 50c to 75c upturn in hogs. At this time in 1920 the weightier grades of hogs were in best demand and commanding premium prices while at present the lighter weights are most favored by buyers. In some sessions, buyers managed to force values slightly lower but quick recoveries were made and closing sales for the week show the full advance on all grades. Bulk of desirable light kinds cleared during the six-day period in a spread of $14.80 to $15.15, this range including weights from 200 lbs. and down. Medium weight butcher grades of 200 to 220 lbs. average bulked at $14.75 to $14.90 and weightier hogs from 230 to 260 lbs. at $14.60 to $14.75. This latter mentioned weights as well as heavier kinds ranging up to 300 lbs. average were somewhat slow in moving on the later rounds of the week due to order buying support being withdrawn. Packers fought the advance hard and bought supplies sparingly and heavy killing hogs closed the week somewhat easier than prices were at the high time. Pig values maintained a relatively high level throughout the week, stimulated by a good demand from both killing and stocker interests. Sales ranged up to the top of $15.25 and a right fair representation of sales at this figure was noted toward the latter part of the week. Bulk for the six days was $14.85 to $15.15 for desirable kinds. Inferior grades cleared around $14.50 to $14.75 with plain Southern kinds ranging downward to $13.50. Packing sows featured a sharp upturn and sales at the week's close show approximately $1 advance. Light smooth kinds ranged upward to $13.25 with a majority of closing deals at $13 to $13.10. Stags under a good inquiry maintained a steady to strong basis with sales of light kinds indicating some advance. Bulk cleared at $11 to $12 with sales upward to $12.50 on light fat kinds to butchers. Good light hogs 160 to 190 lbs. quotable at $14.90 to $15.05, light butcher hogs 200 to 220 lbs. $14.70 to $14.90, medium weight butchers 230 to 260 lbs. $14.50 to $14.70, heavy hogs 270 lbs. and up $14.25 to $14.50. Pigs 150 lbs. and down, $14.90 to $15.10, inferior grades $14 to $14.75. Sows $12.75 to $13, stags $11 to $12.50.

Lambs Down Late.

Buyers boosted lamb prices slightly during the week's early sessions, but under increased receipts later on a sharp break was featured and closing sales show a sharp decline from the previous week's close. Top at one time reached $18.10 for choice Southern lambs, with later deals witnessing a drop to $17.85, $17.60 and $17.35, the weeks' closing peak on this class. Buyers also showed a disposition to sort their buys deeper during the latter sessions and discriminated greatly against thin and half fat lambs. Bulk of desirable Southern lambs sold for the week at $17.35 to $17.85. Bulk of the week's run was native lambs and prices proved very erratic on this class. A wide spread of $16.50 to $17.50 was featured. The latter figure represented midweek top, but bulk of arrivals cleared at $16.75 to $17 with closing deals on a $16.50 to $16.75 basis. Culls show a 50c decline from last Saturday, bulk clearing at $10.50, with sorts grading little better than culls around $12 to $12.50. Trading in sheep was uneventful with prices remaining on a steady basis on all grades. Killing ewes of desirable weight and flesh sold around $6 with medium-weight and heavy kinds clearing around $5 to $5.50. Some inferior stuff ranged downward to $4.50. Sales of outgoing ewes for breeding and some light yearling ewes ranged upward to $7 and $8. Choppers and bucks sold mainly at $2 to $3, the latter figure catching the big end of good fleshed bucks. Canners cleared at $1 to $2, according to weight and quality.

Good to choice spring lambs close the week quitable at $16.50 to $17.35, medium to good $15.50 to $16.50, plain to medium $13.50 to $14.50, cull and common $10.50 to $11.50, skips $8 to $10. Good to choice clipped lambs $14.50 to $15, medium to good $14 to $14.50, plain to medium $13 to $14, culls $8.50 to $9.50. Good to choice shorn mutton ewes $5.50 to $6, medium to good $5 to $5.50, plain to medium $4.50 to $5. Choppers and bucks $2 to $3, canners $1 to $2. Fat goats $2 to $3, thin goats $1 to $1.50. Choice fat kids $5 to $7, with thin and common grades clearing $2 to $4.

Receipts during the six-day period ran slightly better than 300 head, and the supply sold quite freely at unchanged prices. The demand again favored good big work horses, good chunks, the cheaper grades of work horses, big mules and rugged work mules. There was a good clearance.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 12.—The Evening Post in its weekly copyrighted financial review, says:

"Back of the improved sentiment in business circles may be found a rising stock market and trade reports for last month that reveal an unexpected activity. Just how much of the better feeling comes from the rally in stocks and how much from the pleasing May records on sales is difficult to say. Certainly the general attitude toward the future to date this year has been influenced more by swings in the shares market than by changes in other barometers. The trend of industry and trade has been fairly orderly now for months. Radical changes in the movements of the business indices have been conspicuous by their absence but opinions about business have swung high and low with stocks. It is difficult for most men to divorce their judgment of the trade trend from the market swings and in the last three weeks some unusual advances have been achieved in numerous prominent issues. No less important a stock than Steel common has risen in points from its low level of last week and in yesterday's rally crept very close to the best position of the year. The most prominent motor stocks on the list set a new high price for 1926.

Earnings More Favorable.

"Earnings for the year to date have been more favorable than had been expected but some persons have been misled by comparisons with 1925. That the earnings for 1926 to date have so much exceeded those for similar months of last year does not mean that the late 1926 quarters can hold their own against the late 1925 quarters. The upswing in business last year did not get started until after the first quarter whereas it was going at high speed in that period this year. What interests the business prophets is not the returns that companies will be able to make for the first half of 1926 but the probable trend during the remainder of the year. It is the sudden light on the money position rather than new reports on trade that seem to quicken stock market activities most readily. When Secretary Mellon announced that the Government would do no financing on June 15 it was the implication that money would remain easy for a time that incited fresh market activity. All signs point to an accumulation of loanable funds for several months and partly in anticipation of that, not to mention the reinvestment of payments on maturities soon to be made by the Government, investors are buying heavily of stocks and bonds.

Retail Sales Turn Up.

"Retail sales turned up in May but not enough time has elapsed to determine whether the improvement was the natural gain of the season or whether it marked a demand for goods that will be sustained. Indeed, that is a general problem. In the very fullness of prosperity is perhaps the best reason for caution. We usually reckon that when a wave pitches high above its normal level it must reach a crest. It is difficult to what will pitch the wave to heights. Wages have risen steadily since 1923 until now they stand higher than ever before in the history of the country, higher than they were at the 1920 peak. Since the cost of living has not risen proportionately the purchasing power of the wage earner enables him to consume more than he had ever consumed before. Unfortunately the purchasing power of the agricultural districts has not put the farmer to so favorable a position.

Agricultural Problems.

"Reasons appear why agricultural prices may improve this year. The spring wheat crop probably will be small. The winter wheat crop will exceed that of last year, but from present indications, will be below the average. In the circumstances, and with the carry over from last year's crop abnormally small, the basis is present for an improvement in prices but no move has come for the reason that depressing influences are at work in the world wheat situation. Corn, rye, barley and hay all are below their pre-war price at the farm whereas commodities generally are roughly 50 per cent higher than pre-war levels. Too much emphasis has been given to low prices for corn, however, since about 85 per cent of our corn crop is marketed in the form of hogs.

Rail Group Strong.

"Operations for the rise gained ground in rather active trading in today's short session of the stock market. A rush of covering by shorts in the last few minutes pushed several of the market leaders to within a few points of the high levels recorded in the great bull market that collapsed in February and March. Although several industrials attracted attention, the most pronounced group strength was in the railroad shares with some of the leading favorites selling within a short distance of the highest prices recorded since the war. Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central, Atlantic Coast Line and Delaware & Hudson were favored. Prospects of continued easy money helped the bond market, where a generally firm undertone prevailed.

Morgan Stocks Again in Lead.

"Expectations of a setback on profit taking over the week end failed to materialize when the recent market leaders again showed unusual strength. Speculators for the decline who had looked for a turn in the market around midweek, and had sold stocks in anticipation of lower prices were forced to take losses in several of the high priced industrials. Most prominent in the upturn were the so-called Morgan stocks, U. S. Steel and General Motors. General Motors crossed 137, while Steel advanced to within a point of 136, the price at which the shares were offered to employes on a profit-sharing basis earlier in the year. This point was regarded as the objective of the bulls who believed much higher prices could be obtained if that level were crossed. New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio and other rail stocks also were in good demand at higher levels, demonstrating that covering by shorts was not the only factor instrumental in pushing values higher.

Other Points of Strength.

"Coincident with advances in leading rail shares, buying developed in larger volume in several of the equipment stocks and advances were recorded. Several specialties also improved, while mercantile and food shares were firmer. California Packing responded to announcement of a 100 per cent stock dividend with a rise of more than three points and some of the chain stores worked forward. U. S. Rubber rallied a point or so. Not all speculative favorites were pushed forward, however, for pressure was again exerted against International Cumbusion. It fell back somewhat.

Clearing House Statement.

"Preparations for the June 15 tax settlements and dividend payments were indicated in the weekly statement of the Clearing House banks, revealing a deficit in reserves of $7,411,520 and a decrease in surplus of $19,140,000. Loans, discounts, etc., decreased $5,829,000."

Break in Norwegian Krone.

"The only feature of a quiet market in foreign exchanges was a break of 40 points in Norwegian krone in which most of the week's advance was lost. French, Belgium and Italian rates tended to drift slightly lower, but pressure was not urgent and the volume of business was small. Dealing in other exchanges were light and fluctuations held within narrow limits. Sterling was steady, while Spanish rates improved somewhat."

BONDS AT HIGHEST LEVEL OF THE YEAR

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Trading in the bond market closed today with prices standing at the highest level of the year. The two-hour Saturday market session brought in only a moderate amount of new buying, but the orders were well distributed among representative railroad and industrial issues.

Semispeculative obligations continued to hold the center of the stage. In the railroad group, International Great Northern adjustment 6s, Frisco 4s "A," New York, Susquehanna & Western second 4½s, Chesapeake & Ohio convertible 4½s and Wheeling & Lake Erie consolidated 4s led the field in activity.

A revival of interest in oil company obligations carried Pan-American 6s, Sinclair 6s and Union Oil of California 6s fractionally higher, the last named reaching a new top price for the year. Bethlehem Steel refunding 5s, Central Steel 8s and other independent steel issues were firm. National Dairy Products 6s and Liggett & Myers 7s developed independent strength.

Strength of German corporation issues, several of which reached new high prices, featured trading in the foreign group. Mexican 5s of 1945 advanced 7 points to a new high record at 50 on a few sales.

Interest in new financing centered in the announcement that a $60,000,000 issue of Federal Land Bank 4¼ per cent bonds would be placed on the market next week at a price slightly above par.

Oklahoma Natural Gas Company Sale Announced

By the Associated Press.

OIL CITY, Pa., June 12.—Sale of the Oklahoma Natural Gas Co. to Pope, Richardson & Co., New York banking firm, effective July 1, was announced today by W. W. Splane, a director of the Oklahoma concern. The consideration was placed at $6,000,000 cash, $12,500,000 6 per cent first mortgage 20-year bonds of the Oklahoma Natural Gas Co. and the purchasers agreed in addition to pay off a floating indebtedness of $2,500,000.

Mr. Splane said agreement for the sale was reached by the directors Wednesday at a meeting in Pittsburg. At the same time he said a dividend of 50 cents a share was declared payable July 26 to stock of record June 30.

The Oklahoma Natural Gas Co. serves about 250,000 domestic consumers in Oklahoma City, Tulsa and other cities in Oklahoma. It operates a number of producing gas wells and obtains supplies also from other producing companies in that field.

After Mr. Splane's announcement it was said at the Pittsburg offices of the concern that a few details of the transaction remained to be worked out.

UNCHANGED TO HIGHER PRICES ON EXCHANGE

While Latter Predominate in Week's Transactions on Local Market, Losses for Period Shown in Some Securities.

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, June 12.—Outside of the new local traction issue and two of the cent stocks transactions in no individual shares on the local exchange the past week reached the 500-share mark. Aggregate sales were slightly in excess of the preceding week.

There were several instances of fair net changes on the not great turnover. The week's trade in International Shoe was only 180 shares, yet a gain of 7 points was shown. Pedigo-Weber was up 2 points on 40-share trade.

National Candy was higher at the closing session of the week. An incident of the week was the sale of 1145 shares of Granite Bimetallic Mining at 30 cents a share.

The local traction bonds were down fractionallly for the week.

COTTON PRICES DECLINE ON NEW YORK MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 12.—A further decline of 15 to 20 points in the cotton market today was followed by moderate rallies on covering by recent sellers. October contracts, which had sold off to 16.16 on the early break, rallied to 16.38 and closed at 16.24, compared with 16.34 at the close yesterday. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of two to 16 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of two to seven points in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables. Active months showed net gains of six to nine points after the call on covering, combined with a little trade buying of July. This early demand was soon supplied, however, and the forenoon market weakened under a renewal of the recent selling movement, which was encouraged by reports of continued good weather and correspondingly favorable crop progress in the South.

July broke from 17.74 to 17.47 and December from 16.41 to 16.16, net declines of 15 to 19 points, and new low records for the season on all positions.

These prices appeared to bring in more active covering or realizing by recent sellers, and rallies carried the market three or four points above yesterday's closing figures, but there was no change in the general character of the news, and a good part of the improvement was lost in later trading. Closing prices were within seven of 10 points of the lowest on new crop positions.

A private review of the crop situation said the acreage would not show a decrease of over 2 per cent, and, while the crop was about 10 days late, it might make up for lost time with another three or four weeks of good weather.

Private cables reprted liquidation and short selling had been asborbed by trade calling and covering at the decline in the Liverpool market.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 67,000, against 58,000 last year.

BRITISH FINANCIAL REVIEW OF WEEK

Special Wireless to New York Evening Post.

LONDON, June 12.—Arthur W. Kiddy, editor of Bankers' Magazine and financial editor of the London Morning Post, in financial review, says:

"Great Britain cannot indefinitely maintain a gold standard and high credits on a sound banking system only. The adverse trade balance and the unsatisfactory industrial output demand urgent attention.

"The general decline in central and state bank rates in Europe and India suggest easier monetary conditions generally, while it is thought here that money rates in the United States may also weaken. It is considered unlikely that any great decline in rates is likely here, however, we being affected alike by the gold standard and responsibilities and by the fact that a revival of trade might mean dearer money.

"The present boom in new capital issues is likely due to the lack of trade enterprise and is mostly colonial foreign borrowing. Some idea for the rush for new issue may be gathered, however, from the fact that in four recent cases, representing an aggregate nominal amount of £15,000,000 new capital subscriptions reached about £220,000,000. A Midland Bank circular, in summarizing and commenting upon estimates issued annually by the United States Department of Commerce regarding private and governmental payments says: 'The tenor of the statistics suggests that the United States have definitely taken on the role of a creditor, not only in the sense that receipts for interest far exceed payments on that account, but also in the sense that overseas lending is continuing and appears likely to continue on a large scale.'

"The outlook for French and Belgian francs is still dismal. Both are entangled with a political crisis.

"Commenting on the French proposals to restrict imports, the London Times' Paris correspondent says such restrictions cannot do much to help the situation, and adds: 'The Government, in trying to restrict imports, is attacking the effect instead of the cause.'

"If the bank of France does not issue any more notes, the restriction of imports will follow in due course from natural causes, for articles of consumption will attain their economic value and the French people will be compelled to buy less because of being unable to afford it."

Wall Street News and Comment

—SPECIAL DAILY—

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 12.—An impressive upward movement of stock prices under the leadership of standard railroad and industrial issues together with the establishment of a new high record for the year by the consolidated bond averages marked the past week.

Stocks made steady progress under the strong market sponsorship for the "Morgan twins"—U. S. Steel and General Motors. The former, selling at 137, was within a point and a half of the 1926 high record, while the premier motor stock crossed 138 to the highest level of the year. Buying of the oil, merchandising, copper and food stocks was on a broader scale.

New consolidation developments and favorable operating reports contributed to the strength of the railroad shares, the price average of this group advancing to within a fraction of the year's high mark. Many individual issues bettered their previous records.

Commodity prices drifted lower during the week. Favorable weather reports, promising a larger crop, started a heavy liquidation movement in cotton, which carried prices of the active months down 87 to 118 points to new low levels for the season. Trading in wheat futures was erratic, with the influence of a large supply of winter wheat counteracted by the poorest June 1 report on the spring wheat conditio nof 10 years.

The cable rate on sterling exchange again crossed par, but the continental currencies were heavy, with both French and Belgian francs falling below the 3-cent level.

Metal Review Of Week

NEW YORK, June 12.—More active railroad buying and a fairly good business in pipe and structural materials gave the steel market a show of improvement in volume of business during the past week, although sales in other directions were of a routine character. Sheets continued to display heaviness in price, but, on the whole, the market was steady and in commercial and financial circles a more favorable impression of conditions prevailed.

Lower prices for pig iron created a better demand during the week and sales were larger, especially in the West.

Copper steadier; the supplies available at concessions were pretty well cleaned up early and the market improved later, owing to the development of a better tone abroad and increased export inquiry. This brought domestic buyers into the market and a considerable business resulted, with electrolytic quoted firm at the 13⅞-cent level at the end of the week. It is reported that practically all important foreign interests, as well as domestic producers, have joined the proposed Copper Export Trading Co., and that if the plans of the organization are approved, it may begin to function next month.

Tin, after making a new low price for the movement, advanced sharply on buying by traders and in consequence of extremely light offerings.

Lead advanced $7 a ton, in response to better foreign cables, with a general rush to cover future requirements on the part of consumers. Producers are offering sparingly for shipment beyond July.

Zinc continued its upward movement, due to a broader buying interest, the strength in ore and firmness abroad.

Antimony was lower, owing to the decline in the Chinese market.

BEAVER
the superior plaster wall board,

You can tell the genuine Bestwall by its exclusive cream-colored surface.

For perfect walls and ceilings

BEAVER BESTWALL is a superior plaster wall board — an improved plaster wall board. It offers decided advantages—but it costs no more than other plaster wall boards.

Beaver Bestwall is made of purest gypsum rock from Beaver mines reduced to a fine plaster in Beaver mills, then formed into rock-like slabs 4 feet wide and 6 to 10 feet long, and of uniform thickness.

These clean slabs of Beaver Bestwall are faced, not with the usual paper, but with an improved, very tough, fibre facing, made by Beaver fibre experts. Combined with the hard plaster core, this tough fibre facing produces a remarkable strength. Actual "break" tests, as well as exhaustive laboratory experiments, prove it. This means that walls and ceilings made of genuine Beaver Bestwall offer a maximum resistance to the strains, knocks and jolts that walls receive in daily service.

Yet, because Beaver Bestwall is 100 per cent Beaver-made—from the gypsum rock in the mines to the exclusive fibre facing—it costs you no more than the ordinary paper faced plaster wall boards.

Added advantages that insure beautiful homes

Another quality of this improved Beaver fibre facing is its hard, smooth surface. It offers an ideal base for charming decorative effects.

Being calendered and sized, paints bond to it perfectly. They dry out evenly and with full richness of color. There is no dullness due to absorption. There is no unevenness due to poor surfacing.

Furthermore, there is a decided saving in decorative cost. Note by the "water glass" and the "paint" tests that Beaver Bestwall, due to the fibre facing, is unusually non-porous and non-absorbent. It does not soak up paint or calcimine or other finishes. A little goes a long way. You save in labor cost and in materials. Even wall paper goes on easier, more smoothly and stays tight. It can be removed later without damage to the rough, hard surface. Thus redecorating is possible whenever desired.

See your Beaver Products dealer

These are some of the reasons why Beaver Bestwall insures strong walls—serviceable walls—permanently beautiful walls, yet cost no more.

There is a representative building supply or lumber dealer selling genuine Bestwall in every locality. You can tell it by the cream-colored fibre surface and the famous Beaver trademark.

Insist upon this improved board. If you do not know the Beaver Bestwall dealer, write us.

A Simple Comparison

Its tough cover enables the golf ball or baseball to withstand terrific impacts of club and bat. The same thing applies to plaster wall board. The extra tough fibre facing—permanently bonded to the rock plaster center—gives Beaver Bestwall its remarkable strength.

The "Water Glass" and "Paint" Test

Place a sample of Beaver Bestwall over a glass of water. Invert the glass so sample is underneath the water. Also apply paint to a sample. Note how little is absorbed in each case. Very economical.

The "Fire" Test

Every panel of Beaver Bestwall—the superior plaster wall board—is approved by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, and manufactured under their laboratory supervision.

The "Surface" Test

Swiftly rub your finger tips over the fibre facing of Beaver Bestwall. Note that it does not scuff up and become woolly—a feature of the fibre facing which is sized and calendered.

The "Strength" Test

Lay a piece of Beaver Bestwall across two piles of bricks or between two chairs. Pile heavy weights on the center. Note the surprising weight it will hold without breaking.

Easy to Apply

Saws and nails like lumber. Quickly applied to studding over old walls or ceilings. Will not warp, buckle, crack, crumble or fall. Is fireproof, moisture-proof. Produces smooth, clean, permanent walls and ceilings.

Many Uses

Use it for durable, fireproof walls and ceilings in new dwellings and buildings of every kind.

For quick, permanent, economical repairs for remodeling at low cost—reclaiming wasted attic space; lining garage or summer cottages; adding needed rooms, or walls in the cellar; making partitions in stores, factories—and for 101 other uses where a smooth, clean, permanent wall that will not warp, crack, crumble or fall is required.

LEFTHANDER FOOLS RUTH FOUR TIMES

Sisler's Men Upset the Dope, Pounding Waite Hoyt for Twelfth Triumph in Last 17 Games.

By J. Roy Stockton

Baseball followers who journeyed to Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon to see the devastating Yankees do their stuff and possibly see the powerful men of Miller Huggins commit murder, manslaughter, mayhem or at least assault and battery on the poor and lowly Browns, were treated to a pleasant surprise.

Instead of taking a beating, the Browns rallied behind Ole Tom Zachary's cunning pitching and handed the haughty league leaders a trouncing, 6 to 5.

Ole Tom Zachary was weakening at the finish. The heavy bludgeons of the Yankees were beginning to find the range and the three runs that were blasted over the plate had the Browns worried. There were glances at the bull pen, where Win Ballou was taking his daily nine rounds of warming up. But Zachary came through. He came through nobly, for after the Yankees drew within a run of a tied score, he had to pitch to the mighty Babe Ruth, who had gone hitless in previous innings and who was swishing his bat ominously and looking with yearning eyes at that inviting right field pavilion. But Ole Tom pitched to Ruth and Ruth struck out.

Even then Zachary was not out of danger. Big Bob Meusel had to be retired and Bob Meusel is about as dangerous as Ruth and against lefthanded pitching, probably more dangerous. Bob connected solidly with one of Zachary's pitches, but the ball fortunately went to left center and fell just inside the concrete wall and big Baby Doll Jacobson was there with outstretched arms to catch it.

Power But No Smartness.

There's power in that Yankee machine. There's no doubt of that, but the team is a typical New York American League club. It pounds and pounds and pounds and there is no smartness to its play. In fact, had the team played sound baseball during the ninth inning, when the rally fell only one run short of tying the score, the extra run that

Berlenbach to Box Delaney for Title, June 28

Bout Will Be Held at Ebbett's Field, Challenger's Manager Says.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, June 12.—Paul Berlenbach, champion, and Jack Delaney have been matched to fight for the light heavyweight championship of the world at Brooklyn Ball Park on June 28, according to an announcement here by Pete Reilly, Delaney's manager, late today.

Humbert Fugazzy will promote the show. He beat Tex Rickard to the shot. Tex had Berlenbach signed, but Delaney signed with Fugazzy, and the latter won over the light heavyweight champion, according to Reilly.

Delaney is to fight at the Coliseum here against Bob Sage, Detroit's battling barrister, Wednesday night.

ROYAL ASCOT RACING PAGEANT THIS WEEK

LONDON, June 12.—Next week comes the annual Pageant of Royal Ascot—one of the most brilliant turf meetings in the world. Notables from all over the kingdom will gather to witness the competition between the thoroughbreds in a dozen of the season's important races.

From June 15 to 18 the following events at Ascot Heath will attract public attention: Coventry Stakes, for 2-year-old colts; The Quneen Mary Stakes, The Gold Vase, The Gold Cup, The Ascot Stakes, The Royal Hunt Cup and The New Stakes.

One of the possibilities is a meeting on even terms Tuesday in the St. James Palace Stake of Lord Derby's colt Colorado, winner of the season's first classic, the Two Thousand Guineas, and Lord Woolavington's Coronach, which won the Epsom Derby. Colorado defeated Coronach by five lengths in the Guineas and Coronach came back in the mud and rain at Epsom and won the derby by five lengths from Lance Gaye which was a short head in front of Colorado. The colts are also entered in the Hardwick Stakes to be run next Friday, the last day of the meeting.

CRUSADER IS WINNER IN BELMONT

Man o' War Colt, Eighth at Mile, Comes on to Score by Length—Espino, Left at Post, Finishes Second.

By G. F. T. Ryall
Of the New York World Sport Staff.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Sam Riddle led in Crusader, as game a son of Man o' War as they come, winner after the fifty-eighth running of the Belmont Stakes at Belmont Park this afternoon, after a race and a finish that will live long in the annals of the turf.

Not since Colin beat Fair Play, sire of Man O' War in this feature nearly 20 years ago has a crowd of such size thrilled as it did at Belmont Park this afternoon.

Coming from far back, he was next to last at the mile pole, Crusader closed with a rush to win by a length from Espino, which was left at the post, with Haste, which forced the pace and then made the running to the eighth pole, third. The race was run in a driving rain and the time for the mile and a half was 2:32 2-5.

Nine of the 10 colts named over night went to the post for the race, which was worth $48,750 to the winner.

Rock Man Out in Front.

Rock Man broke on top, with Haste second and Crusader third, but as the barrier went up, Espino wheeled and Rock Star also broke sideways.

Going to the first turn, Rock Man made his play with Haste close up, but as the field crowded up on them, Crusader, which was on the rail, began dropping back till when they hit the mile pole he was only a bit in front of Banton, which was last. However, he had plenty of racing room on the rail, and Johnson sent him up fast as they approached the back stretch turn.

By this time, Haste had raced Rock Man into submission and was swinging in front. Crusader closed fast as they straightened for home and went to the front at the sixteenth pole. Then Espino, which hitherto had been moving up unnoticed, dropped almost out of the clouds to challenge Crusader. It seemed as though he would run over him, but the effort of making up all that ground was too great. Display closed fast at the end to be fourth, but the others were well strung out.

Chance Shot Is Victor.

Never since racing returned to New York, 13 years ago, has the big stand at Belmont Park been as crowded.

Joseph E. Widener's Chance Shot, an own brother to Chance Play and a 15-to-1 shot, won the National Stallion Stakes, for 2-year-olds, at five furlongs, a race which has not been run since 1910. It is a question whether McAtee on Pantella tossed the race away or Sande's energetic ride won it. Pantella was breezing a quarter of a mile from home when McAtee eased up, as he did Witchmount in the first race. He knew he had put away Donnez Moi and apparently thought he had nothing to fear, but Sande on Chance Shot closed with a rush inside the eighth pole and before Pantella could be got going again the Fair Play colt had drawn level with her. Then Chance Shot went on to win by a length and a half. Donnez Moi was a well-beaten third. They fairly flew the five furlongs in comparison to the time for the distance in other races at the meeting, as the time was :58 3-5.

MRS. O. S. HILL WINS VALLEY GOLF TITLE

By the Associated Press.

OMAHA, Neb., June 12.—Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, Mo., won the Missouri Valley women's golf championship for the second consecutive year by defeating Mrs. Russel Fowles, North Platte, Neb., 3 and 2 in the finals of the annual Valley tournament, over the Omaha Field Cub course today.

Lewis Averages 112 Miles an Hour Gaining Victory

Takes Lead in Last Two Miles to Beat Batten in Altoona Race.

By the Associated Press.

ALTOONA, Pa., June 12.—Dave Lewis, veteran of the roaring motors, won the 250-mile automobile race by a scant margin over Norman Batten on the Altoona Speedway this afternoon. The fortunes of the gruelling contest swung time and again as the speed wagons tore around the mile and a quarter board oval, but Lewis and Batten, driving a nonstop battle, won the prized positions. Lewis' average for the 250 miles was close to 112 miles an hour. His time was two hours, 13 minutes, 24 seconds. Batten crossed the line a few seconds behind Lewis.

Seventeen drivers started, but only 10 finished.

Lewis decided to open his motor wide and at 225 miles had closed the gap to a fraction of a lap. He succeeded in chasing Batten for more than 20 miles. Both drivers, setting a pace of some 118 miles an hour, left the field far behind. At 248 miles Lewis shoved his motor to the limit and on the backstretch he passed the flying Batten. He held his scant lead for the two laps and was given the winner's flag. Four seconds after Lewis crossed the line Batten flashed home.

John Duff, a newcomer in the racing world, was third, two laps behind the winner. Fred Comer was fourth, Eddie Hearne fifth, Bennett Hill sixth, Frank Elliott seventh, Peter De Paolo eighth, Ralph Hepburn ninth and Ben Jones tenth.

Lewis took the first prize of $9000, Batten $5500 and Duff $3000.

The race was unmarred by accidents.

MISSOURI U. TO AWARD CUP TO CHAMPIONS OF INTRA-MURAL SPORTS

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Mo., June 12.—Purchase of a large trophy cup to be awarded annually to the university organization which wins the most points in intra-mural athletic activities has been authorized by the University of Missouri Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics, it has been announced.

The cup will be used as a perpetual trophy for seven years, and at the end of that time will become the permanent property of the organization which has piled up the largest point total during the period. It will cost $350, and, it is hoped, will do much to stimulate intramural athletic activity at the university.

Locke Wins Two Sprints; Martin Sets an Unofficial World Record for Half Mile

Northwestern Star Negotiates 880 Yards in 1:51 7-10, Beating Meredith's Old Figure—High Jump Mark Set in 1912 Falls—Other Standards Shattered.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 12.—Eight new records, including a world's intercollegiate mark in the running high jump and another that may be a word's record for the half-mile run were established today in the National Collegiate track and field championships, with the stars of America, representing sixty-five universities and colleges participating in the orgy of record breaking.

The outstanding performance was the running of Alva Martin, a stocky youth of Northwestern University, who won the 880-yard run in the amazing time of 1:51 7-10, clipping five-tenths of a second off the world's mark hung up by Ted Meredith of the University of Pennsylvania 10 years ago. This mark, however, may not stand after the track is officially remeasured. Due to the heavy rains, the condition of the track near the pole did not assure the runners of a firm footing, with the result that the pole was moved out two feet.

The officials were uncertain that Martin had traveled the full 880 yards and decided to have the track remeasured by the engineers tomorrow or Monday.

Haggard Sets Record.

Haggard of the University of Texas smashed the world's intercollegiate record for the running high jump with a leap of 6 feet 7¼ inches, eclipsing the former record of 6 feet 6⅛ inches, made by George Horine of Leland Stanford University 14 years ago.

Martin's performance shared honors with the headliner, Roland Locke, the University of Nebraska comet, who, although failing to smash world's records in the century and 220-yard dashes, captured both of these events in remarkable time, considering the heavy condition of the rain-soaked track. Locke was given a real battle by Hester of Michigan in the 100. He broke the tape a scant inch ahead of the Wolverine, winning in 9 9-10 seconds. The track was in no condition for record-breaking, due to the 12-hour downpour, and Locke was unable to achieve what he expected to be the outstanding performance of his career.

However, the fleet Nebraskan

INVADER TAKES FIRST AT START OF YACHT RACE FOR HONOLULU

By the Associated Press.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., June 12.—Shoving into first place a few minutes after the start here today of the 2225-mile yacht race to Honolulu, Don Lee's 136-foot schooner, Invader, was steadily lengthening her lead as the six contenders for the Sir Thomas Lipton cup dipped below the horizon. She was a half mile ahead of the yawl, Poinzettit, dark horse in the biennal yachting classic while John Barrymore's Mariner, which won the Tahiti race last year and had been picked as the favorite in the present race, was a close third.

The yowl Molliiou was tagging behind the Invader and the Poinzettia, choosing their course because it led close to the Palos Verdes Hills, where the wind was stronger and less surface current, was encountered.

The Sandiego entry, Teva, was splitting tacks with the Mariner and holding her own.

A dozen yachts followed the racing craft until shortly before darkness fell, when the entire fleet had passed Catalina Island and entered the stiff coastal northwest wind, which will carry them about 500 miles to sea until they pick up the northeast trades.

MRS. MALLORY LOSES IN KENT NET FINAL

By the Associated Press.

BECKENHAM, England, June 12.—The Spanish Senorita Lila Dalvarez today won the Kent County lawn tennis championship by defeating Mrs. Molla Mallory, the American player, 6—4, 6—2.

| Dr. Cark | 104 | 2 | 4 | $4^4$ | $4^{1\frac{1}{2}}$ | $4^h$ | 5 | 5 | Huntamer | 24.80 |

Capt. Hal raced restrained for three-quarters and came away thereafter with ease, to win as his rider pleased. Cudgeller showed good speed for three-quarters and held on gamely during stretch run, but was not good enough. King Nadi was well up for three-quarters but weakened suddenly, and had to be urged all during last furlong to outstay Hourmore. Latter was far back for half a mile and closed a good gap to finish gamely. Dr. Clark was never seriously prominent.

$2 certificates earned: Captain Hal, $5.90, $3.40, $2.30; Cudgeller, $3.40, $2.30; King Nadi, $2.40.

By Dent McSkimming.

Put to one of the severest tests that can be imposed by the handicappers, a weight assessment of 137 pounds, Captain Hal, the great 4-year-old son of Black Toney-Wavering, exceeded the expectations of his fondest admirers by running away from Cudgeller and King Nadi in winning the Hotel Statler handicap at Fairmount Park yesterday afternoon.

The crowd of 10,000, realizing that they were witnessing a very remarkable accomplishment, cheered the Captain as wildly as any partisan baseball throng ever cheered a home team. It appeared not to matter greatly that most of the money was on King Nadi, an even-money favorite in the betting. Captain Hal, by his remarkable performance, won the admiration of all watchers.

Not only did the black colt win in very impressive fashion nine lengths ahead of the great King Nadi, his conqueror in the recent Grainger Memorial Handicap, but he set a new track record for the mile and one-sixteenth. His time was 1 minute and 45 seconds, as compared with the old mark of 1:46 2-5.

Cudgeller Gives Fight.

Capt. Hal had to be a very exceptional animal to win. As it developed, King Nadi was not the real threat of the race, but H. G. Bedwell's Cudgeller. With only 105 pounds up, Cudgeller became really a menace, especially since Hockey Huepel was fortunate enough to get to the rail in the mad rush at the start. As they went on and on, around the first turn and down the long back stretch, it became first a matter of surprise and then of astonishment that Cudgeller was able to hold on at the terrific pace.

Finding that he could not hope for a collapse in the persistent rival, Earl Pool finally sent Capt. Hal to the front on the far turn. He couldn't get up in a few strides. It was a task that required a desperate, prolonged drive.

The Captain was equal to the call and as he pulled away Cudgeller did finally weaken. Capt. Hal then added steadily to his lead and won going away, as strong and eager as if he had no weight at all on his back. He was four lengths ahead at the finish.

There were only five starters, for Princess Pan and Gliding Fox were scratched just before post time.

A Day of Good Racing.

Some very interesting racing developed in the other races of the program and as the track dried out fast performances became the rule. Twice the track record was lowered.

David L. set a very interesting fashion in the opening event by handing the favorites, Fire Under and Bulletin, a beating and paying a comparativly long price, $16.80 for $2. Bulletin set the early pace but weakened to a whisper in the last 50 yards, while David L. and Fire Under showed excellent staying qualities.

The time for the mile was very good, considering that the track surface was still damp from the morning rain. David L. covered the distance in 1:40 3-5, close to track record time.

The struggle for the lead in the second race started when the barrier was sprung and was not concluded until Shasta Lad thrust a long nose in front of Candy Rock right at the finish line. When Candy Rock, with Froggatte up, succeeded in overtaking Gnome II, at the head of the stretch it appeared that he must surely win, but just within the shadow of the judges' stand, Candy Rock seemed to falter and then Groos got a surprising effort out of Shasta Lad.

Bagenbaggage 3-2 Favorite to Win Fairmount Derby

One week before the first running of the Fairmount Derby, June 19, local bookmakers, in official lists of future book prices, issued yesterday, quoted Bagenbaggage at 3 to 2 against and his running mate of the E. R. Bradley Stable, Boot to Boot, at 3 to 1.

The next low price is 4 to 1, at which figure Haste, Rhinock and Macaw were quoted. Rockman at 6 was next best, with Calaris, Bubbling Over, Canter, Pompey listed as doubtful starters, without odds.

Stenroos Wins In 10-Mile Run

Miles Collapses on Last Lap and Is Rushed to Hospital—De Mar Fourth.

By the Associated Press.

MELROSE, Mass., June 12.—Three of the world's best marathoners pitted their strength in a 10-mile race here today, all running from scratch. Albin Stenroos of Finland, Olympic marathon champion, finished first; Clarence H. Demar, four times winner of the Boston marathon and National A. A. U. champion, had to be content with fourth place, and John C. Miles of Sydney Mines, N. S., holder of the world's marathon record, collapsed in the final lap.

Stenroos' time was 54:47 25. Jimmy Henigen of Dorchester was second. His time was 55:00. Last lap started with a neck-and-neck race between Stenroos and Miles, and the latter gave out 25 yards behind the Finn and an eighth of a mile from the finish line. He was treated by a physician, but recovered normally and went to his hotel with his father.

Miles said that he had been bothered with a cold and thought he had conquered it by last Thursday's tryout.

Ten of the 27 entrants finished.

Lloyd Hahn of the Boston A. A. won the mile in the slow time of 4 minutes 27 seconds. Frank A. Burns, also of B. A. A., and New England intercollegiate quarter-mile champion, finished first in that event in 51 3-5 seconds.

JAPAN ELIMINATES MEXICO FROM DAVIS CUP NET COMPETITION

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, June 12.—Japan eliminated Mexico from play for the Davis Cup by taking the doubles match today in straight sets. The Japanese pair, Takeichi Harada and Sekio Tawara, triumphed over Claude M. Butlin and Manuel Llano, 6—0, 9—7, 6—4.

This gives Japan three straight victories, as Harada and Teizo Toba won their singles matches yesterday. Two more singles matches will be ployed tomorrow, but the outcome cannot change the result of the Japan-Mexico play.

SUZANNE AT BEST, EASILY CONQUERS MARY BROWNE AND RETAINS TITL

AMERICAN HAS NO ALIBI FOR DEFEAT

Admits She Was Outclassed and Congratulates Victor's Parents—Richards-Kinsey Advance to Finals

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, June 12.—Miss Mary K. Browne of California, captain of the American Wightman cup tennis team, met Mlle. Suzane Lenglen, generally regarded as the world's champion, here today in the final of the international hard courts title tournament. And like so many other great players before her, Miss Browne, three times United States champion, fell before the French girl. The score was 6—1, 6—0.

It was the first meeting in singles between the two great players, and, like Helen Wills, the American champion, Miss Browne proved unequal to the task of defeating the greatest woman tennis player of today. Miss Wills fell before the prowess of the French star in one of the winter tournaments in which both stars competed.

Mlle. Lenglen's conquest over the American Wightman cup team captain was decisive, to say the least. Miss Browne, in the two sets, was able to win but one game, the second in the first set. After that the French girl reeled off 11 successive games to add another championship to her long list.

Gallant in Defeat.

While Miss Browne was defeated, she played gallantly throughout. She scored numerous fine placements by going to the net, but this availed her nothing against the great Suzanne. The French girl was unbeatable. She used the same tactics in overwhelming Miss Browne that she has used against other stars. Suzanne kept running her opponent along the base line and seemed able to put the sphere, made heavy by rain, which fell throughout the first set, exactly where she wanted to.

During the entire match but three of the games went to deuce. One of these was the second in the first set, which went to Miss Browne. The fourth in the opening set was a long drawn out affair, Mlle. Lenglen finally winning.

After that the French girl ran through the games with monotonous regularity, until the sixth game of the final set. This resulted in the longest battle of the match, the French ace finally winning at 10-8. Miss Browne's long experience availed her little against the French woman's brilliance. During the second set, she was able to score only occasionally, and some of the points seemed to be lucky placements.

Point Scores of Match.

The point scores of the match:

First set—
Mlle. Lenglen .4 3 4 8 4 4 4—31—6
Miss Browne ..2 5 2 6 0 1 2—18—1

Second set—
Mlle. Lenglen .4 4 4 4 4 10—30—6
Miss Browne ..2 2 1 2 0 8—15—0

Miss Browne suffered her second defeat of the day, when paired with Miss Elizabeth Ryan, she was eliminated in the women's doubles by Mrs. L. A. Godfree and Miss Joan Collier of England, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2.

However, the day did not go by without success for the Americans. Vincent Richards and Howard Kinsey, the Americans went into the final in the men's doubles by defeating Rene LaCoste and Jean Borotra in a long-drawn-out match, 9-7, 9-11, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5.

Miss Browne was not downcast over her defeat in the singles. Prior to the match she had said that Suzanne would have to have an offday for her to win, so when it was all over she was smiling as brightly as anyone in the large gallery.

"She Was Just Too Good."

"It was not the wet court or the heavy ball that did it," commented the American star after the match. "She was just too good for me. That is the only explanation I can offer."

After she had congratulated Mlle. Lenglen, Miss Browne walked over to the box where Mlle. Lenglen's father and mother sat.

"Your daughter was marvelous," she told Mme. Lenglen. "You ought to be proud to be the mother of such a wonderful girl."

Miss Browne and Mlle. Lenglen chatted before the match and each wished the other well. Both commented upon the soggy condition of the court.

Among the thousands which packed the stands in spite of the rain were Douglas Fairbanks and his wife, Mary Pickford.

Smith Wins Over Lefty Grove in 11 Rounds, 1-0

Speaker Scores From Second on Infield Hit for Only Run of Game.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., June 12.—The Indians drew first blood in the opening game of the series with the Athletics today, 1 to 0, a sterling pitching duel between Sherry Smith and Lefty Grove, that lasted 11 innings.

It was the daring baserunning of Manager Speaker that made victory possible in the second extra chapter. Grove seemed to lose his stuff after two were down in the eleventh and walked Speaker and Myatt. With the count three and two, Jamieson's bounder went for a single, Jamieson just beating Bishop's throw, Speaker scoring.

COONEY STOPS CUBS WITH FIVE HITS AND BRAVES WIN, 5 TO 1

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, June 12.—Johnny Cooney, southpaw, held the Chicago Cubs to five hits today and Boston won the last game of the series, 5 to 1. It made 11 victories for the Braves in their last 14 games.

The Braves put the game on ice in the fourth by making four runs on Brown's triple, singles by High, J. Taylor, J. Smith and Bancroft and a bad throw by Right Fielder Scott. With two out in the sixth, Brown raced back to the left center field score board and made a wonderful bare hand catch of Stephenson's drive.

Fairmount Crowd Sees Carlaris Work

TRAINER FRED KRAFT had Carlaris on the track between the third and fourth race at Fairmount yesterday afternoon.

The colt was given a mile and a half canter before indulging in a three-furlong workout, which he accomplished in the most handy manner possible, covering the distance in 35 seconds. His fractions were: eighth, 11 3-5; quarter, 23 1-5.

Carlaris was given a big ovation by the crowd. The colt appeared in fine fettle but perspired freely after his canter.

Trainer Kraft was highly elated with the ease with which the colt went about his work.

for victory. Shasta Grafton finished third. The two Shasta horses were coupled in the betting as representatives of the Brown Shasta Stock Farm.

Another Winner for Jones.

Jones rode his second winner and M. Lowenstein won his second purse of the day when Cup Bearer outlasted Rundark in a slashing stretch drive to take the third race. Long Point also came through with late speed to finish second. George Groom, well played by the spectators, was not in it.

Chappie Sims saddled another winner when his Batsman of the Pueble Stable overtook Lathrop, the early pacemaker, at the head of the stretch and won the fourth going away. Most speed in the stretch was shown by Lee Adrin, which brought up from a lazy last to fourth place, just nosed out of the money. Lathrop was second and Great Luck third.

A new track record was established in the sixth when Harned Brothers' Reputation, hard pressed by the Audley Farm's Glister, ran away from the others to win handily. Beau Butler found the pace much too fast and could do no better than third, far back of Glister.

The seventh went to Mrs. G. L. Strang's Mad Boy, with L. Geving up. Pearl Madeline was second and Emancipation third. Bucko, a hot thing, finished fourth.

R. Jones, an apprentice, led the jockeys in the second week of the Fairmount meeting. He earned $324. Other leaders were G. Philpot, $306; E. Pool, $222; P. Groos, $156; W. Rausser, $147; D. Froggatte, $141, and T. Hexham, $123.

G. Ranna, one of the owners of the St. Louis Stable, has purchased the contract of W. Rausser from Phil Reuter.

As a result of disobedience when at the post in the second race, when he was astride Shasta Lad, Jockey P. Groos was suspended for five days by the stewards.

Bell and Allison Win.

FORT WORTH, Tex., June 12.—Berkeley Bell, Austin, Tex., and Wilmer Allison, Fort Worth, 17 and 18 respectively, won the Texas State double tennis title here this afternoon by a straight set victory over B. I. C. Norton, St. Louis, and Frost Carvel, San Antonio. The score was 6—1, 6—2, 6—3.

Zachary Pitches Browns To Victory Over Yankees

was needed might have been produced.

Paschal started the ninth by batting for McQuaid, who had relieved Hoyt. Paschal shot a double to center and scored when Koenig shot a single to left. That made the score: Browns 6, Yankees 3.

Combs Chooses to Bunt.

The Yanks were three runs behind. It made no difference whether Koenig scored, unless enough Yanks could follow him over the plate to tie the score or put New York ahead.

Perhaps it is unfair to say that Combs made a stupid move when he bunted. Perhaps he chose a bunt as the most likely play to catch the Browns off their guard, but that argument can be refuted easily. He missed his first attempt to bunt and, therefore, there was no element of surprise in the little tap that he laid down. Zachary pounced on it gladly, as the first out of the inning, and tossed out Combs.

Gehrig then brought the Yanks within a run of a tie by hitting into the right field pavilion for a home run, scoring behind Koenig. Had Combs succeeded in hitting safely he also would have crossed the plate on Gehrig's home run and the score would have been tied.

But because he bunted the Yanks were still one run short, and as previously told, Zachary and Jacobson took care of Ruth and Meusel.

Browns Show a Punch.

Sisler's men showed a satisfying punch against the New York pitchers. Waite Hoyt has been very successful this season, but the Browns pounded him savagely. In the first inning, Rice singled, only to die with Melillo when Oscar hit into a double play.

Sisler lined a triple between Ruth and Combs and scored with McManus on Marty's home run into the left field bleachers. Jacobson drew a pass and, Durst singled, but Dixon struck out to end the inning.

The Yanks scored their first run in the third when Combs singled with two down and scored on Gehrig's triple to center.

Sisler's men added one to their total in the fourth when Gerber lined a single to left.

Durst again figured in the Brownie rally in the sixth, starting the inning with a double to left, and scoring on Dixon's single to left.

An error helped the Browns to count twice in the seventh. Sisler walked to start the frame. McManus sacrificed and was safe when Lazzeri, taking Gehrig's throw, failed to touch first base. Jacobson shot a single to left, scoring Sisler and sending McManus to third and McManus scored on Dixon's sacrifice fly to Combs.

Zachary plainly was tired in the late innings, and did not have the control that marked his efforts in the early part of the game. He walked Ward, a pinch hitter, in the seventh. Koenig singled to center, sending Ward to third, and Ward scored on Combs' sacrifice fly to Durst.

Ruth Baffled by Zachary.

Babe Ruth's performance was a disappointment to those who worship at the shrine of the four-base wallop and count that day lost whose slowly sagging sun sees not a wallop soaring o'er the fence. Bambino the First failed to get the ball out of the infield. He walked the first time up, grounded once to Gerber, twice to Melillo, and on his last trip to the plate, when a run would have tied, the big fellow swung and missed a fast one outside for the third strike.

Ruth's failure stood out the more prominently because on four of his five trips to the plate there was a runner or two on the sacks. In the first, Gehrig was on first, with two down. In the third, Gehrig was on third with two down. In the fifth, Koenig was on second and Gehrig was on first with two down.

Zachary pitched a slow, careful game. Between each two pitches he stood on the mound and gazed at the catcher. Then he shifted his dogs and gazed again. Then he glanced leisurely at each base, took in the skies and buildings on the horizon and suddenly he would flip the ball over the plate.

The Cunning of the Veteran.

The Yankees became exasperated several times, and that's just what Zachary wanted. They could not wait for him to pitch. They became overeager and pressed and the result was that they were popping up or hitting easy grounders to the infield.

Of course, one game is not enough to warrant passing judgment on a ball club and even if the Yanks did take a spanking at the hands of the Browns, it must be remembered, that they are out in front, 18½ games ahead of Sisler's men. However, the team that Huggins led yesterday did not appear to be as sound a machine as the one that Connie Mack displayed.

Only in that ninth inning did they impress, and then by sheer power of brute force, which seemed to draw in the fences and make the distance from the plate to the palings a mere hop, step and jump.

The Yanks will have another shot at the Browns this afternoon. There will be no Tom Zachary out there to match his cunning against the Yankee power. Sisler will have to use one of his second or third raters. It may be Wingard, who two years ago could make the Yanks behave very cleverly. Certainly it should be a left-hander, and Joe Giard is nursing a sore arm. Perhaps Chester Falk will be given a chance. His style might be just as effective as was Zachary's.

Cardinals Will Face Real Test In Robin Series

Hornsby's Men Will Oppose First-Class Pitching—Final With Giants Postponed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Rogers Hornsby's Cardinals, stopped in their rush to the top in the National League pennant race here today, because of rain, will rest tomorrow and then start an important series with the Brooklyn Robins, Monday. With the final with the Giants postponed, the Cardinals lost ground, as the Pirates won and now are a game and a half ahead of the St. Louis sluggers.

The coming series between the Robins and Cardinals will be a crucial one. It will be the first time on the present eastern stay, on which the Cardinals have put together five straight victories, that the men of Hornsby will face really first class pitching. Among others, they will be called upon to face Dazzy Vance. And the Dazzler, if his last two outs mean anything, is back. He has struck out 24 men in the last 18 innings he has pitched. He whiffed 10 Giants and then came back by setting down 14 Red batters on strikes.

Cardinal Hurlers Ready.

But that "two-man pitching staff of the Cardinals, composed of Flint Rhem and Victor Keen, will be ready for the Brooklyn test. The off-day tomorrow, coupled with today's postponement, means just another day of rest for Hornsby's two hurling aces.

Three games will be played in the series and it is possible that the Robins will face Cardinal pitchers in the following order: Bill Sherdel, Flint Rhem and Keen. No matter which of the trio Vance opposes, there'll be a real battle.

The trip for the Cardinals to date has been successful, in spite of four successive reverses at Cincinnati at the start. After that the club moved to Chicago and won three out of five, after which two games were won from the Phillies and three in a row from the Giants. Thus Hornsby's men have an 8-6 record since leaving home. And its quite unusual for a St. Louis team to be above the .500 percentage for a road jaunt, even though it still has some time to run.

Wells Shuts Out Red Sox, 5 to 0

DETROIT, Mich., June 12.—Detroit today won the opening game from the Boston Red Sox here. The score was 5 to 0.

Ed Wells, who had won his last two previous starts by shutouts, made it three in a row by blanking the Sox with four scattered hits.

This gave Wells, an American League record for the season of having pitched 31 consecutive scoreless innings.

SENATORS WIN OVER WHITE HOSE, 7 TO 4; JOHNSON BATTED OUT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 12.—The Senators, champions of the American League for last year, beat the White Sox today, 7 to 4. Walter Johnson pitched so ineffectively that he was taken out in the sixth for a pinch hitter when the domestics had three runs and the visitors none.

Later Blankenship weakened and the visiting team was able to whack out enough hits to insure victory.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Locke and the Records.

ROLAND LOCKE yesterday did not entirely vindicate himself and the Valley timers who have been snapping his college performances in sprint races this spring, in record time.

At Chicago Locke, after failing to approach the record in the 100-yard dash, settled into his stride in the 220 and ran the distance in 20.9 seconds, which is within one-tenth second of Paddock's official record.

It is, however, four-tenths of a second slower than the time with which he was credited in one of his races this spring.

Four-tenths of a second, at the rate of nearly 31 feet a second, would mean that Locke's best effort would have exceeded his Chicago effort by a total of over 12 feet.

That 12-Foot Chasm.

THIS apparently slight gap is in reality a veritable chasm, as is shown by the fact that the greatest runners of the world have failed officially for 25 years to gain the 3.16 feet necessary to lower the world's hundred-yard record from 9 3-5 second to 9.5.

That Locke is a sprinter of the first water however, his performances prove beyond question.

It is to be regretted that he has decided not to further test his mettle at Philadelphia, July 5, when several great veterans of the cinder path will step out.

A Doubtful Benefit.

RAIN yesterday and an open date today give the Cardinals two days of rest.

That ought to help a pitching staff that has been under a strain. But off days, coming in the middle of an upward drive, have sometimes had the opposite effect. They throw the team off its stride and break its winning streak.

Fans are pulling for the team to return home in first place or within two or three games of it, as they now are. With the team's reputation as a winner at home the club should move into first place.

The Cardinals will have to be on the top by September and with a good margin. For the last month of the race will be fought away from home.

Overpaid.

YOUNG stribling today is on his way South with $26,000 of pugilistic loot. That is about the best term we can think of since the money was pried out of cash customers who howled vigorously over the goods they were given in return.

Had Stribling strived [illegible] ly, taken his medicine [illegible] and thrown himself into the [illegible] fort with willingness [illegible] gressiveness not a [illegible] would have been heard [illegible] 56,000 persons present.

There is a backfire to [illegible] loser's end. The mere $26,000 is scant recompense for the [illegible] popular esteem and relegation to the discard as a title factor.

His earning capacity has been seriously impaired not merely by defeat, but by the revelation that he does not appear to be made out of championship cloth.

Only a complete change in his fighting style can win him back the regard of the fans and the earning power that was his before he elected to play safe with Berlenbach.

Another for Crusader.

CRUSADER'S victory in the Belmont Stakes, the only true championship test for three-year-olds during the season, puts him on a par with Bubbling Over, Carlaris and Bagenbaggage for the year's honors.

As between these, only a four-cornered race at equal weights over one-and-one-half-miles could determine the best colt of the season. Such a race is unlikely but would make a wonderful feature next fall.

Bagenbaggage's Chance.

IN sheer time performance Carlaris would have slightly the best of it, his Coffroth Handicap race, put him ahead of Bubbling Over.

Next Saturday, however, will probably see Bagenbaggage go into the lead as a money winner over all his rivals for the season.

That will be when he wins—if he does—the Fairmount Derby worth over $25,000.

Bagenbaggage will then have won approximately $100,000 this year, with three Derby victories—the Louisiana, the Latonia and the Fairmount.

Carlaris, with his Tijuana Derby and Coffroth Handicap successes, will be second, and Crusader and Bubbling Over should be tied for third, each having won a $50,000 stake and lesser races.

An offer of $50,000 to the owners of the Big Four might bring them together this fall and reward the promoters with a profit, not to mention settling the championship dispute.

Eight Records Broken in National Collegiate Mee

came back and captured the 220-yard dash in 20 9-10 seconds, creating a new record for the meet and falling only a fifth of a second short of the world's record.

Southern California High.

Today's meet, called the college Olympics of America, was held on Soldiers' Field with no table of points or team championship involved. The meet was to decide only the individual championship—in the various events. If points had been counted, however, the University of Southern California team, winner of the Eastern intercollegiate would have won with a total of 27½ points, with the University of Michigan, Big Ten champions second with 25, and Nebraska, Missouri Valley conference champions, third with 13. On this basis other high scorers would have been Notre Dame with 10 2-3; Ohio State 10; Miami 9; Montana 9; Illinois 8 2-3.

The Trojans scored in nine of the fifteen events, winning only one. This was the victory of Captain Bud Houser in the discus throw, world's record holder in the event, who cracked the meet record with toss of 148 feet 11¾ inches.

The other records to fall were hung up by Phillips of Butler, who won the 440-yard run in :46 7-10 seconds; John Kuck of Kansas State Teachers College, who set a new mark of 50 feet ¾ inches in winning the shot put; Bud Hauser in the discus; Harrington in the pole vault and Spence in the 220 low hurdles.

FREY MEMORIAL WINS MEET AS AVALANCHE OF RECORDS FALLS

TAKES HONORS IN 4 DIVISIONS WITH 74 TOTAL

Tyler Place Second in Sunday School Meet—Belmont Gummels Lowers Marks in Dashes.

The track team representing Dr. Fry Memorial ran off with the Twelfth Annual Sunday School Track and Field Meet yesterday afternoon at Francis Field, Washington University, scoring 74 points, 28 more than Tyler Place, its nearest competitor. This gives the winners the second leg in succession on the William H. Reinhardt trophy, and one more victory will give Dr. Fry permanent possession of the cup.

In addition to winning the main trophy Dr. Fry trooped off with honors in the senior, junior, intermediate and junior division. Many high school stars and college runners was responsible for the breaking of twenty-two records, out of the thirty-one events.

Conspicuous among the record-breakers for Dr. Fry was Belmont Gummels, a Washington University trackster, who lowered the marks in the senior 100 and 200-yard dashes. Although the team from Webster Groves Presbyterian Church only consisted of four members, it placed third in the final score wth 22 points.

Total points score: Fr. M. E., 74; Tyler Place Presbyterian, 46; Webster Groves Presbyterian, 22; Bowman, 21; First Presbyterian, 14; West Presbyterian, 13; Third Baptist, 12; Kingshighway Presbyterian, 11; Southampton Presbyterian, 10; Zion M. ## 200 Leading Golf Amateurs In State Tourney Tuesday

Entry List Regarded as Best in History of Matches—Pairings Are Announced With Start of Play at 8 A. M.

Two hundred of the leading amateurs representing every important city in Missouri are entered in the Missouri Golf Association's twenty-second annual amateur championship golf tournament, qualifying rounds of which will be played Tuesday at Westwood Club. Louis Rosen and Byron Ackerman of Westwood will lead the field when they start play at 8 a. m. Other pairs will follow five minutes apart until 3:30 p. m.

This year's entry list is regarded as the best in the history of the association by Bonner Miller, secretary and treasurer. The Westwood Club, organized in 1907, joined the association the following year. Edward Held of Algonquin is present champion; James C. Ward of Kansas City is runner-up. He is the 1918-19 champion and is one of this year's entries.

The names of the foursome teams and two-men team playing for the Milburn and Hugh Braun trophies must be in writing and presented to Bonner Miller before starting. St. Louis players are requested to engage a few caddies at their clubs. Entries hav eclosed, but a few golfers who wish to take their chances by waiting to fill some one's place who fails to report may be started by the committee. Players must be prese when their names are called. Rules of the United States Golf Association will govern all play.

Heavyweights to Round Out Card At Outdoor Show

Tom Pivac and Frank Burman Matched as Added Attraction for Next Friday.

Another 10-round bout was added to the Business Men's A. C. boxing card for next Friday night's outdoor show at the St. Louis University Athletic Field when Matchmaker Frank Britton closed negotiations yesterday afternoon with Tom Pivac and Frank Burman, a pair of light heavyweight maulers who were consistent winners in local glove competition last winter.

Pivac and Burman will clash in a preliminary to the double windup featuring Lou Perfetti, flashy New York bantam, and Kayo Johnny Brown, the British champion, in one 10-round argument; Johnny "Peewee" Kaiser and Paul Steadman, local featherweight title candidates, in the other.

Britton also closed a fly-weight match to round out his program of four 10-round contests. Mike Sansone, former Western A. A. U. titleholder, will oppose Young Irish at Barberton, O.

Both Men Hard Hitters.

The match between Pivac and Burman promises to provide an interesting slugging duel, as both fighters have shown real punching prowess in the past. Pivac, a product of the South Broadway amateur stable, is credited with six knockout victories in a total of 10 amateur and professional bouts. Burman has scored one knockout and three point victories since he came to this city from Cleveland last January. Early in the season he chalked up four successive victories, two of them on knockouts, in bouts in Cleveland.

SONGER HURLS PIRATES TO 8 TO 2 VICTORY; WANER GETS HOMER

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, June 12.—Don Songer, youthful Pirate southpaw, pitched the world's champions to an easy 8-to-2 victory over the Phillies here today, giving them an even break in the four-game series.

Paul Waner hit a home run over the right-field fence in the second inning.

Hal Carlson was knocked out of the box in the fourth inning when the Pirates got to him for five runs and four hits.

PUBLIC PARKS TENNIS TEAMS TO MEET TODAY

Exciting matches are expected when the public park tennis clubs meet this afternoon in their weekly contests for the William Geller Interclub trophy. In addition to securing the Geller cup for one year the winning team in the public park circuit earns the right to meet the winner of the match between the Triple A club and the Ferris Tennis club teams in the private club divisions. The ultimate winner will obtain possession of the Joseph Werner trophy.

The schedule for this afternoon is as follows:

Carondelet at Oakland.
Kingshighway at Fairgrounds.
Tower Grove at O'Fallon.
Sublette at Sherman.
Forest vs bye.

Matches in the interclub tournament for women players will be held on the courts of the first mentioned clubs. The race in the men's tournament is as follows:

ALEC MERMOD

Anglers Have Little Luck.

NOW that the bass season is open, the anglers are drifting out to the various streams and lakes, but so far very few have met with success.

There always seems to be a "fly in the ointment" that mars the early June fishing. Generally it's too wet, but this year it's the backward spring!

The water in the streams has been so cold that the bass have not started with the spawning as early as usual.

A number of friends have said, "You have written at length about fishing for trout and small-mouth bass and had a lot to say about fly rods and such, but you haven't said anything about the use of the old fishing pole, such as father used. Now get busy and tell us about how to catch big-mouth bass with a fish pole and live bait."

As we have stated before, the big mouth may be found in more waters than his cousin, for the big mouth is not so particular as to the temperature or cleanliness of the water and is found in lakes and ponds where the small mouth would not like. Live bait anglers may be divided into three classes:

Come in Three Classes.

The still fisherman, who uses the old style cane pole, 10 to 12 feet long, equipped with a strong linen line, cork, sinker and hook, is still to be found in great numbers.

The advocates of this style will bait the hook with a bunch of worms, live minnow or crawfish tail, and is satisfied to get a comfortable seat in the shade and wait till the fish hooks himself, then he "strong arms" the fish out on the bank.

The next in line is the angler who has moved up a few steps; he using a bait rod, with the reel seat above the hand, otherwise it is similar to a fly rod, only quite a bit heavier. He equips the rod with silk line and a multiplying reel. Instead of making an overhand cast the bait is swung out over the water and dropped in a likely spot.

Let Current Carry Bait.

If you are fishing in a stream allow the current to carry your bait a short way; if you fish in still water keep the bait moving slowly—a bass will strike much more readily if he thinks his prey is trying to get away.

The short casting rod devotee won't be weaned away from his style, so casts the live minnow the same as he does the artificial lures, although he must use more care or he is apt to snap the minnow off the hook.

The longer rod is, to my notion the best for use with live bate—for one has better control with the longer rod, and does not have to reel in as fast as with the short rod.

Both the big mouth and small mouth are much more particular than the trout for the bass wants his minnow alive, so if you want to take bass see that your minnows are alive and lively. In the Northern lakes the bass seems to like the small frogs, but down here the frog is not so popular.

The large shiner minnow makes the best bass lure, crawfish tail next.

If you are fishing in a stream, choose a shady spot near a log or rock, for it's in the shadows that the bass chooses his lair.

It All Takes Some Work.

Most of our small lakes and ponds have a growth of lilly pads or moss and to fish with any success a boat is necessary for you want to drop your bait at the edge of the moss and of course when you have hooked your fish he must be worked away from the moss or you will lose him.

Always see that you don't cast a shadow, for a fish will notice the shadow much more readily than he will the man.

The St. Louis Fly and Bait Casting Club held its annual meeting on June 3 and elected officers for the coming year. Joe Badaracco was elected president; Lou Burnham, field captain.

Fifteen applications were approved and plans made for the coming season.

If you want to learn to cast properly with either fly rod or casting rod, join this club.

Joseph Schuster and party spent two days on Charette Creek, near Wright City, Mo., and caught a good mess of goggle eye, but as they found the bass still on the spawning beds, no attempt was made to catch them.

Find Plenty of Snakes.

Another party, consisting of J. M. Shortal, H. M. Hammer, R. L. Newton and T. A. McConnell, made a trip to Waynesville last week, but took only five bass and some channel cat, but what should interest all of us, this party killed one cotton mouth, 24 water moccasins and two black snakes. Just think of how many fish these sportsmen have saved by killing these snakes! Let's all get busy and kill a few snakes.

Local Golfers Will Try for Open Tomorrow

Leading Golfers Entered in Sectional Qualifying Round for National Tourney.

Twelve amateur and professionals, declared eligible for the National open golf tournament, will tee off tomorrow morning at Algonquin Country Club in the sectional qualifying round by which two will be selected to represent the vicinity at Scioto Country Club, Columbus, O.

Due to the large number of entries for the open tournament, 657 the authorities have resorted to the sectional qualifying system in order to reduce the field to 153.

At Algonquin tomorrow 36 holes will be played, the two low medal scores to qualify.

The order of teeing off is as follows:

9 a. m. and 1 p. m.—Art Longworth, St. Louis; Elliott Whitbread, St. Louis and E. J. Rogers, Oklahoma City.

9:05 a. m. and 1:05 p. m.—David C. Carter, Nevada, Mo.; James Manion, St. Louis, and S. B. Anderson, Oklahoma City.

9:10 a. m. and 1:10 p. m.—Richard Bockenkamp, St. Louis; Clarence Wolf, St. Louis and Ted Longworth, Joplin.

9:15 a. m. and 1:15 p. m.—Craig Wood, Louisville, Ky.; Eddie Held, St. Louis, and John Manion, St. Louis.

Tournaments will be held in 16 other cities throughout the country.

Bookies Laying 3 to 1 Against Held and Manion

Downtown "Big Store" Announces Odds Against Missouri State Golf Entrants.

That the bookmaking fraternity is taking an interest in golf developed yesterday when a prominent downtown handbookman, who runs what is locally known as the "big store," and who annually conducts a nationally patronized future book on the Kentucky Derby, gave out prices on the Missouri State golf tournament, which begins here Tuesday at Westwood Country Club.

The odds announced made Eddie Held and Jimmy Manion, 3 to 1 favorites.

The odds as given out yesterday were:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Eddie Held | 3 | Lawson Watts | 8 |
| Jim Manion | 3 | Dick Bockenkamp | 8 |
| Clarence Wolf | 4 | Dave Carter (Nevada) | 12 |
| Jim Walsh (K. C.) | 4 | Elliot Whitbread | 10 |
| Rowland Ford (K. C.) | 6 | | |

Roger Lord, Chris Kenney, Don Lambert, Frank Watts, Stuart Stickney, Bill Medart, Charlie Calvin, Hayden Newton (K. C.), Joe Papin (K. C.), Ed Fowls (Joplin), J. B. Porter (Joplin), C. Strong (Springfield), R. L. Savage (K. C.) were all quoted at 15 to 1. All other starters, 25 to 1.

Books on British Events.

The interest of the local turf speculator in golf is not limited to local tournaments. He also announced the following odds against the important players in the British open tournament which begins in England June 21:

10—J. Barnes
10—G. Duncan
10—A. G. Havers
10—W. Hagen
10—A. Mitchell
10—MacDonald-Smith
15—E. R. Whitcombe
15—Jack Hutchinson

Baden Sponsors Boat Race Today

Western, Central, St. Louis and Two North End Crews to Be Competitors

The Baden Rowing Club, whose clubhouse at 9400 Riverview Drive is the farthest north, will sponsor a race on the river this afternoon which will be a hotly contested affair and all six clubs will be well represented. The races will start up the river and finish down stream at the club house at 3 o'clock. The barge race will start with a crew from the Western, Central St. Louis and Baden Rowing Clubs and two crews from the North Ends. Distance 1¼-mile.

At 4 o'clock the four oared race at one and one-half miles will start with two crews from the Century's and one each from the Baden, Central North End, St. Louis and Western. In this event the Baden and North Enders are expected to be a feature.

New York Wins Church Cup.

PHILADELPHIA, June 12.—New York defeated Philadelphia today in the junior intercity tennis matches for the Church Cup, 5 to 4. The cup was won last year by Philadelphia. New York won three of the six singles matches and two of the three doubles.

Golf Course Tees In U. S.; Holes Up To 19th in Canada

NORTH PORTAL, Sask., June 12.

WORK is under way here on what is regarded as the most unusual golf course on the North American continent.

The Gateway Cities Golf Club, it is believed, has the distinction of being the only club that tees off from one country and plays the regulation course in another country. The first tee is in the land of the Stars and Stripes, but the holes are in the land of the Union Jack.

And they play the nineteenth hole in Saskatchewan.

Hagen and Jones Defeat British Stars, 4 and 2

American "Pro" Champion Gets Four Birdies on First Nine Holes.

By Walter Hagen
American Professional Golf Champion
(Copyright, 1926.)

LONDON, June 14.—In an international best ball match, played over the Moor Park course today Bobby Jones and myself, representing America, defeated Cyril and Abe Mitchell, an amateur-professional combination representing Great Britain. Our margin of victory was four and two, which was gained on the first nine holes.

My own game was more satisfactory today than it has been at any time since I stepped off the ship. While I was hitting my shots in just the way every golfer likes to hit them, I was lucky enough to corral four birdie threes on the outward journey. A five footer dropped neatly into the cup for me on the first green and this gave me encouragement. On the fourth hole, I laid my second shot dead. The fifth came our way when I dropped a twenty-footer and the eighth was added to our string when I put a long iron second shot three feet from the cup.

This scoring was too fast for the opposition, who found themselves five down at this point. Abe won the ninth with two pretty shots, while the best that Bobby and I could do was a five.

Jones Plays Fine Golf.

Coming home we held our lead intact, excepting at one hole where neither Bob nor myself could beat a five. This was at the fourteenth. We sewed up the match at the sixteenth when the opposition failed to better a five.

The cards:

Jones-Hagen-Out—343, 334, 435—32.
In 343, 454—4.
Tolley-Mitchell-Out 443, 445, 445, 443—35.
In 343, 444—5.

Jones played a steady game all the way and I think we would have beaten them anyway had the breaks not favored me as they did. Jones was driving his usual long ball which is going to help him over here quite a bit as it will make the second shots easier.

| Capt. Geo. Foster | 112 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 7 | 7 | 7 | Rauser | 12.00 |

*Brown Shasta Stock Farm entry.

Shasta Lad began well but raced wide at stretch turn, held on gamely in final drive and outstayed Candy Rock. Latter began slowly and was ridden wide and suffered additional loss of ground when Shasta Lad carried him wide at stretch turn. Tired in final strides. Shasta Grafton showed good speed and held on fairly well during stretch racing. Frank Andrews raced well up all the way. Gnome II tired. Scholarship was done after half a mile.

$2 certificates earned: Shasta Lad, $7.30, $3.30, $3.50; Candy Rock, $4.30, $3.40; Shasta Grafton, $3.50.

THIRD RACE—$1000 added, 3-year-olds and up, claiming, six furlongs. Start good, won easily, place driving. Went to the post at 2:57; off at 2.58. Winner, M. Loewenstein's ch. g., 4, by The Finn-Maetaft. Trainer M. Loewenstein. Value to winners: $700, $221, $114. Time, :23 2-5, :47 3-5, 1:13 3-5.

Piccadilly was rushed to the front at once and stood the drive through the stretch. Porridge was always well up, lost some ground into stretch and finished fast. Ortleib forced the pace greater part of the trip, but tired slightly near end. Florida Gold was shut off right after the break and completely eliminated. John William II finished courageously.

$2 mutuels paid: Piccadilly $6, $3.40, $2.80; Porridge, $3.20, $2.80; Ortleib $3.40.

THIRD RACE—$1500, claiming, 3-year-olds and up, six furlongs: Start good, won easily, place driving. Went to post at 3:06. Off at 3:08. Winner J. C. Schanks' br. h. 6, Granite-Devonshire Dolly. Trainer L. H. Sewell. Value to winners, $1150, $225, $125. Time :23 4-5, :48, 1:14 2-5.

Lord Granite, a superior mudder, went into a safe lead at once and was under restraint at the end. The Runt was closest to the pace all the way. Disciple was never far out of it and finished fast. Scamp lost some ground on last two turns. Panic found his impost too much. Quince Garden can do better than this race shows.

2.00 mutuels paid: Lord Granite, $4.40, $3.00, $2.40. The Runt, $4.40, $3.00. Disciple, $2.80.

FOURTH RACE—$5000 added, The Clipsetta Stakes, for 2-year-old fillies, five and one-haf furlongs—Start good, won driving, place same. Went to post at 3:38; off at 3:41. Winner, E. J. Krick was badly outrun in early stages, but saved ground in stretch, which won for her. Thirteen Sixty raced head and head with Ethel Dear most of journey, but her rider attempted to carry latter out in stretch and lost enough ground to cost her the race. Ethel Dear raced gamely to well into stretch, when Thirteen Sixty bothered her. Sincerely was racing well at finish. Mary Jane had no mishaps.

$2 mutuels paid: Krick, $5, $2.80, $2.20; Thirteen Sixty, $3.40, $2.60; Ethel Dear, $3.60.

Helen's Babe was outrun in early stages, lost ground into stretch, but responded gamely when called on in final three-sixteenth and wore down Arcady. Arcady showed fine effort in pacemaking to last sixteenth when weight told. Prince of Wales saved ground on last turn but faltered when ridden hard in stretch. Tangara closed a good gap. Dark Phantom tired.

$2 mutuels paid: Helen's Babe $55.40, $21.60, $7.20; Arcady $10.60, $4.80; Prince of Wales, $2.80.

TOWER CAMP IS DEFEATED AND HEITMANNS TIE FOR COMMERCIAL LEAD

LEADERS ARE BEATEN BY CENTURY TEAM

More-Jones Wins First Victory in Manufacturers' League, Although Allowed Only 2 Hits by Conley of Frisco.

Tower Camp's long reign in the Commercial League tottered yesterday in the feature of the Municipal Baseball Association program when the leaders were defeated by the Centurys, 11 to 3, permitting the Heitmanns, by beating National City, to go into a tie for first place with Tower Camp.

In trimming the National City nine, 17 to 5, the Heitmanns battered two pitchers for 15 hits and otherwise showed strength that rates them as pennant contenders.

The Fendlers lost a freak game to Gold Dust when one of their players was injured in the eighth, and they were forced to forfeit because of lack of reserves. They were leading, 10 to 7, at the time.

More-Jones captured its first victory of the season in the Manufacturers' League and turned the trick on two hits, beating Frisco, 2 to 0. Four errors by shortstop Ahrens of Frisco, who had a decidedly off day, helped bring around the runs.

Conley's two-hit game went for naught, his pitching record suffering for the misdeeds of his mates.

Two forfeits were recorded in the Craftsmen's League where Beacon forfeited to Polar Star and Cache to Good Hope.

Donnellys in Feature.

A contest that will break a double tie for first place is on in the Mercantile League this afternoon when the Donnellys and Pants nine hook up at Fairground No. 2. Each has won five and lost one thus far.

Double-headers are again scheduled for the Empire League teams in Forest Park. International has a chance to take the lead away from the Laclede team in its double-header with Bly Moss.

HORNSBY'S ANSWERS

(1) Can a batter take one strike right handed and finish left handed? (2) Batter has had two swings right handed and when the pitcher delivers the next pitch, crosses the plate and swings the other way, hitting safely. May he do this?—C. L. C.

(1) Yes, provided he does not change after the pitcher has assumed his pitching position.

(2) Batter is out. He is not allowed to change once the pitcher takes his position on the plate.

Runner on third base. He solves the catcher's signal system and lets the batter know when to swing. Is this permissible?—M. L.

Yes, it is a common practice and there is no rule against it.

Is it right for an umpire to reverse his decision?—P. B. N.

Under certain conditions an umpire is perfectly justified in reversing his decision.

Runner, trying to get back to second base, interferes with the throw. Is he out?—S. Schooling, Moberly, Mo.

If he intentionally blocks the thrown ball, he is out.

Batter draws a walk and catcher misses the fourth ball. Can the runner advance to second base on the play?—O. S. H.

Yes, at the risk of being put out. The ball is still in play.

Bases full. Runner on first runs down to second but sees his mistake and runs back toward first. First baseman touches base with ball and claims an out. Is he right?—J. D.

Not unless tagged with the ball. There is no force in this case.

Schools Will Contest Again For Trophy

Lyons' Victory Rendered Void by Board's Upholding of Laclede's Protest.

Lyon and Laclede schools will again meet at St. Louis University Field tomorrow afternoon to settle the Public School League race for the Post-Dispatch trophy. The game will start at 4 o'clock.

Lyon defeated Laclede, Friday, 9 to 7, but a committee at the Board of Education yesterday ruled that the game be replayed on the protest of the Laclede authorities.

The protest was based on a decision of Umpire Blankenmeister in calling a Laclede batter out in the last inning. Laclede was two runs behind and one man was out. There were two strikes on teh batter and the next delivery resulted in a foul tip which lodged between th catchers' body and his protector.

The batter was called out, but the committee held that the batter was not out and adduced rules and several experts to prove it.

The team which wins tomorrow will receive the Post-Dispatch trophy to keep for a year and the individual players of the winning team will be awarded gold medals. The umpires will be McShane and Von Dach.

FAMOUS RING BATTLES

14 Bing Bang Rounds in Rear of Saloon Ends in Victory for Griffo by a Foul

Referee Declared Sweeney Committed Offense — Doctor Was Unable to Find Any Sign of Blow.

This is the eleventh article by T. A. "Tad" Dorgan, fight authority and cartoonist, in his series of stories about notable ring encounters. It describes Young Griffo's battle with Patsey Sweeney in a New York "hide away," March -, 1905.

Precautions Taken to Guard Bout From Police — In Eighth Both Fighters Fell Over Hot Stove.

NO. XI.

YOUNG GRIFFO won on a foul in the fourteenth round from Patsey Sweeney, March 6, 1905, in a private fight held in a "hide-away" in a busy section of Harlem.

It was a ripping fight from start to finish, both taking an awful gruelling, and when the unexpected happened every sport in the little room was breaking his neck looking for a knockout.

It was 3 o'clock in the afternoon when the boys shook hands and started the ball rolling, but it was an hour's wait before things were shaped and ready. As early as 2 o'clock the little hall, or rather room, was pretty well filled with sports and business men. Some thought the delay might cause the cops to get jerry, but for a change not one had a peak.

There was a lookout on the door to the main street where the fight was held, and he only arese once when a cop was beating it down the line. The sports came in one by one, and as there were only about 100 present, the crowd did not gather in bunches nor act suspiciously. We entered through the saloon door, passed the billiard tables in the back room and then walked down a little hall to the arena.

14 Rounds of Slugging.

Such an arena as it was, too. In one corner was a stove going it full blast. In another was a disabled pool table with chairs, boxes and other refuse piled up.

The managers of the fighters were in another corner putting up their side bet with the stakeholder, and the fighters were behind them putting on their tights and spreading rosin on the floor.

When all was ready it was discovered that the manager had forgotten the gloves, so one of the seconds was sent out with a bucket to get them. He returned after about 10 minutes with a paper covering the gloves in the bucket, and then all the boys took their places, drew a long breath and quieted down as the referee yelled: "Let her go!"

Griffo had every advantage over the little Irish fighter, being taller, heavier and having a longer reach.

They started to fight from the moment time was called, and it was one long, long clinch until time was called again. Sweeney stayed in close, shooting his right over on Griffo's kidneys with great effect, in return stopping left jolts to the face without wincing.

From the first to the fourteenth this style of battle prevailed, and it was a rough, hard and fast go. Griffo, who was the cleverer of the pair, stuck in with Patsey in this manner for seven rounds, until the lump over his kidneys began to bother him. He was weakening under the pummeling, and thought it better to pull away and fight at long range after that. He did, and it looked as if McSweeney of Manchester might flop at any moment. Griffo would get in close, slug awhile and then pull away suddenly, letting out with left and right flash to his opponent's jaw. Sweeney bounced around like a rubber ball, but came in just as gamely as ever.

In the eighth round Griffo staggered Sweeney, cutting his ear and almost dropping him to the floor. It was a bad time for Patsey, but he managed to stick it out and come through strong at the finish. Griffo butted Patsey in the clinches, and Sweeney complained to the referee, but the latter cautioned Griffo and let it go.

Referee Gives Fight to Griffo.

From the eighth to the eleventh Griffo staggered Patsey quite regularly, keeping away from the heavy body punching as well as he could and making it a long range fight. Sweeney could not get in on the clever Griffo, but followed him around, gamely trying to fight in close. At the finish of this round there was a hot mixup and both fell over on the hot stove, knocking it over and spreading the coals over the floor. There was a rush to put the fire out, and then the gong rang.

Both were getting weak and tired from the pace, and the fight was one of those bing-bang affairs with both grunting and puffing with every blow. Sweeney seemed very weary on his pins, but, standing like a tiger, clammed Griffo in the sore kidneys, making him wince with every punch.

The fight went along like this until the fourteenth round, when suddenly Griffo dropped to the floor, claiming a foul. His seconds jumped up, too, and yelled like mad. On the other hand, there were many who claimed that Sweeney's blow barely glanced off Griffo, but did not bother him at all.

After yelling for fully five minutes the crowd quieted down and then the referee declared that Griffo had won. Sweeney's backers demanded that a doctor examine Griffo, and after a wait of half an hour a medico arrived. He examined Griffo and declared that there were no signs of a foul blow having been delivered. He said, however, that one might have been struck, but at that time no signs were in evidence.

Junior Golf Set To Open June 29

No Blanks Being Mailed; Entries Must Be Filed With Chairman.

Tuesday, June 29, has been named for the qualifying round of the St. Louis District junior golf tournament, Clarence L. Wolff, committee chairman, has announced. The event is open to players between the ages of 14 and 21 years, barring caddies, and will be held at Sunset Hill Country Club.

No entry blanks are being mailed out and application must be made to Wolff at 1619 Boatmen's Bank Building. Pairings for the qualifying round will be announced June 25. The Sunset links will be open to practice for contestants from June 22 up to the day the event starts.

CHICAGO GIANTS TAKE SERIES OPENER FROM ST. LOUIS STARS, 16—5

A record-breaking Saturday crowd saw the Chicago Giants in the Negro National Baseball League decisively defeat the St. Louis Stars in yesterday's game at the Stars' Park, by a score of 16 to 5.

The visitors clinched the game in the seventh inning when Marlarcher made a circuit drive with the bases filled. Hines hit a homer in the first ining with one man on base. The locals collected three runs when Poindexter allowed them three hits, including two home runs made by Bell and Creacy.

Thompson, left fielder for Chicago, had a perfect day at bat, collecting five hits in five trips to the plate. Patton was hit hard in the ninth inning, when the Giants scored seven runs. The second game of the series will be played this afternoon.

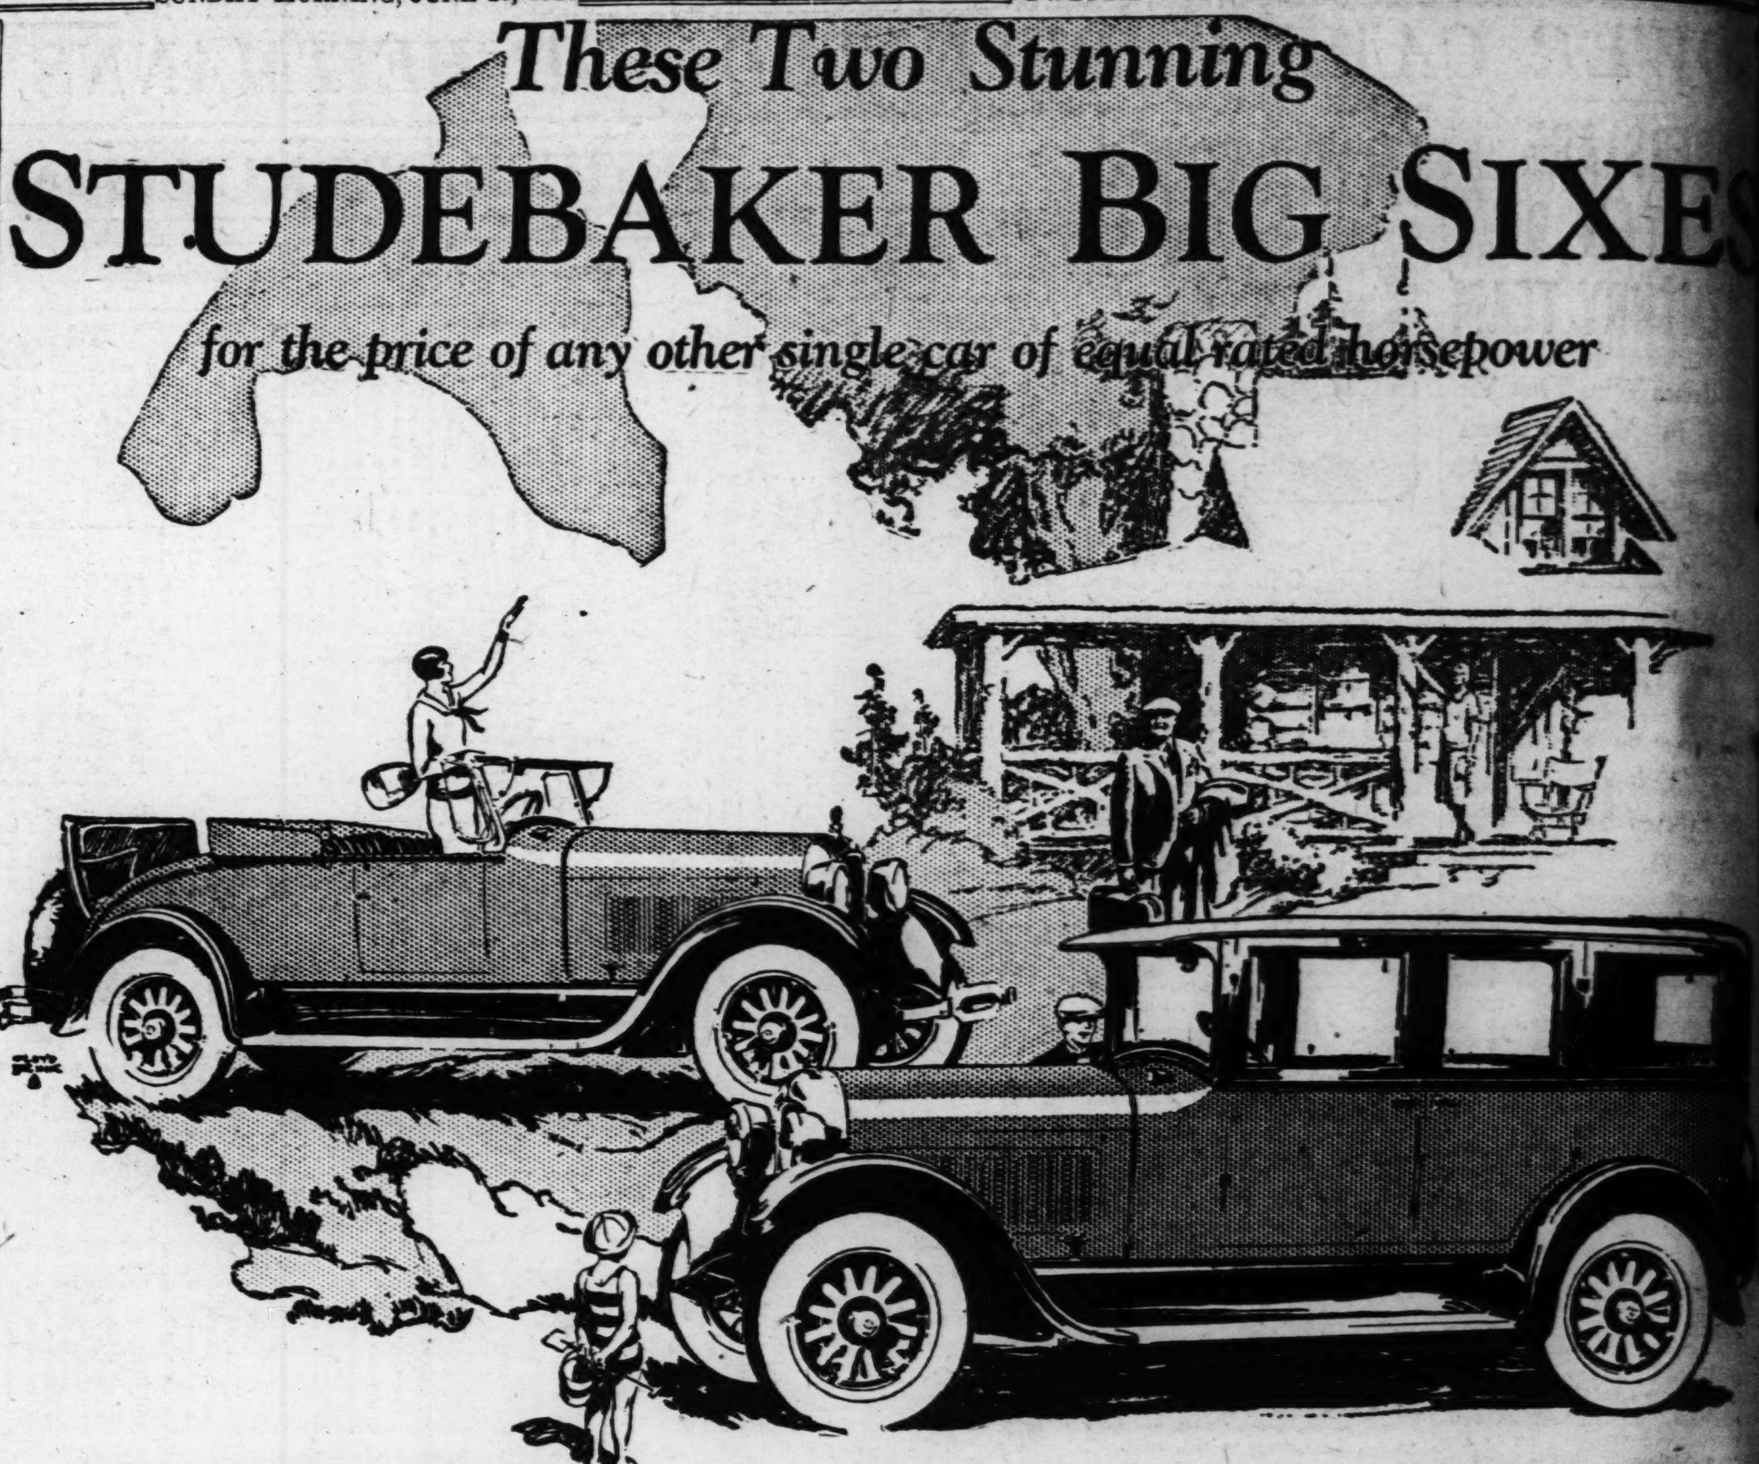
These Two Stunning
STUDEBAKER BIG SIXES
for the price of any other single car of equal rated horsepower



As a result of Studebaker's One-Profit facilities the growing two-car need can now be met at a one-car price

BECAUSE of the enormous savings made possible by One-Profit manufacture — you can now buy two Studebaker Big Sixes for the price of any other car of equal rated horsepower — and with no sacrifice of the qualities that have always been associated with high price.

For only seven American cars equal the Big Six in rated horsepower, and they sell at two to four times its price.

Thus — at a price that would be impossible but for Studebaker's hundred million dollar facilities you can now enjoy two fine cars, each with these superiorities:

- —the luxury of Big Six riding and driving ease.
- —the revelation of Big Six power.
- —the inherent fine quality that no car surpasses.
- —the stamina that makes 100,000-mile records possible.

Power—at a One-Profit price

Studebaker Big Six has become the world's fastest-selling high-powered car because volume production on a One-Profit basis has enabled Studebaker to build quality into the Big Six—to a degree hitherto unapproached by any car selling at less than double its price.

But for Studebaker's famous One-Profit facilities—the price of the Big Six would be as high as its quality.

Studebaker's unique facilities

Few motor car "manufacturers" have foundries, forges, etc., to make their own engines—yet one-fifth of an automobile's cost is in the engine. Even fewer build their own bodies—yet one-third of the car's cost is in the body.

The Big Six Sport-Roadster

$1645 f. o. b. factory — To equal it in rated horsepower, you must pay $2305 to $8355 more Enthusiastic power—that laughs at loads and loves its work—sets the Big Six Roadster apart from all other cars in its price class. Just to look at it makes you want to get back of the wheel and go somewhere. Swung low to the road and done in two tones of green-gray. Room for three in the wide front seat—two in the rumble seat beneath the rear deck.

Equipment on the Roadster includes windshield wings, boot for collapsible top, front bumper and rear bumperettes, motometer, spare tire, tube and cover. Upholstery is genuine leather—the seat back adjustable.

The Big Six Sedan

$1895 f. o. b. factory — To equal it in rated horsepower, you must pay $2855 to $8155 more

It is a car built to hold five passengers in armchair comfort. Body is unusually roomy. Seats are luxuriously deep and restful — richly upholstered in genuine mohair, indicative of the fine quality body construction you cannot see. Body pillars are of northern white ash—cross-members of hard maple.

Ride in it—feel the surge of power from the smooth, silent engine and you will know why the Big Six outsells all other cars of equal or greater rated horsepower.

All Big Sixes are equipped with snubbers, gasoline gauge on the dash, air cleaner, gas and oil filters, automatic windshield cleaner, rear-view mirror, cowl ventilator, stop light and coincidental lock to ignition and steering gear, controlled by the same key that locks door (closed models) and spare-tire carrier. Spark is automatically controlled by the speed of the engine. The spark lever is thus made obsolete and is replaced on the steering wheel by the safety lighting switch operating the two-beam headlights.

Studebaker builds all its own bodies, all engines, all clutches, gear sets, springs, differentials, steering gears, brakes, axles, gray-iron castings and drop forgings. Only Studebaker in the fine-car field enjoys such complete manufacturing facilities.

These facilities enable Studebaker to manufacture quality cars on a One-Profit basis—eliminating outside profits. The savings thus effected are passed on to Studebaker owners in the form of higher quality and lower price.

Studebaker facilities result, too, in cars designed, engineered and built as units. The hundreds of parts in a Studebaker function as a smooth-working unit, resulting in scores of thousands of miles of excess transportation, greater riding comfort and higher resale value.

Always kept up-to-date

Direct manufacturing control enables Studebaker to keep cars constantly up-to-date. We add improvements regardless of the calendar—we do not save them up for spectacular annual announcements which make cars artificially obsolete. For a complete illustrated story of One-Profit manufacture and for a beautiful colored catalog of Big Six Studebakers, drop a postal or a letter to The Studebaker Corporation of America, South Bend, Ind. # East's Selfish Grip in Congress Irks Westerners

Corn Belt Republicans Tired of Policy of All "Take" and No Give—Emboldened by Iowa Returns, They Are Ripe for Revolt Against Dominance of Speaker Longworth.

By a Staff Correspondent of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 12.

PHILOSOPHERS, political as well as social, have contended down the ages that every institution carries within itself the seeds of its own destruction. The truth of this scholastic theorizing is illustrated in the threatened break-up of the most efficient political machine the House of Representatives has seen since "Uncle Joe" Cannon's steam roller ponderously smoothed the way for administration measures. Cannonism went the way of tyranny, but after the proper philosophical cycle, it was succeeded by a more complicated, but equally ruthless, political tank, the present Longworth-Tilson-Snell machine that is today governing the House.

When Longworth was elected Speaker over Representative Martin B. Madden of Illinois chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee, he let it be known that he intended to be the boss of the House and the House was no longer to be a rubber stamp for the Senate.

The aristocratic Longworth had taken pains to be affable to even the most obscure country member and his election was hailed with gratification.

All Give and No Take.

John Q. Tilson of Connecticut was selected to succeed Longworth as floor leader; Bertrand H. Snell of New York was already chairman of the Rules Committee. The men who campaigned for Longworth among the Western delegations, whose votes were needed, were Representatives "Jim" Begg of Sandusky, O., and "Poly" Tincher of Kansas. They were effective aids in the fight on Madden, who was considered one of "us folks" by most of the Westerners.

Having given their votes to Longworth and thereby put the Easterners in command of legislation, the Westerners are now complaining that the Longworth-Tilson-Snell triumvirate is not playing the give-and-take game of politics. They declare that the Easterners believe in "taking," but have a short memory when it comes to "giving." This is highly discouraging to the Westerners who have small measures to put through which mean a great deal back home.

Resentment has been growing throughout the present session of Congress. It became manifest during the debates on the Haugen Farm Relief bill and it has driven the Westerners to snipping tactics on the few remaining measures regardless of their merit.

Many Bills Held Up.

It caused the Federal Judges' salary bill to be sent back to the calendar and it was responsible for the House's acceptance of the $46,000,000 Upper Missouri River improvement authorization which had neither the indorsement of the Chief of Army Engineers nor of the House Rivers and Harbors Committee. It played a small part in the French debt settlement vote and is more than likely to be a factor in any other important bill the administration indorses.

The nomination of Brookhart in Iowa last Monday added impetus to the attack. Even hard-boiled conservative Westerners have given—not for publication—their views on the Eastern domination in Congress, and emboldened by the action in Iowa, have declared that they intend to do something to break it up.

In addition to the major engagements of the session, there have been numerous minor skirmishes in which the administration has left scars on individual members—scars which will be remembered as such because they represent a personal and not a general affront.

Strangely enough, the resentment, personal and general, is not directed against Speaker Longworth, but finds its target in those who do his bidding, or what they consider are his desires. Tilson, the floor leader; Snell, chairman of the Rules Committee; Begg and Tincher have been singled out for attack. The rules of the House are responsible for this situation.

The new member is likely to think that he has completed his work on a bill when he procures a favorable comment from the committee to which it is referred, but under the present rules, his task is not half completed. If he allows the bill to go to the calendar and await its turn, the chances are strongly against any vote on it.

The alternative is to get a special rule from

TRUE MEANING OF IOWA'S POLITICAL REVOLT

Real Aid for Farmers, or off They Go To the Democrats and Free Trade

Two Keen Judges of Agriculturists in Western States Declare Workers of the Land Can No Longer Be Misled by Republican Party Leaders and They Are Ready to Abandon High Tariff Doctrine.

Getting 60 Cents on the Dollar for What He Sells, and Paying 100 Cents for What He Buys, Is Farmer's Complaint — Iowa Alone Said to Lose $90,000,000 Annually Through This Unequal Exchange.

HENRY A. WALLACE, Son of the Secretary of Agriculture in President Harding's Cabinet, and Editor of Agricultural Newspaper, Who Says He Cannot Be Counted a Republican if He Has to Support High Tariff Policies.

E. T. MEREDITH, Secretary of Agriculture in the Cabinet of President Wilson, Who Says Spirit of Revolt Among Farmers Pervades the Western States, and Is Not Peculiar to Iowa.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DES MOINES, Ia., June 12.

FURIOUSLY sounding their battle cry, the disillusioned farmers of the Northwest are advancing upon the polls, determined to do unto their representatives at Washington as their representatives have done unto them. And this is their battle cry:

"Put the stilts under agriculture—or take them from under industry!"

One does not easily overrate the political significance of the Iowa primary election last Monday, in which the bellicose radical, Smith W. Brookhart, won the Republican senatorial nomination over the veteran Senator Albert B. Cummins by a landslide. The consequences of that upheaval are likely to grow and multiply as the November elections draw nigh. But perhaps its deepest significance is to be found in the fact that it indicates a profound and widespread disposition on the part of the Western farmer to have done with the high tariff.

For 40 years the vast majority of the farmers of the West have clung loyally and devotedly to this doctrine. For 40 years, through prosperity and adversity, they have been true to the faith that agriculture's welfare depended upon the maintenance of a high tariff wall. Consequently, for the greater part of 40 years, they have kept the Republican party in power.

Signs of Revolt Easily Perceived.

But the old gods decay, the old sorceries lose their power, and the air is full of portents that the agricultural West is getting ready to hoist the high tariff overboard. If this is true, it is one of the most important political developments in America since the Civil War.

That it is true is not mere surmise. Among the authorities for the statement are a former Democratic Secretary of Agriculture and the son of a former Republican Secretary of Agriculture, both publishers of farm magazines, both closely in touch with sentiment among the farmers, and both respected as leaders in the agricultural realm. As a matter of fact, one hears it everywhere throughout the Northwest. Everywhere that the prosperity of the community is dependent upon the prosperity of agriculture, one hears this angry, sullen and ominous declaration:

"The Government must put the stilts under the farmer—or take them from under the manufacturer."

So there is little doubt that slowly but certainly the farmers are awakening to a fact which economists have observed for years; namely, that the American farmer buys in a protected market and sells in an unprotected market; that the tariff boosts the price of the things he buys, but does not improve the price of the things he sells. And as his eyes gradually open, he reaches for something to throw.

It is estimated that the State of Iowa alone loses $90,000,000 annually through this unequal exchange. Is it any wonder, then, that the honest farmer's heart was full of wrath, and that he looked around for the largest, reddest and most unpleasant brick in sight, and readily found it in Brookhart?

Convinced by Their Own Leaders.

What is responsible for the awakening? For 40 years the Democrats have preached "tariff for revenue only" from every stump, but their exhortations have left the farmer cold. Have they finally succeeded in persuading him? Alas, no. The fact is that the Republican farmers have been turned against the high tariff by Republican leaders. The business was accomplished in this wise:

In the last five years a dozen bills have been introduced in Congress for the avowed purpose of "making the tariff effective for the farmer." Every one has been offered and sponsored by Republicans. The Norris-Sinclair bill, the McNary-Haugen bill, the Dickinson bills and the pending Haugen-McNary bill—all were intended to "make the tariff effective for the farmer," and every one a Republican child.

So the farmers began to say: "Then it is true that the protective tariff doesn't protect us. When the Democrats told us that, we didn't believe them, but now the Republicans say the same thing, so it must be true."

Along came former Governor Frank Lowden of Illinois. He has constituted himself a national committee of one to help the farmers solve their problems, and he has gone from one end of the country to the other, speaking to hundreds of farmer audiences, and telling them their troubles arose from the failure of the tariff to apply to agriculture. He is a Republican, and a very distinguished one, and again the farmers said:

"Surely Gov. Lowden wouldn't deceive us. He is a Republican and a friend of the farmer, and what he says about the tariff must be so."

Moreover, the farm publications took it up, and there has been a tremendous agitation of the subject. The advantages of the various bills have been discussed with vast heat and at incredible length, and out of this discussion the farmer has heard again and again that the tariff which maintains high prices on the manufactured articles which he has to buy, does not increase the prices of the products which he has to sell. The combined effect of all these agitations has begun to move him.

Two Farm Experts Give Their Views.

For a fuller and more authoritative explanation of this phenomenon, let us turn to two men who ought to understand it if anybody does.

The Secretary of Agriculture under President Wilson was E. T. Meredith, publisher of The Successful Farmer, one of the largest monthly magazines in the United States, published at Des Moines. Meredith wields a tremendous influence among farmers everywhere, and is a national authority on agriculture. It will be recalled that his name was presented as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President at Madison Square Garden in 1924.

When President Harding succeeded President Wilson in 1921, Meredith was succeeded as Secretary of Agriculture by his Republican neighbor, Henry C. Wallace, editor of Wallace's Farmer, also published at Des Moines, which has a large circulation through the West. Mr. Wallace remained in the Cabinet until his death in 1924. His place as editor of Wallace's Farmer was taken by his son, Henry A. Wallace, a remarkably studious and thoughtful young man, who not only has inherited his father's prestige, but has fully maintained it.

It was to Meredith and Wallace, one a Democrat and the other a Republican, that the writer applied for light upon the unrest which had culminated in the startling nomination of Brookhart and the ignominious defeat of a distinguished administration Senator.

"It was the only way our people had," said Wallace, "to hit an Eastern administration which they feel has discriminated against Western agriculture in favor of Eastern industry. It was a vote on issues rather than a vote on men.

Four Solutions of Pressing Dilemma.

"Farmers have discovered that the prices of clothing, shoes, sugar, farm implements and building materials which they buy are fixed in a domestic market determined by the tarrif, while the prices of the wheat, pork products, corn and cotton which they sell are fixed in the international market. In other words, they buy in a protected market and sell in an open market. In consequence, the farmer pays 100 cents on the dollar for what he purchases, and receives 60 cents on the dollar for what he sells. It is a murderous exchange for the farmer."

"Very well, you are a member of the party which has always maintained a high tariff—what do you Republicans propose to do about it?" he was asked.

"So far as I am concerned, it is an economic, not a political question," he replied. "If continuance of the present tariff system is the test of Republicanism, I am afraid I can no longer qualify as a member of that party, even though my father and grandfather were leaders in it.

"As I see it, there are only four possible ways out of the present dilemma. The first is through a Government export corporation, which would purchase the exportable surplus of the farms at a price equal to the world price plus the tariff, thus fixing the domestic price; and sell the surplus abroad, distributing the losses among the producers—or even among the taxpayers. This was the scheme embodied, in one shape or another, in the McNary-Haugen and other bills.

"The second possible remedy is by going completely over to free trade. (This, of course, is the British policy, and approximates the Democratic principle of tariff for revenue only.)

"The third is by deliberately curtailing production in order to produce a scarcity of food, and thus force the price of agricultural products upward.

"The fourth is to do nothing, and let the situation work itself out. Eventually it would do this. When the population of the cities increases sufficiently to consume all the surplus from the farms, the problem will be solved. But it will take 15 or 20 years, and they would be lean, hard years for the farmers.

Finds Evidence of Free Trade Leanings.

"In my work, I go among the farmers constantly, and make many talks to farmer audiences. I always put these four propositions up to them, and frequently take a poll to discover their preference. An average of about 60 per cent usually signify their desire to give the export corporation plan a trial. They want to see an effort made to "put the stilts under the farmer." If that fails they favor a straight drive for free trade. Most of these are life-long Republicans.

"About 30 per cent are in favor of going to free trade at once. Most of these, I suspect, are Democrats.

"About 10 per cent are willing to wait for the situation to work itself out over a period of years. Almost all of these are farmers who are so well fixed that they are not suffering acutely from the depression. They can wait without hardship.

"I am glad to say that practically none are in favor of an arbitrary limiting of production to force prices upward. For one thing, it would be a cruel thing to do to the city workers, and in the second place, it might fail because of the failure of many farmers to co-operate."

"Which plan, in your opinion, will eventually be adopted?" he was asked

"You know more about national politics than I do," was the grim rejoinder, "but I can tell you this much: that unless the party in power does something, such as passing the Haugen-McNary bill and attempting to 'put the stilts under agriculture,' the farmers of the West will join the cotton growers of the South in a straight drive for free trade."

"But how can you get free trade except through the election of a Democratic administration?"

"I don't want to talk about the politics of the situation—to me it is an economic problem," Wallace insisted.

"But if the answer to this economic problem is political action, and if the answer is free trade how can you arrive at it except through the election of the party which believes in free trade?"

"Then perhaps we will have to turn to that party," he assented, but added significantly: "It is possible that Gov. Lowden may offer a program that we can support."

Unrest in Many Western States.

Meredith, a big, handsome forceful man who radiates "personality," spoke to the same point, but with even greater directness.

"The message in the Brookhart nomination," he said, "is that Western agriculture is demanding that something be done to make the present tariff policy as effective for agricultural products as it is for manufactured products. It is a lesson for the East, and for the administration, and it means that unless prompt and effective action is taken to help the farmer put his business on a business basis, he will undertake to reverse the present tariff policy."

"Is this sentiment peculiar to Iowa?"

"You can expect the same reaction through the entire Western portion of the United States," he declared. "In some places feeling is not so intense as in others, and conditions are somewhat better than they were two or three years ago. Hogs, for example, are exceptionally high just now, and hogs are Iowa's chief export. But the farmer has learned to expect a periodical depression every five or six years, and when he voted Monday he was thinking, not of the present $15 hogs, but of the $8 hogs of 1927. It has happened so often that the farmer is no longer fooled by the good years. What he wants is an arrangement that will assure him of $11.50 hogs year in and year out.

"Of course, the business men of the country should recognize the existence of this condition, and undertake to help the farmers work out a plan, which would avoid these peaks and valleys in the economic condition of agriculture. Unhappily, business men generally have taken the position that while business was entitled to governmental protection, Government aid to the farmer was 'socialistic,' and amounted to 'putting the Government into business.' They have been disposed to let the farmer shift for himself."

Objections to Proposed Laws.

"What plan to you favor?"

"Personally, I do not believe that the proposal to add the tariff to the world price of grain and cotton, as contained in the present bills before Congress, will work out. The higher price will induce larger production, which, in turn, will further lower the world price.

"Until the farmer is looked upon as a manufacturer, and afforded the privilege of knowing in advance what his compensation will be, I do not see how he can wisely engage in the manufacture of wheat, cotton and pork, any more than a hotel keeper could afford to go ahead and furnish service, with no idea what the patron would pay him at the end of the year. The farmer should have the privilege of knowing what his task will be, what the compensation will be, and the privilege of saying yes or no to it."

Obviously, this meant price-fixing, but Meredith indicated that he did not intend to define it any further.

"This administration," he went on, "has shown such an utter lack of sympathy, such a total unwillingness to do anything, that

Lloyd George Discusses Break With Asquith

Former Premier Compares Present Fight Within the Liberal Party in Great Britain to the Taft-Roosevelt Split—As a Result, He Says, "Liberalism May Again Lead in March Toward Progress."

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE,
Former Premier of England.

LONDON, June 12 (By Cable).

I HAVE been asked to explain, for the benefit of readers outside the British islands, what the latest tumult in the Liberal party is all about. As I am the center of the disturbance, it is difficult for me to afford an impartial explanation, but I will do my best. There is no better psychological or ethical exercise for a man than occasionally to stand completely outside himself and in Burns' immortal phrase, "see ourselves as others see us."

The correspondence published in the press discloses such inadequate reasons for adding a split to the other distresses of a depressed party that most people have come to the conclusion that there must be something behind it.

Like Taft-Roosevelt Split.

No analogy is complete, but there is a good deal that happened in the Taft-Roosevelt quarrel in the United States which may help those who wish to understand the Liberal split of today. I need hardly say that I am not establishing any comparison between Roosevelt and myself but the causes of the Liberal split are not essentially different from those that produced a similar division in the Republican party. They are largely personal, but policies associated with personalities have determined the course of events. The land policy challenges a powerful and pervasive monopoly. The difference over the general strike reveals an essential difference of attitude towards the industrial classes. My action urging conciliation was resented as angrily as was that of the Roman Senator who, during the revolt of Spartacus, rose in the capitol to put in a word for the rebellious slaves.

The most powerful party in the United States was rent in twain over the disturbing personality of Theodore Roosevelt. The division kept the party out of power for two successive presidential elections. How did that quarrel strike the foreigner? It was generally believed that, although personal factors largely contributed to divisions in the Republican party, underneath were forces which were even more responsible. It seemed to outsiders as if Roosevelt had, by his policy and utterances, antagonized powerful interests who, at that time, had in their control the levers of the Republican machine. The rich magnates upon whose bounty the lubrication of that machine depended conceived a violent dislike for him. They distrusted him and they had the best reasons for their distrust. He was not their man. He was completely out of sympathy with their methods and he never missed an opportunity of curtailing their powers and challenging their authority.

The "bosses," on the other hand, thought these magnates were an essential factor in the success and influence of their party.

As Seen From Abroad.

Watching, in this country, the bitter conflict that ensued, it looked like a struggle for supremacy in the party between the trusts and the more liberal progressive forces in Republicanism. But there were, of course, other elements that confused the issue. They were all summed up in Roosevelt's personality. He was a hard hitter and it was difficult to forgive some of the blows he gave in the fight There is, for instance, his famous saying: "How is it that every time I repeat the Eighth Commandment, 'Thou shalt not steal,' there is a panic in Wall Street?" Then there was something about him that frightened the timid and conventional and the men who, in their walks, never stray from the well-trodden dusty paths of party platitudes. The commonplace thought him violent, the pedantic thought him unprincipled, the correct thought him undignified, the kind of stern party men that treat party headquarters as if it were the temple of their faith thought him simply wicked. But the common people heard him gladly and they thronged to greet him and listen to his speeches.

The other party, whilst they had a sneaking admiration for Teddy, did not consider party loyalty justified them wishing him too well. Roosevelt must have been a trial to any school of thought. The well-regulated scholars who march abreast steadily along the footways in what is known as a "crocodile," with the schoolmistress at the head of the procession, would have been shocked at

"Presumption of Innocence."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A "LETTER from the people" published in Sunday's Post-Dispatch attacks the suggestion of Judge Hennings that reference to the "presumption of innocence" be eliminated from instructions to juries. The writer of the letter fears that such an elimination would invest our criminal law with the rigors of the Code Napoleon.

But the so-called "presumption" of innocence is, as Dean Wigmore so graphically puts it, merely a measure of the distance the State's pile of proof must rise above the defendant's pile. Lawyers recognize that. The trouble is that jurors do not recognize it. When they are told that the accused must be presumed innocent (though everyone knows that in all likelihood he is guilty) they may not realize that the court is simply reiterating that the State must prove its case by a great preponderance of evidence. They are apt to think that the "presumption" itself must be given probative value and added to the defendant's evidence.

Judge Hennings, unless I misunderstand him, merely proposed that we discard an inaccurate and misleading expression and content ourselves with an instruction to the jury that its verdict must be for acquittal unless the State has furnished proof beyond reasonable doubt that the defendant is guilty.

Unequal Prohibition Enforcement.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

FROM the time they adopted the Constitution in 1788, the enforcement of all laws has cost hundreds of billions of dollars, which have been expended in maintaining the integrity and dignity of the United States.

Leaving out the question of the Civil War, in which more than several million men were sacrificed for the integrity of the Government, the question of prohibition provided for in the Eighteenth Amendment seems to be the only losing and greatly inoperative one, caused by the injustice of the laws of enforcement.

Why this injustice? Why should the seller or "bootlegger," who is, as a rule, financially of limited means, be punished, and not the buyer, who is frequently a man of wealth? The latter is the tempter and the user of more than three-fourths of the alcoholic spirits now consumed in the United States.

It is not a question of whether one is a prohibitionist or not, but a question of obedience to the Constitution and laws adopted thereunder. The buyer, seller and consumer of alcoholic spirits should be alike amenable to the law and serve in workhouse, jail or penitentiary for violation of law. Make buyer and consumer as well as seller guilty in this illegal traffic and the jug will disappear from the private closet.

Taxation and Individual Rights.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

SOVEREIGNTY inheres in all of the people. Governments are instituted among men, vested with powers as agents of the people, to execute the popular will.

Individuals have rights which neither the Government nor all of the people may justly ignore or violate. Every individual is equal in his right to the use of the earth with every other individual. Every individual has an absolute right to all of the fruits of his own industry and no Government can take from him any part of such fruit by taxation or other means without violating human rights. As the use of the earth is a right common to all men, the only fund justly available for public purposes is the rent of land. All of the rent of land should be taken for public purposes and every form of taxation abolished.

Mischievous Little Mercury.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

TALKING about sun-spots and the weather, there is one little red spot that is no joke, the little red planet Mercury, that went behind the sun today. It is our worst weather planet. Accompanied with its repelling force and at 30 miles a second, this little red spot comes around from behind the hot sun and dashes toward the earth "like a bat out o' hell," three times a year. The last time it went by it made the first of April look like winter. Watch what it will do when it returns from the first part of July until the middle of August. Showers? Oh, boy! Then it will come back again this year and make November a colder winter month than December.

As it runs around in its little race track close to the sun faster than any planet, it overtakes and shoves the earth and big planets out into the cool, like the companion of Sirius, the densest sun known, is now shoving the earth and solar system out to cool seasons of 1927 followed by colder winters like it did in the 70s. It causes colder seasons on the earth and other planets.

VALUATION: AN INEXACT SCIENCE.

An issue of vast economic importance to the American people hinges upon the outcome of a case now pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission involving two small St. Louis railroads, the Manufacturers' and the St. Louis & O'Fallon. The issue is: Shall the railroads be valued on the "prudent investment" theory, or shall the "replacement value" principle be applied?

If the latter is upheld, ten billion dollars will be added to the value of the railroads without one cent of additional investment, and the railroads will be entitled under the Transportation Act to enjoy a return on that bookkeeper's increment of 5 3-4 per cent. This means that the railroads may demand such increases of rates as will net them additional revenue in the sum of $575,000,000, to come, of course, from the pockets of the people.

There is no settled science of valuation of railroads and other public utilities. The subject is comparatively new, it is highly complicated and has brought forth many conflicting opinions from the courts. In 1923 the Supreme Court of the United States handed down a decision in the Southwestern Bell Telephone case which recognized, in part at least, the "replacement value" principle. It also contained a dissenting opinion by Justice Brandeis cogently championing the "prudent investment" theory.

A company's replacement value means the amount of money which would be required to rebuild it at prices existing at the time of the inquiry. There is no relation to actual investment. A telephone pole may, when it was purchased, have cost a dollar. But if telephone poles today are worth $5 the company is credited with that unearned increment, minus, perhaps, a certain percentage for depreciation. Thus, in the Bell case, the court said:

> Obviously, the commission undertook to value the property without according any weight to the greatly enhanced costs of material, labor, supplies, etc., over those prevailing in 1913, 1914 and 1916. As a matter of common knowledge, these increases were large. Competent witnesses estimated them at 45 to 50 per centum.

The court proceeded to quote from a previous decision, in which it had said that there must be a fair return upon the reasonable value of the property at the time it is being used for the public.

In an era of greatly increased prices for commodities, railroads and other public utilities naturally welcome a principle which permits their property, bought in many cases for low prices, to be valued at that scale.

Justice Brandeis, in an opinion in which Justice Holmes concurred, disagreed with the replacement theory of valuation. Said he:

> The thing devoted by the investor to the public is not specific property, tangible and intangible, but capital embarked in the enterprise. Upon the capital so invested the Federal Constitution guarantees to the utility the opportunity to earn a fair return.

Justice Brandeis added that the earnings due a utility include not only the operating expenses, but also capital charges, and that "capital charges cover the allowance, by way of interest, for the use of the capital."

Of course, in the valuation of a great public utility, no one element of estimation will ever supersede all others. As Justice Butler held in the Brooks-Scanlon case:

> This court has held in many cases that replacement cost is to be considered in the ascertainment of value, but that it is not necessarily the sole measure of or guide to value.

But the danger is that more and more importance will be given to the "replacement value" principle, resulting in a pyramid of false capital which the people will be forced to support. The ablest minds in the public utility field are besieging the courts and public service commissions with convincing arguments as to the soundness of this principle, and they are making headway.

In the Manufacturers' and St. Louis & O'Fallon case, the other side will be presented by the National Conference on Valuation of the American Railroads, of which Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska is chairman. We trust it will be done ably to prevent the unjust creation of great masses of paper capital which will work a tremendous hardship on the people.

A REMARKABLE ORGANIZATION.

The Civil Liberties Union is the only organization of its kind in the United States, if not in the world. Through its work in the Scopes case it achieved a national celebrity. In a way it was responsible for the Scopes case. When Tennessee passed its monkey law the union offered its help to any teacher who would contest it. When Scopes was indicted the union kept its word, and its attorney, Arthur Garfield Hays, played a brilliant part at the trial.

The annual report of the union, significantly entitled "Free Speech 1925-1926," has just been published. It discloses an amazing record of activity in all parts of the country in behalf of the civil rights of man. Whenever these are in jeopardy, whenever an individual, no matter how obscure and unimportant he may be, is persecuted for his opinions, the union becomes his champion.

It is the foe of intolerance, of religious and racial prejudices, of official lawlessness, of punishment for political opinions, of gag laws, of bigotry in education, and of everything that violates the rights of individuals to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. It takes cognizance of a Judge's oppression of a newspaper editor in the Virgin Islands, just as it is deeply interested in the case of Miss Charlotte Anita Whitney, convicted for violating California's notorious syndicalism law. It leans far towards extreme pacifism, but that does not affect its activities in behalf of liberty.

Perhaps the most amazing thing about the union is its budget. Its interests are so various, and the results of its work so evident in many parts of the country that one would naturally suppose it to be a heavily endowed society. The contrary is true. It is miserably poor. It thinks in terms of pennies and its general expenses for the whole year 1925 amounted to the picayunish sum of $18,769.18. This sum wouldn't buy stationery for most of our large corporations.

We find the union's surplus in operating fund at the beginning of 1925 to have been the sum of $200, and its deficit at the end of the year $4256.87. To its exchequer it had 2250 contributors. Only one of these gave more than $1000. Only six gave from $501 to $1000. In the $1 to $5 class there were 1188 contributors.

Thus the Civil Liberties Union conducts a strong and unique fight on a shoestring. It never fails to respond when the things it stands for are at issue. More, it seeks out and offers aid to all who are in need of it. It is not making a "drive" for funds. It does its work on what comes to hand.

MENTAL JIU JITSU AT GENEVA.

The subject of disarmament in Europe is about as popular as the boll weevil in a Southern cotton field.

Witness the trend of the preliminary arms conference at Geneva.

There are gathered a group of solemn emissaries from Italy, France, Finland, the Balkans and the United States whose job it is to lay the groundwork for the main conference.

They conceived their first job to be a working definition of the term armament. This might seem easy, but the trained diplomatic minds fought over it for weeks without agreement.

France, seconded by Italy and the Little Entente, contends that armament includes all the resources of a country, as well as the manifestations of nature in the heavens and on the seas. France also contends that armament does not include trained army and navy reserves, of which France has four million and Italy five million.

Thus, a stroke of lighting or a huge wave is armament, but a horde of men which may at any time be called to the colors is not.

To such ridiculous dialectics the representatives of the United States have demurred. It is plain to them, as it is to anyone, that the preliminary conference is an insincere, wordy joust.

It is difficult to understand why the European nations have made even a pretext at supporting the theory of disarmament. The Continent seethes with international jealousies, rivalry and hatred. Europe is afraid to disarm. Then why talk about it?

DEGRADATION OF M. POLO.

A publisher having issued new editions of Marco Polo's book, insidious propaganda is being spread to the effect that Marco was a truthful chap, after all, and knew his dinosaur eggs. It is pointed out that travelers have traced the route Marco traveled across Asia and have found it quite possible to make the journeys he said he made. Moreover, the Roosevelt expedition has brought back specimens of ovis poli, the "sheep as large as cattle with great spreading horns" which Marco described. Therefore, and in consequence of, say the publishers, Marco's reputation for veracity is at last established.

We deplore this attempted degradation of Marco Polo, from his place as one of the world's most magnificent and imaginative liars to the lowly stature of a tourist. They would make of this superlative fellow a sort of medieval Samuel Cook or Burton Holmes. Marco was no guide book traveler, no gulper of stereotype views and picture card mosques. Marco, it is true, did adventure mightily in the land of Aga Khan and his sandals trod the dust of many a fair ancient city. But his greatest achievements were in the realms of imagination; he accomplished tall and shining lies which stood as sparkling minarets in the empire of his glorious untruths.

The world has enough tourists. Liars like Marco Polo only happen every tenth century or so. The next thing these publisher chappies will be attempting is to prove that Baron Munchausen was the George Washington of his preposterous age.

NO JOB FOR A BOY.

Vale Stribling. Under the blinding lights of the prize ring, a man's character is as vividly limned as his body. The young "high school boy" from Georgia, he of the Belviderean proportions, stepped into a New York ring Thursday to fight the Cro-Magnon king of the light heavyweights, Paul Berlanbach. Like Georges Carpentier, he affected a silk dressing-gown, a hazardous thing to do before the atavistic fans of pugilism, especially when a man lacks Georges' leonine heart and true sense of sportsmanship.

The boos for Stribling began to rumble through the stadium when, in defiance of the custom of the ring, the Southerner spurned the proffered hand of Harry Wills, the Negro heavyweight who had just been introduced to the crowd. They rose to a crescendo when the young Apollo wilted and quit under the bone-crushing attack of Berlenbach. It was in the fourth round that Stribling found that he had met his master. Thenceforth, through 11 purple periods, Stribling's sole aim was to avoid a knockout. He dodged, he ran, he retreated behind his elbows and forearms—and suffered.

To trade punches with the menacing, craggy Berlenbach is no job for a boy. It is the task of a potential champion with a fighting heart. Stribling's press agents overestimated their subject. He is only a "high school boy" from Georgia, who has no business in the upper reaches of the gory, devastating land of resin.

TILL DEATH DO THEM PART.

How dazzling doth the June bride look,
  In gown of perfect fit;
Frail orange blossoms in her hair,
  And orchids in her mitt.
With blushing cheeks and drooping eyes
  And lips that gently part,
She cops our hearts completely, but—
  When does the battle start?

The poor old sap they call the groom
  Is trying to appear
Unconcerned and self-possessed,
  As the hour of doom draws near.
He fools no one, for all can see
  The quaking of his heart,
And the thought that fills his cranium is
  When does the battle start?

Her father, too, grows ill at ease;
  His face is warm and red:
Suppose the girl or boy backs out—
  The thought fills him with dread.
With footing daughter's upkeep bills
  He's heartily tired and sick;
He wants to give the dear away
  And do it mighty quick.

The wedding march is beastly slow,
  And dad can scarcely puff:
He'd like to have it over with,
  But brides must strut their stuff.
The panting groom bids sad adieu
  To the carefree, single life;
And Freedom shrieks when the reverend Declares them man and strife.

THEODORE TRILSEY.

It is interesting to observe that now short skirts are a fixture something is to be done about legs. One expert says legs must conform to a pattern, and she tells how this can be done. Fat legs can be reduced by massaging them and doing a great deal of walking, whereas slate pencils or sticks can be filled out a little by manipulation. Bow legs or ice-tongs can be straightened. It is likely there will be on the market soon forms which can be worn at night. We learn that bow-legs are not necessarily permanently misshapen; they are probably sprung from doing heavy housework. At any rate, they can be straightened, and the short skirt makes this imperative. Another expert tells us there is no place in our time for any malformation. We have every facility with which to make ourselves good to look at. Crooked teeth, a hair-lip, bow-legs, are all incompatible with the modern science of structural perfection in the human body. We are glad to hear it. Our feeling has been that legs should have been made perfect before skirts were shortened, but if they will get at it now we will try to wait.

However, there is no law against campaign expenditures in Pennsylvania, so no Pennsylvanians will go to the pen.

Now that Senator Borah is challenging the referendum, it is interesting to recall that Charles Nagel of St. Louis challenged as long ago as 1911 the direct primary. He said at the Brown University commencement:

> A direct primary applied to the election of Senators has an undoubted advantage, chiefly because it would relieve the Legislature from the embarrassment and burden of making the selection, and would leave it free to devote itself to the more immediate purposes of State legislation, always assuming that this function is not to be rendered obsolete by the adoption of the initiative and referendum. But, if it is claimed that a direct primary for any office will give a more intelligent and free expression of popular will, I very much fear that those who promise such a result are doomed to disappointment. In my judgment the provision is apt to destroy the advantage of publicity and of responsibility. Instead of furthering the immediate expression of popular will, it is, in my judgment, calculated to enlarge the opportunity of the political manager, and to release him from that responsibility which so far has attended his activity.

The moment applauds the fool, but time bears out the wise man. As an indication of how clearly he foresaw what would happen, Mr. Nagel also said in the same address:

> "The direct primary presents a further obstacle to party unity. The office no longer seeks the man who typifies an accepted program; the man must seek the office. Anyone may file; the more vague his opinions, the greater the possible circle of voters from which he may draw. Each candidate consults the local interests or preferences of his district. Expediency becomes the order of the day. Beyond the accustomed political phrases his platform has no answer for the pressing economic problems, both national and international.

If that is not precisely what has happened, it is there or thereabout.

There is no means of getting Lem Motlow across the Mason and Dixon line in the Jack Daniel case, so we have not a truly Federal court in the sense that it operates back and forth across that line. ### THE CRADLE OF INDEPENDENCE.

From the Washington Post.

PHILADELPHIA for years has been the butt of the jokesmiths because of its alleged sleepiness. And there seems to be good reason for holding up to ridicule the city of Brotherly Love by reason of its somnolence. Philadelphia is spending thousands of dollars in advertising the fact that the sesquicentennial of the Declaration of Independence will be celebrated this year on the banks of the Schuylkill. The Fourth of July may be the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the actual signing of the Declaration and then again it may not. Only recently a mild controversy was started in regard to the exact date. But whatever the date, Williamsburg, in Virginia, scoffs at the idea that Philadelphia has any claim to the credit of having been the rocking place of the cradle of liberty. Williamsburg is prepared to prove that the original declaration of bona fide independence was framed and proclaimed right there at the mouth of the James River, six weeks before Philadelphia knew anything about declarations, palladiums or anything else which goes to make "liberty." It was on May 15, 1776, that the Williamsburg declaration of independence was adopted.

A GOOD WORD FOR GAIETY.

From the Los Angeles Times.

AN EMINENT French psychologist wants to put joy and color into life. He says that the nation should provide pleasures for its citizens. He insists that gaiety is a wonderful stimulant for both health and sanity. If men and women are kept happy they will be healthy. Worry and ingrowing pessimism opens the pores for the admission of the ills that flesh is heir to. He recalls that when the plague was ravaging Rome in the fourth century the Government brought in bands of Etruscan singers, comedians and entertainers. They gave performances on the streets and their funny faces and jocund minstrelsy kept the populace in hearty laughter. They forgot their troubles and the plague subsided. The psychologist says that dynamic gaiety can be built up. It must be admitted that in America we are doing fairly well in this respect.

HANNIBAL'S HISTORIC FICTION.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

MARK TWAIN stands in bronze on the top of a river hill near the scenes of his boyhood in the old home town of Hannibal, which is in Missouri. From that headland he overlooks the tawny reaches of slowly moving water where the Mississippi marches toward the Gulf. Not far away is the opening in the cliff which leads to "Tom Sawyer's Cave." Now, these dream lads of his who loafed and loitered and floated on the river's bosom have come back to Hannibal. They, too, stand in bronze surrounded by the scenes made famous by them and their creator. All that region around Hannibal is "Mark Twain Country." Hannibal is wise in its memorials. As the years pass it is certain to become more and more of an American literary shrine.

the Rules Committee for its advancement on the calendar, or to put it on the unanimous consent calendar, where a single objection will postpone consideration.

Administration measures are first passed on by the House Steering Committee, composed of the House leaders, with the Easterners in the majority. If this committee favors immediate consideration of a bill, it has no trouble in securing a special rule. But let a mere garden-variety Representative try to get quick action on a nonadministration measure and he will find himself blocked from the outset by these two committees, where he will be told that they have no time to hear him.

Tilson and Snell.

Tilson and Snell are the two leaders of the respective committees with whom the mere Representative must deal. Turned down and rebuffed, many members have considerable resentment stored up against them and their methods.

After the member with a pet measure meets the adamant barrier of the two committees, he usually turns to the unanimous-consent calendar, and when his measure is called up on the special day set aside for consideration of unanimous-consent bills, he meets Jim Begg of Ohio, who has developed a perfectly devastating habit of saying, "Mr. Speaker, I object." That is the reason for the resentment against Begg.

According to the Western Representatives, this is not politics as played out West. Back home, they say, when you do a man a favor, you have a right to expect that he will do you a good turn when you ask him.

As an example of this, the Westerners are willing that the Cape Cod Canal should be purchased by the Government for $11,500,000, if the Rivers and Harbors bill should include an authorization for a six-foot channel on the Illinois River. But it didn't seem as though some members of the Eastern crowd were playing the game, when they later helped the Lake States filibuster against this Lakes to the Gulf project.

Personal Wrath at Tincher.

The resentment against Tincher is purely personal. When he introduced his farm relief bill that was to take the place of the Haugen bill, the Westerners felt he was training with the Easterners. He poked fun at the Haugen bill and was pleased when it was said that his proposal had administration support. Gleefully the House turned down his plan.

The Haugen bill is a serious proposition to the members from the corn belt. This includes the rock-ribbed Republican States of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Kansas. Any defection from the organization by the Republicans from this section would be a serious blow to the administration. Yet with Brookhart's overwhelming victory in Iowa, these Representatives are beginning to think it would not be a bad political idea for them to make a show of opposition to the machine that beat the Haugen bill. Tuesday after the primary found the cloakroom buzzing with excitement and the tone of the hum was not encouraging to the administration, many of the hard-boiled conservatives were unfeignedly glad the Easterners had been shown that the Middle-Westerners meant business.

Representatives from the agricultural communities realize that little can be done this session if the Senate refuses to pass farm relief legislation. They are looking toward the re-organization of the next Congress, with some sideswipes to be taken during the short session.

The ruthless way they have been treated this session has made a deep impression which will last that long. The cold-blooded efficiency of the present machine may be all right for the easterners, but, "Where do we come in?" they ask. It is on no high grounds of proper policy that they make their plea. It is politics according to the old rules that they want—the give and take of the good old days.

Even counting the Wisconsin delegation, the Republicans can count on a clear majority of only 30. Should the Iowa delegation join them with Wisconsin Progressives and pick up a few scattering votes from Indiana, Illinois, Kansas and Nebraska, the combined opposition added to the general Democratic minority would make a formidable force which might be able to turn the balance of power.

Iowa is in the mood for such a defection and if the machine does not make a long detour to take care of the Middle Western and Western problems, and does not turn aside now and then to let some petty measures escape destruction from its wheels, there is likelihood that the East will have to pay for its calculated indifference to the remainder of the country.

Everything was easy this session because the discontent did not develop until Congress was almost ready to adjourn. The machine was comparatively new and the members marvelled at the perfection of its movement—silent, irresistible and efficient.

But it is too perfect. Like all machines, it lacks sentiment, and the oil—or salve—of sentiment makes the political wheels go round.

Unless something is done to take care of the feelings of the Western members, the Longworth-Tilson-Snell tank will soon find itself clanking and knocking beyond hope of repair.

his restless indiscipline. Discipline is not one of the attributes of a bull moose. He was charged with treachery to his party by angling for the Progressive, even for the Democratic support; and then there were always the inevitable jealousies that creep into every sphere of human activity.

I hate dwelling on this squalid side of all politics, but there is much in the facts that illuminates the more obscure passages of the Liberal quarrel today. It may cast some light on the time this breach may take to heal.

The schism in the Republican party was outwardly healed years before Roosevelt passed away; but when I was in the States I realized that much of the bitterness remained. I was told that had Roosevelt survived another two years, nothing could have stood in the way of his becoming President in 1920, but that hundreds of thousands of Republicans would have either abstained or voted against him at the election. The out-and-out party men still treated him as a reprobate who had sinned beyond redemption. They had never forgiven that splitting of the party which enabled the Democrats to reign for eight years. Even the grave where the most stormy figure of American politics lies at rest on the shores of that tranquil bay has not buried all the animosities aroused in the turbulent years when that great spirit swept over the land like a tornado.

Precedents Cited.

There are factors in the Liberal situation in Britain which did not come into the American. There is the war. War has always divided liberalism in Britain from the wars of Chatham to those of the great World War. The differences which arose out of these wars took years to end. Chatham and the Rockingham Whigs were never reconciled—not even when they agreed over the American War of Independence. They resented Chatham's coöperation even more than they did his divergence.

After the Napoleonic wars, the Whig party did not come together for many years, although the two leading personalities around whom the original divisions raged were dead before the war was over.

The disputes over the Boer War continued some time after the peace of Vereeniging, and even in 1906 Cabinet pro-Boers and Imperialist Liberals set uneasily together around the table. Honest John Morley and Bob Reid, as they were familiarly known, never forgave Mr. Asquith or ever really accepted his leadership. The high-principled factionists on either side were never truly reconciled. But, in all these cases, the rank and file of the party made it up sooner and more sincerely than their leaders. The feuds lingered longest in the mephitic atmosphere of the London clubs. The germs cling to the rafters and innoculate and reinnoculate the unhappy frequenters of these "palaces of luxury and ease," as Parnell once stigmatized them.

Had anyone visited the National Liberal Club 10 years after the Boer War, he would have seen small commandoes of pro-Boers, under the direction of well-known field cornets, sniping incessantly at Mr. Asquith and Lord Grey. If he had then passed on to the Reform Club he would have seen groups of dismounted infantry of the Imperialist forces firing under cover at antiwar Liberal leaders.

Echo of the Great War.

And the fierce Liberal quarrels which started in the Great War did not end when the order came to cease fire. Sputtering shots were still fired, generally under cover. And now the war has broken out again all along the line. But this time the forces arrayed on both sides will be different.

Many of the old Coalition Liberals disliked my attitude on the strike and are far from enthusiastic about my land policy. On the other hand, the more advanced members of the party, who were largely opposed to me during the coalition period, have given zealous support to the proposals for economic reconstruction which I have put forward in recent years.

The quarrel, if it continues, will develop on the lines of policy and not personality. That will be all the better for Liberalism. There has been a feeling in the party for a long time that "the official gang" were keeping Liberalism from rising to the opportunity presented by the problems which arose out of the war. It was felt that official Liberalism had allowed Labor to capture the old ark of the covenant which, for over three centuries, had been resting in the Liberal temple. When the war was over and millions walked out of the trenches back to workshops, mines and furrows, full of expectancy that the sacrifices of the war meant better things, they found Liberal leaders meeting them at the landing stage with the stale crumbs of forgotten programs.

Losing the Workmen.

On the other hand, the Socialists tendered them tempting sweetmeats. The British workman is proverbially cautious and suspicious when promises are too highly spiced and if Liberalism had offered him substantial fare not repulsively dressed, he would have taken it. The forces that are now rallying to my side contain the most thoughtful personalities in the party—men who have fretted for years over the lost opportunity of Liberalism. They comprise some of the ablest political thinkers in the country today. They not unnaturally believe that the failure of the general strike presents the Liberal party with another chance and whilst they have a great respect for Lord Oxford (Asquith), they are not altogether sorry to see others, who are responsible for the fact that the party missed its greatest opportunity, taking a step which leaves advanced Liberalism free, for the first time, to fashion its course and to undertake its responsibilities.

This split has opened a new vision and started a new era in British politics. Liberalism may once again soon take the lead in the march towards progress.

REAL AID FOR FARMERS OR THEY TURN TO FREE TRADE POLICY

it was not surprising the farmers seized Mr. Brockhart as their instrument of protest. But remember that it was not only the farmers who voted for him. The business men of Iowa keenly realize their dependence upon agriculture, and the necessity of a stabilized agriculture to stabilize business. Two hundred bank failures promotes a wonderful interest in agriculture among bankers. Therefore you witnessed the spectacle of thousands of business men joining labor and the farmers in voting for a radical.

"A banker, a merchant or an insurance man does not relish unfavorable discrimination any more than a farmer does, and the West is convinced that the Coolidge administration is interested only in Eastern industry and Eastern finance."

"What, in your opinion, will be the general outcome of the present unrest and resentment?"

Farmers Will Not Be Fooled Again.

"This primary, as you can see, has frightened the administration. In my opinion, however, it will either pass no bill, or a fake bill designed to make the farmers believe they are getting something. I do not believe that ruse will succeed. These farmers cannot be fooled by a makeshift bill. Farm legislation is a familiar topic of discussion among them, and they understand these various plans about as well as the Congressmen who broach them.

"If the Republicans pass a fake bill, or no bill, I am confident the farmers will be ready to go straight for free trade, and if the Democrats go to the people on a tariff issue they can sweep the West—and the West and the South are all that is necessary to win."

The writer encountered this identical idea throughout the corn belt. Clyde Herring, Democratic National Committeeman for Iowa, had it. Dante Pierce, lifelong Republican, and publisher of the Iowa Homestead, a farm weekly of even greater circulation than Wallace's Farmer, conceded that the farmers had been thoroughly "sold" on the idea that they are not getting the benefit of the tariff, and burn to do something about it.

Congressmen who voted for the Fordney-McCumber act are either protesting that they were deceived, or are clamoring for changes that will extend its shelter to agriculture. For example, every member of the Iowa delegation to Congress is supporting the Haugen-McNary bill. A vote for the Fordney-McCumber bill has become almost as embarrassing and painful as a vote to seat Senator Newberry. It is the mark of betrayal in the eyes of the farmer.

Yet reports today from Washington indicate that the Haugen-McNary bill will not pass. The cold little New England circle that determines the policies and enactments of this administration appears to have decided against farm relief at this session. If that happens, listen for the explosion!

ST. LOUIS EXPOSITION PLANS ARE PROGRESSING RAPIDLY

Some of Leading Features Discussed By Baxter L. Brown—Meeting of Subcomittee Chairmen to Be Held Tomorrow.

Baxter L. Brown, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Greater St. Louis Exposition, to be held Sept. 4 to 19, in Forest Park, has called a meeting of the committee and chairmen of the exposition subcommittees for 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce, when he will report on plans for the exposition.

In reviewing the work of his committees, Brown pointed out that the Transportation Committee was arranging for the handling of thousands of visitors daily at the exposition grounds. This committee, he said, would not only interest itself in the handling of the crowds brought to St. Louis by the railroads on special low-rate fares, but also would provide for the marking of highways, the parking of visitor-tourist automobiles, as well as the handling of transporttation to and from the grounds.

"Every facility of the Chamber of Commerce and the municipal bureaus and departments have been offered to the Exposition Committee," said Brown.

"There is an apparent erroneous impression that the Greater St. Louis Exposition is to have aspects of a carnival. It is to be a pageant of progress, visualizing industrial, scientific, commercial progress of a quarter of a century, and will have amusement features of the type sometimes referred to extravagantly, perhaps, as 'superspectacles.' We guarantee that the amusement features will be plentiful and of high order.

"The pageant of progress will consist of 1000 or more artistic pavilions. The amusements will be staged in what will be called 'The Arena of Pleasure.' There will be at least three large stages in the arena and the amusements will be staged on a plan combining the schedule of a circus and review. The amusements will be continuous and without intermission."

Brown said that the committee had received from Secretary of War Davis the promise of co-operation in bringing to St. Louis a large number of Federal troops to be used in a military tournament.

50,000 EXPECTED FOR CONVENTION OF MASONIC ORDER

Delegations to Supreme Council of Veiled Prophets Will Begin Arriving in City Tomorrow.

FLAG DAY CEREMONY TO OPEN SESSIONS

Municipal Theater Leased for One Evening and Varied Other Entertainment Has Been Arranged.

More than 50,000 Masonic visitors are expected in St. Louis when the Supreme Council of the Mystic Order Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm opens its thirty-seventh annual convention beginning tomorrow.

About 1000 of the visitors will be accredited delegates from the 200 Grottos of the organization, who will sit in business sessions during the four days of the convention.

George A. Treadwell, Grand Monarch of the organization, arrived in St. Louis Thursday morning to perfect plans for the business sessions. An elaborate program of entertainment is planned by the local committee.

The convention proper will open at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow at Alhambra Grotto, Grand boulevard and Magnolia avenue. The delegates will participate in Flag Day ceremonies to be held at Scottish Rite Cathedral, when Grand Monarch Treadwell will speak, and Masonic bands and choral societies will supply music.

Dancing in Street.

The Flag day ceremonies will be followed by the Grand Monarch's Ball, given at Alhambra Grotto. The overflow from the ballroom will be taken care of by a street dance in the block on Magnolia, between Grand and Spring avenue, which will be roped off. There will be about 40 visiting bands to furnish music.

Tuesday there will be a parade of all visiting Masons, starting at 2 p. m. at Twelfth boulevard and Olive street. The parade will move through downtown streets and west over Locust, Lindell and West Pine boulevard to Forest Park.

A drill contest will be held Wednesday on the drill grounds in Forest Park, with army officers as judges. There will be a choral contest and organ recital by visiting Masons at the Scottish Rite Cathedral Tuesday evening, which will conclude with a mass chorus of more than 500 voices.

Wednesday afternoon there will be a massed band concert of 1500 pieces in the Municipal Theater, in Forest Park. The band, it is said, will be the largest ever gathered under the direction of one leader. Wednesday evening 10,000 of the delegates will attend the opera. The entire Municipal Theater seating capacity has been purchased for the evening, and the boxes are reserved for officers of the Supreme Council and Past Monarchs.

Reception Committee.

A large reception committee of St. Louis Masons is prepared to meet the visitors at Union Station as they arrive tomorrow and Tuesday. All delegations will march in full uniform, led by a band, to their hotels. The downtown district will be decorated with flags and the blue and orange of the Veiled Prophets.

Special entertainment has been arranged for women visitors to the convention. There will be daily sightseeing tours, luncheons and receptions. One thousand automobiles will be placed at the disposal of the guests, and the steamer St. Paul has been chartered for Wednesday and Thursday for the visitors.

FESTIVAL TO AID OUTING FUND

Church Will Give Money to Camp for Mothers and Children.

In order to give free outings to mothers and their children, there will be festival Tuesday, from 4:30 to 10 p. m. on the playground of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Communion, 2809 Washington boulevard. The proceeds will go to Camp Huldina, the summer farm maintained by the church below Jefferson Barracks.

It takes $4 a week to support a mother and one child at the camp, and public contributions will be welcomed, and should be sent to Rev. E. S. White, Church of the Holy Communion.

DECIDES ON BEST LIFE INSURANCE

"Five years ago I was refused life insurance because of my heart symptoms. Doctors said it was caused from a pressure of gas that came from my stomach, but their medicine did not help me and I was getting worse all the time. Three years ago my druggist recommended MAYR'S. I took a course of it and believe it is the best life insurance anyone can buy. It helped my trouble at once.'' It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflamation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores, Walgreen Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

LAWYER TO APPEAL FOR WAINWRIGHT FEE

Laughlin and Frumberg Consider Verdict Complete Vindication of Their Course.

David Weinstein, New York lawyer, intends to appeal from the verdict of a Federal Court jury which decided, Friday evening, that he had not acted in good faith toward the St. Louis law firm of Laughlin, Frumberg, Blodgett & Russell, which engaged him in connection with the recent will contest suit of Rosalind Velva Kendall Wainwright against the Ellis Wainwright estate.

The jury refused to grant Weinstein's claim for one-fourth of the $50,000 fee obtained by the firm from the settling of the claim for $215,000. Furthermore, it gave the St. Louis law firm a counter judgment against Weinstein for $960 of the $1000 expense allowance given Weinstein by the St. Louis lawyers and not expended by him.

Instructs on "Double Cross."

Judge Faris instructed the jury that the only issue in the case was whether Weinstein had acted in good faith in carrying out the contract made with the St. Louis law firm on which he based his suit. "To descend to the vernacular," the Court said, "if you find that the plaintiff 'double-crossed' the defendants, your verdict must be for the defendants.

Samuel Chess, who did the chief work in New York in behalf of the claimant, said that Weinstein "jimmied his way" into the case, wrote to the St. Louis lawyers, telling them that he was counsel for an important witness in the suit, Lillian Morello, a nurse, and complaining that she had been induced to sign a false statement. After this, the St. Louis firm engaged Weinstein to get the statements of this and other witnesses.

The defense, in the recent suit, alleged that Weinstein failed to perform the work for which he was engaged, and that on the contrary, he added to the difficulty which they had in getting the needed statements of fact.

Frumberg's Statement.

Attorney Frumberg said yesterday that testimony given by Randolph Laughlin, one of his partners, had been misunderstood, and that Laughlin, after Weinstein's failure to render the service contracted for, did not favor paying his claim against the firm.

"On the contrary," said Frumberg, "our firm offered in writing to deposit the money in any bank in New York designated by Weinstein, provided he would sue in New York, where the witnesses were, and not here. Mr. Laughlin never agreed to pay him, but we stood upon his discharge, after his failure to perform the services promised by him, and we refused to have anything more to do with him. The jury's verdict is a complete vindication of our course."

PRISONER LEAPS FROM CAR WINDOW OF MOVING TRAIN

Jack Van Dyke Took Advantage of Diminished Speed on a Steep Grade.

St. Louis police have been asked to watch for Jack Van Dyke, alias Roy Watrous, 40 years old, who escaped from Sheriff Humes of Joplin, Mo., by leaping from the window of a Frisco train at Dixon Hill, near Lebanon, Mo., Friday night. He is said to have a wife and two children in St. Louis.

Employed in Webb City, Mo., as a shoe cutter a year ago, Van Dyke is alleged to have given a worthless $15 check as a deposit for rental on an automobile, in which he drove away. He was arrested this week in Columbus, O., and Sheriff Humes went after him. On the way back Van Dyke was held at Police Headquarters here Thursday ingth for safekeeping, and Friday the Sheriff continued the journey with ihs prisoner. Van Dyke was lying in a seat in the train, his feet propped against the window sill, and he slipped out of the window as the train moved slowly up a steep grade. Sheriff Humes searched, but found no trace of the prisoner who was wearing handcuffs.

24-YEAR-OLD NOBLEWOMAN MARRIES IMPRESARIO, 60

Lady Patricia Blackwood, Daughter of Marquis, Bride of Henry Russell in Paris.

PARIS, June 12.—Henry Russell, former managing director of the Boston Opera House, was married yesterday in the British Consulate to Lady Patricia Blackwood, daughter of the Marquis of Dufferin and Ava, speaker of the Senate of Northern Ireland.

Russell is 60 years old; his bride is 24. He met Lady Patricia in Australia when he was conducting one of Melba's tours. He and his son, Sheridan Russell, cellist, and Lady Patricia, with a chaperone, returned from the Orient last April to the Russell place at La Turbie, above Monte Carlo.

The engagement, announced at that time, caused something of a stir for Lady Patricia was known as a young woman who would do exactly as she pleased regardless of her family's wishes.

Mrs. Nina Russell, the impresario's first wife, obtained a divorce several years ago, but has remained on very friendly terms with him. It was learned only a short time ago that Russell also has been married to Donna Chinn from whom he is also divorced.

AMBASSADOR THEATER WILL OPEN ON AUG. 21

Skouras Brothers' Building at Seventh and Locust Nearing Completion.

The 17-story $5,500,000 Ambassador theater and office building at the northwest corner of Seventh and Locust streets will open Saturday, Aug. 21, it was announced yesterday by Skouras Bros., the owners.

Wrecking of the old buildings on the site did not begin until May 1, last, and the new structure is ahead of schedule. Favorable weather and labor conditions made fast work possible. The shell of the theater is finished, interior work is under way and exterior brickwork is nearing the top.

The first six floors will be devoted to the theater and the remainder to offices. Entrance to the theater lobby will be at the corner of Seventh and Locust. The lobby will run east and west, opening into the auditorium which will run north and south with the stage at the north end. Small shops will face on Seventh and Locust streets.

The theater will have 3200 seats on the main floor, a loge and a balcony. Skouras brothers are said to have abandoned plans for a larger theater because stage presentations do not "go over" well in vast auditoriums.

Plastering and decoration will be followed by the installation of seats, draperies, stage, projection room equipment and cooling system. Spiros Skouras, president of Skouras Brothers Enterprises, is now in Los Angeles, negotiating with movie stars to attend the opening of the theater.

PARKING RESTRICTIONS FOR ALHAMBRA GROTTO PARADE

A Number of Streets Will Be Kept Clear From 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Tuesday.

Acting Mayor Neun yesterday signtd a special ordinance prohibiting the parking of vehicles Tuesday on streets which will form the route of the Alhambra Grotto (Masonic) parade, and adjoining streets on which the lines will form. The provisions will be in effect only from 9 a. m. until 6 p. m. for the one day.

Under its provision, no parking will be permitted on either side of the following streets: Market from Twelfth to Fourteenth; Twelfth from Clark to Olive; Olive from Broadway to Twelfth; Broadway from Olive to Washington; Washington from Broadway to Twelfth; Twelfth from Washington to Locust; Locust from Twelfth to Leonard; Lindell Cut-off; Lindell from Channing to Boyle; Boyle from Lindell to West Pine; Sarah from Lindell to West Pine; West Pine from Sarah to Kingshighway; Clark from Eleventh to Fourteenth, and Walnut from Eleventh to Twelfth.

OLD COLONY CLUB BRANCH SEEKS LARGER PERSONNEL

Now Has 394 Members in St. Louis; Is Personal Service Organizer.

Additional members of the St. Louis branch of the Old Colony Club, an international business and personal service organization, are being sought by P. B. Gravely, executive secretary, of New York. The club has 394 members here. Its local office is at Hotel Jefferson.

In 1925 the club purchased 211,447 railroad tickets for members at a cash value of $3,221,151. It secured 168,755 hotel rooms, purchased 192,464 theater tickets and served 151,886 meals in Old Colony dining rooms. The total number of all types of services rendered last year by the club was 1,725,137.

PEER OFFERS $5,000,000 IF LLOYD GEORGE IS ELIMINATED

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 12.—A political flurry has been caused by reports that an unnamed Liberal Peer has offered to donate $5,000,000 to the party funds on condition that David Lloyd George, the former Premier, cease to be associated with the organization.

It is understood that a member of the Liberal candidates' association referred to this report in last night's meeting of the association and asked whether it were true.

According to Lloyd George's supporters there was no direct denial of the story.

ST. LOUISANS TO CONVENTION

St. Louis railroads will be represented at the thirty-third annual convention of the American Association of Railroad Superintendents, which open Tuesday at Montreal. Edward H. Harman, assistant to general manager, of the Terminal Railroad Association, is president of the association, and J. Rothschild, also of St. Louis, is the secretary-treasurer.

Safety on the roads, in the shops, and at the crossings will be stressed in an address by T. H. Carrow of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who heads the Safety Section of the American Railway Association. In addition to the American roads, the railways of Canada and Mexico also will have representatives.

407th Infantry Reserve Dinner.

A dinner and conference of officers of the 407th Infantry, Reserve, will be held at the Elks Club next Tuesday at 6:15 p. m. The meeting will be the last monthly conference until after the summer encampment at Hannibal, Mo., in October. Col. E. J. McMahon commands the regiment.

B. & O. PLANS TO SUBSTITUTE BUS LINES FOR STATION

Railroad to Combine Motor Coach and Ferry Service From New York to Trains in New Jersey.

By J. C. ROYLE.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Street to railroad station delivery of passengers is being arranged for in New York by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The company is preparing to start operation Sept. 1 of a fleet of busses which will carry passengers from the Baltimore & Ohio terminal at Jersey City, which it will occupy with the Central Railroad of New Jersey, to points in upper and lower Manhattan. The busses also will pick up in New York passengers for the West and South and transport them to the waiting trains.

This innovation, which is counted on virtually to eliminate the necessity of huge stations and waiting rooms in central parts of cities where real estate values are extremely high, may be a revolutionary step in certain phases of railroad operation generally.

The move by the Baltimore & Ohio is not a matter of choice. It is dictated by the necessity of an entry and exit from New York for its passengers. During the war years, and under Federal control, the Baltimore & Ohio and the Pennsylvania lines both used the Pennsylvania terminal at Thirty-fourth street. After the roads were turned back by the Federal Railroad Administration, the Baltimore & Ohio continued to use the Pennsylvania terminal at a rental of $1,000,000 a year. The lease was extended to Sept. 1, 1926, but the Pennsylvania management declined to renew it beyond that time.

The bus system is the answer of President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio to this decision, which B. & O. interests felt would hamper the road greatly in its bid for business to and from the largest city in the country.

The busses, according to details of the plan obtained by the writer from a reliable source, will be carried across the North River on ferry boats. The present ferry equipment of the Central Railroad of New Jersey is not deemed sufficient to handle the double traffic, so four new Diesel-electric ferryboats are being built by the American Brown Boveri Electric Corporation at Philadelphia to supply this need. It is understood they

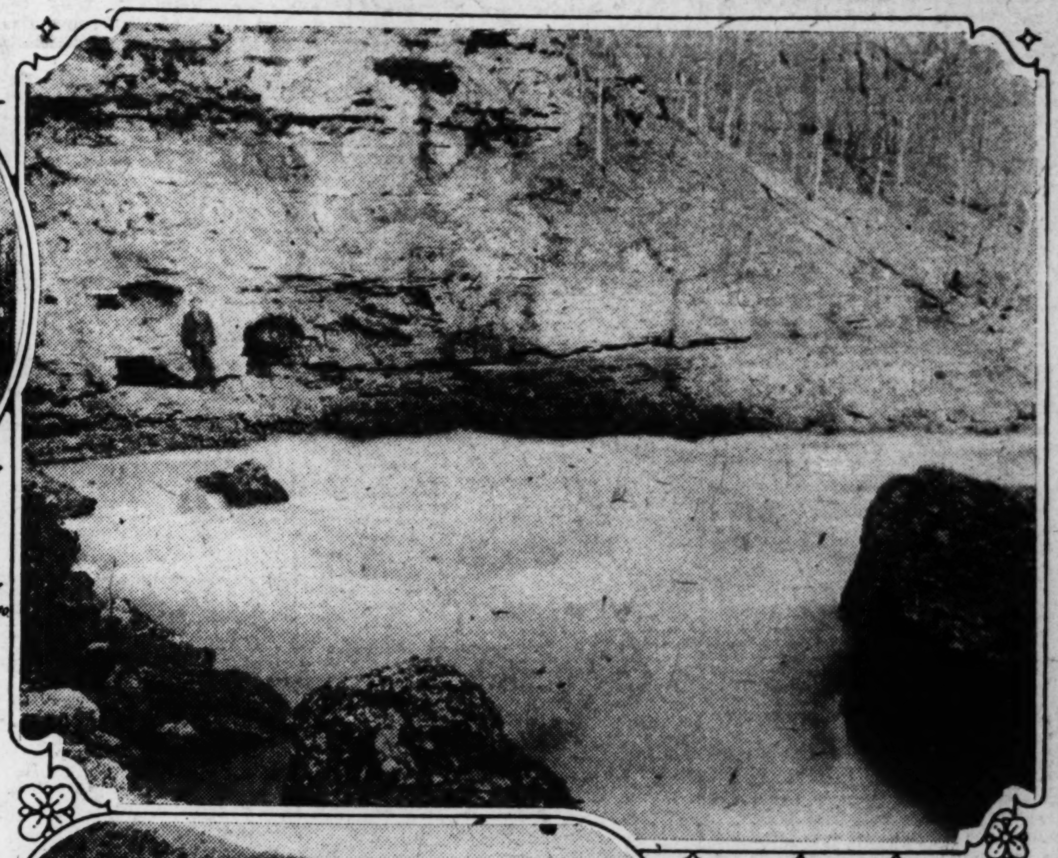
Vacation Tour Into Big Springs Region of Missouri

THE KUCKER STUDIO, SPRINGFIELD, MO.



THE KUCKER STUDIO, SPRINGFIELD, MO.

REED BROS. STUDIO, POPLAR BLUFF, MO.

A highly enjoyable vacation trip of three days to two weeks is available to St. Louisans in the Big Springs region, northwest of Poplar Bluff. It is especially to be commended to motor campers. It offers good gravel roads, beautiful and widely varied scenery, fishing and many interesting sights in addition to the springs.

This region has been thoroughly explored and the trip has been mapped by R. H. Hall of the Press Bureau of the Automobile Club of Missouri as one of the series of tours prepared especially for the Joint Touring Bureau, which is maintained by the Post-Dispatch and the Automobile Club on the ground floor of the Post-Dispatch building. A complete log of the trip was got up by George Drummond, head of the Automobile Club's touring department.

The State highways traversing the Ozarks are in excellent condition. Continual rains cause no change in their condition, as they are of gravel and carefully maintained by patrols which cover each section at least once a week.

How to Get There.

Leaving St. Louis on State Highway No. 9 (Lemay Ferry road), one motors 163.7 miles to Poplar Bluff. For 67 miles south of St. Louis the highway is of concrete. Between Flat River and Poplar Bluff one of the finest stretches of gravel road in the State is traversed.

From Poplar Bluff to Van Buren, a distance of 42.4 miles, State Highway No. 16 is followed. This road is likewise of gravel construction and is on a par with that north of Poplar Bluff. Between the latter city and Van Buren is some of the most picturesque scenery in the Southern Missouri Ozarks. The road winds up hill and down dale, around jutting cliffs, through forests and across the beds of tiny creeks that scarcely wet the wheels of one's car. Here one can travel mile after mile, hemmed in by mountainous hills and woods, and never come upon a homestead. Occasionally, however, down the road comes an Ozark farmer astride a mule or horse, and occasionally a fleet of tourists from some far away state.

At Big Springs Park.

The Big Springs State Park at Van Buren provides the first center of interest. If one arrives at Van Buren in the late afternoon, the evening can be spent at the local hotel. Of if one has camping paraphernalia, he may use the big camp site in the Big Springs Park free.

Big Springs Park is five miles southeast of Van Buren, over a winding road so narrow that passage of two cars at one time is impossible. At intervals areaways have been cut out alongside the road, so that one car can sidetrack while another passes. The Highway Department plans early reconstruction of this road. For the greater part of the distance, the Current River skirts the roadway. The river is exceptionally wide here. That there is good fishing is evidenced by the large catches fishermen bring in now and then.

A fenced area of approximately 5000 acres of virgin forest, lofty hills and bald cliffs, makes up the State Park, which was acquired early in 1925 at a cost of $25,000.

The chief attraction at the park is Big Spring. It gushes forth from an unknown source at the base of a 300-foot perpendicular cliff, and is said to be the second largest spring in the United States, being surpassed in size only by one on the east coast of Florida. Contrary to general belief, it is larger than Mammoth Spring, in Arkansas. With an average daily flow of 240,000,000 gallons of water, it has been known to belch forth 543,000,000 gallons in 24 hours, according to State Geologist H. A. Buehler of Rolla.

Water Roars Out of Spring.

Long before the park is reached the roar of waters gushing against the surrounding cliffs is heard. The Big Spring, in finding egress from underneath the mountain, comes out with force sufficient to throw boulders several yards, and the noise of the churning waters is almost deafening. Whitecaps ride the crest of crystal clear waves churned into a maelstrom by the pressure of the spring. A pool, in places 50 feet deep and a hundred feet wide, catches the water from the spring. From this the water enters the Current River, which winds lazily through the park.

On the banks of the Current River, in the center of the park, the State has built a modern bathhouse for tourists. To the right of the bathhouse the State maintains a commissary, where foods may be purchased. Near at hand is the camp ground, spacious enough to accommodate several hundred campers at a time.

Two days might profitably be spent here, for, after one has seen the spring, there are yet 5000 acres of forest to be wandered through, steep cliffs and rolling hills to be climbed, and many interesting nooks and crannies to be explored. Of especial interest will be a fissure in the cliff overhanging the spring, where for years bees have been storing hundreds of pounds of honey. It is estimated by natives that if the fissure were accessible a small fortune

PRETTY 65-MILE CIRCLE TOUR FOR SUNDAY DRIVING

Good Roads on This Trip Through Picturesque Eureka-House Springs Region.

A Sunday afternoon tour with a real country flavor is the 65-mile circle trip from St. Louis to House Springs and return. Old State road, which is traversed for eight miles after Manchester road is left behind, offers some of the most picturesque scenery near St. Louis. From the tops of high hills, which are accessible over winding gravel roads in good condition, but so steep that they must be made in second gear by many cars, one sees a colorful panorama of the Meramec Valley country—deep, hazy valleys, league-long slopes of meadowland and masses of verdure. In the background more hills blue and faint in the distance.

Worth While Climb.

Farther on, when traversing Bald Hill road one suddenly comes round a turn in the road to find directly ahead, the magnificent bald dome of the hill from which the road takes its name.

One wonders if a trudge up the hill to its top might be worth the effort. The experiment proves a success and from the topmost point, on every side, is unfolded a countryside riotous with color, through which flow two rivers, the Meramec and the Big River.

This trip is one of the vicinity tours prepared for the Joint Touring Bureau of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the Automobile Club of Missouri by Robert H. Hall of the Press Bureau, and George E.

Read this one advertisement and you'll convince yourself that—

The New-Day JEWETT SIX does give you more for your money

THIS advertisement is written for those solid citizens who are going to spend around a thousand dollars for a motor car—and who are going to insist that they get the greatest possible value for their money.

Vision

No motor car ever built, at any price, provides wider or freer vision than the New-Day Jewett. Slender pillars of sturdy steel, replacing wider yet weaker wood, and a wide sweep of glass—completely eliminate the deadly "blind spot."

Safety

No other car at Jewett's price is equipped with Paige Hydraulic 4-wheel brakes. This is the most expensive braking system built—but the best and the safest. The slightest pressure brings the car to cushioned rest almost immediately. Brakes are always perfectly equalized.

Ease of Handling

Ball bearings are generously used throughout the steering mechanism of the New-Day Jewett. The steering wheel is large and conveniently placed. The gear shift lever is within easy reach. You can steer the New-Day Jewett with your finger tips—and drive it all day without fatigue.

Engine

The highly perfected and wonderfully simplified engine develops ample power for your every need; more speed than you'll ever require. Oil forced under high pressure prevents bearing wear and insures smoothness and long life. Timing is accomplished with the best silent chain drive on the market.

Accessibility

Extreme accessibility is seen not only on the engine, but throughout the chassis. Compare with other cars and see how much more quickly and easily you can remove the cylinder head to clean carbon; see how readily you can get at tappets, timing, electrical units, differential gears and steering gears for adjustment and inspection without removing from car.

Sturdiness

The chassis of this Jewett is solid and substantial enough to support a car twice its size. The frame is 5½ inches deep where most cars of this class are 4½ inches or 5. Springs are from 1 to 4 inches longer than other cars in Jewett's field. Clutch, transmission, axles and drive shafts are larger than commonly used—always oversize.

Roominess

There is more interior room in the New-Day Jewett Sedan than in many cars of much longer wheelbase. The leg room in front measures 40 inches; in the rear 48 inches. The head room is the same as in the more expensive cars. The extra wide seats hold five adults comfortably.

Features and Accessories

The pedal pads are adjustable; the running boards are all steel; there is a cowl ventilator; dome light; door pockets. The car is upholstered in beautiful silky, long-wearing materials—it is finished in lacquer; rubbed, waxed and polished. There are rotary window lifts; a coincidental theftproof lock; the battery is unusually large and there are many other features.

Try Them—Before You Buy Them

Specification for specification—feature for feature—point for point—this New-Day car will quickly and definitely convince the most careful buyer of its greater value. We'll arrange a demonstration anywhere or at any time—entirely without obligation. Come in—or phone us—soon.

$995 for the Standard Sedan; De Luxe Sedan, $1095; De Luxe Touring Car, $1095. All prices f. o. b. Detroit, tax extra. Paige-Hydraulic 4-wheel brakes included.

OVERLAND TO COMPETE WITH CHEVROLET AND FORD

TOLEDO, June 12.—Statements made on apparently good authority says that Willys-Overland, Inc., is soon to bring out a new, light four-cylinder car which will be directly competitive with Ford and Chevrolet. It is expected that a general announcement will be made about the first of July and that the new car will follow the European style of construction in that it will be capable of high speed, will be low in construction and will travel much farther on a gallon of gasoline than present cars.

Net earnings of the company for May are expected to be in the vicinity of $2,500,000 and all departments are working at capacity. A new record in Willys-Knight production was made in May when on one day 416 of the new Willys-Knight "70" models were built.

No matter how fine a motor car you drive, its satisfactory performance is absolutely dependent on its spark plugs. This is why engineers select Champions as standard equipment, and why two out of three motorists the world over buy Champions regularly.

THREE CHRYSLER DEALERS ADDED

Phillips Motor Co., St. Johns Motor Co. and Graf Motor Co. Appointed by G. M. Berry, Inc.

Three prominent automobile firms in the metropolitan St. Louis area—the Phillips Motor Co., Webster Groves; the St. Johns Motor Co., 8800 St. Charles road, and the Graf Motor Co., Ferguson — have been appointed Chrysler motor car dealers by G. M. Berry, Inc., Chrysler distributer. All are now showing the full lines of Chrysler "80" Imperial, "70," "60" and "58" cars.

R. L. Phillips.

The Phillips Motor Co., of which R. L. Phillips is head, is one of the best known suburban automobile firms in this district, and has been in the motor car business in Webster Groves for eight years. Its automobile showrooms and service station at Lockwood and Summit avenues are among the most fully appointed and equipped in this part of the country.

The St. Johns Motor Co. has a well equipped sales and service station. The firm consists of J. T. Jordan and his son, I. F. Jordan, the latter actively in charge. The Jordans have been in the automobile business for years.

The Graf Motor Co. of Ferguson, has a thoroughly modern sales and service establishment. The Grafs have been identified with Ferguson for a number of years, and have been in the automobile business since 1914.

In announcing the appointments, L. M. Stewart, manager for G. M. Berry, Inc., recalled the fact that the Chrysler factory, which began production in January, 1924, sold 137,000 automobiles in 1925, an increase of 50,000 over sales in its first year. With the addition of the "80" model, a 92-horsepower car, the Chrysler line is one of the most complete ever offered, including four distinct lines.

FRANKLIN OFFICIAL FINDS BUSINESS GOOD IN DISTRICT

H. N. de Witt, district sales manager for the Franklin automobile factory, was in St. Louis Friday visiting the Franklin Motor Car Co. of St. Louis. He has been traveling the territory extensively, and reports business good and the outlook excellent.

JORDAN FINDS OUTLOOK GOOD ON TOUR OF UNITED STATES

Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor Car Co., who has just completed a trip covering all the principal cities in the country, brings back an optimistic view of the business situation. "Business generally," says Jordan, "is good, in spite of the feeling engendered when a more conservative policy in production was established by the automobile industry in March.

"There is only one explanation for the curtailment which followed the excess production of the winter. That can be expressed in a few words. There is a limit to credit selling. It happened that some of the manufacturers exceeded the possibilities of their dealers in handling trades and time paper, bu the reaction to this over-expansion of credit selling took place in time to avoid serious consequences. Now business is moving along at a normal rate and satisfactorily.

"Jordan dealers throughout the country have had an increase of more than 100 per cent in sales since the first of the year, as compared with a year ago, while retail sales have increased over 50 per cent, in spite of the lateness of the spring.

"The Jordan company had its biggest month in April, while the production in May and June bids fair to exceed the production of any previous corresponding period."

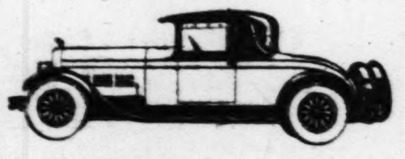
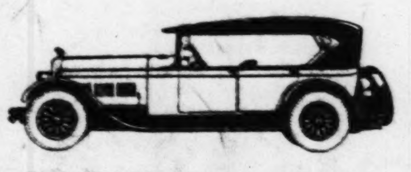
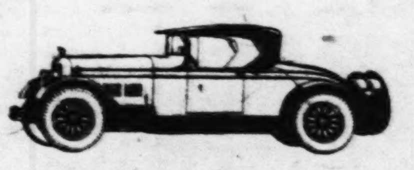
The NEW STUTZ 4-passenger VICTORIA COUPE



The NEW STUTZ 2-passenger COUPE



The NEW STUTZ 4-passenger SPEEDSTER



The NEW STUTZ 2-passenger SPEEDSTER

THERE, in the headline, is the secret of the sensational sales success of The NEW STUTZ with Safety Chassis.

Thousands of these advanced automobiles have been built and sold. A real record for a car in the $3000 price-class!

The phenomenal demand for The NEW STUTZ has far exceeded even the most liberal expectations of its designers and builders and the Stutz factory problem continues to be one of increased production.

Naturally, the wise motorist wants to protect his investment by buying the automobile that is conceded in engineering circles as the car of the future.

By purchasing a NEW STUTZ, the buyer protects his investment against the impending obsolescence now confronting conventionally designed cars.

In The NEW STUTZ you will find the most advanced features of American and European automotive engineering. Improvements that eventually must be adopted by other fine cars.

Today these developments are confined either to The NEW STUTZ in America, or to the more expensive motor cars in Europe.

The best time to order your NEW STUTZ is now, for, with thousands of motorists daily learning the rare roadability, driving-charm and exclusive safety features of The NEW STUTZ, a further oversold situation is evident.

Body five inches nearer the ground —yet providing full road clearance and headroom
Radically lowered center of gravity —giving greater safety, comfort and roadability
Quiet, long-lived, worm-drive rear axle —permitting lowered body; it improves with use
90 H. P. motor; with overhead camshaft —novel design; smooth, flexible, vibrationless
New, non-leaking hydrostatic brakes —inherently equalized; quick-acting and positive

DODGE BRANCH IN WEBSTER GROVES

Tate Motor Co. to Erect Its Own Building—Temporary Service Station Being Put Up.

Dodge cars are to be sold and serviced in Webster Groves hereafter by the Tate Motor Co., Inc., the distributer, which has bought a site and prepared plans for immediate erection of a fully equipped branch showroom and maintenance station.

To provide Tate service for Dodge cars at once, the company has rented the vacant lot on Lockwood avenue, between Gray and Jefferson avenues, and has obtained a permit to erect a temporary service building. Work has been started and the contractor has promised to have the building ready for service work by Wednesday night of this week. The Tate Co. is ready to begin service work the minute the temporary building is ready Wednesday. The building will be sufficiently large and equipped to care for the large Dodge ownership in Webster Groves and give the same Tate service that is given at the main building in St. Louis, says B. R. Ford, manager of the Tate Co.

The manager of the Tate Co. branch will be D. Donnelly, who resides in Webster Groves. Donnelly was manager of the Supreme Motor Co., which at one time was distributer of a well-known car in St. Louis. The branch service manager will be Frank Schmalz, who has been acting as assistant to Ford and specializing on service for the Tate Co.

Construction of the branch building, Ford said, is necessitated by the fact that no suitable building is available in Webster Groves. Work will be pushed to have the branch building ready as early as possible.

How to Go

Joint Touring Bureau: Please tell what route Missouri Highway No. 14 will follow from St. Clair to St. Louis. Will it use the Antire road or a short cut north of that road. DEICKE.

Highway No. 14 will follow a short cut from St. Clair that will intersect present No. 12 and No. 14 near Gray's Summit. Nos. 14 and 12 run together now out the Manchester road as far as Union, where they diverge, No. 14 turning off to St. Clair, Rolla, Springfield and Joplin, No. 12 continuing on through Union, Rosebud and Drake to Jefferson City, Sedalia and Kansas City. There is no thought of using the Antire road route for No. 14. At present contractors are busy cutting down hills and laying pavement on No. 14 from the St. Louis-Franklin County line on through Gray's Summit, but it will be a number of weeks before this part of the route can be used. Meanwhile, it is necessary to detour on No. 14 through Pacific.

PRETTY 65-MILE CIRCLE TOUR FOR SUNDAY DRIVING

To Eureka and Beyond.

One leaves St. Louis over Forsythe avenue to Clayton. Thence over Ladue road to Price road and into Clayton road. Denny road comes next and then Manchester road (concrete) to Evansville, half mile west of which one swings left with Old State road. On this road one passes to the left of Glencoe and on to Eureka.

From Eureka, Bald Hill road meanders on and across a steel bridge over the Meramec. Gazing back over this road the motorist has a beautiful view of the bluffs towering above the stream. A mile further on he comes to a fork where a road angles off to the left across a bridge over Big River. This road straight ahead should be followed. It is [illegible] narrow here, hemmed on the [illegible] by the Big River and on the right by bluffs which at times cast a canopy of shade across the road. Four miles of this and a fork in the road is encountered. Bear to the left, avoiding the right turn, which angles toward Byrnesville.

The bridge over Big River is then negotiated and presently one turns left into Gravois road, State Highway No. 30. This highway, through House Springs and High Ridge to the concrete at Fenton, is a fine specimen of the secondary roads being built in Missouri by the highway department. There is not a ripple in the road and uphill and down and across level stretches, an automobile rolls as easily as over a concrete road. The concrete road from Fenton leads directly into St. Louis through Affton.

Roy F. Britton, president of the Automobile Club of Missouri, was re-elected a member of the Executive Committee of the American Automobile Association, at the association meeting in Chicago. The club also was represented at the meeting by G. M. Berry and Boyle O. Rodes, directors, and Matt Morse, general manager.

B. & O. PLANS TO SUBSTITUTE BUS LINES FOR STATION

will be delivered in time to begin operation by Sept. 1.

It is not planned to run the Baltimore & Ohio busses through the new vehicular tunnel now nearing completion. There is now before Congress a bill dealing with trans-river traffic between Camden and Philadelphia which contains certain provisions that caused Baltimore & Ohio officials to decide not to depend on the tunnel route until the fate of the bill was definitely settled.

It is likely that the new ferryboats will dock at or near Thirty-fourth street. Thence the busses will be routed through the shopping, theater and hotel districts, and, incidentally, will transfer passengers to and from New England between the slip and Grand Central Station. This will enable passengers to buy through transportation between the South and West and New England.

It is possible that small branch stations, from which busses will start, will be maintained in various parts of the city. But, to a certain extent, the hotels and stores will act as waiting rooms and stations, and it is possible that arrangements will be made for the sale of tickets at such places. The busses also would give access to Brooklyn and other Long Island centers.

BRIDGE OVER MISSISSIPPI AT NEW ORLEANS PLANNED

A permit for building an automobile and pedestrian bridge across the Mississippi river at New Orleans has been sought from the Louisiana Highway Commission. The cost is estimated at $5,000,000 or more, and New York financiers are said to have promised to supply the money. Plans propose a bridge with spiral ramp approaches to avoid costly approaches and a span 1650 feet long.

VACATION TOUR IN BIG SPRINGS REGION OF SOUTH MISSOURI

could be made by salvaging the honey.

When one has had enough of the Big Springs country or, rather, when one's allotted time has been used up, the westward journey from Van Buren to the State parks at Eminence and Alley may be begun. The question then rises as to where the tourist, not equipped for outdoor camping, should lodge. Accommodations at Eminence, from which point Round Springs State Park is most easily accessible, are meager, nor are there such accommodations at Alley, where the Alley Springs State Park is located.

The writer found Rymers Rustic Ranch, eight miles north of Birch Tree, Mo., to be the most logical point from which these parks can be explored. Rymers Ranch is a very agreeable resort, furnishing an excellent menu, individual rustic log cabins, a dance pavilion, horseback riding and prime fishing on Jack's Fork River. The registry, however, is limited to a certain number of guests and reservations should be made ahead of time.

From this point the State parks may be reached over the regular motor highways, or "cross lots" on horseback.

Strange Spring Here.

At this place, too, is the Ebb and Flow spring, which has remained a mystery to scientists despite years of research. This spring, the only one of its kind in this part of the United States, flows spasmodically at irregular intervals. Its source is believed to be a sunken river, fallen below the surface during the glacial period. On occasion it has spewed forth as high as 14,000,000 gallons of water in a few hours, causing Jack's Fork River, into which its overflow runs, to rise high above its banks. On the average, however, and usually once in each 24 hours, it throws forth 5,000,000 to 8,000,000 gallons of water.

Birch Tree is 43.4 miles west of Van Buren on Highway No. 16. This highway, like all other stretches encountered in this region, is of gravel construction and in excellent condition. Rymers Ranch lies eight miles to the north, the route being marked immediately on entry into Birch Tree.

Motorists intent upon camping at the State parks leave Van Buren and travel 23.7 miles westward on No. 16 to Winona, whence No. 19 is traversed for 8.8 miles to Eminence, which is the jumping-off place to Round Springs and Alley Springs State Parks. Round Springs Park lies about six miles north of Eminence on Highway No. 19; Alley Springs Park is seven miles west of the town, on a narrow wild roadway which fords eight creek beds.

The State has done very little work at Round Springs Park. The main point of interest here is the spring, which forms a pretty spectacle in that it is partly submerged and flows from under a natural rock bridge worn into fantastic shape by the flowing waters of centuries. Access to the spring is rather treacherous.

A beautiful specimen of the concrete bridges being built by the State Highway Department spans the Current River in the park.

Alley Springs Park is full of interest. Aside from the spring, the old water-wheel corn mill operated by the State, and Branson's Cave, in the far west corner of the park, should be visited.

An Interesting Cave.

A. A. Drewell, the resident superintendent, conducts parties through the park, especially through Branson's Cave. This cave should not be explored except under Drewel's guidance, for it is a veritable labyrinth and one may easily become lost. The writer narrowly escaped spending a lonely night in it.

This cave is approximately one-half mile in length and is made up of a series of halls connecting many rooms, which have perplexing outlets into other areaways. Some of the most fascinating stalactite and stalagmite formations in the State are found in this cave.

Alley Spring flows from the submerged base of a 500-foot cliff and has an average daily flow of 57,000,000 gallons of water. The beauty of the spring has recently been marred by building a dam directly across it. This dam provides the power to operate the State mill. The backwater from the dam has taken from the spring that impression of great force so evident at Big Springs.

Directly in front of Alley Spring is a sink hole 150 feet deep and many feet in width, the bottom of which can be seen from the rock ledge overhanging the spring. The spring's overflow empties into Jack's Fork River, three-quarters of a mile east of Alley.

A bathhouse is soon to be built adjacent to the spring pool, as is a wide sand beach, according to Superintendent Drewel. Several hundred feet from the Government postoffice and the State commissary is the camping ground, which can easily accommodate several hundred tourists at one time.

The return trip to St. Louis from Eminence or Birch Tree may be made over Highway No. 16 to Cabool, thence north to Rolla into St. Louis.

Highway No. 16 between Van Buren and Winona and Highway No. 19 from Winona to Eminence, are of sand and gravel and in very good condition. Much of the scenic beauty of the country to the right and left of these highways is hidden behind the dense screen of trees which, for a greater part of the distance, skirt the roadway. Here and there, however, topping a rise, one looks across a league-long valley and far in the distance sees the green ridges of hills seemingly rising one on top of the other. If one's eyesight is sharp enough, he can discern back of these ridges the faint blue outline of other hills.

A pronouncedly hilly country lies between Winona and Birch Tree. But occasionally the ruggedness is softened by long, level stretches of farming country, once forest, but now cleared of trees.

If all the roadways in Missouri were in as excellent condition as is the road between Birch Tree and Willow Springs, motorists would have no cause for complaint. This road is also of sand and gravel construction and is as level as is any concrete roadway.

Just west of Willow Springs, on the road to Cabool, however, a tourist will encounter four miles of Missouri roads at their worst. This stretch is virtually the only mean one traversed on the trip. It is very rutty and in rain one might become stalled in it. Highway operatives are now reconstructing this stretch and it should be completed within six weeks.

The log of the trip follows:

TIRE RETREADING SCHOOL

A plant for retreading tires, and a school for teaching retreading, have been established at 2950 Washington boulevard by the St. Louis Tire Building School, which is a branch of the Prentice Tire and Rubber Co. of Indianapolis. Eight vulcanizing machines have been installed, and four more are planned. Any old tire can be retreaded, according to Joseph Scott, manager of the school, if the sidewalls are good. Retreaded tires are said to give about two-thirds of the mileage run by the original tires. The school specializes on retreading balloon tires.

BURGDORF MOTOR CO. TO BE FLINT SIX DISTRIBUTER

Takes Over Well-Known Car From Factory Retail Branch for Whole St. Louis Territory.

The Burkdorf Motor Co., 2721 South Jefferson avenue, has been appointed distributer of the Flint six lines in Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois. The firm also will care for dealers' service and parts.

The Burgdorf Co. succeeds the St. Louis Flint Co. The Flint Motor Co. of Flint, Mich., manufacturer of Flint cars, is doing away with all retail branches and appointing distributers throughout the country. Announcement of the change was made by H. A. Walter, manager of the St. Louis Flint Co.

H. J. Burgdorf is president of the firm, and his two sons are associated with him, E. H. Burgdorf as service manager and O. Burgdorf as sales manager. The firm has handled Durant cars as a dealer, including the Flint, since 1922.

The Flint lines include the powerful "80" models, the "60" and the Flint junior coach.

LITTLE SIDE SWAY ON TURN

In a recent test an Overland sedan was driven around a hairpin turn at 55 miles per hour with a side sway of only 2 inches, as indicated by the tracks in loose sand scattered over the pavement. Another car with body of higher clearance was driven at 45 miles per hour around the same turn with wheel displacement of more than 13 inches.

New Wills-Ste. Claire Distributer

A Wills-Ste. Claire cabriolet roadster, one ofthe custom-built models of the Wills-Ste. Claire line, which is to be distributed in the St. Louis territory by the newly organized Wills-Ste. Claire Co. of Missouri, G. Fred Mayer Jr., president. The new distibutor has sales and service headquarters at 2835 Washington boulevard.

The Wills-Ste. Claire, which bears a gray goose emblem on its radiator frofnt, to signify that its speed is as that of the strong-winged flyer, which is one of the swiftest of birds, comes in a wide variety of models, including the "Gray Goose Traveler," a phaeton hpeedster; a roadster, a sabriolet roadster, a four-door brougham, a five-passenger sedan, a seven-passenger sedan and a town car. There ischoice of colors from hydro blue, chic drab and Kensington blue. Prices of the line range from around $2700 to $3600 factory list. An interesting sidelight on the care with which Wills-Ste. Claire cars have been designed is the fact that whenever a new model is contemplated it is molded in clay by a sculptor.

The Wills-Ste. Claire, which has an engine with distinctive overhead camshaft and is known as the molyddenum steel car because of the extensive use in it of this expensive and tremendously strong metal, has won a reputation for speed and stamina. It was a Wills-Ste. Claire that L. B. Miller, the Pacific Coast business ban, drove from New York to San Fancisco in 102 hours and 45 minutes. A little later, Miller took the same car and drove it 1489 miles from San Francisco to Portland, Ore., and return in 40 hours and 52 minutes elapsed time.

Car Two Days Going 300 Feet in Lower California

Trip Into Region No Auto Ever Penetrated Before Said to Be Worst Test Any Car Ever Underwent.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 12.—A Buick sedan, driven by "Outdoor" Franklin, who is famous on the Pacific Coast for his motor car explorations, has just returned from a pioneer tour into Lower California that is described as the most severe test that any automobile has endured and come through triumphantly. The Buick traveled 680 miles to penetrate 560 miles south of the border between California and the Lower California peninsula, the last 180 miles being through a section heretofore traversed only by pack train.

A Man-Breaking Trip.

As far as Onyx, which is 400 miles south of the border, the trip, while hard on the car, was not unduly trying, though not for any but the most experienced motorists. At that, it required two days for one 258-mile stretch, speeds higher than 10 miles an hour seldom being feasible, as the "road" consisted werely of wheel tracks, and there were only four watering places in the 258 miles.

"But beyond Onyx," says the Los Angeles Times, "transportation through the centuries has been confined largely to mules, the conditions being too severe even for horses.

"The character of the country, too, changed. The hills, thickly cut with dry arroyos, were more abrupt and covered with loose volcanic rock ranging in size from an apple to small boulders. The cacti, too, were larger and thicker, being higher than the top of the sedan in many places. And it was 50 miles to the first water hole.

"It was a man-breaking job that the travelers confronted. Rocks too large to be climbed by the car had to be rolled aside. And when this was not the case, axes had to be used to clear a way.

A Mile a Day.

"The mountain sides that had to be climbed, with loose rock underneath, sometimes ran as high as 45 per cent, as shown on the gradeometer of the car. Going over the top of Saraguay Mountain of the Sierra San Borgas range, the instrument showed the Buick fighting a 48 per cent grade!

"The first day out of Onyx was a banner day for Franklin. He made the high mark of eight and one-half miles. That seems slow progress, but it was fast compared to progress the next day, when, between sunup and sundown just one and one-tenth miles were covered. Boulders larger than the Buick were so thick that it seemed the expedition must end there. But by using block and tackle with the power of the car these barricades were laboriously moved aside.

"The interest in the work was heightened by the presence of rattlers which keenly resented this invasion. In a trip Franklin and his companions killed 32 rattlers and two Gila monsters.

"The thermometer hanging in the shade inside the car registered 100 degrees within a few minutes after sunup and toward the middle of the day 120. But, respite this heat, it was necessary for the party to be on water rations. This meant that not until noon could the workers quench their parched lips. The afternoon drink was given in the form of coffee.

"And in the entire trip from Onyx south the only 'sweet' water the party obtained was when a thunderstorm came. It was a timely relief, for the water supply had been reduced to three quarts. By stretching canvas Franklin caught 13 gallons.

It was a good thing that the explorers had been refreshed, for the following day was one of the most terrible experienced. With humidity in the air the next morning the sun steamed the desert and throughout the day the party had to cut its way foot by foot through a forest of mescal cacti. They suffered painful cuts.

23 Punctures in One Day.

The party had to divide time between cacti cutting and repairing punctures caused by the thorny growth. This particular day there were 23 punctures and Franklin brought home as a souvenir one tube which had 121 patches piled on over desert-made punctures.

A dry lake, four miles across, was a happy relief in the fourth day. This was a genuine speedway and for the first time since leaving Onyx high gear could be used. The record mileage of 21 miles was piled up that day, some dry arroyos being found which were free from boulders and cacti but heavy with sand.

The fifth day brought the Buick into the llano (plain) country with a fantastic forest of gardones, multi-armed cactus which averaged 45 to 50 feet high. This mesa, averaging 2100 foot elevation, is called appropriately enough, Llanos del Perdido (Plains of the Lost) and is the beginning of the Vizcaino desert which stretches away 100 miles to San Ignacio on the south.

14 Days to Cross Desert.

It required 14 back-breaking days to fight this desert in which the towering gardones, cirio spires, ocotillo and cholla cacti, together with dense mescal, were continuous obstacles. A new heart-trying condition developed here in the form of a powder-like sand into which the car often sank hub-deep. So treacherous was this sand at one point that two days were spent in moving forward 300 feet!

And the nearest water was at San Ignacio.

Adding to the difficulties of the cacti and sand were arroyos and washes, averaging 20 feet deep. Down into these, over steep, crumbling banks the car was driven, and Franklin says if there ever was a time when he blessed the designer of Buick four-wheeled brakes it was then. Getting into the washes was only a part of the trouble. Getting out was an equal problem. But Franklin says the Buick motor was as efficient on the pulling as the brakes were on the drop-downs.

In all his motor wandering over the trails of the West and Southwest, Franklin declares that he never was greeted by such a heavenly sight as when the Buick emerged from the desert and below him in a little green, palm-groved valley lay San Ignacio, the end of the trip.

Resting in the blissful quiet and shade of the palms two days, the Buick party began the homeward return by way of Santa Rosalia, the port on the gulf side 50 miles to the east and reached by a good road. At Santa Rosalia the car was placed aboard a boat and shipped to Guaymas, almost directly across the 90 miles of gulf.

On the Sonora mainland the route northward to the border was by way of Hermosilla, Magdalena and Nogales. After what the Buick had been through the roads on the Mexican mainland seemed like a speedway.

Checking up at Los Angeles, mechanics found that the only damage to the sedan was innumerable scratches on the body and one bent strut-road beneath where a large rock had been struck. Franklin and his companions state that they did not put in a drop of oil from the time they started until their return. Moreover, they add that they did not devote one minute of mechanical attention to the car on the trip.

TO RAISE PONTIAC-OAKLAND CAPACITY TO 1600 DAILY

Expansion Program to Make Possible Production of 400,000 Cars a Year by Jan. 1, Next.

Plans for expansion of the Pontiac and Oakland plants are on a far larger scale than is generally realized, according to E. A. Hatfield, head of the Mississippi Valley Motor Co., Oakland and Pontiac distributer. News dispatches have told how millions are to be spent on the expansion program, but, says Hatfield, this means increase by next January of capacity from 700 to 1600 cars per day. The investment is the Oakland Motor Car Co., including inventories, will be increased to $50,000,000.

The main feature of the expansion calls for immediate erection of a $5,000,000 factory exclusively for Pontiac sixes with a capacity of 1000 cars per day. The present Oakland factory, which has two complete automobile factories under one roof, now used for both Oakland and Pontiac six production, is to be devoted exclusively to Oaklands and is to have a capacity of 600 cars per day.

The new Pontiac plant will have a total of 1,440,000 square feet of manufacturing floor space. The combined manufacturing floor space of Oakland factories will be equivalent to a single story building 600 feet wide and a full mile long, not including the large Fisher body plant.

Dodge Sales Still Increasing.

In the four weeks ended May 29 retail deliveries by Dodge Brothers' dealers amounted to 37,660, an increase over the previous four weeks and a gain of 12,735, or 51 per cent, over deliveries in the four weeks ended May 30, 1925. Dealers in the United States alone delivered 144,199 new Dodge cars and Graham trucks from Jan. May 29, 1926, a gain of cent over the record of the corresponding period

We have been appointed Chrysler dealers in this community, an appointment which we interpret as a high honor and a serious responsibility.

The public during the past two years has come to look upon Chrysler as a manufacturer of a high order of integrity. By this appointment we feel that the good will of Chrysler owners has been placed in our hands for safe keeping.

We wish to assure all owners that as Chrysler representatives we shall serve them in accordance with the high standards of quality which characterize Chrysler cars.

The supreme Chrysler Imperial "80," as fine as money can build; the famous Chrysler "70"; and the super-value Chrysler "60," at its electrifying new low price will be on display at our salesrooms.

We are eager to demonstrate to you why these sensational cars have appealed so convincingly to men and women who know and appreciate true motor car worth and value.

REO WINS ARGENTINA RACE DOING 522 MILES IN 12 HOURS

A Reo car, attested to be stock, recently won a 12-hour race at Buenos Aires, Argentina, the Kardell Motor Car Co. is informed. The Reo was not only first among touring cars in the race, but also won the general sweepstakes prize for the best showing made by any car. The race was held on the Moron track at Buenos Aires, and the Reo covered 522 miles in the 12 hours. During the first few hours it was excessively hot, and the race was finished in a heavy rain.

Buy Your Next Car with Open Eyes

DO YOU suppose the car you now own could stand being driven around a race-track at a furious top speed for 1000 miles without let-up?

Chandler holds the record for doing 1000 miles in 689 minutes—a gruelling average of better than 86 miles an hour.

What sort of showing do you think your present car would make climbing the dizzy slopes of Pikes Peak, 14109 feet above sea level?

Chandler holds the world's record on Pikes Peak—and won its honors in an open contest with the finest cars in America. Chandler's time for climbing the snake-like highway to the top of this famous mountain is 17 minutes, 48 2/5 seconds!

How long does it take you (or somebody else you may pay to do it) to lubricate your present car from end to end?

Chandler has the famous "One Shot" System of centralized chassis lubrication. It takes but a single press of your heel on a plunger to lubricate Chandler's entire chassis—thoroughly and instantly!

And so it goes—in one thing after another, the new Chandler offers advantages and benefits peculiar to itself. Get the facts. Compare beauty, comfort, power—everything. Buy your next car with open eyes.

TRAFFIC COMMISSIONERS FANCY EUROPEAN TYPE CAR

Questionnaire Said to Reveal Majority Opinion It Would Lessen Traffic Hazards in U. S.

A questionaire to traffic commissioners of the 50 largest cities in this country, seeking their attitude toward the European type of light car as a possible means of lessening traffic hazards, is said to have developed a 70 per cent favorable opinion. A statement summarizing answers to the questionnaire says:

"Eighty per cent of the replies favored the quick acceleration of the European light car as being of distinct benefit to the rapid handling of traffic.

"Opinions as to the value of the lower type of body used on European cars were about divided. The favorable answers cited the advantages to the traffic control officer of being able to see over the tops of the cars from a slightly elevated platform.

"Seventy-five per cent felt that four-wheel brakes of approved design would aid materially in reducing the accidents caused by the lighter cars. The only ones to question the advantages of four-wheel brakes as a safety factor in traffic based their question on the personal element of the driver himself.

"Ninety-five per cent stated that the use of a lighter car would materially lessen the wear on streets and highways and result in better driving conditions with less expense to road maintenance departments.

"Ninety per cent considered that the shorter overall length of the European type light car would result in a decided improvement in parking conditions, since these cars would require far less room at the curb, could be handled easier and with less jockeying when backing into a parking space and more cars could be accommodated in the same parking length.

"An item not covered in the questionnaire, but one of importance, is the ability of the European light car to maintain a good average road speed. It would be relatively easy for an American-built light car following European principles of construction to maintain averages of 35 miles per hour over the usual highway, even in traffic lines."

MANY INTRICATE PROCESSES IN MAKING LUBRICATING OIL

There is a vast difference between petroleum as it flows from the earth and an efficient lubricating oil. The refinery in which Veedol is produced at Bayonne, N. J., is a region of giant stills, filters, storage tanks, steam and power plants and laboratories. Its working population is equal to that of many towns. Immense workshops are required to manufacture the hundreds of thousands of barrels, boxes and tins in which the many products are shipped. Before the various grades of Veedol reach the consumer, the crude petroleum as it is received through pipe lines from the Pennsylvania fields is subjected to many intricate processes and careful tests.

MARMON OFFICIAL SAYS MEN MAY DEVELOP SIXTH SENSE

With safety education in the public schools attaining such encouraging results, and with the younger generation, or at least a part of it, growing up accustomed to "stop, look and listen," the time may come, in the opinion of H. H. Brooks, general sales director of the Marmon oMtor Car Co., Indianapolis, when human being will become endowed with a sixth sense which will warn them of an automobile's approach.

Brooks concedes the responsibility of the motorist and admits that in many cases of accident the driver is at fault. But the pedestrian, while often the victim, he points out, is often more reckless and more thoughtless than the most careless motorist.

STUTZ WINNER IN CLOSED CAR CLASS ON ECONOMY RUN

The Benjamin Motor Co. has been officially informed that first place in the closed car class in the annual Los Angeles-Yosemite economy run was won by a Stutz sedan, which also was second in the sweepstakes, in which a Duesenberg touring car was first. The Stutz averaged 16.74 miles to the gallon of gasoline over the 360-mile valley and mountain course, used no extra oil and added only one pint of water. The competition was figured on the basis of ton miles, computed by multiplying the cars' weight by the number of miles traveled and dividing by the gasoline used in gallons. In figuring the sweepstakes winners, points were deducted for oil and water added during the run.

30,206 MILES IN 60 DAYS

A total of 30,206.7 miles was recorded on the speedometer of a Pontiac coach which has just finished a 60-day "run" in a dealer's window in Detroit. The car ran 14,536.3 miles in the first 30 days and 15,670.4 in the second 30 days. The speedometer was sealed during the run.

Fisher Body Sale Approved.

The stockholders of the Fisher Body Corporation have voted to dissolve the corporation and sell to General Motors, taking in payment 1,600,000 shares of common stock of General Motors Corporation. On dissolution of Fisher Body Corporation, this General Motors common stock will be distributed to stockholders of Fisher Body Corporation on the basis of one share of General Motors for each one and one-half share of Fisher Body.

LOCOMOTIVE BUILT ON TRUCK

A replica of a railroad locomotive on a one-ton Chevrolet truck chassis, hauling a miniature railroad coach, is on tour with the Morris and Castle circus. The passenger coach serves as a ticket and band wagon and is a feature of the parades in every town where the circus exhibits.

Plans supplied by the Kansas City Southern Railroad enabled Brownlee Wells Motors, Inc., Chevrolet dealers in Shreveport, La., headquarters of the circus, to build the locomotive on the Chevrolet truck chassis. It is in miniature a duplicate of one of the road's "moguls."

Due to the weight of 12 tons carried and drawn by the one-ton truck careful tests were made. It was found the truck had ample power to handle the load efficiently.

TO DISCUSS UNIFORM TRAFFIC LAWS FOR EAST SIDE CITIES

A. C. Gauen, Mayor of Collinsville and president of the St. Clair-Madison Regional Planning Association, has called a meeting for Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the East St. Louis City Hall to see whether something can be done to get a uniform traffic code for all the cities of the two counties. He has invited the Mayors of Belleville, Alton, Edwardsville, Granite City, Madison, Nameoki, Wood River, O'Fallon, Dupo, St. Jacobs, Lebanon Columbia and Mascoutah to attend.

The reason for this desire for uniformity is to help the tourist and the occasional motorist. If the plan carries, it will be a great improvement over the present arrangement of each town and city having its own speed laws.

In almost all legitimate lines of business people distrust both the merchant—and the merchandise—when prices are cut in the mere effort to make a sale.

Price-cutting merchants appeal almost exclusively to thoughtless buyers.

In the motor car business, price-cutting almost always takes the form of extra long "trading allowances".

Often people have taken long trading allowances as a substitute for real value—and found themselves no better off than they were before.

It is almost always safe to say that the dealer who over-bids on an old car in order to sell his new car, is acknowledging that his car is not worth its published price.

Ask yourself whether there is any car you had rather own than the Cadillac—and then buy your car on that basis.

STUTZ PRESIDENT VISITS BENJAMIN MOTOR CAR CO.

Moskowics Tells of Two New Seven-Passenger Models That Will Soon Be in Production.

Frederick E. Moskowics, president of the Stutz Motor Car Co. of America, was in St. Louis Tuesday visiting the Benjamin Motor Co., Stutz distributer.. While here he was the guest of J. Jerome Benjamin.

Moskowics said that two new seven-passenger Stutz models would be in production soon, and that both should be seen here some time next month. One will be a seven-passenger sedan on a 145-inch wheelbase chassis at about $3600. The other will be a chauffer-driven limousine, and will sell at around $3800. Both cars will be custom-built throughout. They will be on the Stutz safety chassis, with 92-horsepower engine, worm rear drive, low center of gravity and hydrostatic four-wheel brakes.

In the first five months of the current year the Stutz Company shipped more than 2250 cars on which it made a net operating profit of slightly less than $340,000. Its profit for May alone was in the neighborhood of $225,000.

G. M. C. CHAIN STORE PROJECT FOR RENTING CARS

Organization of a $30,000,000 transportation enterprise by the Yellow Truck and Coach Manufacturing Co., backed by the General Motors Corporation, of which it is a subsidiary, is announced by John D. Hertz, chairman of the board. It is proposed to increase the capital stock of the Yellow Truck and Coach Manufacturing Co. to provide $14,000,000, of which $10,000,000 is for the new enterprise. This is the first time that General Motors interests have engaged in operating transportation. The new company is known as the Hertz Drivurself Corp., and will act as a holding company, controlling state and local Drivurself companies throughout the United States.

This is the first time that a transportation system has been offered to the public on a chain store plan. Soon it will be possible to get a luxurious private car on a rental mileage basis in any city, use it for local or touring purposes and leave it in any other city where the person renting the car may happen to be when through with it. For example, it will be possible to obtain a car in a Hertz station in New York and leave it in San Francisco, or perhaps get it in Portland, Maine, and leave it in New Orleans.

Paige-Jewett Shipments Rise.

Shipments by the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Co. continued to increase in May. The May total was 4909 cars, including both Paiges and Jewetts.

NEW GASOLINE SAID TO SOLVE FULL PROBLEMS FOR AUTOIST

The new gasoline made by the Texas Co. is the result of much experimenting by chemists and refinery experts who aimed to produce a pure gasoline, containing no chemicals, which would have exceptional antiknock qualities for smoother engine action, and at the same time have the higher volatility to insure complete vaporization in the engine manifold, better cylinder distribution and less crank-case dilution.

The Texas Co. declares that it has succeeded in turning its entire production into a grade of gasoline with a combination of good qualities never before attained.

By this new Holmes-Manley prdocess, it is said a fuel is produced that entirely solves the gasoline problem for the motorist. It not only prevents the fouling of spark plugs, but, because of its higher volatility, gives better, more even cylinder distribution, resulting in easier starting, smoother and much better engine performance, and a decided gasoline economy. The new gasoline is said to contain no chemicals of any kind, and needs none.

G. M. BERRY HOST TO CHRYSLER DEALERS

G. M. Berry, Inc., Chrysler distributer, entertained its associate dealers in the metropolitan district and their sales organizations Thursday night at a dinner and meeting at Hotel Claridge. Sixty-five attended. D. G. Mellier, retail sales manager of G. M. Berry, Inc., acted as toastmaster. Addresses were made by G. M. Berry, president of the company, and by L. M. Stewart, vice president and general manager. Heads of the Phillips Motor Co. of Webster Groves, the St. Johns Motor Co., the Graf Motor Co. and the Campbell Motor Co.—new Chrysler dealers—were present.

CLEVELAND SIX BODY PLANT MAKES FACTORY COMJLETE

The Cleveland Motor Sales Co. is informed that, with the addition of a large body division to the factories in Cleveland, the Cleveland six car is now built virtually 100 per cent in Cleveland. From the beginning the Cleveland factory has built its own engines, transmissions, rear axles and other vital elements. The new body department forms a wing of the main plant, and bodies are built on a progressive assembly track.

The High Cost Of Excess Weight

Excess weight in motor trucks is expensive. It increases the purchase price and it costs as much to carry as an equal weight of pay load. Its cost is even greater, because it must be carried all the time.

Graham Brothers trucks have a larger proportion of pay load to chassis weight than is usually available in their respective capacities. Careful buyers are giving this due recognition, as their marked preference for Graham Brothers trucks indicates.

Built by the largest exclusive truck makers in the world—powered by Dodge Brothers dependable engine—these trucks are capable of an exceptional amount of profitable work over a long period of life.

Here are the real engineering reasons

Low gravity center High torque motor and Unit-Engineering

—only these 3 combined can give such amazing performance

BE PREPARED for a big surprise when you take your first ride in an Overland Six. A brand new kind of motoring experience awaits you . . . it's bound to change your whole idea of motor car performance.

Unlike many cars in this price class, the Overland Six is modernly engineered as an integral unit.

It is not just a modern body on a chassis that's 5 or 10 years old. But a new and revolutionary type of car, modernly engineered and designed to give a new kind of performance, comfort and driving ease.

The motor is a new type "high-torque" power plant—hung low in the chassis to give a straight line drive—with more usable power delivered to the rear axle than you find in many other Sixes.

The center of gravity is lower—keeping the weight of the car down close to the ground—you can get an entirely new feeling of security when you drive this car.

Without slipping, side-sway or wandering the car is always under perfect control. It is designed for a road speed of between 40 and 55 miles an hour—and engineered to meet the demands of such speed without wear or strain on the engine. The old fashioned car usually reaches its safety peak at about 35—and wears itself out in a hurry under modern traffic regulations.

A new departure in motor car engineering

The Overland Six will turn in a forty foot circle. Rear springs are underslung and 52 inches long. 141 square inches of braking surface provide an ample safety margin.

It has more inside space. More cubic feet than the average car of this price.

The result is ample comfort for 5 full-size passengers . . . with plenty of room to step in or out . . . room to stretch your legs with the utmost ease.

The seats are wider, the windows larger, the doors much broader. All features you'll certainly appreciate when you inspect rival cars of this price.

You are cordially invited to come in and see this remarkable automobile.

OVERLAND SIX SEDAN

$935 The new WILLYS FINANCE PLAN means less money down, smaller monthly payments; and the lowest credit-cost in the industry.

All prices f. o. b. factory. We reserve the right to change prices and specifications without notice.

RADIO FOR THE AMATEUR AND EXPERT

HIGH AND LOW TESTS

That there are limits to the power which can efficiently be used on the different wavelengths was demonstrated by the high and low power test conducted for two weeks by radio station WOK, broadcasting on 217.3 meters, according to Norman E. Wunderlich, chief engineer. Transmitters used in the test were of 2000 watts and 5000 watts input to the antenna.

"The amount of power required to obtain the same results caries with the wave length," said Mr. Wunderlich. "The higher the wave length the greater the power required. Excess power interferes with tone quality and clearness of reception. Reports received from within a radius of approximately 200 miles of Chicago indicate that we came in clearer when using the 2000-watt transmitter. Beyond this distance 70 per cent of the reports indicated that reception was better on the 5000-watt transmitter."

Adjustment of Crystal Receiver.

The slightest vibration will upset the delicate adjustment of a crystal receiver, a small piece of muslin cloth placed tightly across the surface of the crystal will prevent the contact from being thrown out of adjustment.

NEW ARRIVALS

The Ortho-sonic Model C receiver manufactured by the Federal Radio Corporation, has been formally introduced to the trade.

The "C" receiver includes four stages of tuned radio frequency amplification. All coils and variable condensers in this group are most carefully made to possess identical electrical characteristics, so that they are perfectly adapted to tuning by a single control. Adjustment of the loop or antenna circuit is accomplished by a second control, which assures the infallible balance essential to the best possible reception.

A special feature of the Model C Ortho-sonic is its multiple shielding, each circuit being completely isolated. Each coil has its own covering, with the addition of a second housing for those requiring maximum protection. Over the entire radio frequency amplifier system is still a third shield. All of these housings are made of the purest copper and sealed by a special process against electrical and magnetic leakage. Even the detector tube and audio frequency system have their individual shielding of a copper steel alloy.

Provision has been made for operation with either the integral loop or a short indoor antenna and counterpoise wire. With the loop no ground or counterpoise wire is necessary. A concealed and shielded switch facilitates the change from loop to antenna where desired. While a large outdoor antenna may be employed, its use is discouraged except under such rare conditions as exist only when static and electrical disturbances are almost entirely absent. Since the integral loop is remarkably sensitive and selective, it is entirely sufficient for distance reception.

NEW 110-VOLT TUBE

After spending several years in experimental and research work in an effort to perfect a 110-volt radio tube which would give satisfactory results, the Lestein Corporation announces that it has succeeded in developing and perfecting such a tube.

The tube, which will be known as the "Lestron" tube, operates direct from any 110-volt supply having either direct or alternating characteristic, without the use of a transformer, and eliminates both A and B batteries. It has the combined features of a rectifier, detector, oscillator, radio frequency amplifier, and is a power amplifier, the amplification factor being eight.

The metallic base itself is used for making the fifth connection from the tube, which is required, as an additional element, known as the cathode, to control the electronic emission in the tube. A plate voltage up to 200 volts may be applied to the tube without danger of overheating. One of the outstanding accomplishments claimed for the tube is that it completely eliminates the A. C. hum, and this is known to be the main obstacle in the way of eliminating the A and B batteries. The tube can be used in any type of circuit and makes possible the operation of a radio set direct from the house lighting circuit without either A or B batteries.

The cost of operating the tube is said to be about 1 per cent per hour for a five-tube set.

TWO NOTED SINGERS OVER KSD TONIGHT

Allen McQuhae, tenor, and William Simmons, baritone, will be featured on the Atwater Kent program to be broadcast tonight at 7:15 p. m., Central time, through Station KSD from the New York studio. They will be assisted by the Atwater Kent Orchestra, conducted by Nicolai Berezowsky.

Mr. McQuhae not only appeared in ons of the popular Atwater Kent radio hour's broadcast during the past winter, but inaugurated the special summer concerts which have been broadcast by WEAF and the chain stations for the last month. Mr. Simmons, who is well known on the concert platform, will also be recalled by the radio audience as one of the soloists of the Christmas program during the broadcasting of the Atwater Kent radio hour last winter.

The program will be as follows:

1. Opening Air—
   Allen McQuhae and Orchestra.
2. "Kashmiri Song" Amy Woodford Finden
   William Simmons and Orchestra.
3. "Brown Bird Singing" .... Haydn-Woof
   Allen McQuhae and Orchestra.
4. "On the Road to Mandalay" ..—Speaks
   William Simmons and Orchestra.
5. "Just a Cottage Small". DeSylva-Hanley
   Allen McQuhae and Orchestra.
6. Duet: "The Moon Hath Raised Her Lamp Above" ............ Benedict
   Messrs. McQuhae, Simmons and Orchestra.
7. "Now the Day Is Over" ...... Barnby
   Allen McQuhae and Orchestra.

OUT FOR THE SUMMER

Station WDEL at Wilmington intends to "sign off" on June 15 for the summer months, according to a report received at the Department of Commerce. The report says that the discontinuance is but temporary and that the station will resume broadcasting on Sept. 1, 1926.

WITHOUT RADIO LAW LISTENERS MAY SUFFER

Prediction That Hoover Will No Longer Shoulder Responsibility of Broadcast Regulation.

WASHINGTON, June 12—If Congress adjourns without the enactment of radio legislation, Secretary Hoover may consider that he is not justified in attempting any longer to shoulder the responsibility of regulating broadcasting.

Observers who say that is the logica lcourse for Mr. Hoover to pursue refuse to predict what may happen if all broadcasters are given a free hand to do anything they please. Whether or not chaos will result cannot be anticipated, they say.

It is believed, however, that the listening public will suffer for a time at least. It would depend entirely on the number of new stations that gon on the air, the wave lengths they use, their power and their location.

At the present time there are around 530 broadcasting stations which are on 89 wave lengths. There are on file at the Department of Commerce 625 applications for new licenses. All of the wave lengths are crowded to capacity and new stations would necessarily result in a greater time division or increased interference.

It is not believed that some of the existing broadcasting stations will share their wave lengths with newcomers without a fight. Superpower may be the weapon which some of the stations will use to combat interlopers.

There is not much probability of any new broadcaster attempting to usurp the wave length of a superpower station. The super-broadcaster would drown out its weaker rival to such an extent that operation would not be practical or profitable.

Several influential and powerful groups are known to be anxious to enter the broadcasting field on a large scale. If these new groups, together with 25 or more of the existing broadcasters, put up superpower stations, they probably can kill off all comptition so long as they do not fight among themselves.

Such action would result in the elimination of many of the existing broadcasting stations and bring the total number of broadcasters down to around 75 national stations of great power and around 200 local stations of low power.

For Ideal Reception.

There are many factors essential if ideal results are to be had from a receiver. To obtain ideal results use: Low loss parts, standard tubes throughout, and a power tube or two five-volt tubes in parallel in the last stage of audio; a "C" battery to obtain proper grid bias at every stage of amplification; straight line wave length or straight line frequency condensers; a variable grid leak; vernier dials and proper voltages on the plates of all tubes, not to mention a good aerial and ground. The detector should be made regenerative to some degree where it will not result in instability, as this will afford a greater radium of reception and sharper tuning over the entire broadcast band. Use audio amplifiers that will allow as near an approach as possible to straight line amplification, i. e., amplification without distortion. Secure a high quality loud speaker whose nominal impedence matches more or less accurately the output impedence of the last audio tube.

More Power for KGW.

The present 500-watt equipment of Station KGW operated by "The Morning Oregonian" will be replaced during the next two months with a new plant having 1000 watts power. The inauguration of the new station has been set for April 15. The application to the Department of Commerce for increased power was made almost a year ago. Station KGW will continue its past policy of operation, operating on a strictly commercial basis.

Steelcote Rubber Auto Enamel is not like any other enamel or paint on the market. Blended into it is pure para rubber which makes it elastic. The finish of a Steelcote job is permanent. The vibrations of a car, the constant jolts and jars cannot cause Steelcote to crack and chip like ordinary brittle paints do. Snow, sun, wind, road oil, boiling water, even acid cannot affect the surface. Paint your car with Steelcote Rubber Auto Enamel and your car will have a glossy finish that looks like a factory-finish job and retains its lustre.

DEMOCRATS BRING JUDICIAL PRIMARY INTO PROMINENCE

Indorsement of Col. C. L. Ristine by St. Louis City Committee Followed by Pendergast Faction.

CAPITAL FOR GANTT, HIS SUPPORTERS SAY

Rural Voters Expected to Resent Attempt of City Politicians to Dictate the Nomination.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.

The Democratic City Committee's recent indorsement of the candidacy of Col. Carl L. Ristine of Lexington for the Democratic nomination for Judge of the Supreme Court, following closely upon an announcement from Kansas City that Ristine had the support of the Pendergast organization there, has served to bring the judicial primary contest into rather more prominence than usual.

Supporters of Col. Ristine's principal opponent, Judge Ernest S. Gantt of Mexico, see in the openness of the political plans of the opponents an opportunity which they believe they can capitalize to the advantage of their candidate.

It has been known for several months that the big city political organizations would be controlled by Judge Graves of the Supreme Court, who has been widely advertised by the Ristine followers as his sponsor, and would support Col. Ristine, but it had not been supposed that there would be any public action by either until within a few days of the primary. Now the Gantt supporters believe the way is open to use the Colonel's political support to his undoing.

Surpirse in Gantt Camp.

Knowing that Judge Gantt could expect no support from the practical politicians of the cities, his supporters had expected his opponent's strategy would be to keep the city politicians quiet until about a week before the primary.

They believed that then they could expect an announcement from Kansas City that the Jackson County boss, Pendergast, had carefully canvassed reports from all parts of the State, that he was convinced Col. Ristine was the stronger candidate and that the suport of the Pendergast organization would be thrown to him.

This, they believed, would be followed by a similar statement from the Democratic organization in St. Louis.

They argued to themselves that such a procedure would be calculated to disrupt their organization out in the State and they feared that many of their supporters, desiring to be with the winner, would leave them to support Col. Ristine on the theory that Pendergast would not line up with a candidate unless he felt certain from accurate reports that he would be nominated.

Counting on Rural Reaction.

Now the Gantt suporters are counting on a strong rural reaction to help their candidate. One yesterday outlined their analysis of the situation:

"In the first place," he said, "only about 25 per cent of the vote in the Democratic primary is cast in St. Louis and Kansas City. That leaves 75 per cent for the smaller cities, towns and the rural districts. Judge Gantt's strength lies in the country.

Rural Missourians do not believe that Supreme Court nominations should be dictated by the practical politicians of the cities, and if given time to think the matter over, which they will now have, nothing will as certainly drive them from a candiate as the knowledge that he is the choice of the politicians in the cities.

"Unless we are badly mistaken, when word gets around over the state, and we will see that it does get around, that Judge Graves and the city politicians are backing Col Ristine's candidacy, while all Judge Gantt has to count on is the uncontrolled voters in the country, there will be a wave of opposition to Col. Ristine which Judge Gantt will count in votes on the day of the primary.

Viewed as Favoring Gantt.

"Judge Gantt's candidacy could have received no greater impetus than for his opponent to be indorsed by the party organizations in St. Louis and Kansas City."

It is probable that the total Democratic vote in the primary will not be much more than 300,000, and that of this number something like 75,000 will be polled in St. Louis and Kansas City. In 1922, when the bitter Reed-Long Senatorial fight was on and a large number of Republicans voted in the Democratic primary, the total vote was only 348,426, and in St. Louis and Kansas City, 84,466.

At this time there is nothing to indicate a heavy vote in the 1926 primary unless the candidacy of Congressman Hawes for the Senate brings out a big vote in St. Louis. While 50,388 votes were cast in St. Louis for Democratic candidates in 1922, it is considered doubtful that the vote this year will exceed 35,000.

Men, too, Now Losing Wrinkles This Way

While the average man, no less than the average woman, wants to keep young looking as long as possible, he does not like to employ cosmetics for the purpose. Because of his aversion to camouflage, and because of the effectiveness and harmlessness of the "Tarkroot method," many men are adopting this perfectly natural rejuvenating treatment. When the face begins to get old looking, wrinkled, and cheek muscles begin to sag, it is astonishing what can be accomplished by merely mixing a spoonful of Powdered Tarkroot with a spoonful of lemon juice and smoothing this over the face. Wrinkles, age-lines, flabbiness, actually vanish in less than 15 minutes!

When the mixture is washed off, nothing artificial remains. Skin and complexion are benefited. Every man, every woman, who procures an original package of Powdered Tarkroot from the druggist and follows directions is astonished and delighted.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Sufferers From Indigestion or Stomach Trouble CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach," says a well known authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. This irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis, accompanied by dangerous stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestants that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead, neutralize or sweeten the acid stomach after meals with a little water and Bisurated Magnesia, and not only will the pain vanish but your food will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. It absorbs the harmful excess acid much as a sponge or blotting paper might and your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.

Florence Burner with outer jacket cut away to show how flame is FOCUSED on the cooking vessel. Notice that there is no wick, for the Florence operates on the most advanced principle of combustion engineering, mixing the vapor from kerosene with heated air. This assures complete combustion and intense heat.

THE intense heat of a Florence Oil Range is focused right on the bottom of the cooking vessel instead of spreading out into the room.

And this means something more even than a comfortable kitchen—it means meals on time and a great saving in your fuel bills.

Just ask in the store for a demonstration of the Florence, the oil range with focused heat. See for yourself how efficient this modern stove is.

ACTIVITIES OF BOY AND GIRL SCOUTS

BOY SCOUTS BUILD OWN MEETING PLACE

Troop 14, Webster Groves Constructs and Equips New Quarters.

Although many local Boy Scout troops have built cabins for camping trips, Troop 14, Webster Groves, is the only one in the district to build and furnish a troop meeting place. This troop, which is sponsored by the South Webster All-Denominational Sunday School, is now putting finishing touches to a room, 20 by 30 feet, excavated, walled, floored and equipped by the Scouts, under the Sunday school room at Chestnut and Percival avenues, Webster Groves. Most of the work was finished early last week.

Excavation was started in February, the scouts working after school and on Saturdays for three months to complete this part of the work. The boys also worked at outside jobs, giving their earnings to the troop treasury for the purchase of lumber and windows for the room. With all expenses paid there is still $110 in this fund. The carpenter work was done by the scouts.

A concrete floor was laid under the direction of Troop Committeeman William Moore, father of Patrol Leader Robert Moore of the Flying Eagle Patrol, and the plastering was supervised by C. L. Buchanan, the father of another scout. This was the only outside aid given.

The room is furnished with a home-made bookcase containing a library of scouting and nature study books, a reading table built by the troop, and Scout decorations. It is divided into five parts, one for each patrol. Each patrol is now building a box to be used both as a seat and as a locker for patrol material. The patrol corners are marked by a panel and by streamers of the patrol colors. The panels will also be used for the display of trophies.

The scoutmaster, K. M. Coggeshall, is also superintendent of the Sunday school. Through his efforts electric lights have been placed on the outside of the building, illuminating the entire yard, thus furnishing a place for outdoor meetings, games and drills.

South District.

The annual South District rally was held a week ago yesterday in the woods near the end of the Cherokee car line, the scouts assembling at 9 o'clock, and each troop setting up a model camp suitable for an all-day stay. Each group also drew a map of the grounds, locating their own camp. At noon the troops prepared a meal, after which an exhibition of handicraft work and nature study was held. All of the activities were judged, the winners receiving points. The afternoon was devoted to contests, including a treasure hunt, a string burning contest, a mystery relay, and a contest in Scouts' pace. In the last, four scouts were selected from each troop, the team running closest to 12 minutes flat winning the event. The winners of the contests also received points, which were totaled at the end of the day, and prizes presented to the winning troops. Troop 22 led with [illegible]½ points; Troop 34 was second, with 67 points, and Troop 77 was third, with 56 points. First prize consisted of a large loving cup donated by the Cherokee Business Men's Association, which sent a committee for the presentation.

Troop 63 held a treasure hunt as part of their meeting last Tuesday. The troop was divided into two parts: The Arrow A's, and the Circle D's. Messages were written in various Scout codes, and placed at different points on the hike for directions. The Arrow A's finished first.

Troop 131 of the Divine Science Church held an investiture ceremony before the Tower Grove Heights Improvement Association at Kleekamp Hall last week. They also gave a demonstration showing how a boy would administer first aid, make a stretcher, or build a fire by flint and steel before entering scouting and after he has had the training.

Troop 146 hiked to the Chain of Rocks last week-end, the scouts passing tests in pacing and cooking. In the afternoon games were played.

Eagle Scout Herman Wenzel was elected senior patrol leader of Troop 157 last Tuesday, after several ballots had been taken, and campaign speeches made.

Troop 180 took part in the Community program at the Roosevelt High School last Wednesday evening, putting on a scene depicting a day in camp. The curtain rose showing the boys in camp, signaling, tracking, and doing first aid and nature work. After a demonstration of first aid to a scout who had fallen out of a tree, a camp fire was held. At the close the scouts crawled into their tents and lean-tos while taps was blown.

The second annual Parents' Night of Troop 198 was held last Wednesday evening, 30 parents and 24 scouts being present. The patrols exhibited projects on which they had been working for several weeks, including a model camp, handicraft in woodworking, and model shelters. Harvey Forstner's Panther patrol won an interpatrol contest of scouting demonstration, the Wolf and Beaver patrols following in the order named. The Panthers were given a compass as a prize. The Wolf patrol, led by Henry Fox, was awarded a signal kit for winning a series of interpatrol contests which closed last week. Louis Horton's Beavers finished second in this series, the Panthers coming third. After the awarding of the prizes, Rev. L. H. Nugent of the church gave a talk, and refreshments were served.

Junior Ferguson won a knot-tying contest at the first Parents' Night of Troop 245 a week ago Friday evening. He also won second in a bird-house contest judged by the audience, George Gundlach taking first place. The Owl patrol gave a pantomime of an overnight hike, illustrating a tenderfoot's cooking and the different noises heard in the night. The Fox patrol pantomimed some of the characters in the troop, and sang original songs about the scoutmaster. An investiture ceremony was held, in which the patrol leaders were invested with their ranks.

The baseball team of Troop 214 would like to arrange for games with other troops for Sundays. George Fox, Jr., 2636 Lamp avenue, is in charge of the team.

West District.

For the third successive year Troop 60 of the Union Avenue Christian Church, was the winner of the West District Rally, held June 5 at Francil Field, Washington University, and as a result, is now in permanent possession of the West District cup. Troop 30 of the Y. M. H. A., placed second in the rally, and Troop 5 of the West Presbyterian Church, won third.

All West District scout leaders are urged to be present at the next meeting of the Diamond W troop at the Pilgrim Congregational Church, Union boulevard and Kensington avenue, tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock.

Nine boys from Troop 11 of the Y. M. H. A. spent last week-end at the West District cabin at Bridgeton, Mo., passing tests in cooking and firebuilding.

Thirteen Scouts of Troop 13 went on an overnight hike last week-end. After a game of "Run, Jack run," Saturday night, a council fire was lighted and each Scout told one of his past experiences. Stories, stunts and songs were also on the program. A short Sunday School service was held Sunday morning.

Senior Patrol Leader Reznikoff of Troop 30 taught first aid to the troop last Wednesday night. Deputy Scout Commissioner Lindsley was present, and gave pointers on knot-tying and bandaging.

Scouts Roy Jordan and Lester Levy of Troop 31 received their star badges at the last Court of Honor. The troop is holding its regular meetings out of doors during the summer.

Troops 35 and 125 are spending the week-end on a hike in the vicinity of Eureka. They left the city yesterday afternoon in autos furnished by the Troop Committee and the fathers of the boys.

The Ida McKinley Circle 52, Ladies of the G. A. R., presented Troop 44 with a large American flag at its last meeting. Mrs. McGuire, patriotic instructor of the Circle, spoke on the care and respect due to the flag, and exhibited an old Civil War flag. Ice cream was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. George Kippenberger, whose deceased son was a member of the troop. On Memorial day, after special services were held at St. Rose's Church, the troop went to Calvary Cemetery and decorated the graves of Scout Kippenberger and former Scoutmaster Swain Smith.

Scoutmaster Seidell and several of the older boys of Troop 49 took a motor hike to Allenton last Sunday. The day was spent in the woods studying and identifying birds and trees, and making a collection of ferns.

The orchestra of Troop 59 of the Eden Evangelical Church, furnished music at a strawberry festival at the church last Tuesday night. The orchestra consists of 12 pieces and is under the direction of Troop Committeeman William Rueweler.

Sam Schnidman won a knot-tying contest at a Parents' night, held by Troop 119 at the Shaare Zedek Congregation last week. The scouts also gave an exhibition in first aid and signalling. Four scouts were invested with second-class rank, and nine with Tenderfoot. This troop is growing rapidly. It was composed of only eight boys in February, when Scoutmaster Senturia took charge, and now there are 24 in the troop.

North District.

Troop 12 of the Fourth Christian Church is holding a tenderfoot investiture ceremony and special meeting at the church this evening, the Rev. C. C. Crawford having selected this is Scout night. All Scouts and their parents are invited to participate.

Troop 29 of the Benton School took a hike yesterday to the summer home of Troop Committeeman Mueller on the Mississippi.

Troop 35 of the Grace Hill Church will hold its annual meeting next Tuesday night, at which time registration for the new year will be completed. The troop has pledged itself to have five Eagle Scouts by Christmas.

Troop 42 of the Zion Lutheran Church gave a scouting demonstration and camp fire ceremony at the Neighborhood House, Nineteenth and Wash streets, last Thursday evening, under the direction of Scoutmaster A. W. Muldner. The troop was the guest of Troop 72, as was the orchestra of Troop 60. Troop 72 is planning to attend Camp Irondale in a body and to recruit at least 50 Scouts from the Neighborhood Association.

Troop 112 of the Bethesda Lutheran Church, has reorganized under a new Scoutmaster, Roy F. Fidler. The church has appointed a new Troop Committee for the coming year.

Troop 122 of the Sherman Park Community Center took a hike last Sunday to Twin Oaks, under the direction of Scoutmaster Arthur Frank and Committeeman Biby. Several boys passed tests in firebuilding, cooking, knife and ax, and tracking. Senior Patrol Leader Virgil Biby conducted games and exploration hikes. The Patrons' Association of this troop will meet tomorrow night.

The Raccoon patrol won the inspection at a Parents' night of Troop 92 last Wednesday, Wolf patrol coming in second. Field Executive Jack Wright spoke and the names of the new Troop Committee were announced. A week ago yesterday the scouts went swimming in the pool at the Armory, on Grand boulevard and Market street, receiving this privilege through the courtesy of the officers in charge there. Scout John Angelo of the Wolf Patrol, passed the 50-yard swimming test.

Suburban District.

Troop 5, Kirkwood, the new Presbyterian Church troop, held its first meeting last Wednesday night. The time was spent in learning the Tenderfoot requirements. Thursday has been selected as the regular meeting night. The meeting hour is 7:30 o'clock. Scoutmaster Biesterfeldt, an ex-sailor, will teach the boys how to splice and whip rope.

Troop 9, Webster Groves, has 10 boys signed for one section at Camp Irondale, and the scouts have started a drive to secure six more from the troop, so that they may have two cabins of their own, and Scoutmaster Brackbill and his family may spend 10 days in the camp with them.

Troop 6, Webster Groves, held its third overnight hike two weeks ago, Scoutmaster Corpening, 14 scouts and two members of the Troop Committee attending. The troops hiked by patrols to the camping grounds at Ranken Farm, and camped by patrols. Sunday School services were held Sunday morning. "Capture the Flag," an "animal hunt," and swimming in the creek were the activities.

Troop 1, Webster Groves, entertained the parents at an outdoor meeting last Tuesday night. The Troop Committee and visiting scoutmasters were also present. This troop has adopted the slogan "Number One in Everything." The scouts will participate in the Flag Pageant at Forest Park today, carrying the flag of 1795 with its 15 stripes and 15 stars. This flag, which was made by the scouts, is a copy of the one flown over Fort McHenry that gave Francis Scott Key the inspiration for "The Star Spangled Banner."

ROUTE FOR HIKE

Two and a half-mile hike from McKelvey road and the Creve Coeur car line to the junction of Fee, Fee and Creve Coeur Creeks. The latter creek may be followed to the Missouri River, and thence to St. Charles, a distance of about four miles.

GIRL SCOUTS PROVE HOME MAKING ABILITY

300 Merit Badges Given at Court of Awards, Mostly for Domestic Arts.

The modern girl is still interested in the arts of homemaking, it was demonstrated yesterday afternoon at the fifth semiannual St. Louis Girl Scout Court of Awards, held at Jefferson Memorial. It was found that, among the 300 merit badges presented to local Girl Scouts at the court, 72 were given for cooking, 80 for Home Health, 30 for Needlewoman and Dressmaker, and the majority of the others for Craftswoman, Handywoman (described as "first aid to leaky pipes and ability to meet other household emergencies"), Child Care, Home Nursing and Laundress. The remaining badges were given for First Aid, Pathfinder, Scholarship and Scribe. All were awarded for proficiency in their respective subjects.

Twelve girls were given the citizenship half of a new award for Community Service, which may be won only after a scout has done a prescribed number of hours of actual service to the community, and has won her citizenship badge. No St. Louis scout has as yet won the full award.

A new feature of the Court was a Fashion Show, participated in by girls winning their dressmakers' badge. They promenaded in the dresses they made, and exhibited other articles of their own work. The 47 Gold Star scouts of the city and county formed a color guard for the exercises.

A Scout Frolic will be given by the girls of Avis Copiae Troop 9 at the St. John's Methodist Church, Kingshighway and Washington boulevards, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. They invite every one, especially all Girl Scouts, to attend. Thirty-five girls were present at the last meeting of the troop. A point system is being introduced, the patrol gaining the largest number of points winning a loving cup. The Bluebird patrol has started a library, and have a good collection of books on Scouting.

Troop 15 gave a treasure hunt in honor of Mildred Blower, Catherine Baird, Marie Stephens and Dorcas Bristow, who are graduating from the Mason School this month. The girls were conducted by two "pirates" to a nearby vacant lot, where a camp fire was built, and marshmallows toasted. Songs were also sung. The Captain, Miss Milbrey Hollingsworth, was presented with her second class badge. Miss Mary Clark, field executive, was also present.

The girls of Troop 56 were given their registration cards at an outdoor meeting last week, and are now waiting for their Tenderfoot pins, which are expected tomorrow. At the meeting two new games, Rabbit in the Hole, and Bucking Broncho, were learned, and songs sung.

SCOUTMASTER'S AID GETS POST AS FOREST RANGER

J. Priestly Melton of Grace M. E. Church Troop Assigned to Yellowstone Park.

J. P. MELTON.

J. Priestly Melton, Assistant Scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop 31, Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, who has been appointed one of the forest rangers for Yellowstone National Park this summer. His appointment is largely due to his record in scouting. He is 21 years old, and an Eagle Scout as well as assistant scoutmaster.

ALL BOY SCOUTS URGED TO BE AT RALLY TODAY

Will Assemble at Jefferson Memorial at 1:30 P. M. for Flag Day Program.

Earle W. Beckman, St. Louis Scout Executive, has made an appeal to all Scoutmasters of the city to get their troops out this afternoon for the Flag Day celebration in the Municipal Theater, Forest Park, at 2:30 P. M., when the Society of 40 and 8 of the American Legion will present four falgs to the Scouts for use at Irondale Reservation.

The Scouts are to assemble on the drill field back of the Jefferson Memorial, Forest Park, at 1.30 p. m., and will march by districts to the theater. The program will open with music by the 138th Infantry M. N. G. Band, and there will be singing of patriotic songs, and an address on "Our Flag" by Rev. Dr. M. Ashby Jones of the Second Baptist Church. Mayor Miller will welcome the Scouts, the innovation will be given by Rt. Rev. John J. Tannrath of the new St. Louis Cathedral, and the benediction by Rabbi Louis Witt.

There will be a pageant, "The Building of the American Flag," in which 15 troops will take part. Reproductions of flags from the time of John Cabot, 1497, will be shown in the pageant. Many representatives of civic and patriotic societies will be seated on the stage. The pledge to the flag will be repeated by the audience, led by Robert L. Morton, and Francis M. Curlee will make the presentation speech for the flags.

Parents of Scouts are invited to attend the celebration, as well as the general public.

100 SCOUTS FROM TOWNS ON RAILROAD IN CAMP

One hundred Boy Scouts from towns along the Missouri Pacific Railroad officially opened Camp Irondale for the summer last Thursday. This group, known as the Missouri Pacific unit, is in charge of Field Executive O. J. Williams, who has been appointed by the railroad to handle scouting for them. This is thought to be the first time that an entire troop of railroad scouts has gone into camp.

The sections for local scouts begins June 19.

BOY SCOUT SWIMMING POOL

Donor of Equipment for Camp Near Alton Not Divulged.

A swimming pool is being added to the equipment at the Camp Warren Levis, a summer home for the Boy Scouts of Alton, with a capacity for 400 swimmers. The pool will be in readiness by July 4. The donor of the pool has not been made known by the Boy Scouts executives.

Camp Warren Levis is located several miles northwest of Alton.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

"Purges" and "Physics" Bad for Old Folks

While Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, knew that constipation was the curse of advancing age, he did not believe that a "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary.

To him, it seemed cruel that so many constipated old people had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to "regulate" the bowels of old folks. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but each dose helps to strengthen the bowel muscles, shortly establishing natural "regularity." It never gripes, sickens, or upsets the system. Besides it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

If past fifty, buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.

Lorelei Lee Is Quite a Cute Pirate

Fate Keeps on Happening to Heroine of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," So She and Dorothy Shaw Are Now on the Stage.

By RICHARD L. STOKES,
Music and Drama Critic of the Post-Dispatch.

EPICURES savoring the dramatic version of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," at the Selwyn Theater in Chicago, report the addition of sundry tidbits not to be found in that jubilant diary of a professional lady as it was served between book-covers by the evangelical hands of Mistress Anita Loos.

There is, for example, the matter of the diamond tiara which was so adroitly wrested from Sir Francis Beekman by the golden and buccaneering Miss Lorelei Lee, thus named in honor of a girl who became famous from sitting on a rock in Germany. There was a proverb in London that, whenever Sir Francis spent a ha'penny, the statue of a gentleman named Mr. Nelson took off his hat and bowed.

"What's a Solicitor?"

LORELEI'S miraculous feat comes to the ears of the baronet's lady. She has been married to Sir Francis for 35 years, and the last present he gave her was a wedding ring. So, breathing fire and slaughter, she descends upon the American damsel at the Ritz, in Paris, and thunders a threat of calling in her solicitor.

"What's a solicitor?" flutes artless Lorelei. "I don't know what it is over here," replies her sister devotee of the Paphian creed, Miss Dorothy Shaw, "but at home it's something they arrest you for."

Readers of the book, of which more than 200,000 copies have been printed and which has arrived at the ultimate popularity of serving as inspiration for a comic strip, will find other differences in the play, particularly as to concentration and speed, and a clearer articulation of numerous minor characters.

The first act takes place in the royal suite of an ocean liner, with Lorelei and Dorothy bound for Europe as guests of the former's gentleman friend, Mr. Gus Eisman, a highly prosperous ornament of the button profession in Chicago. It is here, instead of in London, that Miss Lee arranges the trifle of the diamond tiara; and it is also here, instead of on a train in "the Central of Europe," that she encounters, that Prespyterian young millionaire, Henry H. Spoffard, who has a penchant for "censhuring" immoral movies, and is going to Europe to investigate the risque post-card peril.

"London Is Really Nothing."

THE second act occurs in a sitting room at the Ritz in Paris, and the third in Lorelei's New York apartment. So that her eventful swoop upon London is omitted, save in narration, which luckily preserves her howlingly inadequate verdict that "London is really nothing," and her brilliant observation regarding the Tower. "In London," she remarks, "they make a very, very great fuss over nothing at all. For instance, they make a great fuss over a tower that really is not even as tall as the Hickox Building in Little Rock Arkansas and it would only make a chimney on one of our towers in New York."

The trip to Vienna—which is in fact something of a redundancy in the book—is not mentioned on the stage, and thus playgoers are deprived of Lorelei's consultation with Dr. Freud, and that psychologist's amazement at discovering a girl who had no suppressed desires because she always did whatever she wanted to. He protested that she must sometimes wish to do something really violent, like shooting some one. She confessed that this was true, but that the bullet went in Mr. Jennings' lung and came right out again; whereupon Dr. Freud "looked at me and looked at me and he said he did not really think it was possible."

Mr. Jennings, of course, was the attorney for whom Lorelei worked as stenographer during her chrysalis stage. One evening she went to call on her employer at his apartment, and found a girl there who was famous all over Little Rock for not being nice. "So I had quite a bad case of histerics and my mind was really a blank and when I came out of it, it seems that I had a revolver in my hand and it seems that the revolver had shot Mr. Jennings."

Eisman as an Educator.

NATURALLY she was acquitted by a tearful jury, and the magistrate got her a job in the movies, where she worked on the same lot with Mr. Chaplin. She was one of the girls

"The Dybbuk" to Be Played Here In Yiddish

A TRAGIC and cabalistic romance, spun from Jewish folklore and entitled "The Dybbuk," will be presented in Yiddish Tuesday evening at the Odeon by the Vilna Troupe, regarded as one of the foremost exponents of the Hebraic theater in Europe and America.

Rendered in English at the Neighborhood Playhouse in New York, "The Dybbuk" proved one of the sensations of the current season. It was written more than 10 years ago by S. Ansky, a Russian Jew, who did not live to see its eventual production in Moscow during 1922.

The word "dybbuk" means literally an adherence, a clinging to. It came to signify a spirit from the grave which attaches itself to some living soul, and applies particularly to those who perished before their time and return to earth to complete their careers.

According to the story, a youth and a girl were plighted in childhood by their parents. As they grow up they fall in love, but the maiden's father has become wealthy and repudiates his pledge. The boy dies, and his spirit takes possession of his sweetheart's soul. A wonder-working rabbi seeks to expel the demon, but to no avail, though he summons the powers of heaven and earth, for souls destined one for another must be eternally united.

The fable is unfolded with tense emotion, and delves deeply into the mysticism of Chassidic Jewry, folk superstition, rabbinical lore, magic names and numbers, potent charms and occult ritual.

Missouri Girl in London Hit.

LONDON, June 12.—Dorothy Dickson, Kansas City actress, who has won much favor on the British stage, has an excellent role in a new mystery play, "The Gaunt Stranger." Although the piece was launched during the general strike, it has been a success from the first night and promises to have a long run.

MAX STEINDEL'S ORCHESTRA WILL ACCOMPANY PIANISTS

Webster Groves Musicians to Play Classic Selections at High School Saturday night.

An orchestra of 14 pieces, under the direction of Max Steindel, will accompany soloists in selections from classic pianoforte literature Saturday night at the High School gymnasium in Webster Groves.

Miss Edith Gordon will play Liszt's concerto in E flat. Miss Margaret Stevenson will offer the first movement of Saint-Saens' concerto in G Minor. Miss Virginia Roundtree will give Liszt's "Hungarian Fantasie," and Miss Ruth Napier will play the first movement of Tschaikowsky's Concerto in B flat Minor.

Garden Theater to Open Tomorrow With Shakspeare Comedy

Second Season Begins With "Midsummer Night's Dream," and Four Other Classics Will Follow—Cast Drawn From Professional Stage and Goodman Repertory Theater of Chicago—Municipal Theater Gives Repeat Production of "The Chocolate Soldier," With Libretto After Shaw's "Arms and the Man."

DURING the next 10 weeks, St. Louis will redouble its activities in the purveying of open-air entertainment. The Garden Theater, on the Olive Street road, will open its second season tomorrow evening with a performance of Shakspeare's fairy comedy, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," while the Municipal Theater will witness a repeat production of "The Chocolate Soldier."

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be the first of five classics which will be presented at the Garden Theater, under the direction of Thomas Wood Stevens, by the company of the Kenneth Sawyer Goodman Memorial Theater of Chicago, reinforced by such professionals as Whitford Kane, B. Iden Payne, Estelle Winwood and William Franklin.

"Everyman" on Sundays.

OTHER productions will be, in turn, Shakspeare's "Twelfth Night, "Moliere's "Don Juan" and Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew." On three Sunday evenings, beginning next Sunday night, there will be performances of the English morality play, "Everyman." These productions will be followed by three weeks of a revue called "Garden Varieties," and three weeks of the St. Louis Fashion Pageant, making a season of ten weeks in all. The Municipal Theater, which has made two productions, still has ten to come.

The cast for "A Midsummer Night's Dream," which includes Mr. Kane as Nick Bottom and Mr. Payne as Peter Quince, is announced as follows:

|---|---|
| Theseus | Howard Southgate |
| Hippolyta | Helen Forrest |
| Egeus | Russell Spindler |
| Lysander | Hubbard Kirkpatrick |
| Demetrius | Jack Daniels |
| Hermia | Lucille Colbert |
| Helena | Ellen Lowe |
| Philostrate | Edward Robbin |
| Peter Quince | B. Iden Payne |
| Nick Bottom | Whitford Kane |
| Flute | Gordon Ray |
| Starveling | George Carillon |
| Tom Snout | Roman Bohnen |
| Snug | Thomas R. Treland |
| Puck | Arthur Smith |
| First Fairy | Bernard Ostertag |
| Oberon | Neal Caldwell |
| Titania | Eula Guy |

In an effort to recapture the speed and continuity of the Elizabethan stage, "A Midsummer Night's Dream" has been divided into five scenes—The Court, Quince's Shop, the Wood, the Shop again and once more the Court. The Garden Theater stage is regarded as ideal for the setting of a fairy-haunted forest.

A new permanent terrace will indicate the palace of Theseus, and plastic screens will evoke Peter Quince's carpenter shop, where the hilarious comedy of the "mechanicals" is planned. For the fairy scenes, certain camouflages devices are to be employed. Joseph Solari will direct the lighting, William A. Parson the incidental music, and Mr. Kane the staging.

"Chocolate Soldier" Cast.

AT the Municipal Theater tonight, there will be offered the concluding performance of Victor Herbert's "The Red Mill." The association's third productiop of the summer, "The Chocolate Soldier," opened the season of 1921. This work, with a score by Oscar Straus and a libretto based on Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man," is regarded as one of the best examples in the literature of operetta. The cast will be as follows:

|---|---|
| Nadina | Dorothy Maynard |
| Aurelia | Bernice Mershon |
| Mascha | Maude Gray |
| Bumerli | Thomas Conkey |
| Massakroff | Detmar Poppen |
| Stephen | Louis Rupp |
| Alexius | Edward Molitore |
| Popoff | Robinson Newbold |

Charles Sinclair, general stage director of the Municipal Theater, supervised a pretentious revival of "The Chocolate Soldier" at the Century Theater, New York, three years ago. Many of the musical numbers are widely familiar, such as the waltz song, "My Hero;" the march, "Our Heroes Come," and the exquisite "Letter Song" in the third act. Next week the Municipal Theater Association will make its third production of Heinrich Reinhardt's operetta, "The Spring Maid," which was given here previously in 1922 and 1923.

Theatrical Calendar

GARDEN THEATER—Tomorrow night, opening of the second season of the Olive Street road auditorium with Shakspeare's fairy comedy, "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

MUNICIPAL THEATER — Revival of "The Chocolate Soldier," an operetta by Oscar Straus, based on Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man."

GRAND OPERA HOUSE—Riva and Orr, dancers, with a Filipino orchestra; other vaudeville, and "The Nonstop Flight," a picture.

"Who's Who" of Company at Garden Theater.

THE following sketches of the company at the Garden Theater are condensed from material supplied by the management. Mr. Kane, after service at the Abbey Theater in Dublin and the Duke of York's Theater in London, toured America with the Manchester Theater company and acted with repertory organizations in Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and New York. His play, "Dark Rosaleen," was produced by David Belasco. Besides the role of Bottom, he will play here Dimanche in "Don Juan" and Sir Toby Belch in "Twelfth Night."

Mr. Payne had his training with the Benson company in England, and was director of the Abbey Theater in Dublin and the Horniman Repertory Theater in Manchester. Coming to America in 1912, he directed theaters in Chicago, Philadelphia and New York, and was for four seasons in charge of the production of Charles Frohman, staging Galsworthy's "Justice" and Zoe Akins' "Declassee" As an actor, he was starred in the New York production of Milne's "The Great Broxopp." Here he will play not only Quince in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," but Sir Andrew Aguecheek in "Twelfth Night."

Hubbard Kirkpatrick, leading man at the Goodman Theater, will play Lysander in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," the title role in "Don Juan," Fellowship in "Everyman" and Orsine in "Twelfth Night." He supported Ethel Barrymore for two seasons in "Declassee," Emily Stevens in "Sophie" and the late Henry Miller in "Pasteur" and "The Man in Evening Clothes."

Helen Forrest, who is costume designer at the Goodman Theater, as well as one of its leading actresses, appeared in New York under the management of Brock Pemberton, David Belasco and Morris Gest. Her St. Louis roles will include Donna Elvira in "Don Juan," Hippolyta in "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and Knowledge in "Everyman."

Played in "The Hairy Ape."

EULA GUY is a graduate of the dramatic school of Carnegie Institute, in Pittsburg, and has played both in stock and on the commercial stage, wehre she appeared in "The Hairy Ape," "The Nervous Wreck," "Seven Keys to Baldpate," "Billeted" and other productions. Her parts here will be Titania in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Viola in "Twelfth

BRITISH INSTITUTION OF 'BOOING' REACHES BROADWAY

By WELLS ROOT,
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 12.

THE audience Monday night at the Cort Theater, where David Thorne's "Beyond Evil" underwent a tempestuous dedication, gave vent to unseemly titters during the first act, guffawed and whistled during the second, and booed lustily at the end of the third. New York spectators have often laughed at poor plays. But the institution of booing, though familiar in London, has been until now unknown to Broadway.

It is perhaps just as well that sarsaparilla is not sold during the performances in our theaters. This audience was in a mood for throwing pop bottles. Several malcontents left early in the second act with dark looks that seemed to foreshadow the purchase of vegetables.

The demonstration sounded like Madison Square Garden when a fighter is quitting. But the cast did not quit. They played their parts doggedly and to the end. This end came at 10.15, giving to "Beyond Evil" the palliating distinction of being the shortest play in town.

Through the first half of the piece one was inclined to resent the rowdy manners of the wit-

Salute New Star In Daughter of Forbes-Robertson

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

(LONDON (By Mail).

A RECENT Sunday night performance of the first dramatic effort of James Elroy Flecker, "Don Juan," will not be forgotten by any who saw it, not only for its own sake but because we all felt we were watching a future great actress break from her chrysalis.

Jean Forbes-Robertson is extremely young and inexperienced. She had previously played with no training the young girl part in "Dancing Mothers," in which she showed no particular promise, and a series of ugly duckling roles in those gloomy Tchekoff plays which have been the craze of the town this year.

In "Don Juan," for the first time, she had an emotional role in which she could show her mettle; she acted everyone else off the stage and left the audience gasping with wonder and delight.

Is Compared to Duse.

SHE has the genius of her father, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson. I think it safe to predict, and I have most of the London critics with me, that she will be one of the great lights of the English theater of tomorrow. To compare a young and immature girl with Duse sounds absurd, but the comparison does indicate her style of acting. Miss Forbes-Robertson calls Duse to my mind because of her uncanny ability to portray, without apparent movement of farce or body, with no discoverable stage artifice, the inner consuming fires.

Flecker was that strange youth who died so sadly in his early twenties before he could develop the powers which might have given us the finest poetic drama since the Elizabethans. "Don Juan" is even more immature and muddled than "Hassan." It is a hopelessly bad play as a play, and could not possibly be put on for a run.

But it shows flashes of sheer genius. The conception is magnificent. Flecker takes the old Don Juan story—shipwreck, the statue coming to life and all the rest—and transfers it to modern England.

Don Juan, a typical young English aristocrat, murders the Prime Minister, who is bent on war with Germany, in order to prevent that calamity. He holds a colloquy with the statue of the dead statesman in Trafalgar Square, and the statue, turning up later in Don Juan's home, ushers him into hell.

The play contains some magnificent poetry. But it was written by a boy who, with all his dramatic interest, knew nothing about the theater. Fidelity to the text, enjoined by respect for the dead, prevented any attempt to amend the author's crude stagecraft.

"Student Prince" a Fiasco.

SEVERAL failures and shows on their last legs took advantage of the general strike and nine newspaperless days to fade away unnoticed. Among these was the costly Shubert fiasco, "The Student Prince," which was found among the missing when the roll was called after the battle. Attempts had been made to replace the original inadequate cast and to introduce some humor, but these were too late. "Wildflower" has taken its place at His Majesty's, but this expensively mounted entertainment is not igniting the Thames.

To make up for their other disappointments, the Shuberts have in "Is Zat So?" the undoubted success of the year, and this play seems likely to run as long as "Potash and Perlmutter." Except for Fred and Adele Astaire, "Lady, Be Good" is generally voted exceedingly poor stuff. It has been long since any dancers so completely won London's heart as these Americans. The show is selling out for weeks ahead, and the famous old Empire in Leicester Square, several times doomed to destruction, has secured an indefinite reprieve.

THEATER GUILD SCHOLARSHIP AWARDED TO ST. LOUISAN

Maury Tuckerman One of Twelve in New York School to Gain Distinction.

Maury Tuckerman, son of Gustavus Tuckerman of 5815 Pennsylvania avenue, is one of 12 students at the Theater Guild School of Acting in New York to whom scholarships have been awarded in the form of loan funds, available during the senior term beginning July 6.

The scholarships are contributed by Winthrop Ames, Otto H. Kahn, the Theater Guild, the Theater Club and other individuals and organizations. The Theater Guild School, in West Fifty-second street, was established last fall.

The elder Tuckerman, who is civic secretary of the City Club, has been active in amateur theatricals and dramatic readings. His son appeared in numerous juvenile performances in this city.

Organize Summer Quartet.

A quartet for the summer months has been organized at the Second Presbyterian Church, Taylor avenue and Westminster place, under the direction of E. Prang Stamm. The members are Mrs. Karl Kimmel, soprano; Miss Helen Mansfield, contralto; Ira T. Parker, tenor; Dr. Howard E. Schilling, bass.

Piano and Violin Recital.

Miss Ethel Pennewille of Hannibal, Mo., will give a postgraduate pianoforte recital Thursday evening at the Artists' Guild, Union boulevard and Enright avenue. She will be assisted by John Halk, violinist.

who fainted when all of the gentlemen fell off the tower. "So I was in Hollywood in the cinema when I met Mr. Eisman and he said that a girl with my brains ought not to be in the cinema, but she ought to be educated, so he took me out of the cinema so he could educate me. He is against a girl being in the cinema because his mother is authrodox."

Mr. Eisman does not appear until the third act, but other characters are vividly in evidence. There is Spoffard's tipsy and half-witted mother, with her harridan of a companion, Miss Chapman; and the millionaire's father, who, after one glance at Lorelei, performs the miracle of leaping from his invalid chair and walking. There are the comedy French advocates, Broussard pere and fils; Sir Francis Beekman and his wife, H. Gilbertson Montrose, the scenario writer; Willie Gwynn, "whose family persuaded me not to marry him for $10,000," the Sapphic Ann Spoffard, and many others.

The personage who profits most by the play is Dorothy Shaw. Thanks in part to the acting of Edna Hibbard, this caustic and soft-hearted damsel quite overshadows the Lorelei of June Walker. Dorothy is regarded with alarm and scorn by Lorelei because she prefers to dine with a gentleman named Mr. Mencken from Baltimore—who only prints a green magazine which has not even got any pictures in it—when she has a chance to go with Eddie Goldmark of the Goldmark Films, who is really quite wealthy and can make a girl delightful presents. Dorothy went through Europe and came back with only a bangle, while Lorelei annexed a tiara, a multitude of presents and a rich husband to boot.

"Diamond Bracelet Lasts Forever."

IT is Lorelei's unconscious combination of cocotte and moron, prude and "intellectual," which makes her so delicious a character in the book. Miss Walker is sometimes one and sometimes the other, but does not weld the opposites together. This is the more unexpected because the playwright has saved most of her celebrated philosophy.

"Paris is devine" because one can see all the important French people like the Dolly sisters and Pearl White and Maybelle Gilman Corey and Mrs. Nash; and "when a girl looks at Mrs. Nash and realizes what Mrs. Nash has got out of gentlemen, it really makes a girl hold her breath." And then, "Kissing your hand may make you feel very good, but a diamond and safire bracelet lasts forever."

"French gentlemen are quite deceiving," she goes on. "I mean, they take you to quite cute places and they make you feel quite good about yourself and you really seem to have a delightful time, but when you get home and come to think it all over, all you have got is a fan that only cost 20 francs and a doll that they gave you away for nothing in a restaurant." "When a girl really enjoys being with a gentleman," she concludes, "it puts her to quite a disadvantage and no real good can come of it."

Harry Lauder Buys a Balloon.

"WHEN I left Little Rock," she explains to Spoffard, "I though that all the gentlemen did not want to do anything but protect we girls and by the time I found out that they did not want to protect us so much it was to late. I think a girl is really more reformed if she knows what it is to be unreformed than if she is born reformed and never really knows what is the matter with her."

A delicate improvement is made in the stage version regarding the red balloon which Lorelei, at a charity bazar in London, sold to Harry Lauder, "the famous Scotch gentleman who is the famous Scotch tenor." The price stated in the book is £20. With a sure instinct for the credible, this sum is reduced in the play to £5. Even then Dorothy's comment remains pertinent. "So Dorothy said I did not need to buy any ticket to Paris on the boat because if I could do that I could walk across the channel."

Graduation Exercises at Odeon.

A musical program will accompany commencement exercises of the Strassberger Conservatories of Music Friday evening at the Odeon, when diplomas, certificates and medals will be bestowed upon 33 graduates. The conservatory orchestra of 42 will participate.

BRITISH INSTITUTION OF "BOOING" ARRIVES AT LAST ON BROADWAY

nesses. Laughter is one of the cruelest discourtesies that can be offered to a company groping earnestly amid the mounting absurdities of an inept play. Then "Beyond Evil" grew so strenuously absurd that courtesy passed beyond the bounds of self-control and became heroism.

The play tells of a woman so hysterical as to be psychopatic. Bored with her husband, rejected by her lover, she retreats to the arms of a dusky lawyer in Harlem and later takes poison. There was sincere speculation between the acts as to whether "Beyond Evil" was a tragedy or a burlesque. It was billed outside the theater as a comedy. This looked like a tug at the ripcord by a panic-stricken management.

Mary Blair, who has admirably played so many of Eugene O'Neill's heroines, was selected for the treacherous leading role. Her performance did not mitigate the manuscript's shortcomings. There was, indeed, an immense amount of shoddy acting in the piece. Still, the play is not a nasty dose. There have been half a dozen pieces this year containing more shabbily sensational sex.

A skinny little play of the people, a plain tale from East Eighty-fourth street, where insurance money is squandered on fine layouts from the undertaker's, and people always say "spliced" and "hitched" when they mean "married," came to the Mayfair Theater Monday night. The title is "The Half Naked Trtuh," and the author is N. Brewster Morse.

The playwright attempted to fatten his opus with Killarney brogue of the Forty-second street variety, an Irish neighbor woman, a policeman, a youngster who protests against bathtubs and soap, and three roving boy reporters with nice sharp pencils and big outspread notebooks.

Against a steep wall of slang, the plot bares the facts about Charlie Smith, a lad of the street corner, who becomes an artist's model and poses for a scarcely veiled reworking of the Civic Virtue episode of several years ago.

Degree for Frederick Warde.

LOS ANGELES, June 12.—The University of Southern California has conferred the degree of Doctor of Literature upon Frederick Warde, 76 years old, who is well known as an actor and Shakspearean scholar. John Drew is said to be the only living actor holding a similar degree.

"Countess Maritza" to Reopen.

NEW YORK, June 12.—"Countess Maritza," Emmerich Kalman's new operetta, in which Yvonne d'Arle is prima donna, will begin a summer engagement at Atlantic City on July 3, preparatory to its New York engagement about the end of August. Miss D'Arle was prima donna of the St. Louis Municipal Opera last season.

St. Louis Doctors on Ohio Program

Four St. Louis physicians will take an important part in the four-day meeting of the National Eclectic Medical Association at Cedar Point, O., beginning tomorrow. Dr. A. F. Stephens will read a paper on diabetes millitus, Dr. J. W. Pruitt, will talk of whooping cough and Dr. H. H. Helbing will discuss surgical gynecology in nervous and mental diseases. Dr. B. J. Weisner, also of St. Louis, is third vice president of the association.

Night," Mathurine in "Don Juan," Beauty in "Everyman" and Bianca in "The Taming of the Shrew."

Arvid Crandall, a product of stock, designed the lighting plant of the Goodman Theater, and did technical work in the productions of "What Price Glory," "The Firebrand," "Beggar on Horseback" and other works. He will appear as Starveling in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Confession in "Everyman," the Hermit in "Don Juan" and Valentine in "Twelfth Night."

Neal Caldwell comes from the Carnegie Institute Theater, and has played in support of Irene Bordoni, Jose Rubens and Nance O'Neil. He has been director of the Cincinnati Art Theater and the Associated American Theater in Paris. His roles at the Garden Theater will be Oberon in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Messenger in "Everyman," Sebastian in "Twelfth Night" and Don Carlos in "Don Juan."

Jack Daniels, who played stock in New York and California, and in Robert Mantell's company, will appear in St. Louis as Demetrius in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Kindred in "Everyman," the Sea Captain in "Twelfth Night" and Pierrot in "Don Juan."

Transportation Facilities.

ELLEN LOWE, who began work at the Shakespeare Playhouse in New York, will play here as Helena in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Good Deeds in "Everyman," Maria in "Twelfth Night," Charlotte in "Don Juan" and the Widow in "The Taming of the Shrew." Carl Benton Reid, formerly of the Cleveland Repertory Playhouse, will appear as Five Wits in "Everyman," Feste in "Twelfth Night" and Pettuchio in "The Taming of the Shrew."

Howard Southgate, assistant director of the Goodman Theater, and formerly a member of the Provincetown Players in New York, will have the roles of Theseus, Malvolio and Baptista. Russell Collins, formerly of the Carnegie Institute Theater, will appear in the title role of "Everyman," as Fabian in "Twelfth Night," Guman in "Don Juan" and Biondello in "The Taming of the Shrew."

Ticket prices have been reduced at the Garden Theater this season, and the capacity increased from 3000 to 3300 seats. The People's Motorbus Co. will operate buses to the theater from the terminus of its Delmar line, and the United Railways will run cars thither from its Delmar terminus. There will be free parking facilities for 1000 motor cars.

RARE RED DIAMOND FOUND

Six-Carat Kimberley Stone Worth $600 to $700 a Carat.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 12.—The rare find of a red diamond of considerable value is reported from Kimberley, South Africa. It was found in the alluvial river diggings. This species of stone is very unusual and is likely to fetch anything from $600 to $750 a carat.

The cutting of the stone has been placed in the hands of a local firm, and although the accomplishment of this has proved of some difficulty, the result will be that a flawless stone of about six carats will be produced. The gem, at first glance, might be taken by the uninitiated to be a ruby of gigantic proportions, as it is an entirely red stone, without a blemish of any kind. Closer inspection, however, reveals that it possesses all the requisite properties of the true diamond, the grain being absolutely similar.

Behind the Screens

MERNA KENNEDY, who was selected by Charlie Chaplin as leading woman in his forthcoming film, "The Circus," is only 17 years old. She has red hair and green eyes. Miss Kennedy was born in Manteno, Ill.

Buster Keaton is to be starred in "The General," his next full length feature comedy, although a member of the supporting cast will have the title role. For "The General" is an iron horse of the '60s christened by affectionate townsmen during the Civil War, as was the custom. Buster plays the engineer.

Vilma Banky, who has just finished work with Rudolph Valentino in "Son of the Sheik," changes from a brunette to a blonde for "The Winning of Barbara Worth," the Harold Bell Wright story in which she appears with Ronald Colman.

Frank Lloyd's search for story material for his first production for Paramount has ended with the selection of "Capt. Sazarac," the last of the pirates. It will be made on a lavish scale with the first turn of the camera crank scheduled for July 1. Florence Vidor, who recently completed her first Paramount starring picture, "Love Magic," will play the chief feminine role, that of a New Orleans society belle of 1815. No other members of the cast have been chosen.

The company shooting "The Amateur Gentleman," starring Richard Barthelmess under Sidney Olcott's direction, has gone on location at the Lasky ranch, where exteriors for the Jeffery Farnol story are being filmed.

Harvey Clark is at work in the role of Archer, the blustering lawyer, in "Midnight Lovers." Lewis Stone and Anna Q. Nilsson play the featured roles under John Francis Dillon's direction.

Gino Corrado, the Italian actor, has been engaged to play the important role of the Prince Regent in "The Amateur Gentleman."

The title of Harry Langdon's forthcoming feature has been temporarily changed to "Johnny Newcomer." It was first intended to call it "The Yes Man," but several story changes necessitated a new title. Frank Capra is handling the megaphone on the picture.

Charles Paddock, "the world's fastest human," who holds 37 to 40 world's records at sprint distances, has entered upon a motion picture career. He affixed his signature to a Paramount contract. Within two weeks he will start work as a featured player with Bebe Daniels in "The College Flirt," a comedy drama centering around college life.

Municipal Opera fans will be able to see the operas in film form during the coming fall and winter. Loew's State will offer "The Red Mill" and "Naughty Marietta," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer productions, starring Marion Davies. "The Red Mill," now in production in Culver City, will be ready by September or October. In it Miss Davies is supported by Owen Moore, Tully Marshall, George Fawcett, Snitz Edwards, George Siegman and Karl Dane. "Naughty Marietta" will go into production when "The Red Mill" is completed. Another opera favorite, to be offered at Loew's in the near future, will be "The Prince of Pilsen," in which George Sidney is starred.

The pearly gates of the Elysian Fields were opened recently at Astoria, L. I., and a thousand lost souls marched into the Kingdom of Heaven. The scene, one of the most difficult, technically, ever filmed, will appear in the new D. W. Griffith production, "Sorrows of Spain," now nearing completion with Adolphe Menjou, Ricardo Cortez, Carol Dempster and Lya De Putti in the leading roles. Soon, as a sequence in the same picture, hell in all its traditional ugliness will be created.

Paul McAllister, a well-known stage actor, has been added by Samuel Goldwyn to his cast for "The Winning of Barbara Worth," in which Ronald Colman, Vilma Banky and Clyde Cook are also signed to appear. McAllister will play the role of the seer in the Harold Bell Wright story. He was last seen on the stage with Elsie Ferguson in "The Grand Duchess and the Walter."

Just 146 Bedroom Suites $155

$10 Cash $10 Monthly

The Reason for This Amazing Offer!

Any manufacturer is only too glad to sacrifice all profits in order to keep his factories busy and keep his forces intact during the slack period! Knowing this—we chose a maker of great renown and proposed this tremendous offer to him—he grasped it eagerly. He accepted our mammoth order with the provision that he make these Suites during his slack period and that they be delivered at his option! They have now been delivered to our warehouse and they go on sale Monday.

This Suite would be an amazing value at $255! And now at $155 it is breathtaking! Staggering! Spectacular! Only this unusual May-Stern contract purchase makes it possible!

The Bed

Featuring approved bow-foot, made doubly attractive by the artistically designed edges of foot and head boards. Five-ply Huguenot Walnut veneer. Full size bed.

Dresser
50-Inch

The unusually large dresser measuring 50 inches across, is superbly graceful. Heavy top rail. 3-ply mahogany drawer bottoms. Dust proof. Dove-tailed drawers. Drawer guides and fancy pulls. Mirror 28x40-inch.

Vanity Dresser
48-Inch

An impressive vanity that stands 68 inches with center mirror measuring 18x48 inches and the wing mirrors are 10x28 inches. The two tiers of drawers, 3 on each side are absolutely dustproof.

Chifforobe
40 Inches Wide, 60 Inches High

Open the doors and you are attracted at once by the beautifully finished interiors. One door reveals an unusually large clothing compartment. The other, a hat compartment and four drawers. The two top drawers are for added convenience and make this large chifforobe more rigid.

Beginning Monday at 8 A.M.

The Most Startling Value in All Our 43 Years of Record-Breaking Values!

THE MANUFACTURER IS PLEDGED TO DELIVER THESE SUITES WITH NOT A PENNY PROFIT TO HIMSELF

A manufacturer with an undisputed reputation for integrity and quality work eagerly accepted May-Stern's offer to buy his entire factory output. He was glad of an opportunity to keep his factory busy during the slack season, and was willing to sacrifice all profit in order to do this!

An Exquisite Louis XVI Design Embodying Charm and Distinctive Style!

A Suite That Reflects the Mode of the Newest Home Furnishings!

A Room of Furniture That Will Be a Source of Pardonable Pride to the Possessor

Artistically Designed Tops and Richly Carved Fluted Legs! Beautiful Drawer Pulls

FURNITURE factories everywhere are confronted by a seasonal lull after they have completed filling orders taken during the January furniture exposition. Their serious problem is to keep the factories busy after these orders are filled. Idle factories mean dead loss. The alert nation-wide May-Stern group of stores have seized upon this manufacturer's slack period as an opportunity to score the greatest merchandising scoop in years! We had our choice of manufacturers! We picked one with an undisputed reputation for integrity and quality work! He eagerly grasped our offer to SELL THE MAY-STERN organization his entire output AT COST—JUST TO KEEP HIS FACTORY BUSY!

Buy This Suite Out of Your Pay Check...Not Out of Your Savings Account!

It isn't necessary to lay out $155 in cash! It is so easy to pay a few dollars a month and in this way the expenditure isn't even noticeable. And why not buy on such easy terms...thousands, yes, millions do, not only in St. Louis or America, but all over the world. It is a most sensible way for a family of moderate means to furnish a home. And the May-Stern plan is made even more attractive because of the confidential manner in which it is handled. We do not ask embarrassing questions nor do we require endorsements.

Miss Caradine Becomes Bride in Outdoor Ceremony

Marriage to Chester Ellis Wright One of Most Attractive of Season — Honeymoon To Be Passed in Europe.

ONE of the most attractive ceremonies of the season was the garden wedding at sunset yesterday of Miss Margaret Caradine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Caradine, and Chester Ellis Wright, formerly of Boston, at the Portland place home of the bride's parents.

Across the south end of the lawn a trellis was built and covered with vines and studded with larkspur, lilies and pink snapdragons as a background for the bridal party, one of the largest of recent years. The service was ready by the Rev. Dr. Edward Schofield Travers of St. Peter's Episcopal church.

Henry McLure, Elliot Pratt Jr., Lawrence M. Lombard, and William Parker, all of Boston; William Lawrence Taylor of New York, Arthur Hadden Alexander of Cleveland; Charles B. Wright, brother of the bridegroom, of Oxford, England, and Maury Hill and Arthur Crunden of St. Louis, led the procession through the side portico, entwined with greenery, and through an aisle of white posts topped with white larkspur, fastened to each other by ropes of smilax. Richard Neiley of Boston was Mr. Wright's best man.

Eight young women, Miss Louise Iselin, Miss Evelyn Lanman and Miss Sarah Holter, all of New York; Miss Alice Scott, Miss Katherine Steedman, Miss Trimble Hoblitzelle, Miss Katherine Sipple and Miss Catherine Louise Crunden, as bridesmaids, made a pretty picture in their filmy gowns of orchid chiffon over blue, made after a Chanel model with deep round necks simple bodices with a slightly low waist line, and flared skirts with loose circular panels. In lieu of trains, soft draperies, fastened to the neck line of the center back, floated to the hem. They wore matching shoes and stockings and large drooping Milan hats of pale yellow with hydrangea velvet about the crowns. Their flowers were yellow daisies, arranged in arm bouquets.

Miss Jane Catherine Caradine, school girl sister of the bride, might have stepped from a colonial picture in her sheer yellow organdie, with its full skirt reaching quite to her ankles and cream net fichu. Ruffles of lace adorned the overskirt and edged the quaint collar. Her hat corresponded to the others, with streamers of hydrangea velvet at the back. She carried daisies.

MISS SUSAN ELIZABETH HAWES. Her engagement to Samuel Davis Capen Jr. was announced at a tea last Sunday. —Dieckman

Preceding the bride and her father was 6-year-old Carol Gatch, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hayward Gatch, in white lace-trimmed organdie over pink, carrying an inverted leghorn hat filled with spring flowers.

The bride wore white satin fashioned after the modified Italian Renaissance. A deep rose point lace bertha finished the drop shoulder semi-fitted bodice, and the long skirt was fulled to an uneven waist line with cartridge plaiting. The hem was cut to the knees in front to reveal a rosepoint lace petticoat. Transparent trains of cloudy tulle, covered with sheer lace, were gathered into close cap over her hair and held with a circlet of orange blossoms. She carried a sheaf of Easter lilies.

Mrs. Caradine wore gray chiffon with a hat to match and a corsage of orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Kennerly, whose home is next to that of the Caradines, lent their garden for the bridal dinner following the ceremony. The great oval table, seating 32 guests, was laid about the fountain, with

Many Weddings of Interest to Take Place This Week

AN unusual large number of weddings will take place this week. On Wednesday five ceremonies of interest here will occupy important places on the calendar. In Florence, Italy, Miss Mary Denman Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McLure Clark of 15 Hortense place, will become the bride of Giovanni de Carignani of a noble Italian family, according to the latest information received by members of the family here. The same day, in St. Patrick's Cathedral, in Harrisburg, Pa., will take place the marriage of Miss Marie Wygant, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Henry S. Wygant, and Eugene Philpot Curran, son of Con P. Curran of Normandy, the Bishop of Harrisburg officiating. After a wedding trip Mr. Curran and his bride will make their home in St. Louis. The bride made her debut in St. Louis under the chaperonage of her cousin, Mrs. John O'Fallon Delany.

Miss Kathryn Farrar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Christy Farrar, and John Meston Holmes will be married at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening at the Farrar home in Jennings. Miss Janet Holmes, Miss Margaret Nettleship and Milton Stahl and James Douglas will be the attendants and the Rev. Dr. Ivan Lee Holt will officiate. At the same time Miss Dorothy Martin, daughter of Mr.

Ritz Garden Made Into Theater for Brilliant Dinner

Ballet Takes Part in Outdoor Entertainment in Paris— Many St. Louisans on the Continent.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, June 2.—The garden of the Hotel Ritz was the scene of a very brilliant party last week, given by Mr. and Mrs. Jay O'Brien. The garden was transformed into a theater as a setting for the Ballet Russe, which gave a program during dinner. The ballet was followed by a dance in the two great ballrooms opening on to the small garden. Among the 120 guests were Mr. and Mrs. Cole Porter of Kentucky; Grand Duchess Marie of Russia; Grand Duke Dimitri, Baron and Baronne Eugene de Rothschild, Michael Arlen, the author, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Oelrichs, the latter formerly Miss Dorothy Heydel of St. Louis.

W. H. Petring of St. Louis, who has been spending some time in an extensive tour of the Continent, is at the Hotel Wagram.

Miss Carrie L. Wilkerson of St. Louis is at the Hotel de l'Univers.

Gregory Tupper of St. Louis has been at the Hotel Saint-James et d'Albany.

American boys attending the various schools along the Lake of Geneva are playing an unusually prominent part in athletics and the annual Swiss regattas this season. One of the "fours" which is showing great promise in the daily tryouts at Ouchy represents the Bellrive Rowing Club and consists of youths from Mr. Selig's school. Edgar Rombauer of St. Louis is pulling No. 2 oar.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Friedmann of St. Louis have arrived in Carlsbad, Czecho-Slovakia, for the spring season there. They are registered at the Pupp Hotel.

Among the people who took boxes for the long recital given by Seneca Pierce at the Salle du Conservatoire in Paris last week were Canon and Mrs. Killian A. Stimpson, who was Dorothy Baker of St. Louis.

Mrs. Warne Niedringhaus of St. Louis has been a guest of the Hotel Regina here. She made a recent excursion to Versailles.

Summer Plans Of Washington Society Circles

Exodus to Cooler Climes Soon to Be Under Way — Another Ruler to Be Entertained.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—President and Mrs. Coolidge are doing their part to make June weddings notable this year. A week ago Saturday they attended the wedding of William V. Hodges of Denver, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, to Mrs. Charles Thomas Lowndes of Princeton, N. J.

Sunday all of official society and the diplomatic corps attended the reception at the British Embassy in honor of the King's birthday. The British Ambassador and the Lady Isabella Howard will leave early this week for the summer Embassy, which will be established this year at Manchester, Mass.

It has been announced that Speaker and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth will go to their home in Cincinnati, upon the adjournment of Congress, for a six weeks' stay. Vice President and Mrs. Dawes and the Dawes' young people will go to Evanston, Ill., where they will spend the summer.

Another visiting ruler will come to Washington in the next few days in the President of Haiti, M. Louis Borno and Madame Borno, who will remain in Washington about five days. The primary reason for President Borno's visit to America at this time is to attend the Eucharistic Congress in Chicago, although he will stop over in Washington en route to the Windy City. The Haitian Minister and Madame Price will entertain at a dinner in their honor at the Pan-American Union Building.

Mrs. Coolidge, assisted by Mrs. Wilbur and Mrs. Hoover, wives of Cabinet officers, opened the flower show of the American Horticultural Society at the Washington Hotel on Tuesday. One of the prize winning blooms displayed was the "Mrs. Calvin Coolidge Rose," by F. R. Pierson of Tarrytown, N. Y.

Gen. John J. Pershing was host at a dinner Thursday night at the New Willard Hotel in honor of the Vice President and Mrs. Dawes. Among his guests were Gen. and Mrs. John L. Hines, Senator and Mrs. Francis Warren, Senator Lawrence Phipps, Gen. and Mrs. William M. Wright, Gen. and Mrs. Robert C. Davis, Gen. and Mrs. Fox Connor, Mrs. McNider, Mrs. Henry Corbin and Maj. and Mrs. B. Jones.

The Minister of Sweden and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss accompanied the Crown Prince of Sweden and the Crown Princess to Long Island last week where members of the party are the house guests of Mrs. Robert Bacon, widow of the late Secretary of State and Ambassador to France.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt and Mr. Archibald Roosevelt are in Washington for the week end. They were the guests in whose honor their sister, Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, entertained at dinner Friday.

The Minister of China, Mr. Sao-Ke Alfred Sze, has gone to Ithaca, N. Y., where he will attend his class reunion at Cornell University and will return to Washington on Tuesday.

Princess Cantacuzene and her daughter, Princess Ida Cantacuzene, sailed on Thursday for Europe, from New York aboard the Celtic, where they will spend the summer. Prince Cantacuzene, who went to New York to see his family sail, will return to the Acazlas, Sarasota, Fla., where he has spent several years. Prince and Princess Cantacuzene and their daughters, Mrs. Bruce Smith of Louisville, Ky., and the Princess Ida were guests recently of their grandmother, Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant, in her home on New Hampshire avenue.

Another congressional wedding occured this week when Miss Lucy Porter, daughter of Representative Stephen Porter of Pennsylvania, married Ensign Richard S. Baron, of Lowell, Mass. The marriage took place at the Bethlehem Chapel of the National Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul.

A marriage also of great interest to the national capital was that of Mrs. Noyes Blagden, daughter of Mr. Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press, to Mr. Wilmott Lewis, Washington correspondent of the London Times. This took place on Tuesday at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Noyes, 1239 Vermont avenue.

Chief Justice and Mrs. Taft are leaving town shortly for Pointe-a-Pic, Murray Bay, Canada, where they have a summer home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beale McLean are giving a series of Wednesday night dinners at Friendship, which are the most exclusive events of the spring season. The tulip garden at Friendship now is in its full glory, there being more than 30,000 plants in the garden.

Mrs. A. J. Brosseau, president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, is spending a fortnight in the capital incident to the holding of her National Board of Management, and the celebration of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, later in the month.

MRS. THEODORE SANDERS ZAHORSKY.

Mrs. Zahorsky was, before her marriage several weeks ago, Miss Alice Louise Schmid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Charles Schmid of 4922 Forest Park boulevard.

—Ashen-Brenner.

MISS ELIZABETH GETTINGS.

Miss Gettings, daughter of Mrs. Marie Gettings, will accompany her mother to Europe in July. She is a June graduate of Mary Institute. —Kajiwara.

MISS ROSE HOFSOMMER.

The engagement of Miss Hofsommer to David E. Owen was announced at a supper party at Hotel Chase last Saturday night.

MRS. HENRY J. LEWIS.

Mrs. Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Goodman of 5647 Waterman avenue, was married Thursday at Hotel Peabody, Memphis, Tenn.

—Kandeler.

Mrs. Festus Wade of 4532 Lindell boulevard has returned from New York, where she went to see her daughter, Mrs. Lee Petit Warren of Washington and her granddaughter, Miss Lenore Scullin, sail for Italy. Mrs. Warren and Miss Scullin will go direct to Florence, where Miss Scullin will be a member of the bridal party at the wedding of her cousin, Miss Mary Denman Clark of St. Louis, and Giovanni Carignani of Italy.

Miss Sarah Boogher of 6241 Waterman avenue has gone to Aurora, N. Y., to attend the commencement exercises of Wells College, from which she was graduated last year. She will visit several college friends while East and will return to St. Louis the first party of July.

Mrs. Vincent L. Price of 6320 Forsythe boulevard will depart Tuesday for San Diego, Cal., for the summer. Her daughter, Miss Lauralouise, will join her the latter part of the month. Mr. Price will go to California in August.

Miss Mary Scudder Bond, Miss Elizabeth Grayson, Miss Alice Clark, Miss Josephine Moffitt, Miss Mary Sloan, Miss Eppes Hawes, Miss Harriet Moore and Miss Marjorie Little.

Mr. and Mrs. Lazarus Scharff of the Buckingham Hotel celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Monday evening with a dinner. The children and 13 grandchildren were among the 95 guests present. Jacob Mahler was toastmaster and Dr. Samuel Sale and Dr. Louis Witt gave brief talks of felicitation.

Among those present were: Mrs. Albert Newman of Colorado Springs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Scharff; Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Scharff of Pittsburg, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Scharff of Davenport, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Scharff and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Scharff of St. Louis, sons and daughters-in-law of the host and hostess and their son, Milton Scharff of Davenport, Ia., and Mrs. Scharff's four sisters, Mrs. S. H. Lowenberg of New Orleans, La.; Mrs. H. Gainsburg of Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. A. Vitsburg, Savannah, Ga., and Mrs. J. M. Levi of 5047 Waterman avenue, and Mrs. Scharff's brother, M. B. Eisman of Birmingham, Ala.

Mrs. W. C. Doering of the Castlereagh, who departed recently for a visit in the East, was the guest of honor last week at a number of social affairs. Saturday evening, Mrs. G. E. Anderson of 4327 Shaw avenue and Mrs. Gerald Lowery gave a bridge party for Mrs. Doering. Wednesday she was the honor guest at a bridge luncheon given by Mrs. A. B. McCoy of 6609 Clemens avenue and Thursday at a bridge luncheon given by Mrs. A. Uetrecht of Webster Groves.

The St. Louis Alumnae of the Western College at Oxford, O., gave their closing luncheon yesterday at the College Club. Dr. Frances L. Bishop gave a toast for the alumnae, and Miss Virginia Barker, who received her A. B. degree from the college Tuesday, replied. Miss Sena Sutherland, incoming president of the local branch, welcomed Miss Barker and Miss Elizabeth Gibson into the alumnae.

The St. Louis young women at Western this year are Miss Helen Elizabeth Linneman, Miss Helen Hawks, Miss Marjorie Euwer and Miss Elizabeth Burley. Those who will enter in the fall are Miss Nancy Goerner, Miss Marcella Anderson, Miss Elizabeth Thorne, Miss Esta Fleming, Miss Martha Goodlett and Miss Catherine Gibson. They were honor guests at the luncheon.

The Shakspeare Tercentenary Society gave a dinner last night at the Garden Theater to the executives and cast of the Goodman Memorial Theater of Chicago, who will open the second season of the Olive Street road playhouse, Monday night with a production of Shakspeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Mrs. Clyde S. Fisher of Webster Park will entertain the Kappa Delphians at her home June 15 with a luncheon bridge.

The Martha Washington Ladies' Circle of the Steuben Society gave a dinner at Cottage Inn June 8.

Miss Lily R. Gavin will present her pupils in a musical recital Tuesday evening at 8:15 o'clock at Baldwin's Recital Hall, 1111 Olive street.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Landauer of 5794 McPherson avenue, will receive their friends informally Tuesday evening to celebrate their forty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gratz of 5567 Waterman avenue will be at home Thursday evening from 8:30 to 11 o'clock in honor of their daughter, Maurine, who will be graduated from Soldan High School Thursday.

The annual luncheon of the La Fun 500 Club took place at the Gatesworth Hotel, June 9. Those present were Mrs. O. Fechner, Mrs. J. Greener, Mrs. G. Gross, Mrs. R. Haupt, Mrs. E. Houser, Mrs. F. Knost, Mrs. C. Meyers, Mrs. C. Neece, Mrs. W. O'Neil, Mrs. A. Snyder, Mrs. P. Staetler and Mrs. L. Wombacker.

The annual outing of the Childs Conservation Conference will take place June 20 at Pevely Farm, Crescent, Mo. A day of games and other entertainment has been arranged. A picnic luncheon will be served.

Hawthorne Hall, 5526 Cabanne avenue, will give a lawn party as its closing exercises Friday evening. The primary and elementary grades gave a program and a party yesterday afternoon.

The children of the Garden Court Apartments, 5328 Delmar boulevard, gave a program of fancy dancing, singing and readings Friday evening for the benefit of the free ice and milk fund. Those taking part were: Marilyn Spinks, Kathleen Astridge, Billie Leelock, Jane and Edward Bosch, Doris and Billy Carnes, Harlow Donovan, Suzanne and Billy Jane Hagar and Andrew Moore.

Viti Viviano, 6948 Washington boulevard, entertained friends Thursday evening for his nieces, Miss Grace and Miss Viti Viviano, who were graduated Thursday morning from Visitation Convent. About 300 guests attended the party, including the entire graduating class. Misses Viviano and their mother, Mrs. Giuseppina Viviano, will sail for Europe soon. The young women will continue their studies in Italy.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Portnoy of 6004 McPherson avenue will be at home informally this evening for their daughter, Miss Deborah, who was graduated from Washington University last week.

Dear Cynthia
The folks have decided to leave for the beach next week. That doesn't afford one much time to select her wardrobe—but thank goodness for a place like Suzanne's!

USE CANTHROX Shampoo
MAKE THE BOB MORE BECOMING
All beauty experts agree that every woman should arrange the bob to suit her special style of beauty. Some like the hair worn plain, some waved, some elaborately curled, but however it is worn, the hair itself must be healthy, lustrous and abundant. To do this, the right shampoo is essential and women who are "in the know" welcome the use of the simple preparation called Canthrox.
It is easily used—simply dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water and apply it all over the head. The hair dries evenly, is never streaked, and because it is so fluffy, appears more abundant than it really is. This shampoo is excellent, also, to stimulate the scalp and leave a clean, healthful feeling. Canthrox is inexpensive, costing only three cents a shampoo. It can be had of any druggist.—Advertisement.

last of the week for a three months' trip abroad.

Miss Dorothy Becht of Oak Terrace entertained Wednesday afternoon, June 9, with a bridge luncheon, at which the honor guest was Miss Thelma Parker, whose engagement to Philip Custer Baker of Detroit, Mich., was announced last week.

The pupils of the Lemcke Conservatory of Music and Dramatic Art gave a private recital on Sunday evening, June 6, at the Evangelical Church, Plant and Lockwood avenues. A similar recital, which will be open to the public, is being planned for the evening of Saturday, June 19.

Mrs. Britton Compton of Kansas City, Mo., with her small daughter, Mary, are spending the month of June with her mother, Mrs. W. E. Craig.

Mrs. Benjamin Brooks of 867 Newport avenue, with her daughter, Miss Gladys Brooks has gone to Seattle, Wash., where they will spend several weeks with relaties.

The card party to be given for the benefit of the building fund of the Old Folks' Home of St. Louis County will take place on the afternoon of June 23, at the Masonic Hall, on Lockwood near Elm avenue.

Four young boys from Webster Groves will go to Camp Minnewonka, Three Lakes, Wis., to spend the months of July and August. They are William Stoecker, Robert Napier, Walter Straub and Sherman Senne.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Kennison of Austin, Tex., who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Wright of 601 Clark avenue, returned home on Monday, June 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Gerock of 750 Clark avenue have returned from a short stay at Louisville, Ky.

A series of recitals and a concert on the evening of June 19 have been announced by the Mary Blackwell Stevenson Piano School, at the high-school gymnasium. The Steindel orchestra will assist with Hugo Olk as concert master.

Mrs. Lester Hose of Brazeau avenue entertained on Sunday afternoon, June 6, with a shower in honor of Miss Esther Williams of Hull avenue.

Mrs. Louis A. Bainter of 230 South Gore avenue, with her children, departed several days ago for an extended stay in Colorado.

Mrs. C. V. Mosby, with Mrs. Ada Wickenden, Highland Mosby, Blue Bell Duck and Dorothy Theodecke, have gone to Los Angeles, where they will spend several weeks. En route they will stop at Colorado Springs, Denver and Salt Lake City.

Mrs. J. M. Coogan of 333 Lockwood avenue has returned from Barnes Hospital, where she recently underwent a major operation.

Recent Weddings And Engagement

Miss Carrie Marie Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Davis of 4152 Hartford street, will become the bride of Henry Free, Wednesday at the Holy Family Church. Miss Davis has been the guest of honor at a number of parties, among them a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. R. Beicher of 3923 Juniata street, May 20. Miss Josephine Gerst, Miss Martha Miller and Miss Gertrude Kupferer, who will be Miss Davis' bridesmaids, gave a party in her honor June 5 at the home of Miss Kupferer, 3842 South Broadway. Mrs. A. L. Schwerdtman of 5038 Bancroft avenue was hostess yesterday at a luncheon for Miss Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Wiegand of 1411 East Gano avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Norine, to George Pogemoeller, the wedding to take place June 30.

The Cardinal Doctrine of the Scriptures—Stressed by the Lutheran Church

The cardinal doctrine of the Scriptures, stressed and emphasized by the Lutheran Church, is the doctrine of justification by faith. To justify means to make just, to acquit because another has paid the penalty. Jesus paid the sin-penalty with His blood when He died on the cross. Those who accept or believe that Jesus Christ died for them are acquitted and saved, justified by faith "without the deeds of the law." Rom. 3, 28.

Had Asthma All Her Life

Hasn't Any Sign of It Now. Tells How She Got Rid of It Quickly.

There is good news for chronic asthma and bronchial sufferers in a letter written by Mrs. W. S. Ogwinn, Beacon, Tenn. She says: "I was a sufferer from asthma attacks all my life. In 1914, it developed into constant, chronic asthma. I was unable to get anything more than temporary relief from all remedies I tried, and was gradually growing weaker all the time, with severe pains. In July, 1924, I started taking Nacor, and soon noticed a decided change in my condition. In all, I took 4 bottles, the last one in February, 1925. My asthma is entirely gone. I have taken no medicine for 2 months now, and I know I am completely well. It is my duty to tell asthma sufferers what this wonderful medicine has done for me, and I will gladly answer any inquiries on receipt of return postage."

If you suffer from asthma, bronchitis or severe chronic cough, you should read the vital information about these diseases, in a booklet which will be sent free by Nacor Medicine Co., 555 State Life Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind. They will also send you letters of people whose trouble disappeared years ago and never returned. No matter how serious your case seems, write for this free information. It has led thousands back to health and strength.

TELLS HOW SHE AVOIDS HAVING BAD HEADACHES

The home of Mrs. John L. Pence, Broadway, Va., is one of the thousands of homes in which Black-Draught has been in successful use for the relief of constipation and similar ills requiring a laxative or a cathartic. Mrs. Pence says she has kept Black-Draught on hand for a period of nine years.

"My health is generally pretty good," she says, "but occasionally I am troubled with spells of constipation. I always use Black-Draught when I feel a spell of this kind coming on, for it saves me a bad headache.

"My color gets sallow at times. I get real yellow. I have found Black-Draught to be the finest kind of a remedy for this. I take Black-Draught and make a tea out of it, and take it along in small doses for several days. I have never found anything that served me so well. I can't speak too highly of it, for it has been so beneficial for me.

"My husband also takes Bl Draught and he thinks it is did. I have told many of my frie about it and they agree with that it is a good remedy.

"Since I have known abo Black-Draught, I have not suffe nearly so much with headac caused from indigestion. If I f my tongue is coated, and I wake with a bad taste in my mouth, know I have been eating indiscre ly and I immediately resort Black-Draught to straighten out."

Mrs. John Trigg Moss gave the report from the National Council in Washington and presented the work of the United States Flag Association. The chapter voted to join the association and form a living flag as a memorial to Mrs. Lavinia Crow Reilly, the organizing regent. This is the first living flag to be formed in this State. The chapter accepted an invitation to meet with the chapter from Greenville, Ill., June 16.

Delegates and alternates to State council in Joplin were elected. They are: Mrs. E. P. Walsh, Mrs. L. M. Ottofy, Mrs. J. T. Moss, Mrs. W. H. England, Mrs. A. M. Wilson, Mrs. F. T. Hatch, Mrs. J. H. Livingston, Miss Essie Matlack, Miss M. L. Baker and Miss J. Stine.

Chapter E. B. of P. E. O., Webster Groves, held its last meeting of the year May 28. The members assembled at noon at the home of Mrs. M. T. Burrows on Jefferson road and initiated Mrs. Oliver Blackinton. A drive to the summer cottage of Mrs. H. B. Ressler on Sugar Creek road, and a picnic luncheon and brief business meeting followed.

Tercentenary Shakspeare Society, with members of the executive board as patronesses, will sponsor the opening performance at the Garden Theater tomorrow evening of the comedy, "Midsummer Night's Dream."

The cycle of Shakspearean comedies to be presented include "Twelfth Night" and "The Taming of the Shrew," Molier's "Don Juan" and "Everyman." Thomas Wood Stevens and artists of the Goodman Memorial Theater, Chicago, who will open the season at the Garden Theater, were entertained by Tercentenary Shapspeare Society with a 7 o'clock dinner at the Garden Theater Friday.

Mrs. Charles B. Spicer of 58 Aberdeen place, entertained the Rubinstein Musical Club at its closing meeting of the season Thursday morning. Luncheon was served after a program including violin, saxophone, piano solos and vocal numbers. Members present were Mrs. Charles B. Spicer, Mrs. Charles Cornell, Miss Bertha Donnelly, Miss Hilda Medairy, Mrs. Henry C. Ritter, Miss Laura Suda, Miss Olivia Williams, Mrs. Gus Hartman, Mrs. Herman Klittich and Miss Louise Furling.

The officers of Chapter CK of P. E. O. entertained Monday at the home of the president, Mrs. W. S. Roberts, 341 North Central avenue, Clayton, in honor of Mrs. Luella Scott and daughters, Miss Ida Scott and Mrs. Foster, who will leave soon for Berkeley, Cal., where they will make their home. The chapter gave a picnic at the home of Mrs. F. G. Elliott at Creve Coeur, Wednesday. This meeting concluded the active work of the chapter for the summer.

Are You Slender Enough to Look Well on the Beach?

TOO FAT?

Why Not Try SILPH? It Chews Like Gum
Guaranteed HARMLESS

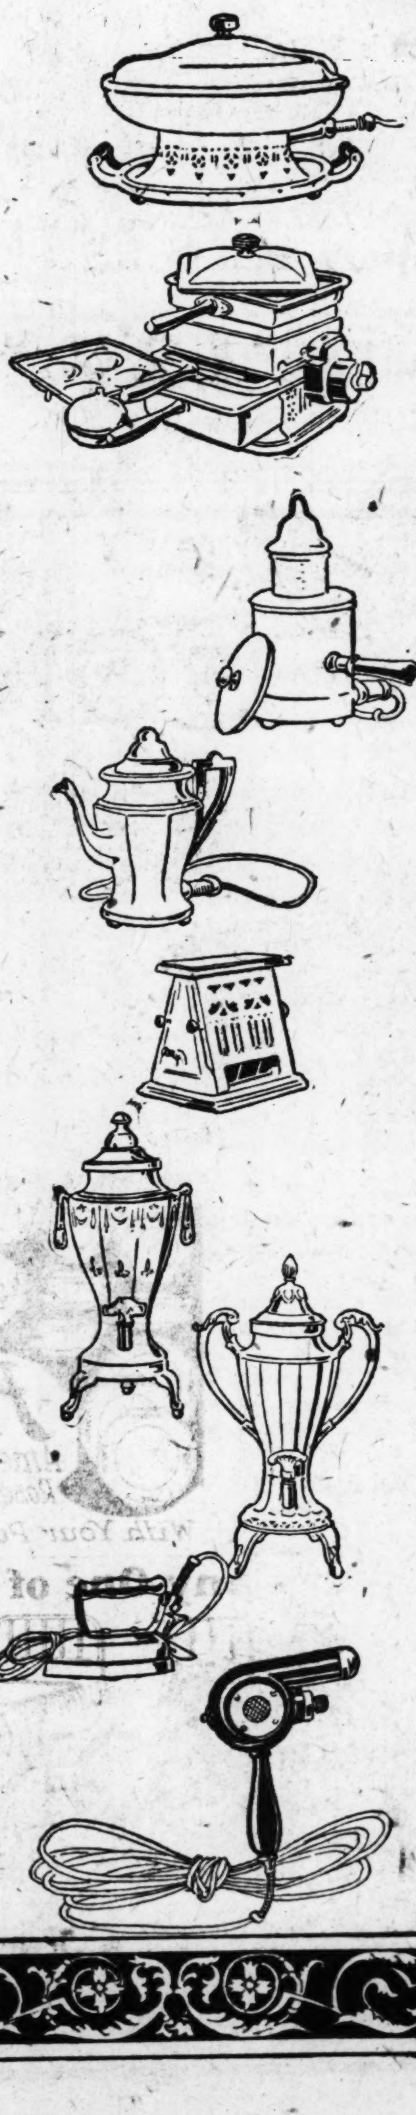
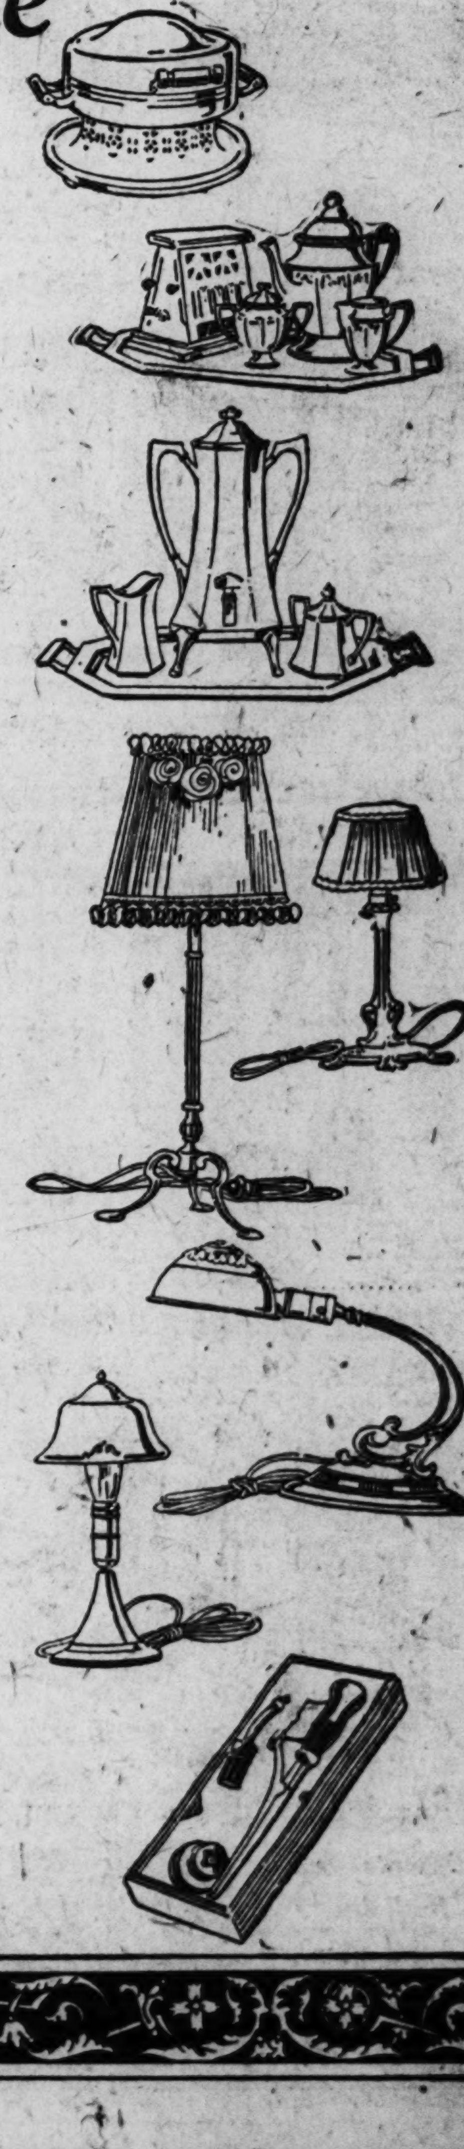
SILPH is a most pleasant way to reduce. It comes in the form of a refreshing chewing gum. It does not contain dangerous drugs. If you are too FAT chew regularly three or four pieces of SILPH a day and see what it can do. If you are not too fat but only a little too plump, it is easy to have a box of SILPH handy, and instead of chewing ordinary gum why not chew from time to time one or two pieces of SILPH and try to avoid that dreaded enemy, FAT. Many of New York's most beautiful actresses and chorus girls are chewing SILPH to keep trim and slender because they have found it easy, safe and inexpensive.

Exercises may reduce, but they are strenuous. Diets succeed with some people, but they are generally weakening—how much easier SILPH is. You can get SILPH (beware of cheaper imitations) at all good drug or department stores. It sells for 50 cents—comes in handy GREEN box. If your druggist is out of it send direct to the SILPH CO. West 69th Street, New York City. On sale at any of Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores, Enderle, Penn Drug, Walgreen Drug Co., Kranson Bros., Johnson Bros. or Sprechart Bros. Drug Stores.

We Ask the Indulgence of our customers while we build for their Greater Convenience





FOR the better service of our 235,000 customers, Union Electric is remodeling and enlarging its office building and sales rooms at 12th and Locust.

That this work be done with a minimum of inconvenience to you is our constant endeavor.

When, during this reconstruction, you call to arrange for electric service, to purchase lamps, appliances, or on other business and have the slightest difficulty in locating the department you wish, ask one of the floor directors about it—they are there to serve you.

Fifteen years ago Union Electric, needing larger quarters, moved from the three story building at Tenth and St. Charles to Union Electric Building, 12th and Locust, and there opened the first store in St. Louis for the exclusive sale of electrical appliances.

Even the meager line then available pointed clearly to a time when electrical appliances would solve the problem of modern home-making.

Rapidly new and better appliances made their appearance, our business grew apace and our sales space spread out with the increasing demand.

We must now double our customer service floor. Our pretty little appliance shop, with its touch of Old Fifth Avenue, has been torn out. In its place, and taking in the space formerly occupied by the Shubert-Jefferson Theatre, is being created a new customer service floor—designed and equipped for a maximum of convenience and efficiency in serving our customers.

While this work is going on, we ask your indulgence, for obviously it is not possible in these temporary quarters to give the degree of convenience we want you to have when you visit us.

Ask the Floor Director! His sole duty is to show you the temporary location of the department you wish to see

Mrs. George W. England, wife of Lieut.-Col. England of Jefferson Barracks, gave a card party for Mrs. Charles W. Irion of Ottawa, Ill., who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Harold L. Egan, wife of Capt. Egan of the post. The guests played cards and were served ices on the porch of Col. England's quarters, which was attractively arranged with flowers and ferns. The guests were Mrs. Moor N. Falls, Mrs. Charles W. Irion, Mrs. Harold L. Egan, Mrs. Huntley, mother of Lieut. Daniel Huntley, stationed at the post; Miss Mary Broaddus, Mrs. Harry V. Hand, Mrs. Thomas S. Sinkler and her sister, Mrs. Knox, and Mrs. Cousley, wife of the Post Adjutant.

Miss Margaret Hennessey of St. Louis is a house guest of Col. and Mrs. George W. England. Miss Hennessey is the granddaughter of Surgeon-General O'Reilly and the daughter of a retired army officer, who is well known as a polo player. Friday evening a number of young people from St. Louis motored out to the quarters of Col. England. A picnic supper, in honor of Miss Hennessey, chaperoned by Capt. and Mrs. E. W. McCaskey, was enjoyed at the abandoned quarry back of Red Cross Hill. The guests from the city were Miss Mary Louise Scott and her house guests from Kansas City, Misses Virginia and Harriet Corrigan; Miss Rose Hall, Miss Mary Louise Hornsby, Jerry Byrne, Frank McMahon, Herbert Puegnet and Ammadee Peugnet. Those from the post were Lieut. William Stevenson, Lieut. Daniel Huntley, Lieut. Long, Lieut. White, Ernest Bingham and Tom Smart.

Maj. and Mrs. Thomas Smart gave a buffet dinner and bridge party at their quarters Thursday evening at 7 o'clock for Col. and Mrs. Moor N. Falls.

Maj. and Mrs. Charles Ross gave a buffet dinner and bridge at their quarters Friday evening in honor of Col. and Mrs. Moor N. Falls. Mrs. Ross will depart in a few days to pass the summer in Michigan.

Maj. and Mrs. C. C. Staples have as their guests over the week-end Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Whalen of Kansas City.

Mrs. Hand, wife of Capt. Harry V. Hand, will give a bridge tea at their quarters Thursday afternoon.

Lieut. and Mrs. Dundee Ross gave a dinner at their quarters yesterday. Mrs. Ross will depart the last of June to spend the summer at her home in New York State and will join Lieut. Ross at his new station, Fort Benning, Ga., this fall.

Recent Weddings And Engagements

Miss Fern Leona Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claibourne Nelson of 5094 Cates avenue, became the bride of Leo J. Rickhoff, June 1, at the St. Wenceslaus Church, the Rev. Father Hamtil officiating. The couple were the first married in the new church. An informal wedding breakfast at the church hall followed the services. The bride was gowned in ivory taffeta, made simply with a tight-fitting bodice, embellished in pearls, and flared skirt. Her train was beaded in the same design as her gown. A crown of pearls held the veil to her hair and her flowers were lilies of the valley made into a shower. Her only attendant was the bridegroom's sister, Miss Helene Marie Rickhoff, who wore pink clover taffeta and net of the same shade. A leghorn hat covered with lace, with streamers reaching to the hem of her gown completed the costume. Her flowers were pink roses. Anna May Rickhoff and Veraline Nelson, the bridegroom's young sister and the bride's niece, respectively, were the flower girls, dressed alike in pale pink georgette frocks. Billy Heidorn was the ring bearer. Forest Nelson, brother to the bride, was best man, and the ushers were Edward F. Courtney and Gene Walters. Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. D. Du Bois of Fort Smith, Ark., aunt of the bridegroom, and Mr. and Mrs. O. Ober of Eureka, Ark. In the evening a reception was given at the church hall, where dinner was served to 200 guests, after which dancing followed.

Announcement was made yesterday of the engagement of Miss

| Avalon | Navarre |
| Starr | Kreiter |
| Emerson | Kohler & Campbell |

TRULY and without question Conroys has been accepted for the past decade · · · as "Reproducing Piano Headquarters."

And, more than ten years of observation, experimentation, and serious study of the reproducing piano field have yielded us a vast amount of valuable data · · · which is available to every Conroy customer · · · and for which no charge should be or is added to the purchase price.

Eight of the famous names opposite this column are available with guaranteed reproducing mechanism. The price range is so wide that irrespective of your income Conroys will equip your home with a reproducing piano exactly suited to your requirements.

Unusually pleasant terms if desired. Conroys unusual financial strength eliminates brokerage, carrying charges and all forms of a similar nature. A liberal allowance for your present instrument.

The beginning of many years of happiness, enhanced by fellowship with the world's master musicians

The Reproducing Piano

THE PEERLESS WEDDING GIFT

THE throngs attending the notable Piano recitals are a fine testimony of the extent to which admiration for musical genius prevails. That such brilliant performances may actually be brought within the compass of one's own home is one of the marvels of the times.

This amazing achievement is the Reproducing Piano.

When you consider the imagination and understanding, appreciation and interpretation, coordination and touch, soul and personality entering into the playing by a great musician, and that these realities are at one's command in a Reproducing Piano, truly here is a gift transcendent in scope of enjoyment and bestowment of happiness.

The wedding gift of a Reproducing Piano is intrinsically of the highest order, but of its extraordinary value for entertainment and of its resources for happiness · · of its lifelong companionableness · · who, indeed, shall set a measure on its worth!

The Reproducing feature, of which there are three or four makes, is obtainable only in high grade Pianos · · of makes nationally known as fine products of the Piano maker's art.

This restriction is necssary because the recordings by great pianists must be reproduced on instruments with the musical capacity to repeat exactly and faithfully every tonal value and every shade of expression so that the recital by the Reproducing Piano is indistinguishable from that of the original performance.

The Reproducing Piano is therefore not only invaluable in bringing into a home Piano concerts by renowned musicians, but it also endows the home with a notable make of Piano, for hand playing in the usual way.

All that your daughter, niece or fiancee has ever dreamed of in musical instruments is inherent in this creation of genius, which at a gesture brings forth the actual playing by the world's great pianists.

Reproducing Pianos may be bought wherever strictly high grade Pianos are sold. Cash or convenient terms. Any Piano will be accepted in part payment at a satisfactory valuation.

SUITS TO ENJOIN BANKERS' LIFE CHANGES OUSTED

United States Supreme Court of Appeals Rules Against Petitioners on a Technical Jurisdictional Question.

OTHER SUIT STILL IN LOWER COURT

Missouri Policy Holders Allege Directors Who Favor Conversion Have Been Promised Personal Commissions.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 13.—A technical flaw has ousted from Federal Court the suits of Indiana and Michigan policyholders in the Illinois Bankers' Life Association to prevent its conversion from an assessment plan insurance company to an old-line company.

The United States Court of Appeals has dissolved the injunction against the conversion issued by Federal Judge FitzHenry of Peoria on the ground that no one of the policy-holders has the required $3000 interest in the company.

There remains in Judge FitzHenry's court the suit of another group of stockholders, from Missouri, chiefly St. Louis, who, through Hill & England, St. Louis attorneys, allege that the five directors of the company have supported the conversion plan because they have been promised $750,000 personal commission, or $70,000 apiece if they deliver over the company, which has more than $5,000,000 of assets and more than $100,000,000 of insurance in force.

The new company, organized to take over the business is the Illinois Bankers' Life Assurance Co., has the same set of directors as the old company. However, the re-insurance plan is attacked on the ground that its terms will result in the surrender of a large amount of insurance in force.

New Tariff Law in Ecuador.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, June 12.—The Government has decreed free exportation on all natural products with several exceptions, the exceptions including cocoa, ivory nuts, pelts, hides and Panama straw. The new tariff law will go into effect July 1. There will be a large increase in import duties.

ATLANTIC CITY

Mother enjoys it, too, with baby safe and contented on a soft cushion of sand while dad and the older children chase around in the surf. It's rest and relief for her to bask in the sun, to watch the bathers, beach promenaders and boardwalk crowds, to scrape acquaintance with other mothers, or to find herself deep in a story.

There are numerous other great attractions for young and old—the Boardwalk with its roller chairs, the golf, fishing, sailing, tennis, motoring, ocean piers, theatres, movies, dances, etc.

All in all, Atlantic City is the best summer home for the family.

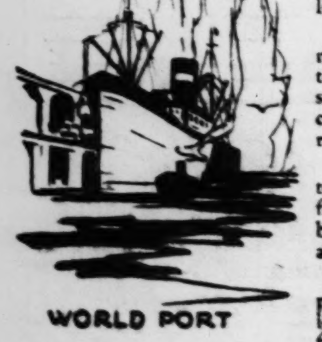
FERTILE FARMS



WORLD PORT

A new international port, backed up by millions of productive acres, and a year-round growing season give Corpus Christi unbeatable assets, if you want to invest time and money where profits are sure and life is a joy!

CLIMATE: The never failing trade winds, keeping the summer temperature at an average of 78.5 degrees, and the wonderful beaches—clean and free from undertow—made Corpus Christi a summer resort generations ago. And the subtropical winters make year-around farming profitable. South Texas is famous for its winter vegetables, grapefruit, oranges, figs, berries and tropical fruits.

SOIL: Corpus Christi sits atop a forty-two foot bluff, at the apex of a vast triangle of high, well-drained land as fertile as the Valley of the Nile—two million acres sweeping inland for miles and miles, dotted with prosperous farms growing cotton and diversified field crops by summer, while in the winter trainloads of truck crops roll endlessly to northern markets.

PORT: Early in the autumn a new international port will open to the ships of the world. Federal, state, county and city governments cooperated to build it, because the needs of an empire demand it.

These assets back up those needed to turn the wheels of industry—low fuel rates, cheap, but intelligent labor, adequate railroad facilities and abundant raw materials.

Put your dollars to work at Corpus Christi, where opportunities are legion! Mail the coupon TODAY for additional facts.

most Beautiful Island Park in the World

Sacred cows from India . . . furry Polar bears . . . brilliant pheasants . . . strange fish . . . a paradise of flowers.

Whispering woodlands of wild creatures . . . speedboats flashing through the water . . . airplanes droning overhead.

Such is the kaleidoscopic life on Belle Isle, Detroit's famous playground—the center of her outdoor activities.

You can reach Belle Isle three different ways—on foot and by automobile over a new bridge, nearly a mile long—and by a fleet of steamers which ply back and forth from the downtown waterfront.

The beauty of Belle Isle is reflected in a myriad of other pleasures in the city—the majestic art plaza—a fascinating boulevard system—hundreds of inland lakes—mammoth automobile factories—and fifty interesting side trips to new and refreshing places.

ndell Boulevard Structure Purchased by Wagner-Grant-Bell Co. From Nathan Frank.

HUBERTS DICKER FOR THEATER SITE

otel May Be Included in New Theater Building to Be Erected by Fox Film Co.

By Berry Moore.

The Wagner-Grant-Bell Real Este Co. yesterday concluded nego-ations with Nathan Frank, atrney and former Congressman, r the eight-story Chase apartents at Lindell boulevard and rk avenue. The building com-ises 16 apartments of 10 rooms
d three baths.

The amount involved was not sclosed. At prevailing cost of conruction it is estimated that the ilding alone hardly could be re-oduced for less than twice its iginal cost. Presumably the ansaction represents an exange of holdings with De Mun rk apartments figuring.

The Wagner-Grant-Bell Co. has quired the apartments as a spec-ative investment with the future
Lindell boulevard brightened by e prospect of new big hotel and rtment structures.

Once Owned by University.

Frank acquired the property year or two ago from Washgton University, to which he nveyed the Olivia Building at 23 North Grand boulevard in rt payment. The university had quired the apartments by gift om W. K. Bixby, subject to a ed of trust which left the Uni-rsity a substantial equity. The partments form one of a group of uildings including the Chase Ho-el and the Chester Apartments, rected by Chase Ulman just be-re the flight in construction sts.

The ground occupied by the ilding, together with a strip 200 et wide on the east, was the site the former residence of Bixby.
e latter, which lies on the st of York avenue, was acired by F. A. Bainster and deoped as a high class apartment ction known as Argyle place.
nister erected four apartments
Argyle, three on Lindell ulevard and two business ildings at Maryland and Euclid enues. The Argyle, as was the ase group, was erected just be-re the advance in rentals and crease in values, which in some ses have doubled and trebled.

Negotiations for another Lindell ulevard apartment, equally imrtant, have been concluded, but tails are withheld pending incorration papers.

New Hotel Causes Optimism.

The project for the new 37-story tel and the 15-story office build-g for the block bounded by welfth boulevard, Olive, Pine and hirteenth streets, involving $12,- 000 or more, has increased timism among real estate men.

Reports were current during the eek that the Shubert theatrical terests were negotiating with the nights of Pythias for a site on elmar boulevard, just west of e 15-story building to be erected the fraternity at the northwest rner of Grand and Delmar boul-ards. The Rialto, now occupied the Shuberts, is said to be in-equate for their requirements.

It is understood that a large hol, in connection with the prosed theatre, is under consideran by the Fox Film Co. for the thwest corner of Grand boule-rd and Washington boulevard
d Washington boulevard embracg the former site of the Presegotiations for another Lindell ulevard apartment, equally im- rtant, have been concluded, but tails are withheld pending incor- ration papers.

New Hotel Causes Optimism.

The project for the new 37-story tel and the 15-story office build- g for the block bounded by welfth boulevard, Olive, Pine and irteenth streets, involving $12,- 000 or more, has increased timism among real estate men.

Reports were current during the ek that the Shubert theatrical terests were negotiating with the nights of Pythias for a site on elmar boulevard, just west of he 15-story building to be erected y the fraternity at the northwest rner of Grand and Delmar boul- ards. The Rialto, now occupied the Shuberts, is said to be in- equate for their requirements.

It is understood that a large ho- l, in connection with the pro- sed theatre, is under consdera- on by the Fox Film Co. for the uthwest corner of Grand boule- rd and Washington boulevard d Washington boulevard embrac- g the former site of the Pres- terian Church and the Hum- ldt Building. Adjoining ground Washington avenue, which re- ntly changed ownership, will be luded in the site, it is under- od.

mand for Olive Street Property.

With the approval of the widen- g program by the Supreme ourt, there has been a demand for operty on Olive stret. Simon n Raalte has received two at- active offers for the University ilding at the northwest corner Olive and Beaumont streets. is building is of fireproof con- ruction, comparatively new and vers a quarter of a block. Sev- al leases, contingent upon the dening, also have been closed for ace in the building, it was an- unced.

Incidentally, Lindell Gordon has de the suggestion that the me of Olve street east of Grand ulevard be changed to Lindell ulevard, thus giving Lindell ulevard contact with the busi- s center of the city.

eases were concluded during week by which the Mississippi lley Lamp Division, National mp Works of the General Electre Co., through Isaac T. Cook & Co., acquired an entire floor in the new Landreth Building at the southeast corner of Fourth and Locust streets, and the Walgreen Drug Co., successor of Judge & Dolph Drug Co., acquired the ground floor store in the Loew Theater Building, through Martin & Breitt.

DECLINE NOTED IN DODGE REPORT

A decline of nearly 4 per cent in new building and engineering projects throughout the country in May compared with the month before, is reported by F. W. Dodge Corporation, whose compilation for 37 states east of the Rocky Mountains comprising about 91 per cent of the country's total, places the amount at $549,814,800. This, however, was an increase of 8 per cent over May 1 last year. Contracts awarded during the first five months of 1926 amounted to $2,565,366,100, an increase of 17 per cent over the same period of 1925. At the end of April, this year's volume of construction was 20 per cent ahead of last year's and at the close of March it was 30 per cent ahead, indicating a gradual decrease in the spreal over the early months of 1925.

NEW ALEXANDER STREET BUNGALOWS ARE SOLD

Several of the bungalows erected on Alexander street between Neosho and Itaska streets by Phil A. Smith have been sold. Others are nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy within a week or two. The buildings are being offered at comparatively low prices and on liberal terms.

The Board of Public Improvement will let the contract within the next 10 days for the Glaize Creek sewer which will serve this district.

NEW DRUG STORE ON LOEW'S STATE CORNER

Walgreen Co. to Open Its Ninth Place Here in Attractive Location.

One of the most attractive locations for a downtown retail business, the northeast corner of Eighth street and Washington avenue, in Loew's State Theater Building, has been acquired under a long lease by the Walgreen Drug Co., which will establish a drug store there.

In this important move, the Walgreen Co. is fulfilling the promise of expansion made when it acquired the Judge & Dolph stores less than one year ago.

The store, fronting 45 feet on Washington by a depth of 90 feet on Eighth, will be arranged in the most up-to-date manner, a large soda fountain being a conspicuous feature. The Walgreen Co. expects to be established in the new location by July 15. Alterations have been begun, and fixtures, all new, have been ordered Eight stores are now being operated here by the Walgreen Co., which has 63 stores in Chicago, 20 in St. Paul and Minneapolis and enough in other places to bring the total near 100.

Martin & Breitt Real Estate Co. represented both parties in the lease of the Washington avenue location, this firm being agents for the Loew Theater Building.

SALES OF LOTS ACTIVE IN WEBSTER GROVES TRACT

James C. Morfit reports good business in the sale of lots in Tesla Place, Webster Groves, which recently was placed on the market. Tesla Place is in the Sherwood Forest district and close to Algonquin Country Club. All improvements have been made.

Morfit also reports the sale of a lot on the west side of Crofton avenue at Olive court for A. T. A. Stewart, and a lot on Clara avenue for a client.

NEW QUARTERS FOR INDUSTRIAL BANK

The Industrial Savings Trust Co. and its subsidiary, the Industrial Loan Co., now at 714 Chestnut street, will on Sept. 1 occupy the banking room at 710 Chestnut street, formerly used by the Title Guaranty Trust Co. and the American Trust Co. Work incidental to the remodeling and decoration of the room and installation of suitable fixtures, will begin immediately.

Arthur A. Blumeyer, president of the Industrial companies, stated that the growth of the Industrial Savings Trust Co. and of the loan company has made it impossible to properly serve its clients in its present location, the volume of business having grown from 6508 loans, amounting to $716,753.60, in 1915, to 29,619 loans, amounting to $6,423,537.52 in 1925. During this 10-year period, the resources of the trust company have increased from $682,893.74 to $5,372,644.08.

Blumeyer points out that industrial banking is rapidly taking its place in the financial structure of the country, along with the commercial banks, savings banks and ordinary trust companies. Prior to the development of industrial banks, no provision had been made for the economic wants of the industrial worker, the wage earner or the average man.

The Industrial Bank makes loans without collateral or a mortgage on the borrower's household goods, or an assignment on salary.

THREE APARTMENT BUILDINGS SOLD BY SHELP FOR $170,000

W. B. Shelp & Co. announce the sale of three apartment buildings for a total consideration of $170,000.

6623 Washington avenue, containing 12 apartments of four and five rooms each, bringing in a gross rent of $12,000 a year, was sold to Sam Raigor, this being the third apartment building purchased during the year by Raigor from this company. The property was sold for Wesley L. Fleming.

6630 Clemens avenue, containing six apartments of seven rooms each, on a lot having a front of 90 feet, was sold to Chester Perstrup for May E. Kienstra.

6104 Pershing avenue, containing three apartments of nine rooms each, was sold to a client of the E. A. Bokern Realty Co. for Philip Jackman.

WEISELS SELLS WASHINGTON AND VANDEVENTER CORNER

Henry R. Wessels Co., Inc., reports the sale of the property at the northeast corner of Washington boulevard and Vandeventer avenue, for Gustave Rosenberg to a client corporation. The lot has a frontage of 70 feet 6 inches on the north line of Washington by 150 feet on Vandeventer avenue and is improved with a three-story building, containing stores and hotel. The purchaser expects to improve the site in about a year with an attractive fire proof building to contain stores and kitchenette apartments.

The property will hereafter be under the management of the Henry R. Weisels Co., Inc.

NEW HOME OF FLOYD W. DAVIS AT ALTON NEARLY COMPLETED

The picturesque country home of Floyd W. Davis located in Fairmount Park, just north of the bluffs at Alton, will be ready for occupancy early in July. The building is of long, low rambling design, built of local limestone and designed in the early English style of architecture. It was designed by Study & Farrar, architects of St. Louis.

INDUSTRIAL LEASES MADE BY MULLIN-WALTERS CO.

Mullin-Walters Realty Co. has effected a lease on the entire second floor in the newly constructed buiding at 4443-45 Cook avenue. This building recently was erected for Ame Manheimer & Co., who occupy the entire first floor as a sales room, office and factory. The building has a frontage of 50 feet and a depth of 150 feet and is equipped with electric elevator, sprinkler system and oil burning heating system.

The Dunne Printing Co. has leased the first floor and basement in the building at 221 Chestnut street where the printing shop and office will be after June 15.

Goodwill Industries, Inc., has leased the store room at 3067 Easton avenue for a term of years.

All parties in these transactions were represented by the Mullin-Walters Realty Co.

HARVESTER COMPANY TO BUILD ON WEST PINE BL.

The International Harvester Co. of America has purchased 190 feet on the south line of West Pine boulevard by a depth southwardly of 223 feet 2¼ inches. This piece of land is 491 feet east of Sarah street.

The International Harvester Co. will build a sales and service room having at least 20,000 square feet.

The property was formerly owned by the St. Louis County Producers Market Co., and the Mercantile Trust Co. represented both parties in the transaction.

GREENDALE TO GO ON SALE TODAY

Addition Is Just East of Normandie Country Club on Normandy Avenue.

The Binz Realty and Investment Co. announces the opening of Greendale today. The addition is on Normandy avenue (7600 west) betwen St. Charles and Natural Bridge roads, just east of Normandie Golf Club, and is one of the highest points on Normandy avenue. Street cars and busses run within a block of the property.

More than half of the property is fully improved, with contracts nearing completion on the balance. The improvements include granitoid walks and curbs, asphalt streets, sewers, gas, electricity, water, fire plugs, including the protection, telephone and street lights.

All lots are at least 50 feet in width, some even 90 feet, with an average depth of over 200 feet. Schools and churches are convenient.

Greendale is restricted to residences. Sales will be handled by Halle & Holme Realty Co.

BRINKOP COMPANY REPORTS SALES OF SEVERAL LOTS

The Christian Brinkop Real Estate Co. reports the sale of 5155 Goethe avenue, a new bungalow, to Mary Hermann. This is the second of three bungalows just completed to be sold by the Brinkop company.

Also sold frame dwelling at 3629 Oregon avenue for Eugene Selig Nagel to Joseph and Sophie Kraus. Sold lot 3 in block 1 in Carondelet Park Terrace to William J. and Elizabeth Hartmann; also lot 6 in the same block to the same purchasers who will erect new bungalows. Sold in the same subdivision lot 7 in block 1 on Loughborough avenue to Henry S. and Anna M. Opp; sold lots 4 and 5 in the same block, also facing on Loughborough avenue, to Fred and Marie Haack; sold to Mrs. Emily Hayes a new bungalow at 4348 Wyoming street, this being the third new bungalow of five at that location sold by Brinkop; single flat at 3841 California avenue for Edward Simpson to Lena Geseli; sold for Emily Crecelius, lot fronting 35 feet on the north line of Loughborough avenue to Edward P. and Emma Mayer; for John M. and Rose A. Darr, lot 75 by 150 feet, north line of Magnolia and west of Alfred avenue; 3636 South Spring avenue for the estate of Elizabeth Paul to John Paul, one of the heirs.

LAMP COMPANY LEASES 15TH FLOOR OF LANDRETH BUILDING

The Mississippi Valley Lamp Division, National Lamp Works of the General Electric Co., has signed a lease for practically the entire fifteenth floor of the Landreth Building and is now settled in its new quarters. A unique feature is the new lighting demonstration room which contains a large variety of interesting lighting apparatus.

Announcement is also made of the signing of a lease by the Premier Service Co. for the entire east half of the eighth floor. This company is a subsidiary of the Electric Vacuum Cleaner Co., Inc., and distributes the Premier-Duplex Vacuum Cleaner.

The St. Louis office of Cosgrove & Co., dealers in coal in car load lots, has also been moved to the Landreth Building.

CLAYNORTH LOTS TO BE AUCTIONED NEXT SATURDAY

Plans for the auction sale of Claynorth lots at the southwest corner of Clayton and North and South roads have been completed by Le Grand Jones, Inc. The sale will be held next Saturday, beginning at 1:30 p. m. on the premises, with A. R. Schollmeyer, a former president of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange, as auctioneer. The lots will be knocked down without limit or reesrve to the highest bidder, with liberal terms of payment. Accordingly this promises to be an opportunity for purchases for resale at substantial profits.

Wide interest is manifest in this property from the inquiries received by Le Grand Jones, Inc., from both speculators and investors, as well as builders. While the tract has been safeguarded with restrictions, apartment buildings and flats will be permissible. Accessibility of the location enhances the value of the tract for buildings of these types.

Bus line service will be supplemented by automobiles the day of the sale. The tract is also reached by the Kirkwood-Ferguson car line.

The owners, it is announced, drove a bargain in the purchase of this tract on a cash basis.

LOANS ON REAL ESTATE BY PRUDENTIAL INSURANCE CO.

James M. Franciscus, loan correspondent for the Prudential Insurance Co. of America at Newark, N. J., has received a report showing real estate mortgage loans to the amount of $16,474,135 were made during the month of May by the Prudential Insurance Co. of America on property in the United States and Canada.

Of these loans $10,414,450 was on dwellings and apartments accommodating 3094 families. There were 1747 dwellings and 122 apartments. City loans were made on property other than dwellings and apartments to the amount of $2,224,525. Farm loans during the month amounted to $3,835,160.

During the five months from Jan. 1, 1926, to May 31 last, the total amount of money loaned by the Prudential on dwellings and apartments was $51,039,758, this amount representing accommodations for 14,804 families in 8670 dwellings and 506 apartments.

This record for the current year exceeds that for the first five months of 1925 by more than $12,000,000, the total for a similar period of last year being $38,613,459.

PAGEWOOD ATTRACTS HOME SEEKERS AND INVESTORS

Pagewood at Page avenue and Woodson road attracted both investors and homesite seekers during the week, according to the Ben Altheimer & Bro. Real Estate Co., which is handling this property, with William J. Christy as sales manager. A score of lots were sold with negotiations for others pending. The company thinks the tract will be closed out the current season, builders and investors being active in investigating its possibilities.

The property lies on a high plateau, just beyond the city limits, and is served by both bus and car line. It is right in the path of the westward growth of the city, with many attractive speculative features. Plans for a number of new houses were reported during the week.

KRATZ REALTY CO. REMOVES TO 4067 SOUTH GRAND BL.

CHOICE LOT

in Ellenwood

WHAT IS A LOT WORTH?

The value of a lot is determined by the possibilities of the district in which it is located. It has a present value and a potential value. Its present value is the purchase price. Its desirability, which influences the purchase, is the real reason for buying.

A lot at Grand and Olive twenty years ago was worth so much in purchase price that went to the seller, and many times that amount to the buyer who realized on the tremendous gain of the years that followed.

Purchasers of ground in various sections of St. Louis and suburbs the past few years have profited largely in the investments, depending on the locality and the possibilities.

On account of its location, its protective restrictions, and its complete community idea, which includes every recreational facility and a splendid environment in the Osage Country Club, Osage Hills residential district has a potential value far beyond the reasonable price asked for home locations. And these locations are spacious home spots, not to be confused with the average subdivision lot. Those who buy now in Osage Hills will reap in large measure on the potential home value if it is the purpose, as it is with many, to establish a home in this beautiful and desirable home location where the family can reside amid healthful and congenial surroundings. The one who invests in Osage Hills property will reap in financial gain.

Many a fine location has been ruined because of the lack of restrictions. One may buy ten acres, place his home in the center of it, and feel secure, and later awake to the fact that objectionable buildings are crowding him on all sides. It is impossible for this to be true in Osage Hills. There are seven hundred acres in this project, every foot of which is to be restricted. And all improvements—parkways, country club and golf course, hard-surfaced streets and sidewalks, sewers, water, electricity and other features—will be in keeping with the whole project.

Another important fact—we have a ten-year program before us in Osage Hills. This means that for ten years or more we will be behind the development of Osage Hills, its advertising and publicity—ceaselessly working in the interest of those who purchase here.

OPENS TODAY GREENDALE

Fresh Air and Cleanliness Instead of Dirt and Smoke.

At the End of the Road to Home, Sweet Home

On NORMANDY AV. (7600 West)

Between St. Charles and Natural Bridge Roads

Located within a block of street cars and bus lines and within a few minutes of St. Louis, GREENDALE is ideally situated.

GREENDALE offers a real country lot. Size range from 50 feet to 90 feet in width and average over 200 feet in depth.

Improvements consist of granitoid walks and curbs, asphalt streets, sewers, water, fire plugs, gas, electricity and telephone. DON'T OVERLOOK THE FACT THAT THESE IMPROVEMENTS ARE REALITIES, NOT PROMISES.

GREENDALE will be sold at prices that offer unusual value to the home seeker or investor.

Why not drive out to GREENDALE? See this beautiful location; see the opportunity it offers. Make your own comparison, use your own judgment. It will not disappoint you.

A cordial invitation is extended to you. Come out! Take advantage of the opening day! Your choice will not be limited. Don't put it off—do it now. We want you to see the property — selling will be secondary.

Representatives will be on the property at your service but no "hurrah" method or "high pressure salesmanship" will annoy you.

Lots, $25 Per Foot and Up

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

VARIETY STORES PAY GOOD PROFITS

They supply the thousand-and-one every-day needs of a community. They carry the popular-priced items which "turn over" quickly, earning a better than usual profit on the owner's investment.

There are very few established variety stores for sale. They pay too well to be sold except for urgent reasons. But there are locations that will liberally support a new variety store and we are in a position, through our Expert Service men, to put you in touch with such locations, and to give you the help and information necessary to a successful start.

We sold the opening stock to the first independent variety store nearly 50 years ago and we have supplied merchandise at wholesale to most of the independent variety stores throughout the country since that time.

You will need from $2000 to $6000 as working capital. Previous experience as a merchant is not required.

If you want to establish yourself as an independent retail merchant—the owner of one or more successful, well-paying stores—you may have full details by calling or writing

BUTLER BROTHERS
World's Largest Wholesalers of General Merchandise.

CRYSTAL LAKE BEACH POPULAR FOR PARTIES

Crystal Lake Beach, on the Clayton road, one mile west of Denny road, was the scene last week of gatherings of the American Automobile Insurance Co., under the direction of Lee A. Harris, president; the Home Appliance Co., Dave M. Boyd, general manager, and the graduating class of Washington University. Lawton-Byrne-Bruner, the Dodge Motor Car Co., Indemnity Co. of America, Clayton Rotary Club and the First National Bank are to hold day and evening parties at the Crystal Lake Beach. Harry W. Spalding is president and general manager of the beach.

One of the features of Crystal Lake Beach is the laying-out, beyond the far side of the lake, along and above the beach, of a limited number of building sites. The area of building sites is covered with oak trees practically uniform in size. Improvements and utilities of every character are being installed and the sewage system has been so arranged as to cover the entire resort.

The People Motor Bus Co. gives service to the grounds.

Clement Burghoff Joins Firm.

The Eyermann & Frentrop Realty Co., 4143 South Grand boulevard, announces that Clement Burghoff, North St. Louis business man, is associated with the firm.

IMPROVEMENT AT OSAGE HILLS PROGRESSING RAPIDLY

The improvement work in the Osage Hills 700-acre home suburb on the Big Bend boulevard and the Meramec River, where five gangs of workers are employed on the various undertakings, is making rapid progress, according to Bixby-Smith, Inc., 316 North Eighth street.

Accomplishments of the past week include the laying of about 2000 feet of water main from the larger main on the property to the Osage Country Club grounds, where water will be ready to be turned into the large outdoor swimming pool as soon as it is completed, and for the club building, now in course of construction. Excavation work for the laying of sewers is also under way.

The pouring of concrete in the swimming pool is finished, now requiring only the smoothing process and the finishing work on the side walls. The special concrete floor in the club building has also been finished and the building is ready for the rearing of the walls.

Grading work has been completed on a number of streets and driveways, and on several of the tees of the country club, with work progressing on the fairways.

The demand for home locations in the country club grounds continues to excel all expectations, due to the superb location, on the hills overlooking the river, and its proximity to the country club.

HEARD NOTHING BUT GOOD

Of the Great Herb Extract Preparation Known as Herb Juice and After Trying It Found It All That It Was Claimed to Be.

"It seemed that everywhere I went everyone was always praising your great remedy, Herb Juice, and every St. Louis paper was carrying such wonderful testimonials from good, reliable people who live here in our midst, all giving Herb Juice such wonderful recommendation that I decided there must be something to it, and thought I might as well convince myself of its merits by trying a bottle. And now after taking your wonderful treatment for only a short time I am glad to lend my name to the long list of enthusiastic Herb Juice boosters." This was part of the enthusiastic statement made to the special demonstrator recently at Walgreen's drug store by Mrs. F. W. Finley, who resides at 3445 Eads avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

In continuation of her statement Mrs. Finley said: "I think it's simply marvelous the way your Herb Juice takes hold of one and how quickly it restores one to normal health after years of suffering. To start with, I have been dreadfully constipated for many years, and as you are no doubt aware of the fact more than I am, many disorders such as indigestion, gassy stomach, poor appetite, sleepless nights, nervousness and general run-down condition go hand in hand with that dreadful malady, constipation. There was not a single ailment which I didn't have before I started taking this most remarkable medicine and I truthfully confess that I [illegible] think that Herb Juice would work so instantaneously. Why, from the very beginning I could see a difference. Very much unlike the different remedies and treatments that I have previously taken, Herb Juice just has that something that starts you feeling good right from the very first dose. Or, at least, this is the way it acted in my case. I can truthfully say that this is the greatest remedy that I have ever used and it has given me a different outlook on life. My constipation has disappeared and all the other aggravating ailments from which I suffered. I can't begin to tell you how happy I am that I took Herb Juice, and I sincerely hope that some poor sufferer reads this testimonial of mine and on my recommendation tries Herb Juice, because I am quite sure that once they have tried it they will be just as loud in its praise as I am. In conclusion let me add, that Herb Juice is one remedy that you can take with confidence and with absolute assurance of relief. This medicine will always have my hearty indorsement and a place in my home."

This great laxative medicine is an Herb Extract preparation known as Herb Juice and is outselling any medicine where it has been introduced. Many are calling daily to see the special demonstrator at Walgreen Drug Company, 514 Washington avenue, [illegible] praising statements for publication praising this great remedy [illegible] their friends [illegible]

Sorel, the Coquette—MARRIED!

The Leading Actress of the Comedie Francaise, Having Attained 50 Years of Discretion, at Last Takes a Husband in the Person of the Count de Segur. Many a Famous Man Has Admired Her—in Vain. "Women Should Be Coquettes," Says This Witty and Intellectual Comedienne, and Explains Why.

CECILE SOREL, of the Comedie Francaise, with fantastic headdress, as she is about to captivate an audience. And, just below, as a camera saw her and as "Bib," the caricaturist, saw her and, finally, the Sorel who has charmed her many thousands.

By JULIUS KLEIMANN
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

THOSE who are supposed to be experts on such matters say that Cecile Sorel is the world's first and foremost Coquette. She well may be. First, she is French, which gives her a congenital advantage. Then, she is the leading actress of the Comedie Francaise. She is beautiful. She is celebrated for her keen intellect and her wit. And as she is 50 she has had plenty of experience, which indubitably is a highly necessary requisite of coquetry.

Now, it is recorded in the unwritten annals of gossip that La Sorel has had plenty of admirers, and these, gentlemen of no mean position. One was the late Felix Faure, sometime President of France. Another, by the same verbal authority, was the Earl of Roseberry, once Prime Minister of England. Marshal Foch once forgot military tactics long enough to declare she was the most beautiful woman in the world, and Clemenceau described her as "the superb embodiment of will power, energy and force."

The foregoing is enough to demonstrate that the lady in question is a woman of some importance. There have been undoubtedly a good many hundreds of others who have cast appraising glances at Sorel across the footlights of the Comedie Francaise. They may never have got beyond that, and as they left the theater of an evening and neglected to help their wives down the curb, those wives probably didn't know quite what was on their husbands' minds that made them so negligent, but it was Sorel. And there have been countless others who got to the place where they said, "I bring you roses."

But the comedienne would have none of them, and it came to be pretty well decided that Madame Sorel would remain without spouse. She had reached 50, she had fame, she had fortune; there didn't seem to be any necessity for her taking to herself a husband.

BEHOLD, now. A few days ago word trickled out from the little village of Pennes-Mirabeau, near Marseilles, that Cecile Sorel and the Count de Segur, a gentleman who had been her suitor for many years, had been married. The Count de Segur is decidedly somebody, himself. He is of one of the oldest French families, he enjoys a literary reputation, and he is a first-class musician.

The marriage of Sorel was, of course, a great victory for that large class of women known as "married women"; at least, so the "married women" felt. Theirs was exactly the reaction of married men who see a gay bachelor make matrimony and join their ranks. And the married women applauded and hoorayed the fact that La Grande Coquette had become one of their number, the idea behind the whole thing being that "these women who have one man after another crazy about them," and take none of them, ultimately agreed to marry.

That Cecile Sorel is a coquette there is no doubting. For one thing, she admits it. But this lady's philosophy of coquetry is altogether different from the general notion of it.

The excellent Mr. Webster defines a coquette as "a woman who endeavors to attract men's admiration or affection for mere self-gratification, as to gratify vanity; a flirt."

While Sorel, who gets the credit for being the Generalissima of Coquettes, gives an entirely different interpretation of the business. Says the lady: "A coquette is one who brings out in men their finest qualities and their supreme power of accomplishment. Only when it seeks to degrade them, to make them ugly, is coquetry evil. The true coquette, in the phrase of Shakespeare, 'is the star of every wandering bark.' She is the inspiration of men. They adore her because she is the only interesting woman. And she is of value to society because she makes of love a charming, a beautiful, a romantic comedy, instead of adding it to the too-long list of the world's tragedies."

All of which sounds very lovely. Especially when La Sorel says it. For, as we have mentioned before, and it can't be stressed too much, she is a beauty. She is a stately woman of exquisite figure, perfectly poised. Her shoulders are broad, sloping away to the thin waist. Her hair is of that yellow that approaches gold, her eyes large, radiant, expressive and violet. Her nose is high-bridged and excellently cut; her mouth a line of scarlet, and a smiling line.

Lovely as she is of face and figure, this is but part of it. For the woman is tremendously alive with spirit, vigor; there is the sparkle of the eyes that means understanding, the assured attitude that denotes self possession, and her unmistakable knowledge that she is altogether charming. She knows her worth, and she is proud of it.

And vigorous she is. On one occasion she acted a part with such gusto that she fell over the footlights. And, instead of being picked up by an ordinary person attending her performance, she was lifted to her feet by a Judge of the French Supreme Court who chanced to be sitting in the first row.

It was four years ago that Sorel, leading a company from the Comedie Francaise, went to New York to present a few of the French theater's classics. And Sorel was cornered and asked what about this coquette business. The lady opened her eyes, parted her lips and declared that as to coquetry she had a philosophy.

"Women," she said, "should be coquettes. Oh! They should be coquettes. In that manner a woman can get a husband—she can keep a husband—and, if the necessity arises, get rid of a husband.

"But—ah, the great coquette is above everything else the woman of brains and the woman of will power. Oh, yes. If, with these, she then has beauty and has grace—then, so much the better. But there is many a beauty who does not rule the hearts of men. No.

"THE coquette must have brains. She must understand. She must understand herself. Every man is a different problem. With every man her methods must be different. To every man a different side of her personality she must show. Oh, yes. One does not please the mature man of accomplishment as one pleases the youth. A woman does not charm a business man in the same manner she charms an artist.

"But though the methods of the coquette must be different with every object of her coquetry, different with every man she would charm, her aim should always be the same. Ah, the real coquette must strive to bring out the very best, the very finest, the very greatest qualities in a man. She should be the all-but-attainable beauty, the beauty he can claim only by climbing and climbing and climbing—to the stars."

Madame Sorel cast her eyes in the direction of the stars. Then she looked down again, way down. She sighed.

"But," said she, again sighing profoundly, "the woman of today is losing the art of coquetry. It is a great pity. The reason is that she becomes indifferent to men." Sorel shook her head, hunched her shoulders, twisted her cheek. "The woman of today does not care to inspire men, to manage men, to bring out their hidden greatness. She is only interested in politics, in business, in social work, only in the fulfillment of her personal ambitions. She is less and less a coquette. And what happens? Romance, beauty, love suffer. All suffer.

"For I tell you that it is only when love is joined to coquetry that either love or coquetry reaches perfection. It is coquetry that rouses love to its final paroxysm, to the grand passion. And it is the coquette who knows how to keep the heart she has won. That is why coquetry is even more important after marriage than before it. It is a much more difficult job for the wife to keep her husband than it is for the girl to win him."

La Sorel paused a moment. And then she dissertated on the technique of coquetry.

SAID she: "Flattery is a valuable, oh, a very valuable, asset of the coquette. But she must use it with discretion. If a woman lets a man see she expects great things of him, that is one way of making it impossible for him to disappoint her. Variety is another card the coquette must play: a man must never know just what to expect from her. She must not bore him. She must, as you Americans say, 'keep him guessing.'

"And this, now, is very important: Your true coquette must know that promise is far more important than performance. A man will accomplish greater things for the promise of favors than for getting them first. The dream of a kiss is always more beautiful than the kiss itself. Take the widow. She has had so much experience with men. She has had such practice in using her brains on them. She knows how they react to this, how they react to that. Ah, she knows how to be the coquette par excellence."

Madame smiled and cocked a knowing eye. She was asked why she didn't marry.

"Oh," she replied, "I have thousands of husbands — my audiences. But I have not one to put out slippers for." So, according to her own admission, La Sorel is quite willing to do anything she can for men so she may lead them out of the abyss of oblivion and up upon the highway of immortality, etc.

But, ah! Let no man cross the lady's path! It was a few years ago that an enterprising French artist, signing himself "Bib," did a caricature of Sorel. Now, this caricature depicted Madame with a lengthy nose and a pointed chin. It was applauded—as caricature, of course—placed in a frame and hung on the wall of the tiny Noctambule Theater, which is in the Latin Quarter, a step from Boulevard St. Michel and the Place de la Sorbonne. The little Theater Noctambule has quite a reputation. Tiny it is, seating only about 50, but to it come some of the best French actors, and rare French wit flows over its footlights. Its audience is drawn from the best of Paris.

ONE evening La Sorel chanced to visit the Noctambule. Between the acts the great actress walked about the little place, just as everyone does. Presently she came to the exaggerated drawing of herself. A cry! A shriek! La Grande Coquette snatches up a pen. She throws herself upon the glass and the pen cracks through it. Turning the weapon, she scratches the point along the caricature's lengthy nose.

To the rescue of "Bib's" art rush the officials of the Theater Noctambule. La Sorel is grabbed, held, utterly halted in her work of vengeance. Fast and furious French spatters and rebounds on the tiny Noctambule's walls. Mademoiselle is led away.

And still on a wall of the Noctambule hangs the caricature of Sorel. Its nose is still scratched and it is still covered by the same cracked glass. While all around the inner edge of the frame are pasted the newspaper accounts of Madame's assault. As customs have a way of persisting in France, the audience at the Noctambule, each evening between the acts, still walks about the little theater. And, as each passes the cracked glass covering Sorel as she does not see herself, each tells the other of the valiant attack of La Grande Coquette.

Ah, Sorel, Sorel! The expert on gentlemen's hearts! The lady who knows what love is! She has even written about it. She has written an essay about it called "Am I in Love?" Writes Sorel:

"Does love come more than once? Does it always come, sometime, sooner or later? Must we wait for it or seek it?

"'Love' is the most abused word in the language. Hypocritically, we use it to cover a multitude of impulses and desires that have nothing to do with love. We use the word love to cover up brutal longings in the same way that politicians use righteous phrases to mask the gross cupidity of their ambitions. But just as there are high motives, even though politicians only masquerade with them, so there is such a thing as love, even though what we usually meet is only sham.

"Love may come once in a lifetime—rarely oftener. It comes, you do not know how. You only know that everything has suddenly become infinitely more beautiful, infinitely richer than before.

"Love has been defined so many thousand times! I have forgotten the definitions I have heard, for to me love is only one thing: the sentiment that brings out the very best and highest in you and that longs for and calls forth the best and highest in the one you love.

"REAL love is an ascension, an exchange that enables both man and woman to reach spiritual heights neither could attain alone. It follows, therefore, that love enriches a man's life quite as much as a woman's, and that, consequently, it means as much to man's development as to woman's. To man, love gives the impulses which spur him on to great deeds. Inspired by love, he produces masterpieces, surpasses himself. Without love no masterpieces could ever have been created."

And, continues Madame:

"It is very essential that women learn to think. Every woman should take from a quarter of an hour to half an hour a day to 'visit her soul.' During this time she should reflect on her work, on what she wants to accomplish and how she falls short of her ideal. She should make resolutions on how to overcome her faults. Many women spend precious moments exercising their bodies upon rising in the morning and before going to bed at night, in the hope of becoming beautiful. This is all well and good. But they neglect the mind. Is not mental training far more important than physical beauty?"

Now Sorel, despite all the time and thought nobly spent in helping the men out of the slough of despond and shoddy mediocrity, has given time to a few other things. She has given time to clothes. She has given a lot of time to clothes. And she triumphs among clothes quite as she does among the gentlemen. When Sorel wears something, everybody else does, provided they can get it. It has become almost habitual to follow the woman. Not down the street, although that probably has been done, too, but in the fashions she sets. A couple of years ago she decided Deauville would not see her that summer. She took herself to another seaside resort. And a goodly part of seaside resort France followed her.

ONCE, says Sorel, the ladies followed her without giving enough consideration to where they were going. It was when Madame invented the hobble skirt. It seems La Grande Coquette was wandering through the Louvre one day when she came upon a statue that gave a beautiful silhouette, its draperies being wound rather tightly about the lower part of the body.

In one scene of a play she was acting that year Sorel had but two steps to take. So she took the idea she got from the statue, coupled it with modern ideas of dress, and so invented the hobble skirt. It is said that when Sorel saw that women had adopted the style for street wear she was horrified.

Sorel. For years she has declared herself a coquette. For years, she says, she has been interested in leading men to the stars.

And then she goes and gets married.

BLIND—But He Never Gave Up

For Forty-Nine Years Hugh Hunter, Sightless, Worked the Farm to Earn a Livelihood for His Wife and Six Children. The Moving Story of One Man's Amazing Courage.

By F. A. BEHYMER

Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

FERGUS FALLS, Minnesota. — Minnesota was the promised land of pioneers when Hugh Hunter came West from Illinois fifty-eight years ago. The Northern Pacific was pushing its rails toward North Dakota. Hugh Hunter was 21 then, a strong straight-standing laughing lad, doing a man's part with a construction gang, singing as he drove the spikes—

I am sitting on the stile, Mary,
Where we sat side by side
In that bright May morning long ago,
When you were first my bride.

It was a song his father, over from Ireland, had brought with him, and he had sung it to Hugh as a little lad. And although the boy had never sat on the stile with Mary, there was romance in his heart, and he sang it tenderly, taking toll of what the future might bring.

Two years he tarried with the westward-creeping rails and then, impatient, he pushed on ahead with the vanguard of homesteaders until he came to Otter Tail River, where it ribboned the lakes of Otter Tail County. There he claimed as his own an "eighty" overlooking one of the lakes, 20 miles north of here.

Hunter was handicapped by the loss of an eye, in an accident, but his heart was full of hope and he had two strong hands, and one eye would do.

With his savings he bought a yoke of oxen and began the construction of the shack that would be his home. It was 27 miles to Perham, where provisions could be purchased, but when there was need of these he gave his oxen a rest and walked the distance, and if a plow-share needed sharpening he carried it there on his back and carried it home again. And as he trudged the weary miles he sang—

The corn was springing fresh and green,
The lark sang loud and high,
The red was on your cheek, Mary,
And the love light in your eye.

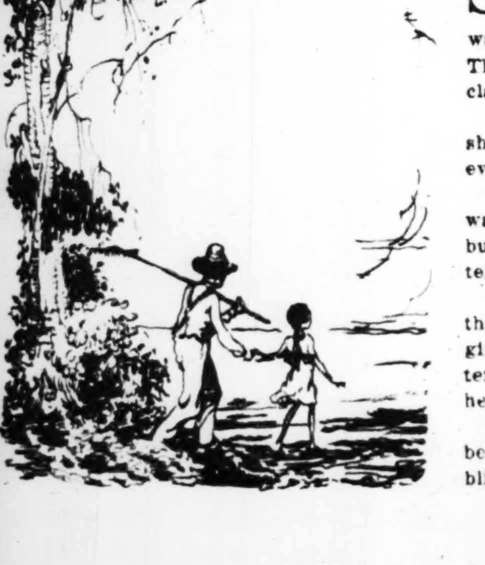
There still was romance in his heart and he was thinking not of what had been, but of what would be.

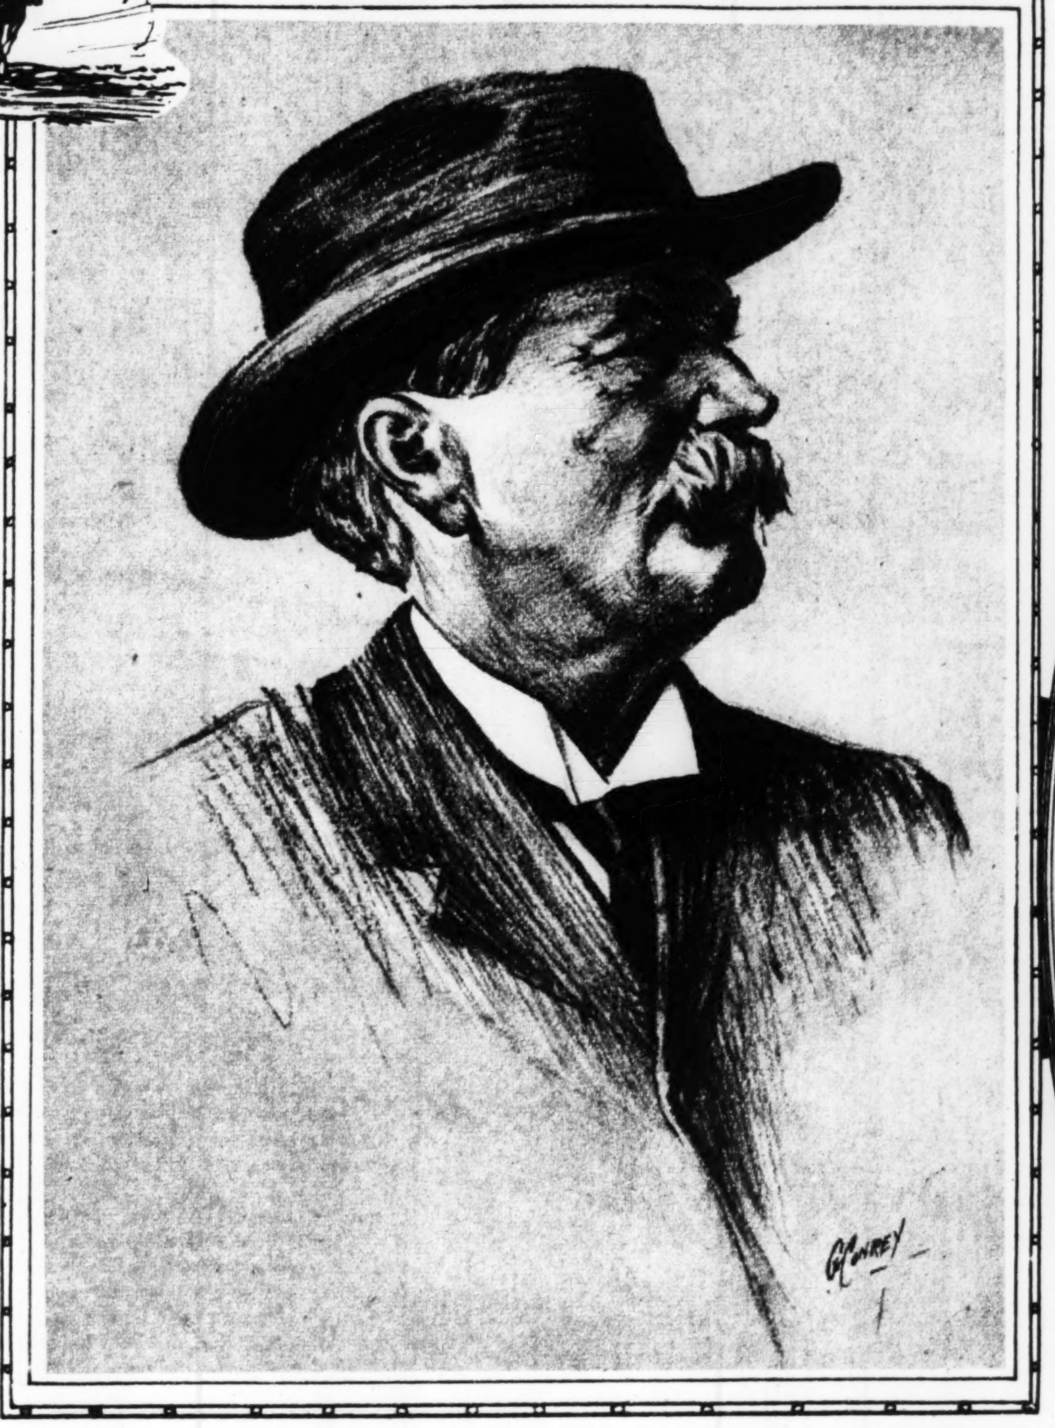
THE first schoolhouse was built in "town of Maine," which wasn't a town at all but only a township, and Rhoda Sherman, 15-year-old daughter of Pioneer Theodore Sherman, came from Clitherall to be the first teacher.

Then, when Elmer Bickford was building his house, and the neighbors came to help, he gave a dance and invited everybody in the settlement to come, and everybody came. Hugh Hunter and Rhoda Sherman, strangers until then, came with the rest. It was the girl's first dance, and it was altogether wonderful, always to be remembered not only because it was her first dance but because it was there she met Hugh Hunter. They danced together to the scraping of the fiddle, and that was the beginning.

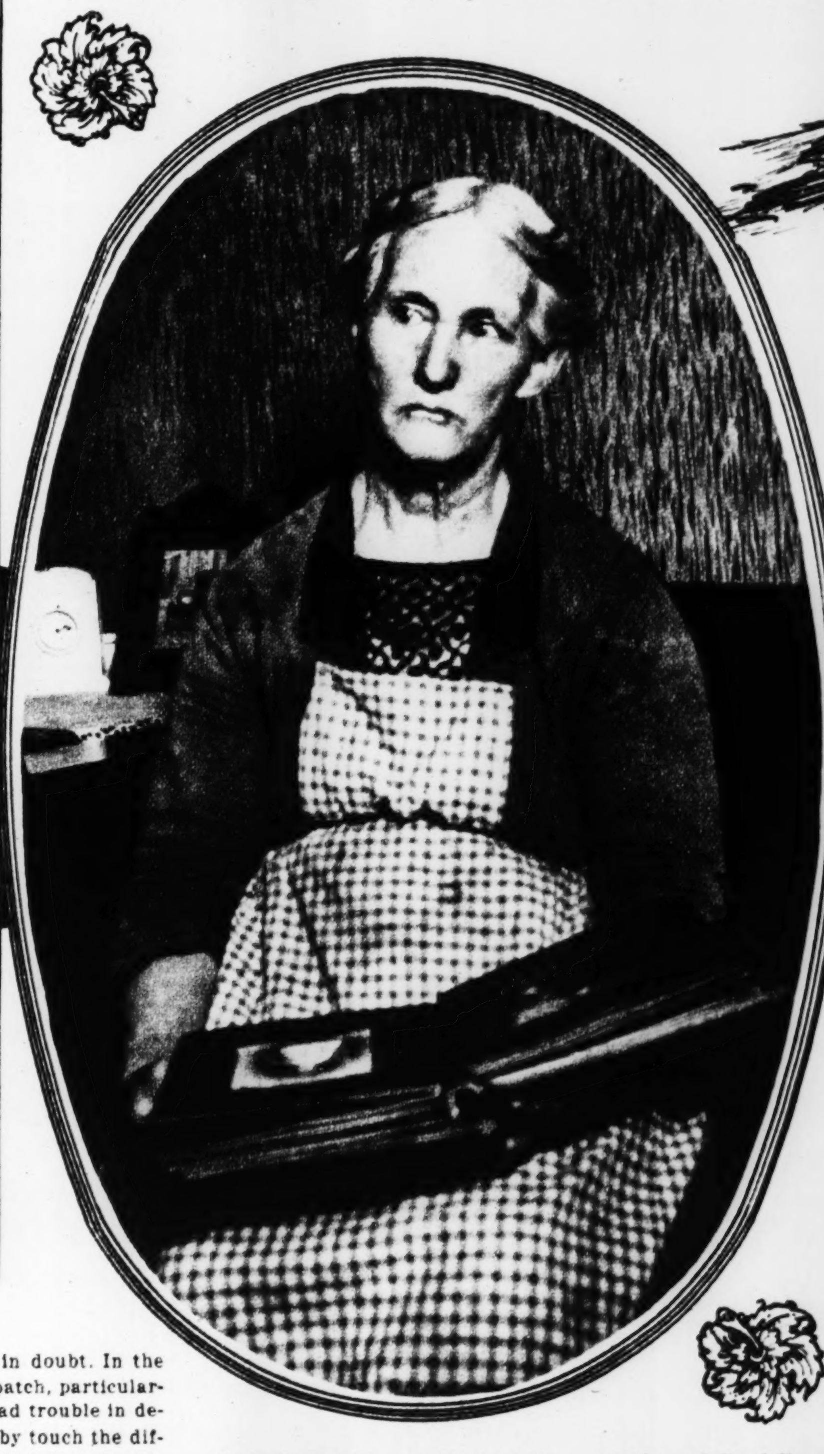
They were married in another year's December. When spring came there was scant prospect of raising enough on the partly cleared homestead to keep them from want. Hunter had heard that men were wanted for the log drive on the Clearwater. They talked it over and decided that he should go. He went and his young wife stayed on the claim to hold it against jumpers, and planted a garden to comply with the homestead law.

He was gone two months. When he returned he plunged into the work of finishing the house, turning aside, when it had been made weatherproof for the winter, to the digging of a well before the first freeze.





HUGH HUNTER, who lived a heroic life.



MRS. HUNTER, the blind man's faithful helpmeet.

He had to dig deeper than he had expected and it may be that in the dimness of the depth he strained his one good eye unduly. By then it was autumn and when Hunter came out of the well at the end of the day, he complained that everything looked hazy, and his wife, happy in the prospect of motherhood, harboring no thought of disaster, reminded him that Indian summer had come and that was why haze hovered over the land.

It was not the haze of Indian summer, though. It was the oncoming twilight of winter's darkness for Hugh Hunter. He realized it soon and, troubled about it, spoke to his wife. She did not give way to her fears but bade him hope, and employed such remedies as the neighbors could suggest.

"We had no doctors in those days," she says, quietly, telling about it now.

The darkness deepened. Now it was Sunday, the 16th day of December. The first anniversary of their marriage. For days the man had scarcely been able to see anything. He was sitting by the window. His wife was kneeling beside him. They had fallen silent, troubled, thinking of what might lie before them. Suddenly the stricken man brightened.

"Rhoda," he said, "my eye feels better. The pain is gone. I see you better. I can see your face. What kind of a dress is that you have on?"

"Why, Hughey, it's my figured calico that you like so well. Can't you see it?"

"No, I can't see it, but I can see your face. . . Don't go away. . . Where are you going? . . . Rhoda!"

She clung to him. She was not going away. What was he talking about!

His hands traveled over her face. Yes, it was there, but he could not see it. Utter darkness was upon him. He never saw again. Never. . . .

"We were as poor as could be," says Mrs. Hunter now. "We didn't have anything in the world but a cow and a calf and a pig."

SHE wrote to her husband's father and he came. Perhaps the doctors back in Illinois could do something for Hugh. It was decided that he would take his son back. The young wife would stay and hold the claim.

"God was merciful to me that winter," she says. "It was the mildest winter I have ever known."

The word from Illinois was that Hugh was no better. The doctors held out hope, but it would be months before they could tell whether he would ever see again.

In midsummer, with her hour at hand, the young wife went to her husband at Elgin. There the baby was born, a daughter. Hunter passed his hands over the face he was never to see.

The doctors, at last, said nothing could be done. Hugh Hunter would always be blind. What was to be done? Hunter's father bade them stay. His home would be their home. He would share with them whatever he had. Perhaps after a while something would be found that a blind man could do.

It was the least that a father could offer, and the dependence that it involved was such that a stricken son and his wife could accept without shame; but Hugh Hunter and his wife had felt the freedom of the frontier. They were the stuff that pioneers are made of. Out there in Minnesota was where they had found each other. Out there was all that they had in the world. Eighty acres of uncleared land, an unfinished house, a cow, a calf and a pig. Not much, but it was home. They stood before the young man's father. "We are going back," they said.

FATHER HUNTER bitterly opposed it. Hadn't he been out there? Didn't he know how hopeless it was? Besides, he was a determined man. He did not like to have his will opposed. If they went back he would do nothing for them. But they could not be dissuaded. They came back.

A DEAD HERO.

(Editorial appearing in the Post-Dispatch last May 10.)

Unknown to fame, Hugh Hunter lay down in his farmhouse near Fergus Falls, Minn., and died at the mellow age of 79. Hunter became blind in 1877. For 49 years he has operated a farm, doing all the heavy drudgery that implies. With the eyes of his wife and children to guide his hands, he has plowed, hoed, felled trees, grubbed stumps. He could not witness the perennial miracle of bursting buds and the growth of all living things. He knew only the odors of the warm soil and the touch of the land. Yet in the darkness in which he moved so bravely must have been conjured up many happy images. He needed them to endure a life made up of daily heroism. Hunter's story is a noble, sweeping saga within the limits of those small acres which so intimately belonged to him.

"I guess it did look foolish," Mrs. Hunter says. "We were too young to realize. But it was best, after all, though we had a terrible struggle in the first years. We had good friends and neighbors. They helped us pull through."

Other babies came, until there were six. They were all small at once, as Mrs. Hunter says, and besides caring for them she helped her blind husband with the farming, guiding him to tasks which he, despite his sightlessness, performed with remarkable and increasing efficiency as the years passed.

During those first years the cultivation was all by hand. Hunter hoed the corn and potatoes, feeling his way from hill to hill, finding the weeds, and chopping away at their roots, seldom making a mistake.

As soon as the children were old enough, he took one and another of them to cornfield and potato patch, to help him when he was in doubt. In the potato patch, particularly, he had trouble in detecting by touch the difference between the potato plant and the red-root weed. The children knew which was which and could tell him.

When the oldest boy was 6 he was deemed mature enough to guide a cultivator, so a horse was purchased, and farming was begun on a larger scale, the boy sometimes plowing under his father's instruction, sometimes guiding the horse, if holding the plow in the snarly soil was beyond his strength.

It was a topsy-turvy way of doing. "Things went wrong and upside down and inside out," says Mrs. Hunter, "but we just kept on. There was nothing else we could do. You don't know what you can do till you're obliged to."

As time passed, Hunter's ability to find his way about and do a farmer's work increased until he was almost as efficient as a seeing man. He knew the way to the neighbors' houses, around the roads or across the fields. Only, if he went across the fields, his wife would watch, and if he veered she would call to him to turn to the right or the left, and the neighbors, seeing him coming, would perform like service.

There was clearing to be done, to increase the tillable area, and Hunter did it, chopping the trees down or grubbing them up, according to their size, having no help except that one of the children would be at hand to warn him when the tree was about to fall and guide him out of danger's path when it fell.

In this service, in the earlier years, Bertha, the oldest daughter, was usually employed, for there was too much danger to intrust it to Teddy and the other younger children, who might become preoccupied with play. Bertha was safe and dependable. She watched the tree top, gave notice when it began to topple, noted the direction of its fall, and ran in the opposite direction, shrilling: "Come this way, Daddy, come quick." Her father, guided by her voice, would stumble toward her and reach safety.

He cut the cordwood for the winter's fuel, and split fence posts and dug the post holes and built the fences. He built barns and granaries. He did a fit man's part, at harvest time, pitching the bundles of grain to the stackers.

His hearing was amazingly acute. Once a coin was dropped into the pig trough. He listened and heard a pig's teeth click against it and recovered it. Another time a watch was lost in the woods. Searchers were unable to find it. He located it by hearing its tick.

With a sort of sixth sense he was aware of the nearness of silent objects. One night Bertha tested him. He was coming from the barn. She stood perfectly still at the side of the path and held her breath. He came opposite her and stopped and thrust his stick toward her. "Who's there?" he demanded. The child giggled. "You can't fool your Dad," said Hugh Hunter. They walked to the house together.

Often in the summer he worked in the fields at night alone, sparing himself exposure to the heat of the day. The darkness of the night meant nothing to him because he was in perpetual darkness. If products were to be taken to market, he spent most of the night loading the wagons and assisted the boys to an early morning start and then went to bed.

HIS sense of distance and direction was amazingly accurate. Once there was a stranger who wanted to drive from the Friberg neighborhood to Clitherall, 25 miles, and Hunter went along, indicating the turns in the road.

Only once, it is remembered, did he lose his way. Mrs. Hunter and the children were sick one winter night and onions were needed to make a home remedy. The nearest onions were at the home of Uncle Frank Sherman, two miles away. Hunter was the only one who could go. He started out with his dog, Bruno, to keep him company and help him find the way. He came to Sherman's and procured the onions and started back. But snow was falling and covering the ground and because of that he became confused and strayed into a neighbor's pasture.

The dog, instead of accompanying him, continued in the right direction, keeping up an insistent barking to recall him and leaping joyously when its master came groping back.

Sometimes the cows did not come up from the wooded pasture and then Hunter would go to find them and drive them home. He had gone to the pasture one night and Mrs. Hunter, after putting the children to bed, was sitting at the window, when the barn sprang into flame. She ran screaming from the house and her husband heard her and knew that something terrible was happening, but he did not know what. He hurried homeward as fast as he could, stumbling, falling, struggling to his feet, staggering on.

When he came near he knew that something was burning and supposed it was the house, and it might well be that the children had not been rescued. He came at last lurching and gasping into the flame-lit area and his wife ran to him and told him the children were safe. But the barn and the other outbuildings and all the hay and grain were destroyed. It was believed to have been the work of an enemy with whom Hunter had had trouble.

THROUGH darkness and disaster Hugh Hunter labored on and reared his family and educated his daughters, but when his sons should have been going to school their eyes and hands were so sorely needed at home that they grew to manhood with only such learning as they could pick up at secondhand from their sisters.

They grew to sturdy manhood, however, and have shown themselves worthy sons of a worthy father—Thomas, who farms nearby; Theodore, who is a Northern Pacific conductor; Joseph, of Graceville, Minnesota, and Ray, of Maddock, North Dakota. One of the daughters, Mrs. Anna Nygren, lives at Fallon, Nevada. The other, Bertha, remained single and teaches in the neighborhood.

Fifteen years ago, with the help of the sons, a new home was built and there, on his fine farm, which had been enlarged from time to time, Hugh Hunter passed to tranquil old age, as prosperous as his seeing neighbors.

Nearing 80 years of age he still busied himself with such tasks as his tireless hands could find to do. Singing at his work as he always did—

The place is a little changed, Mary,
The day is bright as then,
The lark's loud song is in my ear
And the corn is green again.

And sometimes as he walked the well-worn paths that he never could see, he sang—

There's an old, old path
Where the sun shines through Life's dark storm clouds
From its home of blue.

The infirmities of age laid hold upon him and one May evening they thought he was sleeping. Presently he would wake and his daughter would read to him. But when she would have read to him he was dead.

He had had only a local name when he lived, but when he was dead his fame went far and wide, and they say of him now that, among the pioneers who made Minnesota, Hugh Hunter was one of the greatest.

The woman who had been this man's eyes sat in the lamp glow, with the family album on her lap, and told the things that have been set down here. At first she had not wanted to talk. But if the story would bring courage to others struggling under handicap—

Summing it all up, she wondered how they had lived through it and had done as well as they had.

But it was not of the hardships that she liked best to talk. Everybody had been so good to them. They had had so much to be grateful for. That was what her husband would say if he were here. That was what he would want her to say.

HE Wanted to be a "SWELL MOBSMAN"

He Succeeded. And He Spent Twenty Years in Prison. Jockey Dennis White, Fascinated By Glamourous Stories About a "Super-Criminal," Became One and Then "Took His Medicine." Before Being Deported From St. Louis to Australia, Recently, He Told the Moving History of His Life to a Post-Dispatch Reporter.

"I WAS A JOCKEY at seventeen. I dreamed that some day I could be like Harry the Valet, gentleman-crook."

FROM Newcastle, New South Wales, Dennis White sailed some 20 years ago to seek his fortune. Jockey and jailbird was Dennis, a criminal and a crook. He was ambitious, too. For, though he shipped as a fireman of a tramp steamer, he had planned to make his way to England and sooner or later to rise in his trade of thievery. He wanted to belong to a "swell mob" in London. He wanted to work with "Harry, the Valet," the cleverest "pick-up man" of that day in the English underworld.

Disillusioned, Dennis White is going back to New South Wales. Today he is somewhere on the Pacific. On May 26 he left St. Louis, deported by the United States Immigration Service. "Habitual criminal" he was listed. But the habit of years is broken. Dennis White has seen the world. He has achieved his ambition. He became a "swell mobsman" and he worked with "Harry, the Valet." He served time, too, with that glamorous criminal in Dartmoor prison. But the glamor now is gone.

"There's no glory in being a crook," said White the day before he left St. Louis. "It's all sordid. Every crook is a coward. And at best it doesn't pay. I am 48 years old. Since I was 17 I have spent 20 years in prison.

"I used to think a crook was a hero. I dreamed, then. I know now.

"I was doing my first stretch, six months in Castlemain prison, Victoria. We had Chambers' Journal, an English magazine, to read and it was printing a series of tales about crooks. One of the men it told of was Harry, the Valet. He was the greatest 'swell mobsman' in Europe in those days.

"A gang over there was called a mob, you see, and a 'swell mob' was a gang of high-class crooks who played for big stakes, lived well, dressed well, and spent money.

"HARRY'S story, as Chambers' Journal told it, was full of romance and adventure, of glitter and glamour. Among other things he had stolen the Duchess of Sutherland's diamonds. A famous theft in those days.

"I wished then that I knew him. I wanted to be like him. If I could only work with him! I did one day. But that's ahead of my story.

"I'd got into jail for what a crook over here would call a 'prowler's' job. You see, I had run away from home at 14 to follow the races. There were 14 in our family. We didn't have much. Father was a butcher. I thought I'd make a fortune as a jockey. I was built for it, then.

"I knew some card-sharps, crooked bookmakers, confidence men. I had been mixed up in some crooked racing. It was a school I went to, where the only rule was 'get the money.'

"I met a jockey I knew, in Burke street, Melbourne. He proposed this job. I balked. We had a few drinks. I would have tackled anything then. Well, they caught us. He put up a lot of talk about his mother. I lied for him, said I had persuaded him, and got him free and took the rap.

"I'm telling you this story as it is. Don't put any romance in it. Remember what reading about Harry, the Valet, did for me. You see, I was ambitious. I tried to get up in the underworld. Of course I got caught. There was 18 months after that first six, then two years. After that five years. I decided to leave Australia.

"A crimp I knew at Newcastle—he was by way of selling a little something, too—shipped me as a fireman on the tramp steamer Astoria, bound for South America. I told my mother I was going to leave Australia for six months. God help me, it's been 21 years!

"We stopped at Iquiqui, Chile. I went ashore. What price fun? I could talk no Spanish. I saw a race horse—the only friendly looking thing—and followed it to a livery stable. The man who owned it hired me to ride it in a race three days off. I rode that race. Six furlongs. We came in third.

"An Italian ship-chandler, named Sartoli, owned a stable of eight horses. He hired me right after the race and squared it with the ship so I got my clothes. I had a good front of clothes but no money. He must have raced for the fun and glory. I rode and trained his horses. He gave me every purse we won.

"YOU go to the devil in South America. Wine, women and song. I was young. I was slipping, but I kept straight. Pulled no jobs. Then I fell in with Arthur Taylor, a Cambridge graduate—'the gentleman bum.' He wouldn't lie or steal. He'd just sponge. We went to Valparaiso, to Mendosa and then to Buenos Aires. The Passionist Fathers would always give you a bucket of food and a place to sleep in Buenos Aires. I was a beach-comber, nothing more. I hated myself. Even if I was a crook I wanted to make something of myself. The Steamer St. Nicholas was in the River Plate. I shipped as a fireman and landed at Hull, England. I made my way to London. On the Thames Embankment I met an Australian. He was a crook. We became partners. After we pulled a job or two and got some money, we played the West End.

"I mean we went to the best part of London. We were what you'd call climbers if we'd been in the social way. We were getting in with the swell mobsmen.

"We had a little mob of our own—eight of us. One was a confidence man but would turn a trick at anything. Two were card sharpers. Two were second-story workers. My partner and myself were heavy workers—that is, we worked on safes and strongboxes. But we'd help one another at anything.

"I stood in the Province Hotel just off Leicester Square one night talking to a big American crook. A distinguished looking man came in—silk hat, frock coat, white hair.

"'Do you know him?' asked my American friend.

"'It's Harry, the Valet,' he added.

"I turned the question back on him. 'Do you know him? I want an introduction.'

"'Well,' said my friend, 'I know him well enough for that.' So here I was talking to Harry, the Valet, my boyhood hero.

"I was queer. I wasn't satisfied as a crook no matter how well I seemed to be getting on. I wanted to know how the bigger crooks looked on their profession. So I asked Harry to 'The Glass House,' a place run by a man who handled a little crooked stuff on the side and where you could always get a fine dinner.

"MY DREAM had come true. We sat across the table from each other. Me, just me, and Harry, the Valet, quiet, soft-spoken, genial, distinguished looking, well dressed. He was a pick-up man without a peer. He'd lay his own plans, work by himself mostly, as when he stole the diamonds of the Duchess. He had money, plenty of it. He had managed to go free for the most part. He had friends. The story went that he had a steam yacht.

"Over the champagne I asked my question. 'Harry,' I said, 'if you had it all to do over again would you go straight or would you follow the profession?'

"He didn't answer in a hurry—this top-notch crook who seemed to have everything and who seemed to be getting away with it.

"'I'd go straight,' he said at last.

"There is always that wish in the back of your head no matter how lucky you've been at crime.

"We became friends. I helped him with one job. What? I don't want to tell you details. These things look simple and easy to a kid as you tell them, just because a crook won't tackle a job unless everything is in his favor. The crook is a coward, I tell you, not a hero. But a kid might think it a heroic thing, like I did when first I read about Harry, the Valet.

"Then I got lagged for six months, being 'illegally on the premises.' We drifted apart. Next time I saw Harry, the Valet, he was breaking rocks alongside me in Dartmoor prison and I was doing a five-year stretch. Poor old man. He'd broke himself trying to get free and his spirit was broken, too. 'I wish,' he said, 'I'd taken my own advice the time I talked to you.' I never saw him again. Jack Patterson, a notorious safe man, and Jack Lane, the biggest yegg in Europe, were in with us then, too. I saw them later, old, broken men, living on a few pence a day the Prisoner's Aid Society gave to keep their miserable bodies and souls together.

"I was sent up to Dartmoor for a job at Hampstead Heath. We started to stick up a man with a bag. We thought it had valuables. When we pulled our guns he vaulted over a wall and ran. We didn't know what to do. He'd surprised us so. We stopped and talked it over and then walked up the street. Two coppers were waiting behind the wall at the next corner. The man had cut across the block and picked them up on the next street, while we were talking about it.

"After Dartmoor I came to America on the Oceanic. I left her at New York and took a train—anywhere. In Toledo I pulled a job. Then I came west. They arrested me in Des Moines, Iowa. 'What you got on you?' asked the cop who vagged us. I handed him my pistol. 'That costs you two years,' he said. I thought he was joking, but I laughed out of the other side of my face next morning when Judge De Graff sentenced me to two years for carrying concealed weapons.

"The pen at Fort Madison, Iowa, for me. I served my time. One of the cons there had a job laid out for us when we got out. A mail bag job at Marshalltown, Iowa. I was to wait for him outside the pen. Well, I went to Marshalltown first. For a stall I went to bootlegging. The police would know my business. They wouldn't think a crook would be inviting scrutiny that way. Then, while I waited, I decided to stick up this store."

Of that attempted robbery they tell the story better in Marshalltown. White doesn't like to boast. The facts are that E. R. Winslow, a small grocer, was in the habit of carrying $500 to $700 on paydays to cash checks for employes of the M. & St. L. railroad. White decided to get that money.

He entered the grocery in the early evening, wearing an engineman's cap and hiding his face with a blue handkerchief such as railroaders use. "Throw up your hands," he told Winslow.

The grocer thought it was a joke and laughed. Then Winslow thought he'd outwit this railroad humorist. He picked up a poker and still laughing, said: "I know how to take a joke, you see." He started for White, expecting to see a friend unmask.

Instead, White cursed him for a fool and shot him through the arm. Winslow retreated back to a charge account cabinet. White followed and they grappled.

From the back of the store came Mrs. Winslow, enraged by the shot, like a tiger in fury. She sprang upon the intruder. She scratched at his eyes. She tore the mask from his face. He lost the cap.

He shot the woman then, through the breast, won free, and ran.

In an alley, outside, he drew from his pocket the cap he usually wore. He straightened his clothes. He walked into the Winslow store with the gathering crowd. He was there when police arrived. He smiled to himself. All safe.

For the would-be robber and assassin the Marshalltown police threw out a dragnet. Shortly after midnight two officers saw White in a restaurant. They told him, so he says, they were looking for a man whose face was scratched. The woman's finger nails had scraped him badly but they didn't seem to notice. They quizzed him about underworld characters who might have done the job.

He started for Des Moines two days later. "Chief wants to see you at the station," a policeman told him. He checked his grip and went to the Marshalltown city hall. Again he was quizzed regarding comings and goings in the underworld. He'd be back in a day or so, he said. They let him go.

From Des Moines he wrote back to Marshalltown for a woman with whom he was infatuated. He had hinted to her what he had done. She didn't come. He waited.

HE DECIDED to "turn a trick" in Des Moines. A certain grocer lived in the rear of his store. White crept into that room. Night came. Darkness. He could hear the man locking up, making all right. He heard the key click in the door. Then the door into the bedroom opened. The man groped for the light. He turned it on and confronted White's pistol.

But the stick-up man hadn't seen that another was in the store. And when White called "hands up" his command was answered with a shot through the still open doorway to the grocery. White ran.

Something was trickling down his leg. There was a stinging in his hip. He could feel the bullet through the blood-wet trousers. Only a superficial wound. In his room he dug out the bullet with a knife. He laid there and thought.

"I had made up my mind," he says. "I was going straight."

Some curious twist of mind made him give away every penny he had—ill-gotten gains. He found a job as a dishwasher in a restaurant at $1 a day. He'd earn enough to go to Kansas City. What was the fare? He'd ask. He walked to the railroad station.

"And sitting there," he says, "was the woman I'd written for to come from Marshalltown. She threw her arms around me. She said she was tickled to see me. I was wondering what I'd do now. Could I still go straight? I didn't have to worry long. She was there to find me. She had told the cops, and they were watching her outside.

"The jig was up. Maybe I could have beaten the case, but I had promised to go straight. I pleaded guilty. Judge Cummings couldn't forget that I'd gone back to Winslow's store and mingled with the crowd. It showed I was heartless, daring and abandoned, he declared. And he gave me 40 years."

TWO true bills had been found against him charging assault with intent to kill. The maximum penalty on each is 30 years. Two had been found charging robbery with intent to kill or maim. The maximum is 20 years on those. "Plead guilty to the lesser and we'll dismiss the greater charge," the Prosecuting Attorney said. Was it a confession of weakness in his case? Though Mrs. Winslow was certain of the man, her husband could not identify him. Perhaps White might have gone free. He chose to pay. Not one word when the Court sentenced him the limit on each count to run consecutively.

"I had it coming," says White.

On March 5, 1917, he received his sentence. At Ft. Madison, J. R. Perkins was the Warden. Perkins saw on White's record that the prisoner had been a jockey. He, too, had followed racing as a boy. "But you took yours the wrong way," he told White. "I believe you can still make something out of your life," he added. White tried.

After a while. . . . "he was going to give me the job of head lumpey in the cell house," says White. "What's that? Oh, he delivers mail and sort of checks things up there. I asked to have it given another man. And I watched him. I made it my business to know every prisoner, his name, number, and his cell. When the head lumpey was released I got that job. I had had time to prepare so I wouldn't fail. Two years passed. They put me in the prison hospital."

EVERY day White studied the pharmacopeia. He learned all he could about drugs, first-aid, nursing. For seven years he had charge of that hospital. The prison doctors and officials trusted him. Not a drop of whisky, not a grain of drug—and he was custodian of both—but White accounted for. Prisoners tried to bribe him for both. That was a waste of time.

The worst temptation was when one prisoner offered $300 for some morphine. White refused it. But he was afraid. "Did I refuse it because I was on the square or because I was afraid?" he asked himself. It worried him. He wanted so much to be on the square.

A crazy negro lay in the hospital recovering from an operation. White had just pulled the stitches out and, crossing a short way from the patient's bed, had stooped to play with a cat. Without a sound the Negro stole upon him and grabbed him around the neck. "I knew that the man must stay in bed in that condition," White said. "I managed to grapple his arms and carried him back. I laid him on the bed and bent over to see if the wound had broken open. I felt blood running down my neck. Then I noticed in his hand he held a knife."

Three deep cuts were in the back of Dennis White's neck. The crazy negro, with a knife he had secreted, had sought to cut his nurse's head off. They still tell at Ft. Madison of Dennis White's nerve. He stood silent, while the doctors sewed up the cuts.

And then, when last April brought his term to a close—with time off for good behavior—White was brought here to be deported.

White was ready to leave St. Louis, ready to be deported. Six weeks he had been here. He had made no friends. "I didn't dare," he said. "Some of them might have been crooks." His time he spent in reading what medical books he could get. He watched himself every minute. Not for fear of himself but—

"Suppose," he said, "some job was pulled and they picked me up. I wanted to be able to account for every minute so I could prove my innocence.

"I'm going," he said, "to the land of my birth. . . . from the land of my rebirth."

HE HAS a few hundred dollars now. He hopes to become a doctor's assistant over there.

"I'm not going back to much," he says, "but I'm lucky it is so much. I'm not proud of what I've done. In one way I suppose, since I did what I set out to do, I've been a success. I got to be a swell mobsman and worked with Harry the Valet. But it wasn't romantic. It was sordid. And think of the wasted years."

"But you had money and spent it?"

"A crook's takings are exaggerated," White answered. "My biggest haul was $5000 for myself."

"How long did that last you?"

"Two weeks," he said. "Up in the penitentiary I earned $120 a month by working night and day. BUT I'VE GOT THAT NOW."

DENNIS WHITE, ex-convict and former gentleman-crook.

THE LONELIEST ISLAND in the WORLD

Twelve St. Louisans Voyaged to a Strange Far-Off Land and, on a Tight-Sealed Raft, Sent Ashore to the Self-Exiled Islanders Food and Candy and Smokes and Cheer. A Description of Tristan da Cunha, Where 140 People Really Do Live on a Desert Isle.

By GUY FORSHEY
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

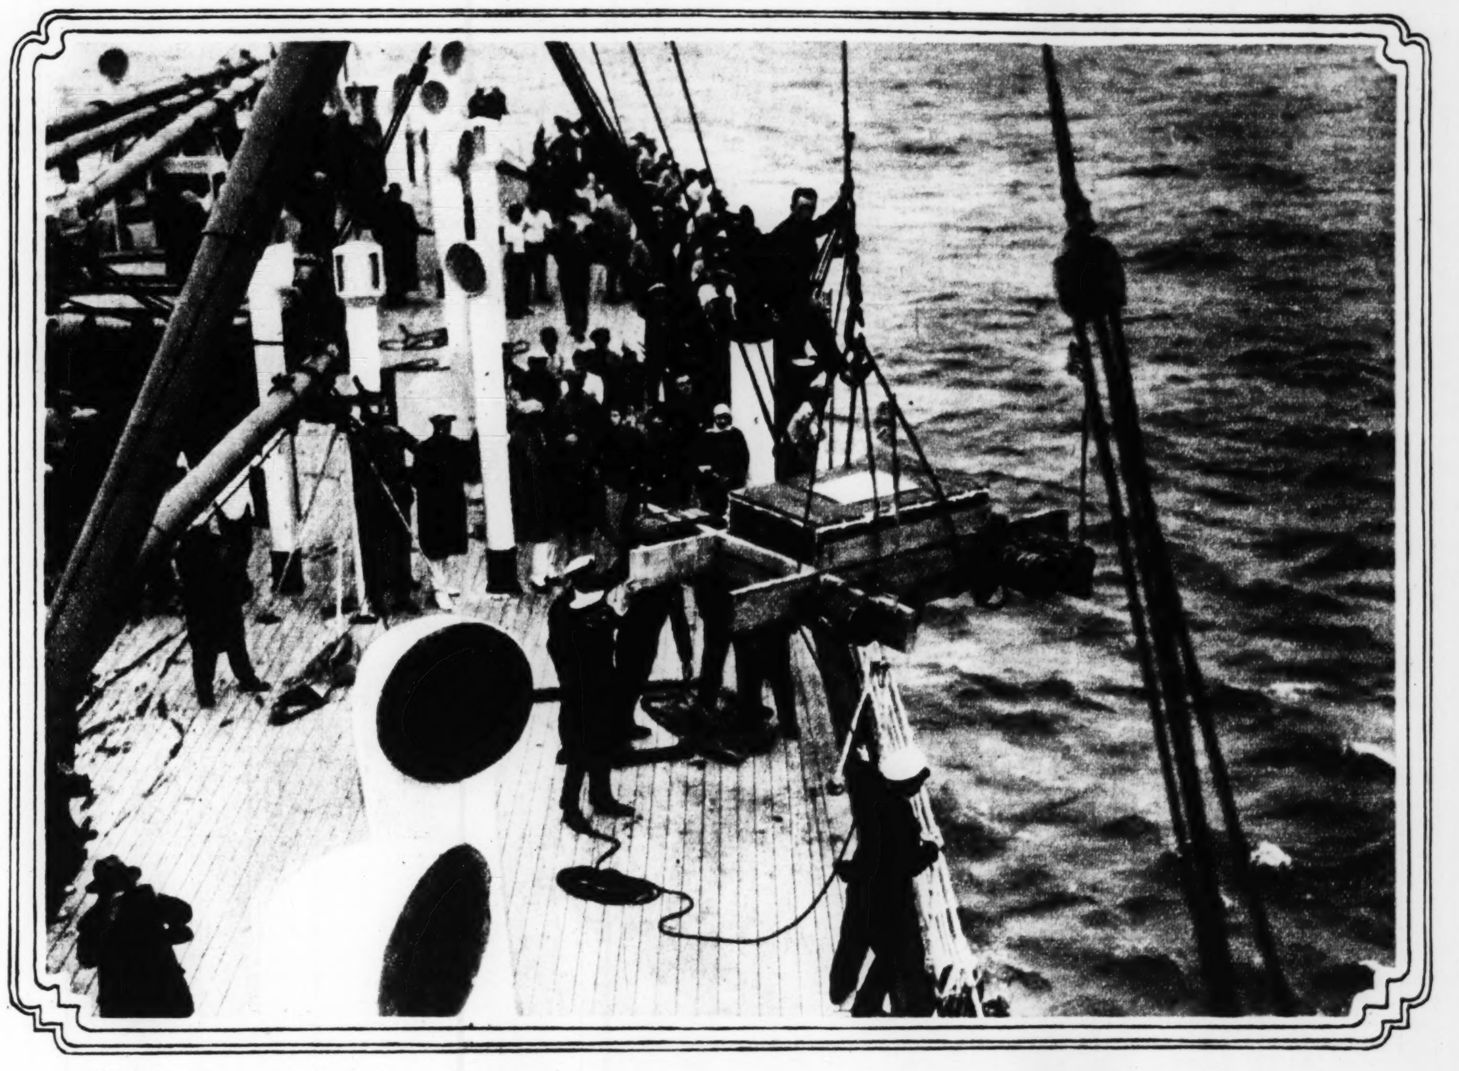
MOMENTARILY the good ship Orca paused in mid-Atlantic, 3000 miles from Buenos Aires, 2000 miles from Cape Town. Faintly through the fog there loomed ahead a mountain in the sea. Sirens shrieked and some 350 voyagers unslung their field glasses and gathered at the rail. There was a flurry of excitement and while American and British flags fluttered, a huge raft laden with a quaint cargo was lowered and dispatched without a pilot upon a picturesque errand of good will. To the "loneliest island in the world" it carried a greeting from civilization. Food and clothing, books and magazines, tobacco and sweets, packed into a great water-tight box by the travelers, went drifting shoreward to tell the white inhabitants of Tristan da Cunha they were not forgotten in their voluntary exile.

Not inappropriately do they call Tristan da Cunha the "loneliest island in the world." Far from the beaten pathways of men it lies lost in the mists of the South Atlantic, its nearest human neighbors 1300 miles away on St. Helena. Less than once a year are its 140 souls cheered by gift or message from the outside. The Orca was the second ship in two years to pass the spot, the memorable event occurring on last February 21. Previous to that, the last time visitors had discerned its rugged coastline was when a wandering Japanese freighter passed by in 1924 and, after exchange of greetings, steamed on its way. To the American sightseers on the Orca, then, it seemed fitting that their South African cruise should be supplemented by a visit to a people less often visited than the Eskimos of Etah. How the humanitarian plan, hatched at Buenos Aires, was carried out was related to me recently by Frank E. Sheldon of 5321 Delmar boulevard. He and Mrs. Sheldon were among the 12 St. Louisans to make the journey, the Orca steaming a bit off its Cape Town course for the purpose after a visit to several coastal cities of South America.

"ALL the way from Buenos Aires," Sheldon narrated, "we had talked about little else besides our side trip to that isolated settlement. It was to be the high spot of our voyage, although we had little hope of being able to land or to meet any of the island's inhabitants. Our plan was merely to drive as close as the Captain thought we could safely approach in the uncharted waters and set our offering adrift so the inhabitants would find it. Hardly were we out of the Argentine capital when our ship carpenters set to work constructing the raft and the passengers began accumulating materials to fill it.

"There were about 350 passengers on the Orca, all of them Americans, and the Orca was a British ship, manned entirely by a British crew. This fact gave a rather international flavor to the venture and made especially agreeable the relations between passengers and crew. On this trip there was a camaraderie in evidence that I have seldom seen equaled. I think every person on the vessel contributed something to that cargo. Daily we would go down where the carpenters were at work to see how the raft was progressing and while there we dropped some article into the big box set up to receive offerings. When it was finally filled, it contained the most varied assortment of goods you could imagine. The donors seemed to get a thrill out of putting in something unusual, something that would surprise the islanders as well as please them. Of foodstuffs there was a large quantity—hams, sides of bacon, canned goods, flour, preserves and candy. There were cigarettes, cigars, chewing tobacco; there was clothing for both men and women and a great abundance of reading matter. Besides the gifts there was inclosed the ship's full passenger list, with name and address of every donor. St. Louis was well represented in this. Besides Mrs. Sheldon and myself there were from St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Blair, Charles Rebstock, Mrs. Mary E. Fischer, Mrs. Katherine Fischer, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher W. Johnson and Christopher Jr. Christopher Jr. is not yet 5 years old, but he has traveled some 85,000 miles, and this was his third long ocean voyage. In the party there were also Mr. and Mrs. George M. Levis of Alton, who booked passage from St. Louis.



LAUNCHING THE RAFT from the good ship Orca. The St. Louisans aboard were among the donors of good things for the lonely inhabitants of Tristan da Cunha

"For several days before we sighted Tristan da Cunha the raft and its cargo were ready. Great pains had been taken in the raft's construction to insure its contents against a soaking. Around the box, which was about four feet wide by six feet long and four feet deep, huge timbers were dovetailed so that their ends projected three feet beyond the box. To these ends were lashed hollow casks, two at each corner of the box. This took care of the craft's buoyancy, but other precautions had to be taken against the salt spray. Here was where the experience of the seamen came in. After nailing on the top, they covered all the nail heads and cracks so skillfully with putty that the box was airtight as well as waterproof.

"It was an exciting moment," the narrator continued, "when there came a cry that Tristan da Cunha was in sight. All day the weather had been so foggy that it was impossible to see far ahead. In fact the ship was running on dead reckoning in a sea that is not any too well known at best when the land suddenly appeared through the mist ahead. I suppose we were not more than a mile from the island, but we could see only about 500 feet of the mountain, which rises 7000 feet above the water. Its dark slopes and snow-capped summit, which in clear wather can be seen from great distances, were that day obscured in the clouds. The ship's sirens set up an unearthly screeching to announce our presence to the inhabitants and we all strained our eyes for a glimpse of them on shore. Some said they could see men running about on the land and waving to us; but I was not that fortunate. I trained my glasses on every foot of shoreline I could see but I failed to espy a single human being. However, there can be no doubt that the islanders saw us and guessed the purpose of the noise we were making.

PETER GREEN, headman of the strange colony from 1853 to 1902, savior of hundreds of lives from shipwreck.

"IT'S likely that they were not long in getting out there with boats to see what the racket was all about and to pick up whatever we had left. If they came they couldn't have missed our raft for it went bobbing over the waves with two American and two British flags flying high on standards set up at each corner. We steamed away on our course to Cape Town immediately after it had been lowered and cut loose, but for some time we could still see those flags waving.

"Our greatest disappointment was that we were unable to land and mingle with these people who have lived for generations on their lonely habitat which is only seven miles across. But that could not be done. Our Captain was afraid that since Tristan de Cunha maintains no health officer, a landing might result in our being quarantined when we should reach Cape Town. It was also impracticable to attempt an anchorage so that we might wait and see the raft retrieved. The island has little or no harbor and the ocean, near the shore, is filled with dangerous reefs. Out where we dropped the raft the water was too deep for anchoring. So there was nothing to do but wish the islanders well from a distance and take our leave, hoping to hear in later months that our offering had reached its destination in good condition. We are still hoping to hear. But it may be a year or two years before a ship stops at Tristan da Cunha to pick up outgoing mail."

Just why a relatively commonplace event like the launching of a raft load of provisions for an island settlement should justify the interest displayed by passengers of the Orca is perhaps not realized until better acquaintance is made with the history and habits of the strange colonists. Virtually all of the 140 inhabitants were born on the rocky island and have lived there all of their days, sometimes in plenty, sometimes on the verge of starvation (as recent reports indicate they now are), but always with an unshakable devotion to their sea-bound mountain. Persistently have they refused offers of free land on the coast of South Africa, and in times of their deepest distress they have likewise declined attractive offers of transportation to the fruiful South Shetland Islands.

It is from the discoverer, the Portuguese Admiral Tristan da Cunha, who found it in 1506, that the island gets its name. Properly the name belongs to a group of which Tristan is the largest member, but this chronicle is concerned only with Tristan itself because it is the only one that boasts human habitations.

How Tristan ever came to acquire a permanent population at all is about as much a mystery as how it manages to retain it. The first settlement of any kind, it seems, was made in 1790 when a Captain Patten and his crew, of the American ship "Industry," anchored there for a few months while collecting seal skins. Later an English sea captain who visited the islands in 1811 reported that he found three Americans there and that they announced the intention of remaining a few years more to sell seal skins and oil to visiting ships. One of these men, Jonathan Lambert, on February 4, 1811, by a curious edict, declared himself proprietor of the islands. He cleared a considerable tract of land and planted various seeds, including sugar cane and coffee, which were supplied to him by the American Minister at Rio de Janeiro. But the venture of making Tristan an American garden spot was finally abandoned and formal possession of the island was taken by the British in 1816, the object being to set up a military post there to keep watch on Napoleon Bonaparte, then languishing on St. Helena. When the British troops were withdrawn in 1821, however, Corporal William Glass and two seamen begged, and were granted, permission to remain.

These men, with their wives, who had accompanied them, constituted the real founders of the present colony. Later they were joined by several men engaged in whaling in the South Atlantic and the permanent population was further increased when a number of mutinous sailors were placed ashore and deserted by passing ships. Shipwrecks from time to time added a few settlers and it is said that once a sea captain was persuaded to visit St. Helena in search of wives for five of the swains of Tristan. His quest, it seems, was successful, and although the men were not too well satisfied, they took the five women as life partners. All of the original settlers, it appears, had large families, and especially was this true of the Glass household. When William Glass died in 1853, it is recorded, his descendants numbered eight sons, eight daughters and 19 grandchildren. Most of them remained on Tristan.

These hardy souls were the pioneers who built Tristan's only village—Edinburgh—and stayed by their chosen homeland through thick and thin of hardship and prosperity. There are now, altogether, 28 homes in the village, most of them stone cottages with thatched roofs of grass like those in rural Ireland. They are substantial enough to withstand far greater rigors of climate than ever prevail on Tristan. A clergyman who spent five years in the settlement, marrying and baptizing the inhabitants up to date, said the temperature varied between 58 degrees in winter and 68 in summer and that he had never known the thermometer to fall below 40. The people, he declared, not only live to a ripe old age but are remarkably free from disease. Only once within his time was there anything resembling an epidemic and that was when ships from St. Helena brought a disease resembling influenza. Reports from some quarters that intermarriage in the small settlement has resulted in mental and moral deficiency is vigorously denied by authorities who have investigated the situation.

"IT WOULD seem, too," adds another investigator, "that the moral and spiritual condition of the people corresponds with their physical condition. It has been repeatedly stated that there is no crime or immorality in the island. The standard of morals is high and compares favorably with that of villages in England. Only two cases of children born out of wedlock have occurred in the memory of the oldest inhabitant and in the more recent case the parents have since been married. The women give the impression of being gifted with good looks and they appear extremely healthy and well dressed. The cleanliness and tidiness of their homes afford clear proof that they fulfill their duties. The men also are neat in dress although clothing is scare on the island. And this high standard is reached in spite of the fact that the mother country exercises no authority over them and they are left under the rule of their own customs."

Between visits of missionaries, it is said, the islanders have suffered for want of teachers and educational facilities. Gallantly the women have striven to keep Tristan's small degree of learning alive by conducting schools of their own, but the lack of books and ideas from civilization has been oppressive. To meet the want, while Mr. Chamberlain was Colonial Secretary, he endeavored to create school facilities but without success. There was not enough money on the island to pay for the cost. When the Government offered to send a school master if the inhabitants would contribute £75 a year to his salary, the spokesman of the community replied that such was impossible, as only five shillings had come into the island during the whole of that year.

IN THE face of this deprivation of the children, which the people feel so much, what is the key to their resolve to remain on Tristan? Surely it cannot be attributed to the amenities of the place. The natural conditions are undoubtedly forbidding. From descriptions given, there is something terrific in the appearance of the island as the shore is approached. The turmoil of the surf along the beach exceeds that of the most rugged stretch of the Irish coast and the noise is described as almost deafening. The rocks and the beach are composed of black lava and, opposed to the snowy whiteness of the foam, they produce a contrast of color that is awesome. Most of the landscape is of the same dismal hue and gives a melancholy aspect to the scenery. No spot in the world, it is declared, can be more desolate on a blowing night. The roar of the sea is tremendous and the wind rushes down the perpendicular sides of the mountains with almost supernatural effect.

By hardly any stretch of imagination or veracity could Tristan da Cunha be called desirable. It is little more than a mountain which rises from the sea in the form of a truncated cone at an angle of about 45 degrees. Its center peak towers 7640 feet above sea level and its slopes up as far as the dome are covered with long grass, ferns and brushwood. Higher up there is no vegetation at all—only barren, rugged rocks which are covered with snow the greater part of the year. The cone itself consists of black and deep red lava ashes with an extinct volcanic crater a quarter of a mile in diameter in the center. This is partly filled with fresh water of unknown depth.

CULTIVATING a narrow strip of soil that lies at the base of the mountain along the northern shore, they have eked out a meager existence since 1821, their activities and explorations limited to their own little isle, which is seven miles in diameter, and to the still smaller neighbors.

Just how meager has been their existence few have definitely known. As yet, no deaths from starvation have been recorded, but there are times when the pinch of necessity is hard. Such a time, it is reported, is the present. According to dispatches reaching London by way of South Africa, Tristan da Cunha is facing a serious situation as a result of over-population. In 1920 the population was 119. Two years later it had grown to 137 and now it is said to be more than 140. The problem of making a small rocky island support so many inhabitants is a formidable one at best and this year it is made more serious by the failure of last season's potato crop. Since potatoes constitute the chief bulwark of defense against hunger, the food offering set adrift by the Orca may have filled a greater need than any of the 350 donors even suspected.

Tristan has now become a too populous settlement. A hundred and forty mouths are more than the land can feed. Soon, it is declared, some of the inhabitants must leave or face starvation—that is, unless other kindly ships cruising in the South Atlantic pause in their haste for a moment to send food offerings to the loneliest island in the world as did the Orca and her American travelers.

MRS. HILL, the second. Formerly Mrs. Stinton.

THE REV. JOHN E. HILL. He of the two wives.

Special to the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa.—The Rev. John E. Hill is a pastor without a flock but a husband who has two wives. Mr. Hill separated himself from his flock at Merrill, Iowa, when he filed suit for divorce from Anna Hill, his helpmeet for 20 years. He accumulated the second wife when he married Mrs. Lillian Stinton, a pretty and wealthy widow who had been a member of his congregation, on September 26, last year, believing that his suit for divorce from Anna had been successful.

But the Supreme Court of Iowa thought otherwise. On April 28, this year, that court held that Hill's divorce from his first wife had been illegal. That the evidence did not sustain the decree by which Judge William Hutchinson had given him his freedom. And consequently that the Rev. John E. Hill was still the husband of Anna Hill.

That's how the Rev. Mr. Hill comes to have a plethora of wives—a paucity of congregations.

Since the Supreme Court decision was handed down, Mrs. Hill No. 1 has been looking for her spouse. For the court's decree granted her a separate maintenance. Also, there is the little question of a Mrs. Hill No. 2 which he may have to explain. But the first wife has not found him yet. For a while he and Mrs. Hill No. 2 were believed to be in California. About the middle of May a Sioux City newspaper received a letter from him postmarked at one Iowa town and dated at another. Then mystery engulfed the man again. His whereabouts are unknown—at least to his first wife and her attorneys.

Plymouth County, Iowa, never had a more exciting divorce suit than that brought by John E. Hill as a counter action to Anna Hill's suit for separate maintenance. Wife No. 1 did not want to be divorced from her truant spouse. She and her two girls, Bertha and Ruby, had endeavored consistently to bring about a reunion in the family life, which had gone to wreck over the minister's attentions to Lillian Stinton.

MRS. STINTON was good-looking, wealthy, a widow—a great friend of the pastor's family. She admired the minister, who had preached a beautiful sermon when her first husband, Walter Stinton, had been laid away, and she used to play checkers with him in the evening. She kept her automobile in the parsonage garage at Merrill. And the Rev. John E. Hill often fixed it for her.

Fixing that automobile brought about a crisis in the affairs of the pastor's family. On Sunday afternoon, June 1, 1924, Mrs. Stinton planned to drive in the country and discovered she had a flat tire. The minister volunteered to fix it. His wife wanted him to change from his Sunday clothes before he undertook the task. Something was said—so witnesses testified—about her having to wash the clothes he would dirty at the task. And besides: "We had a lot of things around the house that needed care, and Mr. Hill did not do them," his wife testified. There was a flare-up, then, of anger. And after that a smoldering fire of hate.

The next Friday evening there was a party at Mrs. Stinton's. Pastor Hill and his wife attended. The pastor had to go to Morningside, Sioux City, that night. Mrs. Stinton's brother was to drive him over. Rev. Hill took his wife home and insisted on going back to Mrs. Stinton's, although, as Mrs. Hill testified, the motor car would have called for him at home. That night the Rev. Hill failed to tell his wife good-by.

Saturday night he took a separate room from hers. By Sunday morning Mrs. Hill was ready to ask some pointed questions.

Upstairs the pastor was pondering his Sunday sermon—a talk to boys. He hadn't said a word at breakfast time. "What's the matter with Dad?" Mrs. Hill said to her daughters. And she went upstairs. Upstairs voices rose in anger. The children listened at the stairway. The pastor says his wife came crying: "Johnny Hill, you're a damn fool. You are a damned dirty coward. If I had a gun I would shoot you."

"I said," he testified, "'Mother, you had better sit down. You must be sick. Just think of what you are saying.' She said: 'No, I am not.' The church bell rang. I started downstairs, and she said: 'You can go to hell and be damned.'"

Downstairs the children, Bertha, then 19, and Ruby, 16, had heard some profanity. "I heard mamma ask papa if he was going to treat her as a husband should treat his wife," said Bertha. "And papa said mamma was sick." And the girl continued: "She was sick, and once in a while would lie down and then get up and walk the floor. Later in the day she called down from upstairs: 'Johnnie, Ruby and Bertha, come up here.'"

"Are you going to treat me as a husband should treat his wife?" was her greeting, Bertha testified. "Papa said: 'I won't promise you a thing.' Mamma said: 'You think more of Lillian Stinton than you do of me.'

"PAPA took off the wedding ring mamma gave him and threw it across the room and it landed behind the dresser. He said he was through. He wasn't going to stand any more of mamma's nagging." The children begged and the wife begged. Pastor Hill was obdurate. He started packing.

So they called Mrs. Stinton on the telephone and she rushed over.

"Johnnie thinks more of you than he does of me," was Mrs. Hill's greeting to her rival, so the daughters testified.

"Don't bring me into it, Mrs. Hill," was Lillian's response, and she turned to the pastor, saying, according to the daughters' testimony, that she thought the Hills were hasty, and pleading with the preacher to reconsider his decision. "But papa said, 'No, he was through.'"

Talk of divorce followed. The wife refused to get one. She threatened to fight the minister's effort for freedom. Mrs. Hill was frantic, perplexed, almost mad in not knowing which way to turn. "What shall I do?" she asked the minister. He gave her some money and sent her and his daughters to the parents of his wife at Cherokee. He took dinner with Grace Stinton, sister of Lillian, that night. And after evening services at church he walked home with the pretty widow.

When Mrs. Hill returned to Merrill, Monday, there was awaiting her a notice that her husband had filed suit for divorce.

That very day he took Policeman Sullivan along when he went to his home to get his clothes. His wife and daughters pleaded with him to stay at home.

His wife "put her arms around my neck and was choking me," the pastor testified.

"She was trying to choke you there and use some personal violence?"

"She did," he answered, "and I nodded to Mr. Sullivan." No harm was done the husband.

THOUGH the minister was gone, Mrs. Stinton came to visit Mrs. Hill. The town was bubbling with gossip, of course. Women had "noticed things." As Ines Harker testified: "I didn't know anything about a woman in the case, but supposed it was Lillian Stinton. I had reason for my suspicions. I saw Mr. Hill working on Lillian's car and things of that sort, but I never mentioned it to anybody. . . . It was my conclusion that there was a woman in the case, and I might have said so to Mrs. Hill, but I don't know that I did."

Mrs. Stinton wanted the wife of the minister to sign a statement—"to put a piece in the paper," the Merrill Record—saying that: "The trouble between myself and my husband is of an entirely family nature and does not in any way involve or concern another person. I consider Mrs. Stinton a lady and a friend and in no way connected with my trouble."

She didn't sign it. Instead, two months later, the wife brought a suit asking $20,000 for alienation of her husband's affections. She wanted the widow to pay.

But before she filed that suit she had visited Sioux City one night. Mr. Hill's mother was in the hospital there. So was Mrs. Stinton's father. She and the relatives who accompanied Mrs. Hill drove in a car to the hospital. They testified in court that they had seen the pastor kissing the widow, that the two got into the automobile of Rev. Hill's father, Aaron Hill, and drove away, stopping on a Sioux City street to kiss each other. The pastor's defense was that the woman in the car with him was his sister.

THERE was evidence that Hill and Mrs. Stinton were together while their respective parents were in the hospital. They ate together, had rooms at the same house. Lillian Stinton picked out the shroud for the minister's mother and accompanied him and his father to Aurelia to help at the time of the funeral.

And the Rev. Hill, when Lillian Stinton's father died, preached the funeral sermon.

But, after all, Mrs. Hill refused in her testimony in the damage suit to charge that there were criminal relations between the two, and her alienation suit resulted in a verdict for the widow.

Then the wife filed another suit, asking separate maintenance from her husband. He replied with a cross-bill for divorce and charged that for years she had harassed and nagged him, and interfered with his pastoral duties, and belittled him in front of his friends and parishioners; had called him names and cursed him; had injured his health by her treatment; had threatened to ruin him by revealing his "past"; had interfered when he tried to discipline his children; had complained that he made so little in salary as a minister; had refused to sing in his church choir and attend prayer meetings; had been wasteful and extravagant; had slapped him and worried him; that his health and life would be endangered if he continued as her husband.

"I am absolutely not in love with Lillian Stinton, and I have no reason for thinking that she is in love with me," the minister testified in the divorce action, denying that he had ever hugged or kissed the pretty widow.

"PAPA told me he wasn't going to have anything to do with Lillian Stinton," Bertha Hill testified.

Yet, not six months after Judge William Hutchinson at La Mars had granted Rev. Hill his divorce decree, the minister had wed the widow over in South Dakota.

John E. Hill had married Anna Zwick on August 24, 1902. He was a farmer boy, living near Aurelia, Iowa. The Hills and the Zwicks went to the same school. John and Anna were almost childhood sweethearts, but when he was 18 another girl came into his life. Nearby lived Alice Janes. Hill began to "keep company" with her. "We were coming home from church one evening and this girl began to cry," Hill testified, "and she said there was a man coming to whom she had been engaged, and her parents wanted her to marry him; that she didn't want to; she preferred me, and something was said about an elopement."

They went, John Hill and Alice Janes, to Dakota City, S. D., and on the way forged written consents to their marriage, signing their parents' names. Their parents interfered when they returned home and took the girl away from her husband. Then the marriage was annulled. Six months after, Alice Janes married another man. About a year after the elopement Hill married Anna Zwick. He had returned to his earlier sweetheart.

The pastor doesn't seem to have made a success at farming. He lived sometimes with his parents, sometimes with his grandmother, sometimes on a plot of ground that Mrs. Hill's father owned. At a revival meeting he became converted. He joined the church. So did his wife. After a while he was teaching Sunday school and acting as a substitute preacher. He determined to follow the ministry. His wife would help him in that ambition.

He got a little pastorate at Curlew, Iowa, received $600 a year and was furnished a parsonage. He worked on a farm some, husked corn, worked in a hardware store and in a butcher shop while minister at Curlew.

He was ambitious. He wanted to get ahead. He wanted to have a good church—perhaps even a fashionable church—in a city. He attended Morningside College at Sioux City.

MRS. HILL wanted to help. She got a sample case and started out, trying to secure orders for preparations. It wasn't a big success, this venture. Rev. Hill complained that the sample case cost $12. Mrs. Hill countered that she made $30 by her effort.

She was like that. She wanted to help him get ahead. After the pastor had gotten a regular charge she assisted by giving music lessons, taking in sewing, and by having roomers. The pastor had suggested she do the last.

From town to town they moved, as a country pastor does move. Pretty soon the salary was sufficient so that, with Mrs. Hill's music lessons and such aid, Preacher Hill didn't have to work in a butcher shop or a lumber yard or a harvest field. They were stationed at Swaledale, and Doliver, and Salix—all little towns—and from Salix the Rev. John E. Hill went to war.

He volunteered, soon after the United States entered the conflict. In May, 1918, he was on his way to France as a Y. M. C. A. secretary. A year later he returned. While he was absent he wrote nearly 100 letters to his wife. Later, when their trouble developed, the Rev. Hill wanted those letters back. He didn't receive them. And later still they entered into the divorce case as evidence—evidence that Hill was in love with his wife while in France, despite anything in her conduct before that time. Largely upon those letters did Mrs. Hill's attorney, T. M. Zink of Sioux City, Iowa, argue before the Supreme Court of Iowa and succeed in overturning the lower court's decree, the while he kept the distinguished Iowa jurists convulsed with laughter.

And they were important, too, in contradicting the pastor's testimony that he had gone to France while very much in doubt as to whether he should return home.

He took his father around behind the railroad station just as he was leaving home, Hill testified, and told the elder man that, "I didn't know whether I would ever come back; that I couldn't get along with my wife. I don't know whether she told me good-by or not when I left, but I am certain she told me she hoped I would never come back."

FATHER HILL didn't contribute to the support of his son's wife and daughters while the parson was over in France with the "Y." And Mrs. Hill managed somehow to get along, making out by taking in roomers and with the help of her girls.

She must have been plucky. And the Supreme Court found it hard to believe that John Hill was really planning to abandon his wife and children when he went to France, for in the letters that he wrote to his wife was included a poem:

"Somewhere a woman, a faithful loving wife,
Waits betwixt hopes and fears for my return.
Her kiss, her words, will cheer me in the strife
When death itself confronts me, grim and stern. . . .

"Somewhere a woman watches, thrilled with pride.
Shrined in her heart I share a place with none.
She toils, she waits, she prays, till, side by side,
We stand together when the fight is won. . . ."

So Hill pictured her wait at home. Later he said in court that the poem didn't refer to his wife. But Mrs. Hill told of the wait in another version. She wrote in a letter of January, last year, included in the evidence in the case:

"I have no confidence in anyone these days, this living a lie and preaching a lie, and me going to prayer meetings and playing for the like, singing in the choir to help out what was supposed to be religious services; and me staying at home taking care of my two girls during 1918-1919 while Dad was in France; and me proud of his 'Patriotism,' while now I found out in court he didn't go for 'Patriotism,' but went to get rid of his wife. . . ."

Hill told the court, when confronted with his letters from France, letters filled with terms of affection and loving, that: "Those letters are exaggerations."

"What do you mean by exaggerations, just common lying?" Attorney Zink demanded.

IT IS possible, even probable, they were neither exaggerations nor lies. The Rev. John E. Hill had some notion of entering Y. M. C. A. work after he returned from France, as possibly offering him a greater future. He had ambitions, remember. But that scheme was thrust aside and he accepted a call to the pastorate at Merrill. And there it was he met Lillian Stinton.

Yes, he probably loved his wife when he went to Merrill. He made it a special point to proclaim her virtues.

"J. E. Hill said from his pulpit when he first came here that his wife was good in social affairs," testified J. F. Berner, a member of the congregation. But it was different later. "I received a letter from J. E. Hill in regard to Mrs. Hill's occupying the parsonage after this trouble started. He said that I should get her to vacate the parsonage."

"The first Sunday that Rev. Hill preached in Merrill he said in the pulpit that we 'would like Mrs. Hill,'" testified Grace Smith. "I don't think I ever heard a minister say that before, and that is why it made an impression on me. She was not present. He also said that often a minister's wife is more help in the community than the minister himself.

"There was no trouble in the church until he quit," she continued, "but there was a lot then." Hill's evidence afforded a curious sidelight upon the development of that trouble. "I don't know whether my wife had any friends in Merrill or not," he said. "I understand that some of her worst enemies are her friends now."

She had called him a nut and a boob, Hill declared in testifying against his first wife, and she had struck him and slapped him. And their daughter Ruby explained to the court that "they scuffled and played and joked each other." And the evidence showed that it was the family's habit to wrestle and scuffle all in fun and call each other names like "Nut" and "Boob."

THAT was the case Judge Hutchinson heard. He refused the wife her plea for separate maintenance. The Judge is since deceased. He was impressed with the fact that Rev. Hill was a minister. He scored the wife for nagging; "a determination to rule with her tongue; resistance; cunning; revenge." He declared the minister "a man of humility and sincerity of purpose."

"Everything that this defendant has been charged with in connection with Mrs. Stinton has been explained to the satisfaction of this Court," he said. And he granted the divorce the parson asked.

But six months later Parson Hill married Mrs. Stinton—the woman he had said he didn't love. And six months after that wedding the Supreme Court of Iowa decided he was still married to wife No. 1.

"What is he going to do about it?" asks Mrs. Anna Hill.

Thus far she hasn't found her preacher husband to pin him down to answer.

GEORGE COHAN Tells the Story of His Merry Life

The Famous Comedian Gets All Excited About Song-Writing and Turns Out, Among Many Others, "Venus, My Shining Love," Which Is, He Still Asserts, His Best Song. The Cohan Family Finally Makes a Big Hit—and Our Hero Enters Into His Own

III. At Last—A Hit!

By GEORGE M. COHAN

DURING the two or three weeks that followed the acceptance of my first popular song I devoted most of my spare time to "buttonholding" acquaintances, edging my way into groups and annoying people generally by advertising the forthcoming publication of my first song, "Why Did Nellie Leave Her Home?" I carried the royalty contract, which Witmark had given me, in my coat pocket, and proudly displayed it every chance I got.

I sang the song at least thirty times a day. No one escaped me. Acrobats, magicians, jugglers, monologists, wire walkers, in fact all of Union Square, listened most patiently as I moved about here and there, rendering the brilliant ballad to them all.

When the advance professional copies of the song came out, much to my astonishment and chagrin, I discovered that an entirely new set of lyrics had been written to fit my melody. The only thing left of the original set of words was the title line. My indignation knew no bounds.

"They can't do this to me," I declared to myself over and over again as I read and reread the new version of my brain child. "I'll sue them, that's what I'll do. I'll put them in jail for this."

And then the terrible, humiliating thought struck me.

"Here I've been singing the song as I wrote it for weeks and weeks to everybody I know. Now they'll hear this distortion and naturally guess that the whole thing has been revised." My blood boiled with anger. How dared they do such a thing without first consulting me? "They've ruined my beautiful song," I thought.

With fire in my eyes and murder in my heart, I started to tear up Fourteenth street on a dead run for the Witmark offices. As I flew by the Union Square Hotel at Fifteenth street, a familiar voice called to me.

"Hey, there, kid! What's your hurry? Is the Sheriff after you?"

I turned and recognized McCann, the parody writer who had kidded me so unmercifully about the song a few weeks before. An idea struck me. A new twist on the thing came in a flash. I quit running and turned back to speak to him.

"Hello! How are you, Mac? Glad to see you. Remember that song I sang to you a short time ago?" I asked, in a friendly way.

"REMEMBER it? I'll never forget it. I've been whistling it ever since. Wait now. I'll get it in a second." He started studying the sky to find the tune.

I was looking for something like this, but I held my temper.

"I've rewritten the whole thing," I said. "Would you mind listening to it?"

"You mean you'll sing it for nothing? No charge of any kind?" he eluded.

"Oh, quit stringing, will you, Mac? I want your opinion."

"All right," he said, "but just sing it—just the words and music without any gestures. The motions take my mind off the story."

"I've done a lot of work on it since you heard it. See if you think I've helped it any." And I began to sing the new version.

He appeared to become interested as I sang along. When I'd finished, he said:

"Say, kid, did you write that set of words or did your father write 'em? On the level, tell me the truth."

"Do you suppose I'd put my name on it if my father had written it?" And I pointed to the credit line under the title, "Words and music by George M. Cohan."

"Well, I've got to hand it to you. That's a real song now." His manner had changed entirely. "The other lyric you had was terrible! On the square, it was awful!"

"That was just the first draft," I explained. "Think I've helped it, eh?"

"Helped it?" and he burst into a laugh. "Listen, kid," he went on, "I'm going to tell you a secret. I thought you were a 'hick,' but I want to say right now that anyone who can turn a comic song into a ballad is a smart guy. That thing sounds like a hit to me."

"It does, on the square?" I was half "sore" and half delighted.

"Yes, sir, you've got a good song there."

I spent the next few days running around and singing the new version of "Nellie" to those who had heard the original, explaining that I had revised the thing completely. They all agreed that I had made it into an infinitely better song.

Over twenty years went by before I ever laid eyes on any of the Witmarks again, and when that time came it was my turn to do a little rewriting and revising. We'll come to that later on.

I have never learned to this day whether that first published song of mine was ever sung in public, or if a single copy ever actually sold, but I do know that my name as author and composer appearing on a title page gave me a certain standing with song writers and publishers. I became one of the regular "hangers-on" around several music houses, and was observing and alert enough to keep my eyes open and my ears cocked. My heart was set on being a popular-song writer. I practiced verse writing night and day.

"THE words must jingle, the words must jingle," I'd keep repeating over and over again.

I could play four chords on the piano in F sharp. I'd vamp these four chords and hum tunes to myself for hours at a time. I never got any further than the four F sharp chords, by the way. I've used them ever since.

Inside of six months, during which I worked like a Trojan to improve my style of melody and learn how to jingle words in rhyme, no less than half a dozen manuscripts of mine had been accepted for publication.

GEORGIE in "April Fool"—1896. He wasn't TOO good.

I played no favorites with the publishers. I'd sell a song wherever I could get the price. The price was from ten to twenty-five dollars, according to the subject and merits of the thing. The paying of so much a copy as royalties was an exceptional arrangement in those days. The average song writer (comparatively few at the time) was usually pressed for ready cash, and couldn't afford to gamble.

One of the songs I turned out that winter was a little fanciful ballad called "Venus, My Shining Love." I sold it for twenty-five dollars. Later on, when the song started to sell, the publisher made me a present of two hundred and fifty.

"You might write a better song than that some day," he remarked as he handed me the check. "But to tell you the truth, young fellow, I doubt it."

That was 30 years ago, and I know now what a good guess the publisher made. It's still the best song I ever wrote.

At this stage of the game I became a pretty busy kid. Besides turning out one or two songs a week for publication, I scribbled parodies and patter for comedians, comic songs and extra verses for serio-comics, and even took a shot at a couple of afterpieces for burlesque shows. After a while, I got to writing sketches for variety teams, and orders came in so fast that I found it impossible to supply the demand. With parodies in every pocket and sketch manuscripts under my arm, I was soon the envy of all the pencil pushers in the variety branch of the theatrical game

Finally, Lew Dockstader, who was the leading monologist of the day, engaged me to turn out the material for his new act, and my self-importance began to assert itself. I walked about town with all the airs and manners of a very superior person.

One rainy night, when the New York streets were more or less deserted, I trudged through the storm, juggling around in my mind the plot of a comedy sketch I was preparing. I couldn't concentrate unless I walked. I can't yet, for that matter.

Suddenly I looked up and discovered myself standing in front of the darkened auditorium of Keith's Union Square Theater. I smiled to myself.

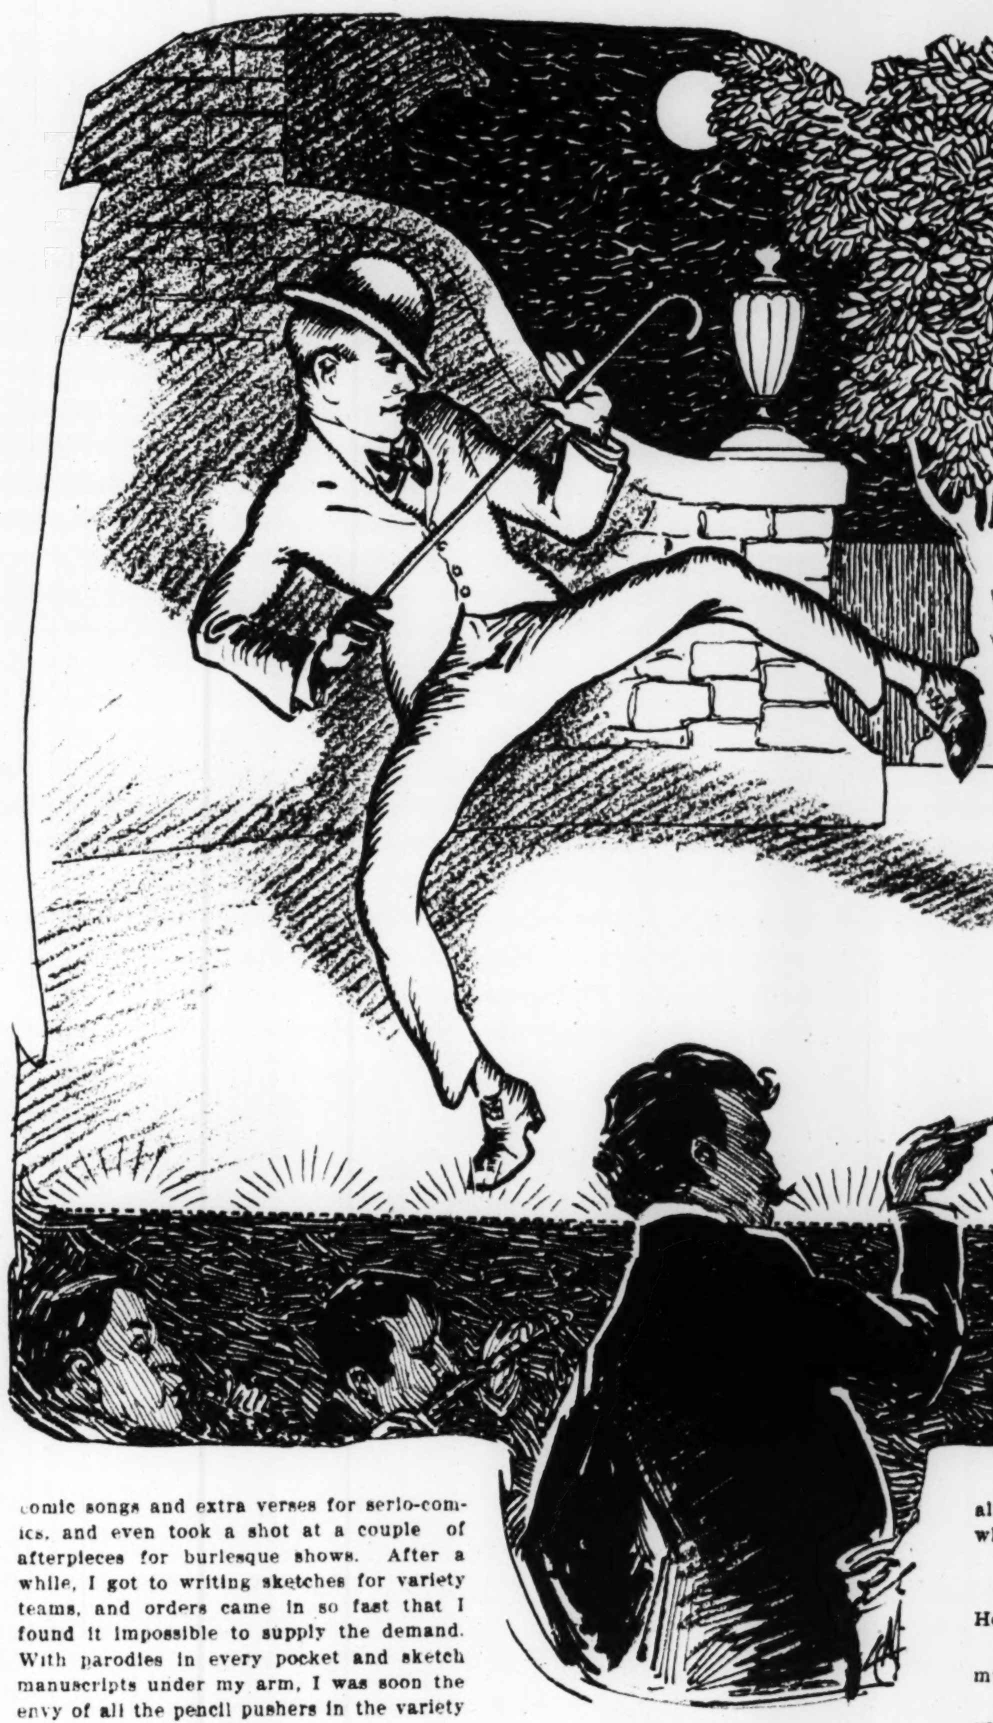
"I wonder what all those 'wise-cracking' stage hands in there think now," I thought, "when they see these sketches of mine, and hear my name announced as the author and composer of all these songs? I've certainly made those guys ashamed of themselves, all right."

ANOTHER chuckle of satisfaction, and I went back to my comedy plot and walked on in the direction of the boarding house. As I passed the German Savings Bank at the corner of Fourteenth street and Fourth avenue, where I had $1100 deposited in my own name, my thoughts switched back to the Keith stage hands, and I murmured to myself, "Union Square is mine; now for Broadway."

Josie, my sister, terminated her New York engagement and we sent an "ad" to the Clipper announcing the reunion of the Four Cohans. She wanted to keep the family together.

There wasn't any wild scramble on the part of the variety managers to book the act, however, as they still wanted Josie alone. The best we could do was to book a week at Zipp's Casino in Brooklyn.

Zipp's was nothing more than an old-fashioned beer hall that charged admission and offered four or five specialty turns to entertain the "lager" drinkers. We accepted this engagement with the hope that Hyde and Behman, the big Brooklyn managers, would drop in to see the act and engage us for their Adams Street Theater. It was the ambition of every variety act in those days to play Hyde and Behman's Adams Street Theater.



"Though only 16 years of age, I was already a 'dyed-in-the-wool' song-and-dance man. I still am, for that matter—always will be, I dare say."

The only other booking we received was for a single week's engagement in New Haven, where S. Z. Poli had just opened his first variety-theater.

WE REALIZED that there was little or no chance for us in the East, but we were bent on sticking to our guns and the "four act," so we jumped to the Middle West and played the Moore Circuit of Museums. We accepted a third of the salary, for the Four doing five shows a day, that Josie had been receiving for eight performances a week as a single turn. It seemed an unbusinesslike thing to do, but we all felt that it would turn out for the best, and, anyway, it kept us together.

I was earning pretty big money for a kid my age, turning out this stage material, so from the financial standpoint we were doing fairly well. The thing that made me happiest of all, however, was the fact that I was back on the stage again. A round of applause from even a dime museum audience meant far more to me than a fat certified check from a song publisher or sketch team. Though only 16 years of age, I was already a "dyed-in-the-wool" song-and-dance man. I still am, for that matter—always will be, I dare say.

When the theatrical season came to an end we jumped back East to spend the summer at North Brookfield, Massachusetts, a little town about 50 miles from Boston, where my grandmother lived.

In New York Gus Williams, the well-known German-dialect comedian, engaged us for the following season to support him in a play called "April Fool." Williams used to tour the country very successfully season after season, being what was known as a great "road star," and we were the happiest theatrical family on earth when dad signed the contract the next morning.

"You and I are going to get along all right, young man," Williams said to me while we were shaking hands back stage.

"I hope so, Mr. Williams," I replied.

"I think I can make an actor of you." He was sizing me up very carefully.

"Think you can, eh?" I didn't care so much for that crack.

"Well, at least I can try," he went on. "You've got a personality, and that gives me something to work on. Of course, it's a pretty big job for a kid like you. It's one of the best low-comedy parts ever written, and this fellow Midgely, who played it last season, made a sensational hit. The trouble will be that you'll have to repeat a lot of towns where he's been seen. He's a hard man to follow."

"I'll follow him all right," I assured him.

"That's the stuff," he approved; "that's the spirit that will win every time. I'll give you the full benefit of my experience and direction, and if you keep up your nerve you'll have better than an even chance to make it."

"Oh, don't worry about me. I'll make it all right." And then I muttered to myself, "This guy hates himself."

"I'll tell you one thing, kid," he said. "If you've half as much talent as you have confidence, you'll be a great actor some day."

On the way to the "April Fool" rehearsal I had a quiet laugh all to myself. I raved on, "I'll make this bird Williams understand that I'm no 'ham.' He'll forget anyone else ever played the part when I get a crack at it."

FOR 35 of the longest weeks of my life we toured throughout the country with "April Fool," and wherever we played, the set speech seemed to be, "What became of the fellow that played your part last season?" I listened to the singing of his praises from Belfast, Maine, to Kansas City.

Even then, as a 17-year-old trouper, I solemnly swore to myself that never again, if I could possibly side-step the issue, would I follow any man in a part he had created.

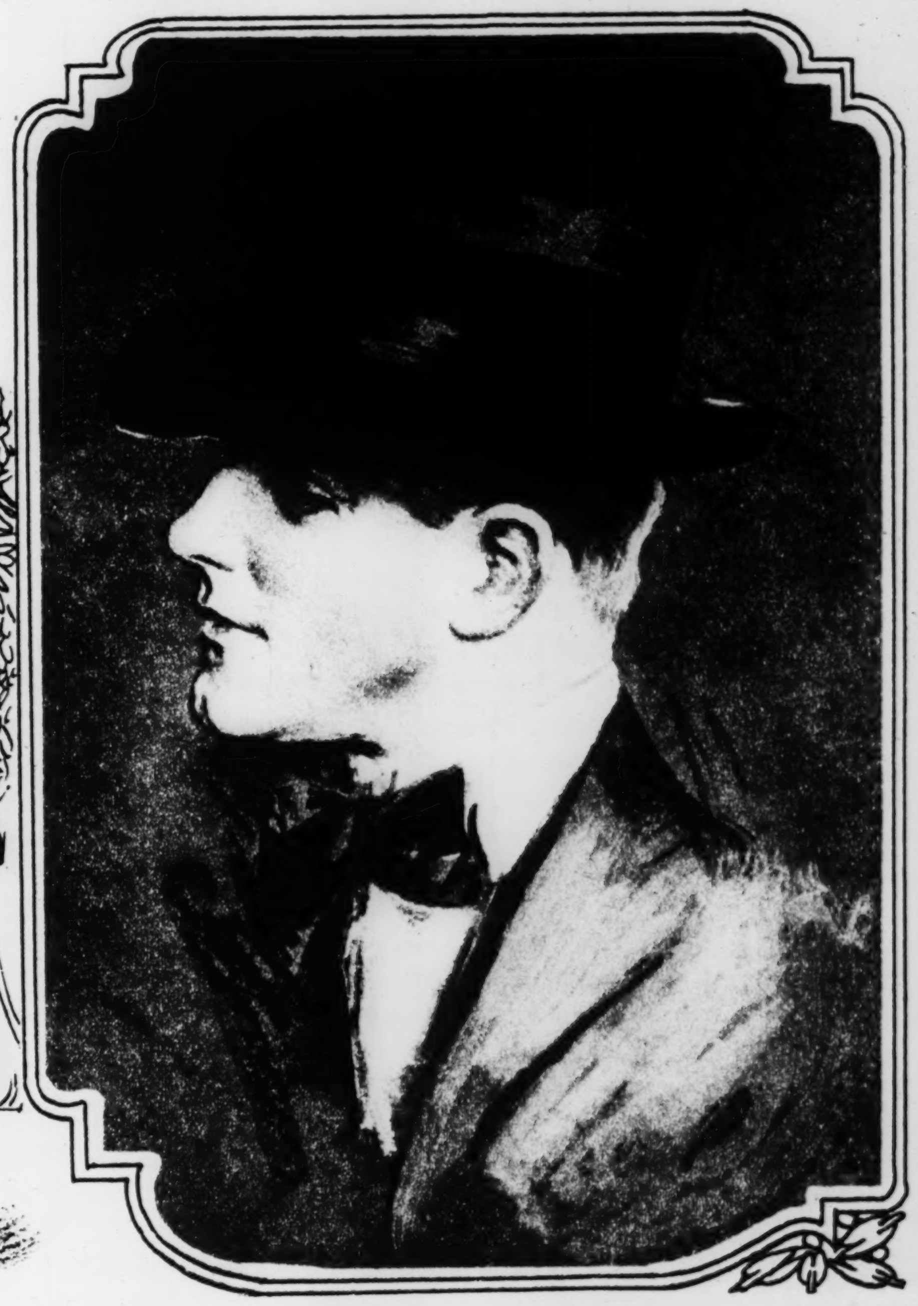
I lived up to this promise for 25 years.

I'd like to whisper a word to the reader right here.

"If at times I appear to be 'boosting' myself a little too much, I wish you would call my attention to the fact, because I wouldn't have you get the wrong idea of me for the world."

"Oh, that's all right," says the reader. "No apologies necessary."

"All right. If you feel that way about it, I'll go straight along."



GEORGE COHAN, from a drawing by Harrison Fisher.

When Gus Williams handed us our two weeks' notice in Chillicothe, Ohio (which was the outcome of a scrap I had with the stage manager), he spied me standing in front of the local opera house and came over to me and said, "I want to thank you, young fellow, for a very pleasant season."

"What kind of a speech is that?" I pretended not to "get" him, but I understood all right.

"Listen to me, Georgie," he went on. "If ever you're lucky enough to have your own show, take my tip and never have anybody but full-grown men in the cast."

"NOW, look here, Mr. Williams, you've got me all wrong." He tried to get away, but I followed him down the street. "I don't mean to be fresh," I argued. "I'll admit that I'm a little overbearing once in a while, but you've got to consider that I've had a great deal on my mind besides this part I've been playing. I've been sitting up night after night writing sketches and songs all season long. You people don't understand me at all. I'm a busy little guy, I am; my mind is working every minute. I try hard enough not to fly off the handle. I want to be pleasant and congenial like the average person, but my nerves are shot to pieces all the time. Letters and telegrams every hour in the day for a song here or a sketch there, and checks and money orders to take care of, all the correspondence to clean up and a thousand other things to do. You know this salary you've been paying us means nothing in my life at all. Why, I earn more money in a day than you pay us in a week. You see, you ought to take all these things into consideration, and so should all the other people in the company, too. You know darned well I haven't got a swelled head. You know I'm too smart to get like that, but I've been under a great strain since I've been with this show."

"So have I; so has everybody else in the company," he went on. "There's one thing I'll say for you, Georgie; you've convinced me that capital punishment is an absolute necessity."

By this time we'd reached the hotel, and he walked into the office and to the desk and asked for his key. Then he started for the elevator. I followed him.

"Will you listen to me for just a minute, please?" I said.

"I've been listening to you all season," he answered as he shook the key in my face, "and if you get into this elevator with me so help me God, I'll grab the lever and run it right through the roof."

That was the last time he spoke to me until 15 years later when we met in the lobby of the Knickerbocker Hotel in New York, where we played the scene all over again, much to the amusement of several friends of his, to whom he had introduced me.

Mrs. Dumbly

By Carol Brown

AND now we've bought a used car from a 1926 sport model sheik salesman, with enough oil on his hair to supply a car for a year and a stock of six-cylinder high-power sales talk. He turned on the gas and started his tongue off on high the moment we entered the yard where the little orphan lizzies were standing with outstretched fenders waiting for someone to take them home. Poor little things! Really, the humane society ought to do something about them! A lot of them didn't have on a thing but their B. V. D.'s—they'd even taken their hoods off. Their figures showed disgracefully and I'm sure they'd taken cold from exposure from the way their engines sounded when he started them up.

And there was one of Artie's friends, Charlie Makitcheap, waiting there to tell us that we couldn't do better if we didn't want to spend much money on a car than to buy one of those things! And the salesman chimed in and insisted that those cars were as good a buy as we could find any place.

"Why, Artie," I said, "I won't have one! Antique furniture may be all right, but I won't have an antique car! It's no more fashionable than an antique face!

"And then, too," I finished triumphantly, "what'll they think?"

"What'll who think?" he demanded.

"Why—Mrs. Highhorse in the flat above us, and the janitor's family downstairs, and the people across the street, and the garage man, and Mrs. Wouldbegrand in our bridge club."

AND with that unanswerable argument I swept into the building where the larger cars were—though I'll admit no one needed to sweep into it. It was as clean as a new-born automobile, and right before me I saw a beautiful Gaseater six with an adorable little trunk strapped on the back of it.

Of course, I called Artie's attention to it immediately. "I've made my choice," I said. "I just love this cute little trunk! And look at this darling glass vase inside. And it's a beautiful shade of red. And I love the nickel embroidery on it!"

The salesman agreed with me warmly and said that Gaseater six at $310 was the best buy in the place, but Artie hardly paid any attention to him. He kept looking at the engine, as if he doubted the salesman's word, and he was even so rude as to suggest that the carburetor was gone and to ask if the firm would supply one.

"No," replied the salesman, "she's marked down so low now that we can't add any extras. She goes as she stands."

"Yea, I know she stands," he said crossly, "but how do I know she goes?"

And then along came our friend, Charlie Slowup, who always mixes in other people's affairs. "The Gaseater six is a beautiful car," he began.

"I think so, too," I agreed, "and the cunning little trunk!"

"But," he continued, "she only gets five miles out of a gallon of gas. And her tires are awfully expensive."

"But the little trunk," I put in. "Just think, Artie, what Mrs. Wouldbegrand would think if she saw us in that lovely car."

"I'm not going to buy $30 worth of gas extra every month to feed Mrs. Wouldbegrand's thoughts," he declared as he turned with Charlie to look at a four-cylinder Hodgepodge, 1924 model, which Charlie said was the only car in the place worth buying.

I didn't like the Hodgepodge a bit. It had ugly upholstery and I didn't like the color it was painted, but Artie pulled the hood off the engine and examined its giblets and seemed to like it, and the salesman agreed and said it was the best buy of any car there.

I really do believe Artie would have decided on the Hodgepodge if he hadn't happened to see Joe Speeder going by and beckoned him to come in. Joe said he wouldn't have the Hodgepodge if it was given to him.

"IT'S a cheap car," he said, "One of the poorest engines on the market. I wouldn't take it for a present. That engine's liable to turn up its toes and die any time. Now, if you want a good car, there's the Turnturtle super six. Look at her! Look at her! She's got a good engine, and, oh boy—what a beautiful body."

And then Kenneth Hardriver came in just in time to prevent our making a terrible mistake. "Why, the Turnturtle six is nothing but a pile of iron!" he told me. "Scrap iron! They'd be lucky if they'd sold it for $50. They'd be lucky if the junk dealer took it. Now, if I were you I'd get a Screwloose Master Six Coupe. You can't go wrong with a Screwloose! I've had one for 11 years and she's as good as when she was bought."

The salesman said he was right.

I liked the Screwloose because it had a pretty blue band around the middle of it, but Jim Breakemup said you can't get any speed out of the Screwloose, but that we'd find the Whizpop six the best car on the market, but Sam Smasher said he considered the Whizpop six no better than a pile of iron and advised us to buy an Oileaker, though another friend said the Oileaker was nothing but a tin can.

Since there aren't any good cars anyway, we just flipped a coin and bought the Gaseater super six. Mrs. Wouldbegrand has had plenty of chances to look at it, for thus far it has refused to leave our yard. But, anyway, I told Artie that since it won't go it can't use so much gas and the tires won't wear out so quickly, and, then, it has that darling little trunk!

George Cohan Tells the Story of His Life

When we got back to New York in April (1896) we tried our luck with the variety agencies again for engagements for the "four act," but no, they were still of the opinion that Josie's "single" was still the only thing we had to sell that was in demand.

We were signed to play four parts in a new farce-comedy written by Frank Dumont, entitled "On the Go." Charles A. Loder (another German-dialect star), who was the owner of the show besides being the featured player, confessed to us, when the first salary night rolled around, that he was "broke," and that if the troupe was to continue its travels it would have to be done under a commonwealth arrangement.

Two weeks later the show stranded in Mannington, West Virginia, where I made a speech to the company that if the author had listened to my suggestions and hadn't been too vain to allow me to "fix up" the play, I could very easily have turned it into a huge success. They applauded and cheered me when I made this statement, but I found out years afterward that they were "kidding."

A FEW weeks later we joined another road show headed by Lydia Yeamans Titus. We opened with this troupe in Cleveland, and after a good week's business the manager jumped out with the bank roll, so we once more went along on the commonwealth arrangement, and the following Saturday night, in Tiffin, Ohio, we stranded again. The closing night, I made another speech to this company that if they had given me my own way about the play, I could have fixed it up and easily have saved the situation. More cheers, more applause, more 'kidding,'' too, as I discovered later on.

We came back to New York again and were engaged by still another road star, Edward M. Favor, to support him in a play written by Edith Sinclair (Mrs. Favor). It was a comedy called "The Jester."

During the second week of the engagement Favor handed us our two weeks' notice, and as he did so I heard him say to dad:

"Jerry, I wouldn't put up with that kid of yours if this show depended on him. Take my advice and put him on a schoolship or send him to jail. I don't care a damn what you do with him, but, for heaven's sake, take him away from me."

"I DON'T see why he's sore at me," I said to dad, after listening to a long lecture on the "mending of my ways." "I've certainly tried to be a regular fellow with him," I continued. "I even went so far as to offer to fix the play up free of charge."

"These people don't want their plays fixed up. What's the matter with you?" he yelled at me. "Will you, for the love of all that's good and sensible, get on to yourself and quit talking about changing people's plays around?"

"You're not losing faith in me, are you, dad?"

"Yes, I am," he returned. "I'm losing faith in your ever being anything but a 'pest.'" And to add strength to this statement, he slammed the lid of his trunk down with a smash and walked out of the room.

That night I started to work on a new poem entitled,

"ENCOURAGEMENT."

The first few lines ran:

"It was my father's belief in me
That led me to prosperity."

I figured I might need it in case dad failed to cool down.

For the fourth time that year we journeyed back to New York, and after a long stretch of idleness arrived at the conclusion that, as far as the four act was concerned, it was a dead issue. It looked as though we were never going to get the chance to show it in the big city, and my new eccentric dance was to go into the discard forever. We decided to let Josie go back to her single dancing specialty, mother and dad were to accept engagements for their sketches and I was to stick to the writing game. This meant, of course, that I was "through" as a trouper.

I announced to the gang in Union Square (and it was with a heavy heart, believe me) that owing to the demands made upon my time in other directions, I had decided to permanently retire from the stage.

We got a sudden call that afternoon to Hyde & Behman's, in Brooklyn.

We opened the show. "Goggles' Doll House" had always been a 17-minute skit. We'd played it often enough to know the running time, but with laughs, encores and extra calls, we were checked up for exactly 26 minutes at the matinee that day.

"Some hit, folks, some hit," the stage manager shouted over the applause as he waved us back to the stage for what he thought was to be our final call. But there were others.

The manager sent word he would like to see us.

"I think it's about time I took these business worries off your mind, dad," I remarked as I reached for my hat and headed for the door.

"I wish you would," he answered with a smile.

"Yes? Well, it's done. I'm going to begin right now." And away I went.

Five minutes later I was sitting in the private office of L. C. Behman, the biggest high-class variety manager in the country.

"Of course, I'd heard of the Four Cohans," he was saying, "but I never knew till today that it was Jerry Cohan and his family that made up the quartet. I recognized your father, though, the minute he walked on the stage."

He offered me a cigar. I took it, but lit a cigarette.

"Why, say!" he went on, "if I had ever guessed who you folks were I'd have booked you here long ago. I saw your dad in a play called 'The Molly Maguires' before you were born."

"You don't say!" I was pretending to be perfectly at ease, but I was scared stiff.

"And the funny part of the whole thing is," he chuckled, "that he was my favorite actor."

"I'll tell him you said that, Mr. Behman." Through nervousness, I put the lighted end of the cigarette in my mouth, but never batted an eye.

"I want you to tell him," he continued, "and I want you to tell him something else, too. Tell him that the act you folks did this afternoon was one of the biggest hits that ever played the house."

"I'll be sitting in Rockefeller's office some day," I thought to myself when he "pulled" this.

"And if it's agreeable to you folks," he went on, "I'll bring you back here in three weeks' time and make you a headline attraction. What do you say?"

MY FIRST impulse was to leap over the desk that separated us and plant a little kiss on his brow, but, being a strictly business person, I tried to appear unconcerned and merely answered:

"All right, Mr. Behman. Anything you say."

He offered me another cigar. I took it and lit another cigarette.

"Ask your father to run in and see me during the week. I'd like to say hello to him."

"You bet I will, Mr. Behman."

"Say, see here." He took a good look at me now. "You're a pretty young man to be managing the business end of the act. How old are you, young fellow?"

"I'll be 18 on the Fourth of July," I proudly answered.

"Born on the Fourth of July, eh?" He smiled at this. "You ought to write a song about that."

"I will, some day. Good-by, Mr. Behman."

"So long, son."

I started through the door and he called me back.

"Oh, just a second," he said. "I forgot to tell you I've changed that bill around for tonight's performance. You folks will be on fourth."

"Thanks, Mr. Behman."

And I hurried back to the theater, where the folks were waiting, and reported that I had arranged return bookings in three weeks, with the thorough understanding that we were to headline the bill. I had fought for a better spot on the current program and had succeeded, after a long argument, in being placed fourth, the star position.

"I told him all about you, dad," I raved on, "and when I mentioned 'The Molly Maguires' he spoke up and said he remembered you very well. I told him I'd bring you around during the week to say 'hello.'"

THE three of them stood staring at me as though I were a freak.

"Well, I hope you folks are satisfied now that I'm a pretty good business man." I was looking for compliments, and I got them. Dad shook hands with me, mother and Josie kissed me, and we celebrated the happy event with a turkey dinner between matinee and night in Brooklyn's most fashionable restaurant, where it was decided very definitely that from then on I was to be the sole business representative and managing director of the Four Cohans.

THE COVER

THE second of a series of magazine covers from the Carnegie collection of modern European paintings now on view at the Art Museum is the "Dance of Cambodia," colorful and exotic work from the brush of Rene Piot, which appears with this issue. It is from the French section of the exhibit, which comprises no less than 60 paintings by contemporary artists.

It was to the picturesque and little explored French possession, Cambodia, in French Indo-China, that Piot turned for his subject; to a jungle region that lies between the Gulf of Siam and the China Sea, and is scarcely out of hearing of the temple bells of Mandalay. The result effectively combines a more civilized and opulent Far Eastern atmosphere with a dash of tribal primitiveness.

From the King's harem come the royal dancers of Cambodia. The girls, representing the most beautiful children of their villages, are presented to the monarch by his people while they are yet in childhood, the parents being persuaded that the gift, or sometimes the sale, of a daughter to their King is an act which calls down upon themselves and their families the good will and protection of the spirits. For several years the girls undergo rigorous training and courses of exercise under the direction of former dancers who have had their day. When they are qualified to appear in royal ceremonials they fare forth as visions of Oriental loveliness, bejeweled and clad in silks of rarest texture and most radiant hue.

The movements of the dance, though eccentric, are not like those of acrobats. So graceful are they that they melt together and dovetail into undulations of the whole body. The gesture does not stop. It simply gets lost in the one that follows. Angles disappear and nothing remains but soft curves and vague profiles, airy glidings and unsuspected grace. The Cambodian dancer is an actress also. By her gestures and attitudes she expresses the sentiments sung by an attending chorus of women who follow the beat of the tom-toms. One of the main movements is to modify the articulation of the elbow and to overextend the forearm, making possible the floating of the bare arm on musical waves and the undulation of the arm from the shoulder to the extreme unfolding of the turned-back hand.

In this guise we see the dancer pictured by Piot, with her bracelets and anklets of jewels, her diadem of flowers and gems, her waistbands of diamonds and emeralds and the shield of pearls on her breast. From a background of birds and buds and blossoms she advances—haughty, charming and enigmatic—into the presence of the King.

A National Problem: More Mileage for Dollars

BECAUSE of the boy at the automobile service station Uncle Sam is not getting pre-war mileage out of his $1 bills. Grease, grime and gasoline, eating away at the delicate inks and fibers of the popular greenbacks, are held largely responsible by the Treasury for the fact that every day a million and a half dollar bills, about four tons in weight, must be fed into the macerator that grinds to a pulp over half a billion dollars a year. Before the war a dollar bill lasted on an average of eleven months. Now the average life is seven months and in some instances the life is only one month.

This is why Secretary Mellon is trying so hard to popularize silver dollars, the old-fashioned "smackers" that men used to clink in their pockets years ago. It is also the reason why the Bureau of Standards experts are working night and day to find more durable papers and inks. As each dollar bill costs the Government 1.7 cents, the 500,000,000 destroyed bills represent $5,350,000. Secretary Mellon declared that if the Treasury Department can put 40,000,000 more silver dollars into circulation the Government will save $828,000 annually, as the life of a silver dollar is virtually indefinite. But in spite of the Treasury Department's efforts, the paper dollar is demanded and the silver dollar is refused—except in the last resort. In 1910 there were 72,000,000 silver dollars in circulation; in 1924 the number decreased to 54,000,000. The demand for paper dollars has increased. In 1922 the Federal Reserve banks put 628,000,000 $1 bills in circulation; in 1923 the number increased to 759,000,000 and in 1924 it went to 897,000,000.

Frank White, Treasurer of the United States, whose name is on all recent Treasury notes, says the automobile is largely responsible for the popularity of the dollar bill and also for its destruction. Motorists, in the first place, must carry adequate funds. It is more comfortable to carry paper money than silver, and in the case of tourists, more convenient to carry Treasury and bank notes than checks or letters of credit. The usual purchase of gasoline and oil is for a little over a dollar. The motorist has found it convenient to have plenty of $1 bills on hand. The motorist's hands are usually dirty, but are nothing like those of the service station attendant who continually handles gasoline and oil, which, with the dirt, eat into the inks, the paper and the cracks of a crumpled bill. After several months of this treatment, tattered, worn and limp, the bill that left the Treasury bright and crackling returns to the place of its birth to join millions of its brothers in the macerator.

The Federal Reserve banks are distributing agents for new money—and collectors of old. Member banks like to get paper money for two reasons: The first is that it pleases their customers, the second that the transportation charges on paper currency are absorbed by the reserve banks, whereas the member banks must pay the carrying charges on silver money. The transportation and overhead charge of a dollar bill in transit is one mill. When the member bank receives a worn bill it bundles it up to the reserve bank. If the reserve bank returns it, the member bank, desiring new money, ships it back again. The reserve banks have learned that in the long run it pays to send the money to Washington for destruction.

THE American Government would save money, the Treasury says, if those citizens who handle a great deal of money would be careful in making change. When a $10 bill is tendered for a small purchase, the buyer should receive in change, not nine $1 bills and the proper amount of silver, but one $5, two two's and the remainder in silver. In this way, three bills are handled instead of nine, and it's the handling that wears out the paper money.

But that brings the question around to $2 bills, which to superstitious persons foretell evil. Look at the next $2 bill that comes into your possession. If a corner is torn off it will be proof that a former possessor wanted to warn off the evil spirits. No one seems to know the origin of this superstition. Actors are said to have started the custom of tearing the corners, on the assumption that if a $2 bill was a bad omen a note with a torn corner was not exactly $2. But the practice is costing the Government hundreds of thousands of dollars every year.

Another reason for wear and tear of the paper simoleon—which, by the way, is denied by the Bureau of Standards—is that the paper now used is not up to pre-war standards. The formula is secret, as the paper must look different and feel different from any paper a counterfeiter could make, but the contents are similar to what they were since the Civil War.

Where there has been a letdown, however, has been in the "seasoning" of the paper. In the good old days the Bureau of Engraving and Printing could take its time with the production of paper money. Now, with the demand greater than the supply, production and circulation have been speeded up. There is no seasoning period, such as the paper used to have, before it is put through the presses.

RING LARDNER Learns All About Bridge

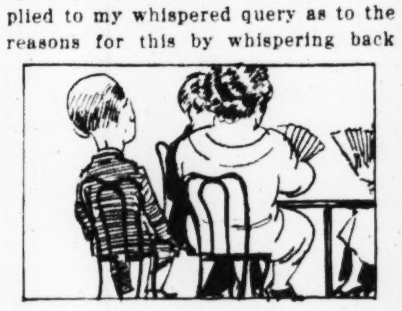
I DON'T want to get into any argument with no auction bridge authority as they have already got all they can tend to quarreling amongst themselfs, but it seems to me like they ain't none of them but what is way behind the times in regards to the possibilities of the game or even scratched the surface of same as far as the real inside strategical points is concerned.

This little settlement of Great Neck where I live is a kind of a hot bed of the theatrical profession and while the population contains some female actors, the most of them is males and the result is that many an evening the house wifes of the town is bereft of their husbands who are acting in N. Y. or the provinces and to make life bearable they get in touch with one another over the telephone and organize bridge tourneys which lasts 4 and 5 hours per setting. Now when you play 24 to 30 hrs. of bridge per wk. you acquire a mastery of the game which the professional teachers ain't got time to acquire because they are too busy abusing each other and it is no wonder that Great Neck has developed at least one bridge expert of the feminine gender whose tactics make Work, Whitehead, Shepard and R. F. ("Peaches") Foster look like kids just learning the rudiments of Squat Tag.

THE lady who I have reference to is the wife of Walter Ults, the child actor now playing the role of the traffic policeman in "Boils." Mr. Ults' weekly salary is said to run into double figures, but just the same the $.75 to $1.00 that Mrs. Ults cleans up every week at the card table gives the Ults kiddies advantages not enjoyed by the children of the Ed Wynns or the Bobby Norths or families like that where the man earns all the money and the madam does absolutely nothing.

Last Thursday night I experienced the keen enjoyment of setting behind Jennie (Mrs. Ults) and observing her play and will state that I learned more about bridge in that one evening than in years of competition with such styled experts (?) as Frank Crowninshield, Bud Fisher or Stu ("Peaches") Johnston. Jennie's partner on this occasion was the wife of Harpers Ferry, the child actor now impersonating an umbrella in "Rain." Her opponents were the wifes of Hosea Cough, who became famous overnight and part of the next day as the Barber in "Barber Frietchie," and Neil Down, the child actor who plays the title role in Shakespeare's "Henry Ford." Mrs. Down, Mrs. Cough and Mrs. Ferry are all high class card sharpers, but hardly on the level with Jennie Ults.

It was Jennie's first deal and the hand she picked up contained seven diamonds with the four top honors, the ace of clubs, the ace, king, queen of spades and no hearts. There were only 12 cards in the hand, but she's the kind that likes to play against odds. A little to my surprise her opening bid was one heart and she replied to my whispered query as to the reasons for this by whispering back that such a bid was more than likely to drive one of her opponents into a diamond declaration. Sure enough, Mrs. Down took the bait like a duck after an aspirin tablet and made a bid of three diamonds. Mrs. Ferry nearly ruined the whole scheme by going three hearts, but luckily Mrs. Cough said five diamonds, thinking because she didn't have any in her own that her partner probably had them all. This bid was passed all around three times, but the fourth time, Jennie doubled. Mrs. Down redoubled and the play began.



Mrs. Ferry opened with her high heart, the ace, and Jennie overtook it with a trump in order to have control of the situation. Jennie took all the rest of the tricks and scored 1126 above the line. She told me afterwards that she got the idea for that play from a play she had seen her husband make in a poker game. He had been having terrible luck all evening, but on this particular deal he picked up three kings and a pair of sixes. The pot was opened and raised twice before it was his turn and he threw away his hand to make the others believe his luck had not changed.

Jennie's adroitness was never shown to better advantage than on the next deal. In these games Jennie always does the dealing as she can do it much quicker. Her hand consisted of ace, king and twelve spades, four small diamonds, the trey of clubs and as usual, no hearts. She passed and Mrs. Down bid five hearts, wanting to be taken out even in a minor. Mrs. Ferry passed and Mrs. Cough went five no trumps. Even if she only made three of her five, it meant game, so without an instant's hesitation Jennie laid down her hand showing that she had only eight cards and it was a misdeal.

ANOTHER deal I recollect came late in the evening. Jennie had a hand containing no hearts (she never did hold a heart through the whole evening's play), eleven clubs with the five honors, and the ace of spades and ace of diamonds. She bid a no trump and Mrs. Down went to five hearts. Mrs. Ferry passed as she had not picked up her hand and did not want to bid blind. Mrs. Cough also passed and Jennie went to seven no trumps in the hope that Mrs. Down would, under the strain, lead something other than a heart. Mrs. Down kept herself under control and led the king of hearts, but luckily Mrs. Ferry had the ace. Jennie played it, from dummy, taking the first trick. Now she faced a problem because the dummy hand was entirely without clubs. How to get the lead into her own hand was the question. Jennie studied the situation for a brief moment, then led the four of diamonds from dummy, took it in her own hand with the ace and the rest was clear sailing.

Riding home, Mrs. Cough remarked, "Sweet potatoes, how that tremendous woman can play that game," and I thought to myself no wonder Walter Ults can act with no worries about his home life and Jennie adding substantially to his income every wk. though how much more she would add if they were not only playing for a twelfth of a cent a point.

It Seems to Me

By Heywood Broun.

DURING the early days of the Earl Carroll trial I was irritated at Mr. Buckner. It seemed a silly thing that grown men and public money should be devoted to the question of whether or not a young woman got into a bathtub.

As a taxpayer I resented the inquiry. I couldn't get away from the notion that it was precisely my pennies which were being employed to pay the Government's attorney as he asked people on the stand to try to remember whether it was really champagne or ginger ale.

As far as I have read, no definite qualifying tests were established for experts. Some commanded attention on the strength of the assertion that ten or twelve times in their lives they had been intimate with this wine. Others boasted of years of research spent close to the vineyards. If there are to be many more trials of this sort, an interesting profession lies open to the ambitious. With a year's leave of absence, I myself might go abroad on a traveling fellowship and come back eager and ready to take the stand and tell which bathtubs seethed with cider and to what others the grape had made contribution. I don't suppose, though, that Mr. Buckner put on his show to reveal the fact that taste is not what it used to be back in the days of mauve and brighter hues. It is quite true that much of the testimony at the Earl Carroll trial brought out the fact that ours is an age which notes only the alcoholic content and is indifferent to the flavoring.

But this, although interesting, was already known, and the Government can hardly have been justified in putting on an act merely to spread such data, however vivid, upon the record.

GRANTING that the condition is deplorable, I think any remedies to be adopted should be carried through with private funds. Admitting I am not by nature equipped to be a first-class taster, I will work my hardest if anybody will offer a scholarship.

By now I'm glad I made no ill-considered complaint against the activities of Mr. Buckner and did not urge my fellow taxpayers to rise in protest against the waste of public moneys on an issue wholly trivial. The testimony of Miss Joyce Hawley has altered completely my earlier impression. Mr. Buckner's show is the best farce yet offered to the country by a paternal Government.

Very likely there will be sermons now about the depths of depravity to which New York has attained. As a loyal citizen, I should like to nod in complete agreement and admit with proper pride, "That's true, we are pretty bad here in Manhattan." But, of course, we don't deserve it. There's every evidence that in spite of the promoter's efforts the Earl Carroll affair remained adolescent. They couldn't seem to make the sulphur catch and the brimstone barely bubbled. Into an orgy something of talent and imagination must enter. The Romans could be truly evil upon occasion, but, then, they practiced at it. A young lady slightly lit and weeping into her tub does not sound to me precisely like high festivity. But it was a good burlesque of an orgy; that I will admit.

Stop Using a Truss

STUART'S PLAPAO-PADS are different from the truss, being mechanico-chemico applicators made self-adhesive purposely to hold the distended muscles securely in place. No straps, buckles or spring attached—cannot slip, so cannot chafe or press against the pubic bone. Thousands have successfully treated themselves at home without hindrance from work—most obstinate cases conquered.

Be honest for a change . . . . .

LIKE most human beings, you probably tell white lies about some of the little things of life.

You say you brush your teeth, for instance, three or two times a day—where once would be nearer the truth.

Most of us are lazy in the same way and say the same thing.

In fact, there are still some people who lie about taking a cold bath every morning. Usually they don't, and many days they miss the morning bath entirely.

Isn't it true, though, that many of the little duties of life are more irksome than the bigger ones?

Tooth brushing is a good example.

Realizing the truth of this, we set out deliberately to formulate a dentifrice that would furnish the easiest, quickest way to clean teeth. In fact, a tooth paste suitable even for lazy people—and in tooth brushing, at least, the word lazy, includes practically all of us.

Listerine Tooth Paste is really very easy to use. It works fast. Just a minimum of brushing and your teeth feel clean — and actually are clean.

You have the job done almost before you know it.

This is on account of the way Listerine Tooth Paste is made! It contains a remarkable new cleansing ingredient—entirely harmless to enamel✱—plus the antiseptic essential oils that have made Listerine famous.

How fine your mouth feels after this kind of a brushing! And then besides you know your teeth are really clean—and therefore safe from decay. Lambert Pharmacal Co., Saint Louis, U. S. A.

P. S.—*By the way, Listerine Tooth Paste is only 25 cents for the large tube.

✱This specially prepared cleansing medium (according to tests based upon the scale of hardness scientists employ in studying mineral substances) is much softer than tooth enamel. Therefore, it cannot scratch or injure the enamel.

At the same time it is harder than the tartar which accumulates and starts pyorrhea and tooth decay.

"—even for lazy people"

THE Delicious Dozen! Twelve bottles of "Canada Dry" resting cozily in a small but substantial carton.

Twelve bottles waiting for you to call the sparkling bubbles forth to add a bit of health and cheer to luncheon and dinner.

To pour into the thin-edge glasses when entertaining! To serve to the children! To take with you on picnics and on motor trips! To bring relief from that mid-afternoon tiredness! To drink at bedtime when you feel the need of a refreshing little snack!

Just to have this Delicious Dozen in the pantry is an assurance that you will always have something distinctive to serve when good friends drop in unexpectedly or to vary the monotony of "just another meal" in your own immediate family.

You will find that "Canada Dry" is an especially good beverage for your home, because it is a real ginger ale, made from real Jamaica ginger, and it is one ginger ale that does not contain capsicum (red pepper) in any form.

For years and years it has been served in hospitals in Canada and it is now served in the leading hospitals in this country. Physicians actually prescribe it for their patients and it has been approved by The Tribune Institute and also by Dr. Wiley of the "Good Housekeeping" Bureau of Foods and Health. There could be no greater tribute to its purity and quality than that.

No other ginger ale will bring you the same refreshment because there is no other ginger ale like "Canada Dry." No other ginger ale is so good for you—so good for your children—so good for every occasion.

Keep it in mind, therefore, when you make up your next grocery order and include it in your list of week-end necessities. All "Canada Dry" dealers sell this Special Hostess Package of 12 bottles or will get it for you.

"CANADA DRY"

IMITATIONS ARE NEVER "JUST AS GOOD"

"Canada Dry" enjoys the distinction of being one of the most widely imitated beverages on the market today and you must be careful if you want the original. Always look for the name "Canada Dry" on the bottle cap and be sure the bottle comes to you unopened. It pays to be particular.

TRY THIS NEW DRINK AT DINNER

HERE'S a delicious mixed drink you will find very refreshing for your Sunday night dinner at home or when entertaining friends. The men will find it especially appealing. HAWAIIAN NECTAR—Combine 1 cup of pineapple juice with the juice of ½ lemon and 1 lime. Stir in 1 large teaspoon powdered sugar. Pour in tall glass and fill with "Canada Dry." Add tiny balls of pineapple or other fresh fruit garnishing. (These quantities make one drink; you can make the recipe suit any gathering by multiplying by the number of persons to be served.)

Motion Pictures with a Kodak

Simply press the release and you're making movies

Two finders permit you to make movies with the camera held either at waist height or eye level. And all you do is press the release—the camera is automatic in action.

THE marvel of movies—personal movies—is now yours. Ciné-Kodak B gives you action for your screen just as easily as your Kodak or Brownie gives you prints for your album.

Think of the fun of it. Train the lens, press the release and Baby's antics, Jim's golf, Clara's dive, your vacation adventures, are right on the reel for the screen.

Movies you make yourself, and show yourself—that's a thrill.

The pictures are amazingly good. The cost is astonishingly low—about one-sixth as much as for "standard" movies. Safety film is used and the price includes finishing by Eastman experts in Eastman laboratories.

Nor are personal pictures all there is to it. Kodascope Libraries rent you reasonably from a choice of over four hundred subjects, professional photoplays and feature films, that will make any evening one to be remembered.

The Ciné-Kodak Model B, with Kodak Anastigmat *f.*6.5 lens, is priced at $70; with Kodak Anastigmat *f.*3.5, at an even hundred. The Kodascope C is $60.

A complete outfit now—Ciné-Kodak (makes movies), Kodascope (projects movies), and screen—as low as $140.

The thousands of Kodak dealers are now prepared to demonstrate the Ciné-Kodak. If your dealer is not yet ready, write us for Ciné-Kodak booklets.

If it isn't an Eastman, it isn't a Ciné-Kodak

To show the movie, just turn on the switch

JIGGS WHY DON'T YOU ASSERT YOURSELF AT HOME AN' TELL YOUR WIFE YOU INSIST ON BEIN THE BOSS?
DINTY YOU'RE RIGHT-
YES AN' THERE'S NO TIME LIKE THE PRESENT GO RIGHT HOME-JIGGS-AN' MAKE A STAND!
DINTY ME LAD - I CAN'T GIT HOME SOON ENOUGH'
IT'LL MAKE A NEW MAN OUT OF YOU - SO PULL YOURSELF TOGETHER-
IF THIS DON'T WORK MAY HAVE TO GIT A DOCTOR TO PUT ME TOGETHER!
EVERY THING IS GONNA BE ALL RIGHT - THAT IS IF I DON'T LOSE MY NERVE-SHE'S NOT IN - SO I'LL DO A LITTLE PRACTISIN -
NOW LOOK HERE - THIS WON'T DO - MAGGIE YOU'RE SPENDIN TOO MUCH MONEY -
NO - THAT WON'T DO - I TOLD HER THAT ONCE BEFORE AN' IT DIDN'T WORK!!
NOT A CENT - MAGGIE - NOT ONE CENT - D'YE HEAR ME?
NOT SO BAD - 'M CERTAINLY GOIN' TO PUT IT OVER ON MAGGIE FROM NOW ON - WHAT IN THE WORLD IS THAT?
CRASH!!
BANG!!
YES - SUM -
PUT THOSE GRIPS DOWN CAREFULLY - YOU BIG COW - WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH YOU?
AS FOR YOU HAND ME OVER $150 AND BE QUICK ABOUT IT!
YES - MY LOVE!
